A GAGGLE OF GHOSTS — Lauran Paine

Ghosts have flourished in folklore since earliest times and spirits of one kind or another have influenced every kingdom, dynasty, and religion." There has never been a philosophy that accepts an after-life concept that has not used spectral visitations in support of its discipline. Mr. Baine's book has many stories on ghosts around the world.

THREE CONSORT QUEENS — Geoffrey Wakeford

This book synthesizes the lives of Queen Adelaide, the consort of William IV; Queen Alexandra, the consort of Edward VII; and Queen Mary, the consort of George V. Adelaide, the meek and guileless German princess, was the true foundress of "Victorianism." Alexandra restored gaiety to a Court, which for nearly 64 years had been repressed by the prudish solemnities of the Victorian era. Queen Mary, the most cultured of the three consorts, went on to develop the concept of the "working queen", refreshing the monarchy with a stimulating mixture of conservatism and progressiveness.

VOGUE GUIDE TO CROCHET

Crochet is an exceedingly old and beautiful craft, whose history is difficult to trace. The word itself is French for "hook". Whether you can already crochet or would like to learn, this book will be an invaluable help. Written by the knitting editor of Vogue, it tells you all you need to know about this particular craft — and the patterns range from high-fashion garments to crocheted bedspreads which could become family heirlooms.

THE HIKER'S AND BACK-PACKER'S HANDBOOK — Bill Merrill

This little handbook will tell you how you can get away from your urban cares, away from sitting helplessly in snarled traffic, away from blaring television and radio. Many people have hiking and back-pack camping urge without the necessary know-how. Mr. Merrill's book has material on first aid, survival techniques and much, much more.

MY OWN CAPE COD — Gladys Taber

For many years Gladys Taber has shared the warmth and charm of Stillmeadow, her Connecticut home, with her thousands of devoted readers. Now she opens the doors of Still Cove, her Cape Cod home, and invites her readers to share another part of her life. And, looking beyond Still Cove, she reflects on Cape Cod itself. Here are the tides and the fogs, the cranberry bogs, the beaches where visitors swim and Cape Codders dig clams and put out lobster pots.

TRAVELS OF THE TORTOISE — W. Philip Keller

At heart this book is the first-hand account of the author's struggle to make a fresh beginning following the death of his beloved wife. His book recounts the day-to-day adventures met during his travels in his small camper. His journey takes him down into Mexico and back, from the West coast of Canada. Along the way he encounters a colorful cross-section of American life, and he describes some of this in detail — also sharing with the reader his own enthusiasm for wild places and wild things with their power to mend the human heart.

Minto

MINTO — Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bagshaw and family of Toronto spent a week's holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holden.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Colden and family of Westree spent last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Colden.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gunn of Toronto spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clements.

Mr. and Mrs. George Martin, of Belfast, Ireland and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burns of Oshawa called on Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Ray Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hargis and Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Patterson and children of South Carolina and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Huckstine and family of Buffalo, N.Y. spent this week at the Joyce home.

Mrs. Mrytle Brady attended the Brady reunion on Sunday held at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Royle, Glen Ross.

Vancouver Radio Station Offers 6 Hours of Insanity

By MICHAEL BENNETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Numbed by the "we're just la ying down those good sounds from our super fantastic survey" format of rock 'n' roll radio?

Turned off when you tune in and hear the same records hour after hour introduced by jargon-programmed disc jockeys?

Well, friends and neighbors, there's an oasis in that cultural wasteland; the problem is 50,000 watts of "pure power" only goes so far.

Night people through British Columbia, Alberta, parts of Alaska, Washington, Oregon and California, and as far south as Jefferson, Tex., are picking up Captain Midnight, a frenetic wild-bearded gnome who presents six hours of insanity week nights on CKVN in Vancouver.

Captain Midnight is:

"Arise, You're all sinners"} Drive from the Tallow Park Rest Home for mental cases, night of the Dial-A-Prayer; Gladys Floor, a 67-year-old waitress from down the block, who interrupts everything—including Story Time (news on the half hour)—with "More coffee?"; Herb Folly, the Good Gardening Man ("Flowers are Your Best Friends"); and the Satyrion Little Theatre of the Air, a cast-of-thousands, low-budget production of "The Midnight Story" with some of the most irreverent commercials heard anywhere.

It's all part of RGS (Really Good Stuff) and when J. B. Shayne ist Prerviewing one of Shirley Temple's sidetrmes on "The Good Ship Lollipop," he programs the scartest blend of blues, jazz and straight-ahead rock 'n' roll on the West Coast.

"There's always been creative radio, not as much now as there used to be," says Shayne, born Joel Berry Shirkov of Polish, Russian and Jewish ancestry.

"It's kind of like everything else, caught up in the speed of the times. Sell- Sell! Fast! Fast!

"The fact that people are turning more to stereos and cassettes, in their homes and their cars, is indicative of the fact that radio is not keeping up, at least on a youthful basis, with its audience.

"They allowed me the opportunity of being a lot looser than the rest of the time of day. So I had a chance to get into some weird things."

One of them was "Ban the Bang," a campaign to silence the nine o'clock gun in the city's west end. Six months after he started his on-air put-on, it was stolen.

When Shayne first moved over to CKVN, the station was still searching for an identity since shelfshoning its rock format.

"They were programming newsreel and my job was to read the news and program light music a la Mantovani, all night long. So I developed little put-ons just to keep my insanity.

"We had to do a thing called March Past every morning at five and I would play the part of an old British officer.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The service, at Westminster United Church was conducted on Sunday by the members of the UCW. Mrs. Cameron Sine was organist and the soloist was Mrs. Muriel Bilhan,. Mrs. Gladys Hamilton read the scripture and Mrs. Doreen Peirron gave the message. A sermon was given by the Rev. Wayne Jones. Mrs. Sylvia Grills gave the announcements and R. J. Tate, Den Shorey, Ted Evans and D. Dawson led in prayers. Next Sunday the AOTS Men's Club will be in charge of the service.

Miss Margo Reid and Miss Bonnie Reid are spending a week with their aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Orser of Consecon.

Capt. Tim Auger of Prince Rupert, B.C. is spending two weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Auger and grandmother, Mrs. Peggy Cotton.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Bowers and family of Huntsville spent a few days with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowers. Master Bryan Bowers who spent two weeks with his grandparents returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reid and Ruth of Clarkson spent a few days with his mother, Mrs. S. C. Reid and sister Margo.

Lester Minding Own Business When Trophy Hunter Appears

CALI, Colombia (CP) — Linda Lester Wong was just standing there beside a restaurant chatting with a Cuban fencer.

It was past midnight Tuesday night and Wong was below the flag stand which contains the flags of the countries competing in the Games.

Who Washes Dishes?

There may be a lot of dirty dishes in Quinte district sinks Saturday when the women take to the golf course.

The annual Ladies' Invitation Golf Tournament will be held this Saturday at the Bay of Quinte Country Club with over 100 women vying for the Mead Johnson Trophy.

A total of 11 clubs from the area will be represented at the competition including Napanee, where Mary McPherson will be returning to defend the title she won last year.

—Wong went sightseeing.

Bob Osborne of Vancouver, the Canadian chef de mission, expressed regret over the incident and promised to investigate and "take appropriate action." He said he felt no malice had been intended. .

Clifford Buck, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said it all started as a prank. He said some athletes decided to grab some flags as souvenirs.

"We have a statement from Culhane," said Buck. "He acknowledged that he took one of the . . . flags, although it is against team rules."

He expressed apologies to the people of Cali for Culhane's removal of the flag.

Culhane declined comment. Wearing dark glasses to hide his damaged right eye, he swung at a photographer who tried to take his picture.

Village governor Franco Mejia said:

"There were so many people around with different track suits that we really don't know who hit whom."

Ruiz Fabio, a Cuban official, said:

"We do not know whether this was an attempt to get a souvenir. We do not know if this was an attempt to cause a provocation.

"A Chinese boy from Canada and another boy were trying to take down our flag. Cuban athletes tried to stop them . . .

Meanwhile, Wong said nothing. He went sightseeing, still trying to mind his own business.

Cuban Cyclist Seeks Asylum

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Juan Dias Lopez, member of Cuba's cycling team at the Pan American Games, has asked the United States for political asylum.

The embassy confirmed Tuesday that the request had been made, although Lopez' name was not mentioned. Several Cuban athletes at Cali, however, said Lopez had planned to make the request. Lopes did not return to the athletes' village after Monday night's competition.

The embassy statement said that when Lopez was told the U.S. consulate in Cali did not have the power to grant asylum, he voluntarily handed himself over to Colombia authorities.

He is the fourth Cuban known to have defected since the Games began in Cali July 30.

A boy in business for himself doesn't worry about summer jobs

Or fall jobs, or winter jobs for that matter. Because the boy or girl with a newspaper route has a year round income. The few minutes he or she puts in every day not only provides them with monetary rewards, but even more the more significant dividends of learning about the business of free enterprise.

The business of learning the value of money, bookkeeping, selling, buying, punctuality and responsibility.

A newspaper carrier learns all year round. His experience helps him to acquire the intangible skills so necessary for success. He makes money at it too.

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP) — Clarion Tang Choon, 30, a relative new comer to international rifle shooting, flirted with perfection Tuesday to win the Gibson match in the annual meet of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association. Choon, of Sangre Grande, Trinidad, shot a near perfect score of 99 out of a possible 100 points. The Gibson, second match in the eight day meet, is fired prone from 300 and 500 yards. In the sport only four years, Choon scored 13 hits in the "V bull" — a small, inner bullseye used to determine winners of close matches. Choon is visiting Canada for the first time, as part of a 13 member team from Trinidad Tobago. He is an accountant in his father's gas station.

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A 90 degree heat wave is bothering most everyone but the oarsmen and scullers preparing for the 89th Royal Canadian Henley Regatta to begin Thursday. "This is especially true for the lightweights," says Al Price, executive director of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen. "When there are weight limits to be met, this hot weather is the oarsmen's best friend." The bulk of the 365 entries from 45 Canadian and United States rowing clubs are lightweights and the hot weather could be a factor in shedding a few extra pounds.

Air Transport Group Plans Sharp Slash in Air Fares

MONTREAL (CP) — The International Air Transport Association gave the public a peek Tuesday at a new schedule of lower air fares for persons who will travel the North Atlantic in 1972-73.

The fares package announcement was made by H. Don Reynolds, chairman of the IATA fares conference. It came exactly six weeks after the start of the conference June 29.

Mr. Reynolds expressed confidence the package would be approved by the 40 airlines attending the conference. A vote on the package was expected today and unanimous approval is needed if the fares are to be effective.

For the most part, the fares would be effective for one year beginning April 1, 1972, but Mr. Reynolds indicated that certain winter fares would be effective this year.

The package offers reduced fares, some as low as $183 round trip, for transatlantic travellers crossing the Atlantic in group tours or purchasing their tickets three months in advance for trips lasting 22 to 45 days.

The rates were seen as an effort by IATA, the Montreal-based trade association, to regain some of the business lost to charter operators, whose business has soared in recent years.

Among the proposed fares are:

—A youth fare for persons between 12 and 22 to cost $195 return between New York and London, and $183 Montreal-London in the off season, and $225 and $313 respectively during the summer;

—A three-month advance-purchase fare, New York-London $199, Montreal-London $187 off season, $249 and $237 peak season respectively;

—A winter group-inclusive tour for groups of 10-22 persons staying overseas between seven to eight days: $200 New York-London, $188 Montreal-London;

—A 14-21 day group inclusive tour for groups of 15 persons, New York-London $327, Montreal-London $223 off season, $280 and $268 peak season respectively.

This fare reduces to 14 days from 17 days the minimum number of days required to participate in such a tour. Current rates for the plan are New York-London $230, Montreal-London $208 off season, while peak season rates are $302 and $288 respectively.

The only other change would be in fares for affinity groups, those made up of persons with membership in one club or those who share a special interest.

Montreal-London return affinity fares now are $183 winter, $203 basic and $263 peak. They would drop to $168, $188 and $248 in the same categories under the new proposals.

New York-London affinity fares now costing $197, $217 and $277 would decrease by $17 in each category.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Neuralgia, Neuritis Are Not Identical

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have received two letters today. One of the writers living in the East Coast complained, "I've been suffering like the devil from neuralgia." And the one from the West Coast wrote, "Everything would be wonderful except that I've been plagued with neuritis." Are they the same, different, or what? — Mrs. Y.

COMMENT: First, I'll offer simple definitions. Neuralgia means pain along the route of a nerve. Neuritis signifies that there is an inflammatory or degenerative condition in a nerve. Here are some examples so you will know how to commiserate with your friends on both coasts.

Sciatic pain due to pressure on the nerve by disc trouble in the spine is one instance of the pain we call neuralgia. So is the pain due to tic douloureux, caused by some pressure or irritation in the nerves that supply the face. Sometimes a tumor pressing on a nerve can cause neuralgia. In other words, anything which interferes with the normal nerve function may produce neuralgia.

But neuritis is something different, although it may be equally (or more) painful. It may be due to some generalized physical illness or some poison.

For example, we see patients who suffer from neuritis because they have been drinking too much alcohol. Others get it because they suffer from systemic diseases like gout, diabetes, anemia or other involvements.

Undoubtedly you have heard of the pain and burning often caused by an attack of shingles. Underlying this is a neuritis due to a virus infection. I have seen cases of neuritis due to lead poisoning, arsenic poisoning and to vitamin deficiencies.

What it adds up to is this: When there is nerve pain it is important to find the source. Too much alcohol? Drink less. Gout or diabetes? Treat well. Lack of vitamins? Use vitamin B complex. Chronic lead or arsenic poisoning? Remove the poisons and their source. Pernicious anemia? Inject doses of vitamin B-12 regularly.

Meanwhile, administration of heat, pain killers and other treatments bring comfort until the main cause of the neuritis is discovered. Whatever it is, I assure you, Mrs. Y., your friends need medical help to solve their problems.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have this bad habit which I want to get rid of very much. I play my records all day and play them loud. After I've done so I get an earache. My parents say they get one, too. I just can't stop playing them so much and so loud. I'm only 12 years old and figure that by the time I'm 21 years old I'll go deaf. Is this possible? How can I break the habit? — Mr. M.

COMMENT: Your parents are being too permissive when you consider they are willing to suffer earaches every day listening to the bombardment of loud sounds. If they don't see the need for you to let up, at least you seem to realize the potential danger.

Yes, there is. It has been found that overly loud, repeated musical sounds can batter down the inner ear after a while and cause a loss of normal hearing. I think you can break the habit. Just ask yourself if it's worth the chance of going deaf "by the time you're 21".

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For August 12

Your birthday today: Progress this year is steady and orderly — the problems and difficulties subtle and slow to respond. Take advantage of placid circumstances to make good adjustments; meditation and prayer provide access to the real issues. Today's natives are subject to abrupt changes in conditions, make good entertainers.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Be clear and to the point in saying what you want. Take the trouble to repeat significant details. Do a careful and complete job.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): The small impulsive moves of today settle into firm channels of policy, habit later. This promises to be a time of pieces falling into place; old annoyances finally come to an end.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Amid the avalanche of words and sights there are some of value. Keep your lines open for them. Putting off a talk until you can do it in person might be too late.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): According to how directly and how seriously you've achieved communion with your inner self and serene acceptance, you drift into just the right spot. Make full use of it.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Share your pleasure and gratitude with others, but move quickly to fulfil the improving potentials in your current situation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Impulse to get you started is your sleeve. Pick your time by logic and go ahead, see what happens.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): People of different special skills arrive in your local area. Be alert to you to find mutually interesting exchanges and to avert needless clashes of opinion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Unexpected endorsement of your doings is likely—and perhaps a little embarrassing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Easy does it. There's more time and space than at first seems visible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): If you feel left out, be thankful and think up fresh and more promising involvements. A moment's reflection is enough to get you started, but it's you who must make the start.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): After the last few days it's time for a modest, middle-of-the - road spell of ordinary routine.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): This is one of those days when you're carried along by the tide of events, with no extra moments for leisure or amusements. Also, you have little chance to extend your regular projects.

Boy, 14 Held In Two Deaths

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A 14 year old boy was charged Tuesday with juvenile delinquency in the shooting deaths Monday of an Appin, Ont., farmer and his wife.

The boy, whose identity is protected under the Juvenile Delinquents Act, appeared in juvenile court here charged in the slayings of Peter Poole and his wife, Hilda, both 58.

Chief Insp. Archie Ferguson of the provincial police said a .22 calibre rifle found near the bodies has been sent to Toronto laboratories to determine if it was the weapon used.

The deaths were reported Monday by the Pooles' foster children who drove a tractor to a neighboring farm. One of the children, Phillip, 13, had been shot in the buttock. He was in satisfactory condition in hospital.

Coroner Dr. Maurice Sandeyra of Glanford said Mr. Poole had been shot at least twice in the head. His body was dragg behind a barn on the farm, 30 miles west of here.

Mrs. Poole, shot once in the head, was found inside a milkshed.

Crown Attorney M. E. Martin said the boy would appear in court today after a psychiatric examination.

Judge M. H. Genest remanded the juvenile to county jail lowing application by Mr. Martin to have the boy removed from juvenile detention home for "security reasons" because of the seriousness of the charge.

New Tax Reforms Top List

OTTAWA (CP) — When Parliament resumes its session Tuesday, Sept. 7, the Commons will be set to work on Finance Minister Edgar Benson's new tax legislation without interruption until the controversial bill is passed, he said in an interview Tuesday.

"We're going to start on it as the first item of business, and go right through with it," he said. "We've got to get it passed in order to have regulations drawn up and new tax forms ready if it is to go into effect Jan. 1, 1972."

The minister, who leaves Friday on a 10 day vacation abroad, said he has received about 600 letters concerning the new tax plan he proposed in his June 18 budget.

"Most of them are in general terms, and most of them leave able," he said. He has received representations for some changes in the plan from some special interest groups, but not as many as he anticipated.

Mr. Benson said industrial groups and similar organizations should make whatever pleas they wish by the last minute changes in the proposed law as soon as possible. They will be studied by officials while he is away. But if any changes are to be made they would need to be incorporated in the bill as it goes through the Commons.

Next to piloting the new tax law through Parliament in the fall, the minister said his big task is to settle fiscal relations with the provinces before current arrangements expire next March 31.

Still to be negotiated are agreements by which Ottawa collects the provincial share of personal income taxes for them and pays subsidies to the weaker provinces to bring their government revenues up to a national standard.

Meany Calls Visit 'Stunt'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Nixon's trip to China is a "stunt" as the organization's executive council issued a statement Tuesday questioning the merits of admitting Communist China to the United Nations.

The statement questioned whether China meets UN membership requirements of a peace-loving state. It challenged the Nixon administration to show evidence it does.

"We think it's a stunt," said Meany of Nixon's visit.

B.C. Town Is Spared By Big Forest Fire

Ken Smith

Germans Stop Air Fare Cut

MONTREAL (CP) — An air fares package which would have substantially reduced youth and group rates on the busy North Atlantic route was rejected Wednesday night by the West German airline Lufthansa after almost seven weeks of bargaining by representatives of 40 air carriers at the International Air Transport Association's fares conference.

H. Don Reynolds, chairman of IATA's traffic conference, said in a statement that the German carrier, the only airline to reject the package, "has until Sept. 1 to remove the negative vote if it wishes to."

Approval of all 40 airlines and the governments of the countries in which the airlines have their headquarters was necessary for the fares to take effect.

Most of the fares would have become effective April 1, 1972, when the current fares agreement expires, but the winter group-inclusive fares and youth fares might have been introduced earlier.

Lowest fare in the package would have been a $168 off-season return ticket between Montreal and London for affinity groups composed of persons in a club or special-interest group. The basic rate for affinity groups now is $188, and $248 in the peak summer season.

The new rate would have been a decrease of about $15 in each fare while New York-London prices would have dropped about $17 to $180, $200 and $250 for the respective seasons.

The negative vote by the German flag carrier brought the fares conference to a close but Mr. Reynolds said "the record is kept open."

"If the negative vote is not removed by Sept. 1, there would be an open-rate situation next year."

An open-rate situation would allow airlines to set their own fares when the current agreement expires at the end of March.

Lillooet Loses Dozen Houses

LILLOOET, B.C. (CP) — A forest fire threatened to engulf this entire Fraser River community of 1,500 Wednesday but firefighters reported early today, in the wake of hurried evacuations in a confusion of smoke, that the main town appeared to be out of danger.

The fast-moving tongues of flame did, however, destroy an estimated dozen homes and damage others before veering away from the main business section.

No injuries were reported.

An RCMP spokesman said: "The main town appears safe now but the south end, called Cornwallville, was pretty well wiped out."

Many residents moved out of town and across the Fraser River. Others packed belongings and were ready to move if necessary. Still others joined the ranks of firefighters.

The situation remained tense, with danger still close should the wind pick up.

This community on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, which runs from North Vancouver to the Peace River country, is situated in a rugged tableland area 120 miles northeast of Vancouver.

Although there was no general evacuation order, the Lillooet hospital was emptied in a precautionary move involving some 30 persons.

The fire moved from the west into Lillooet's outskirts after destroying a church and a number of buildings on an Indian reserve on benchland above the town.

No rain has fallen in the region for at least a month and sizzling temperatures reaching 100 degrees were reported Wednesday.

"It's a hell of a big fire," said Ma Murray, the colorful editor of the weekly Bridge River-Lillooet News and perhaps Lillooet's best-known landmark.

The PGE said, the fire shouldn't affect train service although the fire jumped the tracks at four or five places.

Gorton Dismissed

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Former prime minister John Grey Gorton has been dismissed from the Australian cabinet, it was announced in Canberra by Prime Minister William McMahon.

The dismissal was announced by McMahon 2½ hours after a 12-minute confrontation with Gorton in the prime minister's office at Parliament House.

The showdown followed a five-day political storm over publication of the first of a series of Gorton's memoirs in a Sunday newspaper.

CFB Handshake

Col. W. G. Paisley, Base Commander, CFB Trenton, paused yesterday as he inspected the ranks of the newly arrived 436 Squadron to welcome members of the group to Trenton. In ceremonies at the base this morning, the large Hercules Squadron, with a strength of 200, took up residence at the local military installation. For story see page 5.

Inglorious Twelfth

After 282 Years Hate Still Drives Derry's Catholics and Protestants

LONDONDERRY (CP) — The "Gustibis alarm" echoed through the Bogside today, summoning Roman Catholics to the barricades for a possible new round of violence.

Sniper fire was reported here as fighting shifted to Northern Ireland's second city and British troops prepared to keep Roman Catholic and Protestant mobs apart on the anniversary of an historic Irish battle.

Meanwhile, Belfast had its quietest night since rioting began Monday after the government rounded up 300 suspected terrorists of the outlawed Irish Republican Army and announced plans to intern them without trial.

Five more persons were killed in Belfast Wednesday night before British soldiers restored an uneasy peace and a man died today of gunshot wounds suffered two days ago. The death toll now stands at 24.

The Belfast calm was broken early today by a 90-minute gun battle between troops and snipers.

No one was injured in the mid-morning clash here when gunmen opened fire in the city's Roman Catholic district as Protestants lit fires in the nearby Fountain section to start the annual celebrations marking a Protestant victory over Britain's Catholic King James II nearly 300 years ago.

The troops, firing volleys of tear gas, wedged themselves between stone-throwing Catholics who tried to invade the Protestant district, then mounted a charge in the opposite direction against Protestants trying to attack the Catholics.

Troops were on guard all through the city along streets strewn with barricades put up by feuding religious factions.

A London Times reporter was taken to hospital with head injuries after being battered against a car in a scuffle with youths.

There was also a report of a hoax tar-and-feathering alarm that brought troops out to investigate only to find themselves under fire when they arrived.

Hundreds of persons have been injured, an estimated 7,000 persons have fled from their homes, and hundreds of buildings have been destroyed by fire in the violence since Monday.

The commander of the 12,500 British troops in Ulster, Lt.-Gen. Sir Harry Tuzo, said the situation appears to be "going in our favor now and in the proper direction."

He predicted that the violence will continue until the weekend and possibly longer, "but things will begin to improve soon, of that I am certain." The IRA, spearhead of the republican fight, was reported running short of arms and ammunition.

In Londonderry, Protestants prepared to commemorate the Aug. 12 anniversary of the breaking of the Catholic siege of Londonderry in 1689. The date also marks the arrival of British troops to combat communal warfare in Ulster two years ago.

More than 400 Catholic women and children marched out of the Bogside enclave to protest the internment of suspected terrorists, chanting: "If you shoot a British soldier clap your hands."

When they dispersed, Catholic men took to the streets with bombs, bricks and a scattering of automatic rifles. The army estimated 500 gasoline bombs were thrown.

It was the Aug. 12 celebrations, including a parade by Protestant youths two years ago, that started the latest violence in Northern Ireland's civil strife.

The Apprentice Boys parade, regarded as provocative by the city's predominantly Catholic population, has been banned for the second year running in an attempt to avert rioting.

The undeclared armistice in Belfast was broken just before dawn when British troops moved into the Falls Road area, a republican enclave, to remove barricades thrown across the streets by rioters. Snipers opened up, and the soldiers dived for cover and returned the fire.

One woman was wounded in the crossfire. After 90 minutes of continuous shooting, the area fell quiet again and army bulldozers removed the barricades.

Gen. Tuzo said the security forces have rounded up 10 per cent of the men believed most dangerous. He predicted the rest would be arrested within a few weeks.

Thousands Beg Food In Eire Army Camp

GORMANSTON ARMY BASE, Ireland (CP) — Thousands of women with small children pleading for food and men drained from lack of sleep are streaming into this makeshift shelter from strife ridden Ulster.

Many have been standing in line outside a small kitchen on the base about 21 miles north of Dublin for up to 12 hours waiting for meagre rations supplied by the Irish Republic.

Army spokesman said today food and some kind of accommodation will be found for each of the 4,000 refugees who have already arrived and for others expected later.

Many slept overnight on mattresses placed on the wet grass under a soft rain. Others were crowded in tents sent from Dublin.

Roman Catholics from Belfast and other Ulster centres have been pouring in here by train, bus and car since Monday.

The army will begin moving many of them to other relief centres throughout the republic today in a desperate effort to relieve some of the strain on overtaxed officials here.

The refugees line both sides of a road leading into the camp and the air is filled with the sounds of babies crying, children whimpering and some loud demands for food.

In the camp itself, children tugged at a reporter's jacket, begging for food. Wide eyed and ashen faced, many pleaded to be taken home while mothers explained that home had become Hell.

Hundreds of those waiting outside the kitchen began battering doors to gain entrance and guards had to turn them back with an assurance that food would be provided.

Police Guard Garbagemen

A phalanx of city police clear a path for an Ottawa Disposal Systems Ltd. truck Wednesday morning as it leaves the company yards with non-union workers. About 126 policemen are confronting 92 strikers and 200 sympathetic tradesmen on the picket line in the sixth day of a city garbage dispute. (CP Photo)

Picket Line Quiet Today

OTTAWA (CP) — Police came with riot sticks and helmets, but no trouble occurred on the picket line as construction workers and union garbage collectors staged a display of solidarity early today.

The 92 garbage collectors and about 250 supporters paraded peacefully.

Union spokesmen credited provincial mediator Victor Scott with arranging a 24 hour halt to garbage collection and thus averting possible violence. Ottawa Disposal Systems Ltd., which holds a five-year contract for garbage pickup, had been using temporary non-union workers after members of Local 1338, Canadian Union of Public Employees, were locked out only hours in advance of their strike deadline.

"How much chance of a settlement would there have been if a few skulls had been crushed this morning?" said Stanley Little, union spokesman.

The Ottawa building trades council called on its members to come out in force to the picket lines at the company garage today, after a member of an asbestos workers' union was injured by a moving car there Wednesday.

About half the sympathizers who joined the picket line today wore construction helmets. Other groups represented were Ottawa South New Democrats, Young Socialists and the Canadian Liberation Movement.

Six youths who tried to approach the company garage, apparently looking for work, were warned away by pickets.

In a speech to the construction workers, John F. MacMillan, CUPE organizer, blamed the dispute on company and city officials. He said the union has no quarrel with young transients who have been recruited to work on the trucks.

"Our fight is not with the students. They were led into this. . . . They are victims of society's problems."

Trenton Councillor Critical of Judge And Press Report

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Councillor Ted Parker last night criticized Judge W. S. Lane for what he called "a very damaging statement" and the press for giving "a very distorted view" of circumstances surrounding last Friday's Sidor-Trenton injunction hearing.

During a special meeting of council, Mr. Parker took the floor to discuss the judge's statement that he was not satisfied councillors had "clean hands" in their dealing with Dufferin Developments.

Commenting on the clean-hands statement, Councillor Parker said "the statement by the judge that the Town of Trenton had unclean hands or appeared to have unclean hands was a very damaging statement and one that has no basis in fact."

(Judge Lane did not say in his injunction summation Trenton's hands were dirty nor was this reported. However, he had indicated that implications were not allayed and council had not shown to his satisfaction that their hands were clean.

("I am not prepared to castigate them," Judge Lane had said in declining to censure or exonerate council.)

In a reference to reports that Weall Sidor's counsel, Bernard Harley, had told Judge Lane Councillor Paul Tripp had refused to answer questions on any possible relationship between him and (Councillor Tripp) and Dufferin Developments, Mr. Parker offered some clarification.

"During the examination for discovery, when the lawyer for Mr. Sidor posed certain questions that in the view of our own lawyer were not pertinent to the case, our own lawyer then said to Mr. Tripp do not answer that question. Mr. Tripp, doing the only logical thing that he could do, then heeded the advice of our solicitor," explained Councillor Parker.

The injunction transcript confirms that in making his refusal decision, Councillor Tripp was acting on the advice of town solicitor William Weston.

Mr. Parker continued, "I do not quarrel with the method in which this particular incident was recorded in the newspapers today in that they were obviously not aware of the circumstances under which Mr. Tripp answered these questions and, in view of that, their story gave a distorted view."

On potential implications that one or more councillors may have interests in the future of Dufferin Developments, he added "I do know that no councilman at this table, or the mayor, in fact, has any business dealings whatsoever with either of the two subdividers . . . anybody reading that paper, or those reports, can well get the idea that in fact we did."

At the conclusion of Councillor Parker's remarks, Councillor Stan Ketcheson immediately commented "I could not agree more (with Mr. Parker)."

However, Councillor Pete Asti mused that "it is possible Judge Lane may have some justification for making the statement in the first place. I am sure a judge would not say something as detrimental as that unless he had some basis on which to say it."

Liberals to Meet At Poolside

Quinte Liberal Association is sponsoring a "meet the the candidates"pool party at the home of Robert Templin on the corner of John and Bridge Streets Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Two nominees have declared their intention of seeking the party's support the Liberals of Quinte riding in the next provincial election contest. Both are Trenton men — William Menzies and Gerald Weaver.

Those eligible to attend the party on Saturday are card carrying members of the Quinte Liberal Association. A total of 744 people could be present, if each of the 124 polls in the riding sends its alloted six delegates each.

But those wishing to attend must hold their membership cards for at least 48 hours before the event. They can buy them from Lally, president of the Association, or from Tony Warren, or Robert Temple.

Giant Conveyor

This is part of the conveyor which can carry 600,000 cans of pet food per day through the hydrostatic continuous cooker at Quaker's expanded pet foods division plant in Trenton, Cans, laying on their sides, are fed in rows into the slots on the conveyor which takes them up and down through the cooker a total of 12 times. The hydrostatic cooker, which cost three-quarters of a million dollars, is the first to be used in a pet food plant in Canada. It has a capacity of 80,000 cans at a time.

Quaker, Continental Open $1.5-Million Plant

TRENTON (Staff) — The new $1.5 - million addition to Quaker Oats Trenton plant was officially set in operation at ceremonies here yesterday.

Town officials and executives of Quaker and Continental Can Co. were on hand at the Dufferin Ave. plant for the opening of the 37,000 sq. ft. mutual production project of the two companies.

Continental has built an onsite tin can manufacturing factory so that the complete flow of production is now handled at the Trenton location.

H. Edward Muldoon, Quaker president, stressed the importance of Trenton and the pet food branch of the Quaker firm.

The pet food business which Quaker now enjoys represents about 50 per cent of our total business in Canada," he said.

In his remarks at the joint plant opening, Continental Can president, E. E. Fry, stressed the uniqueness of the dual-corporate arrangement by which Quaker and Continental are now operating on the same property.

"It is unique in the pet foods industry in Canada. It is also, in fact, among the pioneers of this type of inter-industry coordination in North America," he said.

The industrial expansion has boosted Quaker's staff by 25 to a total of 175, Quaker's growth here, according to Mr. Muldoon, is "a perfect example of how all benefit from a successful business operation."

Operation SWEEP In Festival Fixup

The Moira River Conservation Authority and the Ontario government through SWEEP (Students Working in an Environmental Enhancement Program) is going to assist in the cleanup of Madoc township roads following last week's Rock Acres Peace Festival near Queensboro.

John M. Wute, authority resources manager said today that seven county youths under the direction of local SWEEP supervisor Alan Cooke, will do the road cleanup in the vicinity of the Quinlin farm where the three - day festival was held.

The main target of the cleanup will be refuse such as beer cartons, assorted wrappings and bottles left by the several thousand rock fans.

Taking part in the cleanup will be Steven Fisher, Thomsburg, Peter Thompson, Pierre Sabsis and Paul Christie, all of Belleville, Bill Grover of Foxboro and Gordon Reid and Sandy Smith of Madoc.

Project SWEEP is an Ontario government program providing summer employment for some 2,000 students across the province, and is administered jointly by the Department of Lands and Forests and the Department of Energy and Resources Management.

Picton Feline Fancier

Miss Emilia Kripaitis, Washburn Street, Picton, and neighbor 10-year-old Vera Bongard, pose with kittens which the former befriended after they were abandoned in front of her home. Permanent homes are being sought for the kittens.

Strays Need New Homes

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Emilia Kripaitis has recently discovered all the problems that can result when Because Miss Kripaitis the cats out of the bag".

This Washburn Sreet feline fancier has become fairly good-mother to three lively black and white kittens dropped in her neighborhood in a potato sack last week.

Miss Kripaitis rescued the frightened trio from starvation with a quart of milk and provided them with a fort in a storm. In a vacant lot near her home she has concealed the kittens in a fortress of bushes and branches to keep them safe from curious youngsters. Food and water is taken daily to this improvised shelter where the kittens scamper in the brush.

Jealous type, three rollicsome works each day in the laundry at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital she cannot keep the foundling felines at her home.

She does own a teenaged cat called Darby, also a stray, which she adopted many years ago. Since he is the jealous type, three fullcsome kittens are not a practical addition to the Kripaitis household.

Miss Kripaitis has been assisted in protecting her kittens by a 10 - year - old neighbor, Vera Bongard. Vera visits their stronghold daily when Miss Kripaitis is at work to inquire "What's new, pussy-cat?"

The frisky kittens are growing rapidly and will need permanent homes soon. Miss Kripaitis is reluctant to place the homeless trio in custody with the Picton police department since Picton is not served by a branch of the Ontario Humane Society. The kittens would be destroyed in just a few days time unless owners could be found for them.

Miss Kripaitis and Vera are hoping instead, three families urgently requiring willing hearth warmers will contact the Keith Bongard residence, Washburn Street.

Thurlow Main Issue Near Settlement

CANNIFTON (Staff) — The controversial Thurlow Township water main question, battled back and forth in public meetings and court since 1964, is settled, subject to routine approval.

Council yesterday accepted the tender of Menard Construction Ltd. of Green Valley, for construction of the mains at a cost of $59,362. work to be completed by Dec. 1.

The mains, a northern and eastern branch, lie chiefly in concession three near Corbyville. The old drainage system meets at Corbyville and empties into the Moira River.

When Ontario Municipal Board approval is received, council will obtain a bank loan for the work. With the costs split into equal portions between the provincial and federal governments and the township, Thurlow Council expects to issue debentures for their share.

Township Clerk Clare Horton explained the township will contact ratepayers and bill them directly for their share. Those that wish to pay in one lump sum can do so, with the remainder to be paid off in five-year instalments.

Construction of the mains was necessitated because of deterioration in the old lines, but ratepayers have been voicing their objections for the past seven years, expressing their dissatisfaction for their assessments on the drain.

MP Is Opponent Of Snowmobile Trail

Plans to develop the abandoned CPR rail line from Tweed to Glen Tay near Perth as a snowmobile trail have drawn criticism from A. Douglas Alkenbrack, MP for Frontenac, Lennox and Addington.

Mr. Alkenbrack, who has protested the discontinuance of rail service on the line, says the abandoned right of way would better serve the area if it was turned into an eastbound or westbound highway to parallel Highway 7.

The Canadian Transport Commission approved abandonment of the 60-mile line on July 23 and details of turning the right of way into a snowmobile trail are being worked out by CP and the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

But Mr. Alkenbrack says development of the old rail line as a highway would make for a vastly improved Highway 7.

The rail line was built about 1890 and was owned by the now defunct Ottawa-Quebec railway company.

Mr. Alkenbrack says developing the old line as a highway would open up the area for tourists as it would pass through many small villages.

Communities on the route include Sharbot Lake, Arden, Mountain Grove, Glen Tay, Maberley and Elm Tree.

Matter of Prejudice

Evonne Goolagong, the 19-year-old Australian tennis ace, is proud of her aboriginal background, but she is tired of constant reference to it in the media.

According to Globe and Mail sports columnist Dick Beddoes, Miss Goolagong once told an Australian reporter that she stopped reading newspaper stories about herself because they all began with the word "aboriginal." It upset her, she said; she wanted to be herself.

We can understand the Wimbledon champion's feelings; yet at the same time it may be said that the public is genuinely interested in her background, just as they are in the antecedents of others in the news. The Aussie lass is now in Canada for the Canadian open championships and we are as interested in her as we would be if she were a Canadian Indian, for the simple reason that the game is not the usual preserve of our minority people, any more than it is that of the Australian aboriginals.

It is simply a matter of the uncommon factor in life taking our fancy and without any overtones of racism or discrimination. Still, Miss Goolagong's background by now is well known and for that reason it is unnecessary to keep prefacing her name with the word "aboriginal." That is the real burden of her complaint.

In any event she is not alone in this regard. In Toronto, which today is a very cosmopolitan city, there is a tendency to associate crime and violence, where they exist, with certain ethnic groups. Refer to the Mafia for instance and one tends to think of Italians, an association of thought patterns which is unfair to the host of law-abiding people from that country now living in this country as Canadian citizens.

But to return to the subject of race, color of skin and all that, the subject if one which reeks with hypocrisy on an international scale. Canada is one of the leading opponents of apartheid in South Africa, to mention a classic example. But Canada does not have the problem South Africa faces in this regard; it could be a very different matter if we had the same population ratios as does South Africa. And if anyone is under the illusion there is no color prejudice in Canada a board of inquiry into charges of racism at Toronto city hall may dispel them.

An accounting division executive at city hall is alleged to have described the Japanese as "sneaky and treacherous," and a Pakistani senior accountant claims he was dismissed because of his race. The general atmosphere was eloquently described by Archibald Lyn, a Jamaica-born Chinese and also an accountant at city hall. Asked by inquiry counsel John Sopinka to give specific instances of racial prejudice as they had affected him, Mr. Lyn paused for a moment or two and then said: "This is an atmosphere very difficult to define in words. But it is something that we feel and it hurts very much . . . It hurts, but you can't define it. You can define the various harassments and troubles that people impose on each other because of their racism.

"But the people who suffer from it, they keep quiet, bear it in silence or sometimes try to seek justice. (Mr. Lyn had filed a complaint before the Ontario Human Rights Commission). To ask me that question is to ask me to define something which I presume, if I were a genius, I could put it fairly to you gentlemen. But since I'm just a common man, I can't describe it in words. But I do know I'm subject to discrimination because of my race. . ."

* * *

Mr. Lyn is no common man to be able to express himself thus, to describe what to most people who experience it is something intangible, yet felt, a matter of attitude rather than cut and dried instances of discrimination. As if the old days of Empire, ostensibly extinct, have come home to roost amid the modernistic corridors of Toronto's city hall.

The testimony could be a blueprint on the subject of color, bias, racism, discrimination, by whatever word you wish to call it, a classic summation of one aspect of man's inhumanity to man, and one which may inject some understanding of the word brotherhood where now it does not exist.

Media Get New Quarters on Parliament Hill

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The mid-summer silence of Parliament Hill which in past years has been only slightly disturbed by the trooping of a half million tourists through the Centre Block halls, has been deafeningly shattered by the roar of compressors and the slamming of jackhammers.

Heavy construction crews are at work in what used to be a large well between two of the four wings of the great stone building.

They are drilling into the heavy concrete floor and the thick 50-year-old sandstone wall putting in the foundation of what is to be a new parliamentary radio-television interview room.

The electronic newsmen who have been conducting a running guerilla harrassment of parliamentarians — Government and Opposition alike — with a continuing and predictable fire of "have - you - stopped - beating - your - wife" sort of questions, are being provided with their own special field of media action.

They had been sharing some very VIP quarters with Mr. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux where visiting statesmen sign treaties and trade accords and toast each other in champagne — but the radio-television crews burned out their welcome with too many cigarette holes in the rugs.

So into one of the wells of the Centre Block is being built an "electronic oven," as some of the parliamentarians have called the radio-television room.

It will be given over to the exclusive use of reuning, frying, grilling and boiling under TV lights the politicians with "yes or no" type questions.

If the electronic press is rude and often rough in its treatment of your elected representatives, give it this much — it treats them all alike, Prime Minister and humble backbencher.

The backbencher does not often make the charmed chalk line he must tread when he faces the forest of mikes and the battery of cameras, unless he can come up with enough eye-and-ear-catching ideas in the Commons to qualify as a regular performer.

He has to be a bit on the oddball — or perhaps genius — side to make the electronic grade regularly.

It is easy for the Prime Minister.

He appears — or disappears — at a time and on a topic of his own choosing.

If he is not in the mood for what can often be a rough and tumble verbal exchange with the electronic reporters who hold Prime Minister or his office in no awe and sometimes only faintest suspicion of respect, his aides brush them aside, his body-guard throws a solid block or two, and it is up the stairs he scoots, straight out of the Commons in the jealously-guarded seclusion of his office.

At times like this, even the boldest TV spirit, the type who can stand and publicly argue with him, challenging him on even the hottest issues of the day, such as his handling last October of the Quebec kidnap-murder FLQ terror, never gets to lay a question on him.

At other times, when by political instinct he senses the anticipated line of questioning, and finds it acute, he will go along the hall to the electronic room, amid a swarm of radio-TV reporters, and toast with them until a hovering press aide calls out: "That is all, gentlemen."

With the new TV-studio "hot room," the electronic press will have a double problem with the P.M.

Not only will they have to try to block his escape with that quick, body-guard - blocked, escape-scoot up the stairs, they must also manoeuvre or persuade him to go down a flight of steps and along a basement corridor to their den of electronic inquisition.

No problem with any of the other parliamentarians.

They just adore posturing before the cameras, go to what should be — but, for a politician, is not — embarrassingly obvious pains to make themselves "available."

But with them it is not so much a matter of personal showboating on TV as making a cool, calculated use of the media.

Both Leader Tommy Douglas and David Lewis, the new chief of the NDP, are knowledgeable in the ways of manipulating the electronic press, seeming to instinctively program it to ask the good and useful questions casting the brightest possible reflection on the New Democrats.

Without question, the socialists get the best breaks, especially on the CBC with kid-glove-gentle questioning.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, characteristically, appears to be simply obliging and informative. He grinds few partisan axes and has not yet learned the manipulative use of the electronic press. He just stands there and gives a straight answer to a straight question. Curves and slants in loaded questions leave him confused as he earnestly gropes for the honest answer.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Aug 12, 1951

Fine weather greeted Belleville and district fair goers for the opening day of the four-day Belleville Fair which will run until Thursday night. Early morning prospects were for a large opening day crowd at the fair.

Ex-Mayor Jack Allin returned over the weekend from a three - weeks combined business trip and vacation to the British Isles where he visited in both England and Scotland. During his trip overseas he renewed acquaintances with British industrialists who are interested in establishing branch plants in Canada.

James T. Davis, a native of Hamilton, assumes his new duties as secretary - manager of Belleville Chamber of Commerce today. He succeeds Freeman Burrowes who has entered the insurance business.

August 12, 1941

About 125 members of the Thompson family and the descendants of the same, gathered on the property where the family first settled on the banks of the Moira River near what is now known as Fairfield's Bridge. It was the fifth annual reunion and guests were present from Belleville, Tweed, Madoc, Ivanhoe, West Huntingdon, Stirling, Picton, Windsor and Detroit.

Delia Murphy of Belleville and Harriett Naylor of Madoc, are among the eight registered nurses who have passed their examinations and have been accepted as air stewardesses with Trans-Canada Airways.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Watters of Simcoe are spending holidays in the city, guests of the sister of the latter, Mrs. Newton Wilbur and Mr. Wilbur.

40 YEARS AGO

Mayor George A. Reid and Mrs. Reid are spending two weeks at Moira Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hanna are spending a week at Bapteste Lake.

50 YEARS AGO

August 12, 1921

The sailing yacht Kahsha of Toronto, the motor launch Eileen of Buffalo, and the launch Nokohis of Picton, were in the harbor here over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Bell of Toronto are guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Bell of Isabel St.

Rev. Father J. O'Sullivan, the popular parish priest at Wooler, will celebrate the 25th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood Sept. 14 and the event will be fittingly observed.

U.S. Broadcaster Has Praise for Canadians

Letter to The Ottawa Journal

As an American broadcaster from Indianapolis, Indiana, I would like to tell you the positive, good things I have seen in six trips to Canada since 1967 . . . warm, friendly, progressive, enlightening things perhaps Canadians do not appreciate.

As a woman broadcaster for radio station WFBM, Indianapolis, Indiana, I was invited to Canada for Expo '67 as a guest of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau. I also visited Ottawa and followed Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip, which was one of the most thrilling experiences of my life and 24 years of broadcasting on radio and TV.

I have also visited Nova Scotia, Ontario, Manitoba, Quebec, Alberta, British Columbia and Saskatchewan. I have fallen in love with each area for different reasons.

What a revelation to discover bustling, modern, yet charming Montreal, Toronto, Vancouver, Edmonton, Halifax, Winnipeg and Saskatoon, even with such a population of 130,000 has one of the most beautiful, modern auditoriums I've ever seen.

The food, from lobster in Nova Scotia to Winnipeg goldeye to marvellous fish and steak in Montreal and Quebec City, Calgary and Edmonton beef, and B. C. salmon . . . all a joy for one who appreciates top quality food . . . perfectly served. I wonder if native Canadians appreciate what they have or if they are just too used to the best.

I have been so impressed by the variety of landscape and ethnic groups and varied activities from city to west. I like the differences in language too, such as "fridge" and "serviette" and I find it fun to try my limited French whenever I can.

In the past six years I have travelled 150,000 miles around the world with my tape recorder. I love Canada and Canadians . . . the beauty, the progress, your heritage, your warmth. Thank you for being such a good neighbor and even though you have problems (don't we all?) be grateful for all the good things which are Canadian exclusively yours.

A Case Of True Grit

Richard Needham in The Globe and Mail

Here's a true story about early Ontario, as told me by a Picton lady whose family tree goes way, way back. During the War of 1812, one of her ancestors drove a load of grain from Belleville to be ground at Kingston. His 10 - year - old son went along with him. When they reached Kingston, the military grabbed both the farmer and his son for service at York (now Toronto). The farmer's wife had died some months before, and there were four smaller children left at home. The father told the son to walk back to Belleville (30 miles), getting overnight shelter where and as he might find it. The boy got home safely, looked after the smaller children; and some weeks later, the father came back with the cart. One surmises that boys of that day and age didn't end up on drugs, or in the hands of psychiatrists.

Taxpayers and That Festival And What About Hospital Needs Of the Public in General?

NOTICE TO READERS

Letters to this newspaper should be as brief as possible and preferably no more than 500 words. While for publication purposes a pseudonym may be used, letters must also bear the handwritten signature and address of the sender. Letters may be subject to editing.

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Now that the rather squalid affair, euphemistically referred to as Rock Acres Peace Festival is over, perhaps it is time for a little cost accounting.

The Quinte family who sponsored the event claim they made money so we should rejoice for them. In fact, they say they will stage more festivals, in the fall and next year. The 100 or so OPP, to say nothing of the RCMP undercover agents that were necessary to ensure the protection of the general public are expected to cost in the region of $80,000, while the medical facilities so kindly provided by the Ontario government will add another $15,000 to $20,000.

According to reports in the media, the latter sum will be met by the Ontario government (that's you and I). There was no mention that the Quinte family will pay the piper for the cost of the OPP, so it's reasonable to assume that the taxpayer will pick up the tab for that too.

Perhaps you will have noted that these "peace lovers" were also able to command the services of a helicopter and pilot to convey every of their number quickly to hospital should the need arisg. All very nice and efficient. I wonder if a portion of the money that was spent in providing these services, could next time, be directed toward establishing such "relatively unimportant" things as resident doctors in general hospitals such as Belleville General Hospital. It would be nice to have a helicopter on hand to speed seriously injured persons into the waiting hands of surgeons in places such as Kingston when necessary.

With the sale of illegal drugs and booze shown openly on TV while scores of policemen stood by inagive, it may be that the laws respecting such things have been changed. In that case, you or I should be free to hold drug parties on the front lawn, or transport our booze to "places other than our residences" without fear of prosecution. What's good for one section of society ought to be good for others.

Meanwhile, with all our current social problems, such as the "bums on welfare", the unemployed, the lack of adequate housing for the poor and so on, maybe the Ontario government will lay aside a few hundred thousand dollars to ensure there is enough money in the pot to meet similar expenses likely to be incurred by the upcoming Quinlin extravaganzas.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY

Pakistani Refugees

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

We sincerely request you to publish this letter.

The plight of the nearly ten million refugees of East Pakistan is becoming so grave, that unless the world at large does provide food and money right now, repeat, right now, we will have to share the collective burden for the increasing decimation of human lives.

Only $10 will provide one meal for 70 people. Most banks are accepting contributions which will be directed toward organizations such as OXFAM. OXFAM will provide the necessary receipts. We plead with all those who are concerned to consider the enormity of the refugee problem and to be generous in their contributions.

Engineer Resigns Trenton Position

TRENTON (Staff) — Arthur Campbell, Trenton's municipal engineer and public works commissioner, tendered his resignation yesterday. He will be replaced by Arie Hoornweg, the deputy engineer and planning officer.

Council met here Monday to discuss senior executive matters and yesterday morning Mr. Campbell tendered his resignation. Subsequently, Mr. Hoornweg expressed interest in the post.

Hoornweg, who is not a professional engineer, will not be formally called "town engineer". Instead his title for the time being will be acting commissioner of works.

"We will have to wait and see," said the mayor, when asked if council plans to advertize for an engineer.

Mr. Campbell had been a town employee since late 1969, coming to Trenton from a similar post with Elgin County.

Nomination Meeting Saturday

TWEED (Special) — The Frontenac - Addington Progressive Conservative Association has chosen Saturday, August 14 as the date for a nominating convention to be held in the Sydenham High School auditorium, to select a candidate for the next provincial election, expected sometime this fall.

The person nominated will succeed J. R. Simonett as candidate in the election campaign. Mr. Simonett is a former minister of public works in the Robarts government. He is retiring after representing the riding for 12 years.

So far, five men have indicated that they will seek the position of Progressive Conservative candidate. They are: Reeve J. Earl McKeen of Kingston Township; Dr. W. J. Nuttall, reeve of Pittsburg Township and 1971 warden of Frontenac County; Roy Holtzhauer, Kaladar, secretary - treasurer of the riding association; Noble Trousdale of Sydenham and Warren Finlay of Strathcona. Mr. Holtzhauer has stated that he expected from 500 to 600 delegates to attend the August 14th convention.

All Dogs, Please Note

TRENTON (Staff) — Mayor Duncan McDonald cast the deciding vote at a special council meeting here Wednesday, giving approval to a bylaw amendment to control yelping and fighting dogs in daylight hours.

Town legislation has provided controls against noctural canine disturbances through a standard night noise bylaw but dogs have been able to bark with impunity through the day.

By the new bylaw provision, it shall be unlawful for dog owners to allow their pets to disturb persons by "barking, howling or fighting whether the owner is in attendance at the time of such disturbance or annoyance or not."

On conviction the dog's master will be fined not less than $10 but not more than $20 and in default will be sentenced to a jail term of not more than 15 days (for the first offence).

"Everybody better shoot their dogs because they do not understand they are not allowed to bark," commented Councillor Ted Parker, an opponent of the amendment.

East Zwick's Park Work Is Started

Tidying up operations on the East Zwick's Island sanitary land fill area along the Bay Bridge Road are now under way by the city public works department.

Assistant city engineer Joe Angelo said today that the whole East Zwick's area would be "rough graded" to contours set out in proposed park development plans.

One of the major features of the East Zwick's park area will be a 30-foot high hill taken out as a toboggan slide for winter recreation.

Mr. Angelo said there was still some fill from upcoming city road construction projects to be dumped at the Zwick's Island site.

Sodding of the Bay Bridge Road, right of way has been completed since the widening and repaving of the "across the bay" roadway artery and a parallel strip of East Zwick's parkland property is having topsoil added and will be seeded to match the roadway sodding.

Long range plans by the Belleville Parks Board call for adding topsoil to the entire East Zwick's site and eventual development as a park and recreation area.

Ottawa's 436 Squadron Welcomed to Trenton

TRENTON (Staff) — Three Hercules aircraft bussed CFB Trenton in formation Wednesday morning then came in for a landing at their new home.

Earlier, the 300 - man heavy transport 436 Squadron had said last farewells to Base Uplands in Ottawa with a brief parade and ceremony.

Col. W. G. Paisley, the Trenton base commander was on hand for the arrival of the planes — the first cluster of 12 that from yesterday will be based here.

Laden with personnel and baggage, the "Hercs" taxied into a north side dias area where official welcoming proceedings were conducted shortly before noon.

The ranks of 436 were inspected by Col. Paisley, who later signed the papers officially placing the so - called "Elephant Squadron" on strength at CFB Trenton.

Commanded by Lt. Col. H. E. Brown, 436 Squadron is the largest and busiest squadron of Air Transport Command. The squadron conducts twice - weekly flights to Lahr, West Germany and also runs a regular service flight to Alert, NWT.

In a brief press conference Col. Brown explained that the move centralizes all Canadian military air transport hardware in Eastern Canada at Trenton. He termed the decision to shift 436 here as "an efficiency move."

Although the large number of personnel with their dependents total over 800 people, the population of CFB Trenton is not altered measurably because of cutbacks in the strength of other units at the base, particularly to 424 and 437 Squadrons.

The newly arrived squadron will be housed in the east side of the large cantilevered No. 10 Hangar while the bulk of its personnel will be living off-base.

Following the official welcome, the men of 436 were guests of the various messes and the new arrivals formed a flute - led company that made its way from one to the other.

Ann Landers
Dentist Gives Rules For Care of Teeth

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a San Francisco dentist who reads your column faithfully. Every day I am appalled by the ignorance and stupidity of parents. It occurred to me that the best way to educate people is to write Ann Landers. Will you serve as the conveyor belt between thousands of dentists and millions of parents? Here-are the basic guidelines.

ANN LANDERS

1. Don't wait until your child has a toothache before you take him to the dentist. He will then associate the dentist with pain and establish an irreversible, life-long fear of dentistry.

2. Don't ignore cavities in baby teeth because "they fall out eventually" and don't matter. They do matter, and should be well cared for to insure the proper alignment of second teeth.

3. Don't use scare words when you talk about the dentist. Expressions such as "needle" and "pull the tooth out" should be avoided. Tell the child the dentist will "put your tooth to sleep" and "weight it out."

4. Don't bribe your child to go to the dentist. This raises many questions and makes the child apprehensive.

5. Don't insist on going into the workroom with the child. He will do better if you let him know he is grown up enough to go in without you.

6. Don't permit your child to eat candy and other sweets all day long. Substitute raisins, dried prunes, apricots and fresh fruit. Sugarless gum is good, too.

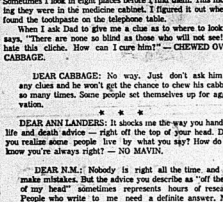
7. Begin early to teach your child the importance of caring for his teeth and gums. Habits established early will stay with him the rest of his life. I am not looking for publicity, so I'll sign it — NO SIGNATURE.

DEAR NO SIG: Thank you for taking your valuable time to write. The teeth you saved might be my grandchildren.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 14 years old (a girl) and I have a gripe rather than a problem. It's my father. Every morning I am supposed to bring him a cup of hot coffee the minute he opens his eyes and yells for it. I am also supposed to bring the newspaper and his glasses. I don't mind doing this, but he is not a person who has a lot of patience, especially in the morning. If he doesn't get his coffee and paper and glasses immediately, he blows his cool.

The problem is his glasses. He never leaves them in the same place two nights in a row. I never know where to look. Sometimes I look in eight places before I find them. This morning they were in the medicine cabinet. I figured it out when I found the toothpaste on the telephone table.



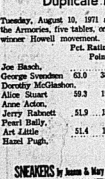
When I ask dad to give me a clue as to where to look he says, "There are none so blind as those who will not see!" I hate this cliche. How can I cure him?" — CHEWED OVER CABBAGE.

DEAR CABBAGE: No way. Just don't ask him for any clues and he won't get the chance to chew his cabbage so many times. Some people set themselves up for aggravation.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It shocks me the way you hand out life and death advice — right off the top of your head. Don't you realize some people live by what you say? How do you know you're always right? — NO MAVIN.

DEAR N.M.: Nobody is right all the time and I do make mistakes. But the advice you describe as "off the top of my head" sometimes represents hours of research. People who write to me need a definite answer. More people suffer from the inability to make a decision than from making the wrong one.



If you live within walking distance of school, be sure your kindergartner is familiar with the routine. Take frequent walks to the schoolhouse during the next few weeks so he will learn about traffic lights and street crossing rules. If he knows what to do, he will feel secure.

Successful Living
A Group Called HELP

By DORIS CLARK

A softball game is played at a Oak training school; elderly people are entertained in a Guelph nursing home; a student gives advice in Orangeville to an emotionally disturbed boy.

These three situations have one element in common: they are all arranged through HELP, a University of Guelph organization. HELP is made up of students - plus a number of non - students - who volunteer to work on a regular basis in social and community service projects.

"HELP projects provide a fantastic learning experience," says President Rod Fairey. "In addition, work for HELP is an excellent reference to have, if he seeks employment after graduation in social or correctional fields."

In 1969 HELP was organized by two students. Now it has 100 members, all working without pay, and carrying out projects in eight community institutions.

Dear Doris: We have just celebrated our tenth wedding anniversary. My husband has never picked up one of our three kids, kissed them or smiled at them. I accept this as part of his shy nature.

My husband isn't the type to seek out another woman but a few months ago he met an attractive Indian prostitute and now he tells me he has fallen in love with her. He says he loves me no less but can't get her out of his mind.

I think it was all unplanned. My husband is mixed up, his mother an alcoholic, his father just dead a short time. I know if I leave him she would probably be the last person he would go to because he can't live without me and doesn't want her. He has pride and high moral standards.

He is a real disciplinarian with the kids but has never hit any of them. — Two Prizies.

Dear Puzzles: I'd guess your husband has a lot of unexpressed emotion in him. He was raised strictly and without affection - which all humans need. He has kept the lid on, all these years.

He misses the father who meant security to him. While at loose ends, this Indian woman has been able to arouse in him some of the desire for physical contact which he has been submerging all his life.

I would suggest that you begin a serious study, together, of the place of affection and good physical relations in marriage. If your children are being deprived of affection they may themselves come to be cold and unresponsive.

* * *

Dear Doris: My heart goes out to the 15 - year - old girl who signed herself Confuddled.

She wanted to die, and thought of taking her life, and I wondered if it is permissable to have her name and address? I would so much like to write her in a motherly way, and offer some sound comfort based on the Bible. — Wanting To Help.

Dear Wanting To Help: Your concern will warm her heart. I have sent her to her priest for guidance, and will write her that you would welcome a note from her.

Have you an idea - about people - that you'd like to like to share? Write to Doris.

Huge Dish of Macaroni and Cheese

By MARY MOORE

This time we had to serve 10 people and in a hurry too for we were to be at the Retreat ceremony at Old Fort Henry in Kingston by seven o'clock.

So I made a huge baking dish full of macaroni and cheese and served it with an equally huge tossed salad. I thought plenty of you folks in our audience might be in a comparable situation with so many travellers moving across our country, making stops to visit relatives and friends en route.

STANDARD MACARONI AND CHEESE (serves 10)
4 cups elbow macaroni
1 tsp. salt (first amount)
10 cups boiling water
4 cups hot milk
½ cup margarine
6 tbsps. flour
2 tsps. salt (second amount)
½ tsp. MSG (Accent)
At least 4 cups shredded mild or medium Cheddar cheese
Paprika

In a very large pot cook the macaroni with the first amount of salt in the boiling water until it is soft and all of the water is absorbed.

Meanwhile make a sauce by melting the margarine and stirring in the flour, salt and MSG until blended. Stir in the hot milk until thick. Stir in three cups of the cheese. Reserve one cup shredded cheese for the top.

Stir cheese sauce into cooked macaroni and turn into very large baking dish (or 2 med.-size). Sprinkle remaining cheese evenly over top. Sprinkle sparingly all over with paprika. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until bubbly and tinged with gold — about 35 min.

This is a standard recipe that should be clipped and filed under "Casseroles—Meatless".

MR. AND MRS. PAUL W. BROOKS

Brooks – Cole

In a recent wedding in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, Susan Jane Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Boold, RR 1, Corbyville was united in marriage to Paul Winston Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Brooks, Belleville with Rev. P. Lett performing the ceremony.

The bride given in marriage by her stepfather wore a floor length gown of chiffon over taffeta with lace accents on hemline, shirt panel and cuffs of sleeves. The dress featured a shirred bodice front and scooped neckline and long full sheer sleeves. Her sweeping floor length veil edged with lace fell from a chiffon rose headpiece encircled with three chiffon petals. She carried a nosegay of baby pink roses and stephanotis.

The maid of honor Miss Madeline Sandford of Toronto wore a floor length gown of daffodil yellow printed floral Swiss dot with contrasting velvet ribbon accenting the empire waistline and long full sleeves and scooped neckline. She carried a nosegay of white and yellow 'mums.

The bridesmaids Miss Joanne Brooks of Windsor, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Roberta Cole, sister of the bride, were dressed identically to the maid of honor, but in mint green. The flowers they carried were nosegays of yellow and white 'mums.

Best man was Stephen Glover of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom; the ushers were Bill Cole of Belleville, brother of the bride and Stan Brooks of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom.

At the reception the guests were received by the bride's mother attired in a full length dress of sky blue lace over taffeta with accordion pleated sleeves and accessories in white. She wore a corsage of pink carnations. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother wearing a peacock blue chiffon smocked sleeveless coat over a full sleeved chiffon dress of the same color with bead trim on the collar and cuffs. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to the east coast the bride travelled in a red, white and blue jersey hot pant suit with hood, and matching red accessories. She wore a corsage of red carnations.

Upon return the couple will live at Downsview.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Terrance Donovan, Belleville, announce the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Karen Lynn to Brian A. Fitzgerald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Fitzgerald, Belleville. The wedding will take place on Friday, September 3, at 7:30 p.m.

* * *

Previous to her marriage Mrs. Paul Brooks (nee Susan Cole) was honored at a miscellaneous shower given by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. James Mays of Read. Also at a shower held for her by co-workers of the Woolworth accounting office at Downsview. She received a gift from the office staff of her employer on another occasion.

Engagement Notice

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Way, 26 Montgomery, Belleville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to Mr. A. W. A. Bellstedt, Belleville. The wedding will take place at Eastminster United Church on August 28, 1971 at 3 p.m.

Boisvert – Boyce

St. Margaret's on the Hill was the scene for a recent wedding when Susan Dawn Boyce, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Donald Boyce, Belleville, became the bride of Philip Roger Boisvert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Boisvert, RR1 Shannonville.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized by Rev. J. A. Dunlop and the wedding music was provided by organist W. S. McArton.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Judi Bolte, sister of the bride, was dressed in floor length pale blue organdy with empire bodice and A-line skirt. The gown also featured a high stand-up collar and short puffed sleeves with pale blue ribbons dropping from the empire waist to the floor.

Michael Boisvert attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Tim Boldvert and David Boisvert, all brothers of the bridegroom.

Upon return the couple will live at RR5, Madoc.

Family Reunions

DENYES CLAN

The tenth anniversary of the Denyes family reunion was held recently at Zwick's Island Centennial Park with an attendance of 70.

All enjoyed a bountiful meal. Howald Denyes, chairman, conducted the business. A period of silence was observed for the passing of Mrs. Ernest Wright, (Isobel), Odessa and Clarence L. Sharpe, Kingston, during the past year. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Best wishes of the group were expressed to several cousins who were absent because of age, sickness, distance and holidays.

Officers for the coming year are as follows: chairman, Jack Denyes, Kingston; secretary - treasurer, Miss Helen Sproule, Odessa; sports committee, Lionel and Janice Bovay, Belleville; awards, Gilbert and Eileen Waite, Belleville; grounds, Merritt Waite, Belleville; flower committee, Kingston area, Mrs. Fred Denyes; Belleville area, Mrs. Ruby Waite.

Awards were presented: the oldest lady, Mrs. George S. Lucas, Napanee; oldest gentleman, Mr. Fred Denyes, Belleville; youngest child, Jennifer Waite, four months; longest distance, Herbert Lindsay, couple celebrating a wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor, Belleville.

A beautiful pin was presented to Helen Sproule for her work as secretary-treasurer for nine years and for her efforts in keeping in touch with all the relatives by mail or by calls.

After the sports program, the chairman called all together to recall the ten years of the annual gatherings. Several mentioned events in that period of time. The first gathering was held in 1961 in the home of Stanley and Annie Sproule in Odessa when about 25 attended.

WEDDING

PUTNAM — TASKER

MARMORA — St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, was the setting on August 7 for the candlelight wedding ceremony when Winnifred Lois Tasker exchanged marriage vows with Arthur William Putnam. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Warren and the late Boyd Warren Sr. of Marmora and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Edith Putnam, Wooler, and the late Roy Putnam.

Rev. John Peters officiated at the double ring ceremony, while wedding music was provided by Mrs. Eldon Killian.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Carol Andrews, sister of the bride, wore a pale floor length crepe knit gown, a chiffon overskirt hung from the empire waist enhanced with pink and white lace caught at the back with chiffon train and bow. She wore pink miniature carnations in her hair and carried a nosegay of assorted pink, white and purple carnations with a Queen Elizabeth rose in the middle.

The bridesmaid, Miss Jerrilynn Putnam, niece of the bridegroom, was dressed in a pink gown identical to the matron of honor and carried a nosegay of the same pink and white miniature carnations trimmed with purple net.

Flower girl was Christine Andrews, niece of the bride, who was dressed similarly to the other attendants in pink and carried a basket of pink and white carnations trimmed with white net.

Attending as best man was Gerry Warren, brother of the bride. Ushers were Don Andrews, brother - in - law of the bride, and John Tasker, son of the bride.

For a honeymoon to the eastern parts of the United States, the bride chose a blue chiffon over crepe dress and a white cape, white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Putnam will reside in Marmora.

Action Canada May Make Bid At Next Vote

EDMONTON (CP) — Canada's newest political movement, Action Canada, may field candidates in the next federal election, former Liberal cabinet minister and Action Canada founder Paul Hellyer said Wednesday.

Mr. Hellyer said in an interview that if the party policy conference this fall votes "for federal nominations, then we shall adopt it." As an alternative to running candidates, Action Canada could endorse other-party candidates.

Mr. Hellyer was in Edmonton on a nationwide tour to drum up support for the organization he and 23 others founded in late May to protest the Liberal government's "failure to place the people in the mainstream of government."

Socreds Nominate In All Constituencies

EDMONTON (CP) — Social Credit candidates have been nominated to contest the Aug. 30 provincial election in all 75 Alberta constituencies, the party announced Wednesday.

Thirty-seven of them are running for the first time, the party said in a prepared statement. Fifteen are under age 40.

Among the candidates is Rev. Pat O'Byrne who, the party said, is the first Roman Catholic priest to run for a seat in the provincial legislature.

GM Car Prices Raised In U.S.

DETROIT (AP) — The family car bet cost $3,000 in the United States in 1980 will run about $4,000 this time around, and the end of the price increases is not in sight.

That was evident Wednesday from General Motors price tags on its 1972 models.

Actually, GM got the jump on its rival companies when it said its dealers could start selling the '72s now without waiting for all the advertising and public relations splurge that marks the new car year.

GM, largest of the auto firms, traditionally has set the pricing pattern, and it was the first of the auto companies to announce details of its 1972 price pattern.

GM said the base price tags of its new cars would carry an average increase of $181 or 4.1 per cent over 1971 models.

Since neither Ford, Chrysler nor American Motors has given any breakdown of their '72 car prices as yet, the GM figures had to serve as a basis for comparison on how the prices have gone for the past three years.

Using two of the more popular Chevrolet and Pontiac cars, here is how the price pattern looked:

—Chevrolet Impala two-door hardtop, V-8, $3,068 in 1969 to $3,944 in 1972, an increase of $876 or 29 per cent.

—Pontiac Catalina four-door sedan, $3,073 in 1969 to $4,034 in 1972, an increase of $961 or 31 per cent.

A substantial part of the increase is covered by the fact that the '72s have a lot more items as standard equipment than they did in 1969.

On the 1969 Impala, for example, the automatic transmission was an optional item at $216.50, the power steering was another option at $119 and power brakes were an option at $45. That came to $380.

On the '72 Impala, all three of these items are included in the regular price as standard equipment.

Hamilton: 20-17

Rider Bobbles Bless Tabbies

OTTAWA (CP) — Hamilton Tiger Cats, aided by four Ottawa fumbles, one of them recovered in the end zone for touchdown, nipped the Rough Riders 20-17 in an Eastern Football Conference game Wednesday night.

It was Hamilton's second win without a loss and lifted the Tigcats into a first-place tie with Toronto Argonauts, also undefeated in two starts. Riders now have won two, lost two.

"I don't think we've ever had that many turnovers before," groaned Rider coach Jack Gotta about the fumbles and two interceptions given up by his club.

Quarterback Wally Gabler and back Steve Worster combined for the game's most spectacular score, a 35-yard pass-and-run effort.

Tommy Joe Coffey, veteran Tiger end, converted both touchdowns and also kicked two field goals.

Both Ottawa touchdowns were scored on passes, Quarterback Gary Wood threw seven yards into the end zone to end Dave Pivec' and 40 yards to Billy Cooper.

Gerry Organ converted both touchdowns and kicked a 25-yard field goal. He missed a second from the same range when the ball hit the right goalpost.

"If we can win with our defence at this time of the year, we can't be in such bad shape," he said.

"Our offence was spotty but you can expect that. I'm not worried about it. It's coming along."

Dorow lifted regular quarterback Joe Zuger after the veteran failed to light any fires in the Hamilton offence. Gabler, who came in relief in the second quarter, didn't fare much better.

Zuger completed only five of 11 passes for 64 yards. Gabler was good on four of 13 for 106.

Wood went all the way for Riders, completing 18 of his 31 throws for 314 yards. He also reeled off the best run of the night, 55-yards in the first quarter.

The final gun saw a number of fistfights and shoving matches between the teams, apparently sparked by over-eager Riders trying to jar the ball loose from Zuger's clutch.

The attendance was listed by the 26,365 fans, about 700 less than the record Ottawa attendance.

Dorow had predicted his club would have trouble handling the running of Wood. The Ottawa quarterback proved him right, rushing eight times for 99 yards.

Hamilton's best on the ground was Dick Wieszkowski. He got 86 yards on 14 carries.

Halfback Skip Eamon, who committed two of the Ottawa fumbles, caught four Wood passes for 62 yards. Worster was Hamilton's leader, catching three passes for 71 yards.

Eskies Shut Jauch Up

EDMONTON (CP) — "The first thing I want to say," said coach Ray Jauch after Calgary Stampeders humiliated Edmonton Eskimos 31-1 in a Western Football Conference game Wednesday night, "is that anything I have to say is unquotable."

Jauch was annoyed that the Eskimos brough disaster upon themselves, as an inept offence gave away 23 points.

"We got whipped, but we helped them tremendously."

The offence, Jauch said in an under-statement, played a poor game. The sad story; Four interceptions, a fumble and a misbidged punt, which Calgary ungallantly turned into three converted touchdowns before 23,000 fans.

"There definitely will be some changes," he said.

"We've got to start over again. Some of the new people — George McGowan and Bob Rusmard . . . are doing a good job. It's some of the people we counted on who are not doing much."

"There was no offensive blocking, and when there was, passes were dropped.

"We got poor coverage on kickoffs and punt returns. Something's wrong but I'm not sure what yet."

The Stampeders waltzed to their third straight victory and a comfortable first-place margin on touchdowns by Hugh McKinnis, Jerry Keeling and Jesse Mims. Larry Robinson did the rest with three field goals, three converts and a single.

The Eskimos, who got a single from Dave Cutler, share second place with Saskatchewan Roughriders. Both clubs have one victory in four games.

The over-worked Edmonton defence did a creditable job, holding Calgary to a net offence of 297 yards. The Stampeders passed for 138 yards and ran for 144 to collect 17 first downs.

But the offence, Jauch was pleased only with the performance of Larry Lawrence, a former Stampeder quarterback in action for the first time for the Eskimos.

Lawrence, who replaced Trull in the second quarter, scrambled for all he was worth but it didn't help much.

CNE Seeks Astroturf

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian National Exhibition's artificial turf committee recommended Wednesday that an artificial playing field be installed in CNE Stadium at an estimated cost of $400,000.

Lafleur May Be Richest Rookie

MONTREAL (CP) — Guy Lafleur, the first-draft choice in the 1971 amateur draft, is expected to sign with the Stanley Cup Champion Montreal Canadiens next week, and will probably make more money than any other first-season performer in the history of the National Hockey League.

Gerry Patterson, business manager for the former Quebec Remparts junior star, has been negotiating contract terms with Sam Pollock, Canadiens' general manager. He expressed confidence Wednesday that a settlement will be reached shortly.

"Nothing official has been set on signing of the contract," he said. "Still, Sam and I are pretty well set on the terms after three earlier meetings and everything is fine."

Patterson, who has handled financial matters for sports notables Jean Beliveau, Rusty Staub, Gordie Howe and Nancy Greene, refused to disclose details about Lafleur's contract, other than to say that "Guy will be the highest-paid rookie in NHL history."

Westerners on Top

OAKFIELD, N.S. (CP) — Two scratch handicappers lead a field of 150 golfers into the second round today of the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Bert Tkatchuk of Vancouver and Doug Silverberg of Calgary shot under-par 71s Wednesday for a one-stroke lead after the first 18 holes in the four-day, 72-hole event at the Oakfield Country Club.

Tkatchuk, a member of the British Columbia Willingdon Cup championship team, covered the front nine in one-under-par 35 and finished the par-37 back nine in 36. Silverberg shot 36 and 36 for his total.

They hold a one-stroke lead over Gar Hamilton of Bolton, Ont., the only golfer in with a 72.

Tkatchuk credited his putting for the leading round. "When you make the putts, especially those that are tough, you seem to get a lot better."

Silverberg, who also competed in the Willingdon Cup matches earlier in the week, said he found the 6,781-yard Oakfield layout "very deceptive."

Girls Aim At 75s

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Two young golfers led a field of 120 by a narrow margin as the Canadian women's amateur golf championship went into its second day today at Capilano Golf and Country Club.

Close behind, with 76, are four of the tournament's top contenders: Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto, who has won the title several times; defending champion Gail Moore of Vancouver; former national and Quebec title holder Jocelyne Bourassa of Shawinigan and Gayle Borthwick, former national and British Columbia champion now playing out of Mississauga, Ont.

Today's round, which begins at 8 a.m. PDT, will reduce the field to 72, and also determine the interprovincial team championship.

In team play, British Columbia is leading with a 321 total, one stroke ahead of Ontario. Alberta is third with 342.

Kinsmen Juniors Make Their Hits Productive

Oshawa had the greatest quantity of hits, but it was the Belleville Kinsmen Juniors who got the most quality from their offensive efforts in a 4-1 Lakeshore Intermediate playoff win.

Despite being out - hit by a 9-4 margin the OCIBA Junior champions managed to hold Oshawa off the scoresheet until the ninth inning when an unearned run cost Terry McTaggart his shutout.

The Kinsmen staged their winning rally in the s i x t h frame when Paul Hall reached base on an error and Steve Bedard and Rick Meagher followed with back-to-back triples.

STEVE MOORE

McTaggart scattered nine hits over the same number of innings, striking out seven batters and issuing four bases on balls. Bernie McGuire took the loss for Oshawa giving up eight hits and one walk while firing third strikes past eight batsmen.

Steve Moore and Steve Bedard wielded the big bats in Belleville's lineup coming up withsix triple and single each. Meagher slammed a triple for the winners with the other safeties going to Hall, Brian Cousins and Bill Kirkham.

The date for the second game of the best-of-three junior championship series is as yet undecided.

Get Up There!

What comes down had better go up as far as Peter McCauley is concerned. The forward for the Falcon 'A' mosquito club in the Belleville Minor Soccer Association, uses his head during a half-time break in their contest with the Station Square Canucks, to keep warmed up for second-half action.

Industrial Pennant-Winners Stay on Playoff Tightrope

Union Carbide were walking a tightrope, but it was The Intelligencer which tumbled, in Industrial Softball quarter - finals action last night.

Trailing 1-0 in the best - of - three playoff series the league pennant winners came up with a superb 9-1 team - effort to back the three - hit pitching of Frank "Junior" Day.

A three - run homer by Wayne Brown Jr. capped the Union Carbide scoring as they plated five runs in the first inning to build an insurmountable lead.

Day scattered only three safeties among The Intelligencer batters with the losers' only tally coming on a pair of errors in the first inning. The Bakelite hurler struck out five batters and didn't issue a walk. Dave Feeney started for The Intelligencer giving way to John Edwards in the fifth frame. Between them they were touched for ten hits and three walks while recording five strikeouts.

Jack Hughes played a standout game defensively at third base for Union Carbide, while Brown provided the single highlight of the game tracking down a long drive by Bob Brooks in the final inning. The Bakelite left fielder paced his team at bat with a homer and single, while Bob Zalkowits and Cliff Hineman also had two hits apiece.

The Intell hits, all singles, went to Bob Hoard, Terry Hiddleston and George Phillips.

The deciding game will be played at the Alemite Monday night.

Survivors Shaved

Two semi - final series were completed in Wednesday night's Belleville Minor Softball playoffs.

Doug Jones' Jewellers captured their West Hill semi - finals with Canadian Tire by whipping the Tiremen 14-2. Andy Rosati fanned 14 while on the Jewellers mound. He received all the support he needed in the form of home runs from Danny Vance, Don Buck and Bob Hedge.

Meanwhile on the East Hill, Stephen Licence gained a berth in the finals by clobbering the Shopping Plaza 28-4. Doug Campbell pounded out two homers for the winners with Ken Boniste1, Dave Warren, Rickey Tripp and Phil Fobin slugging solo homers.

Cablevue Off on Right Foot

The play - offs continued on two fronts Wednesday night in Belleville Minor Baseball with Cablevue coming up with that all - important first game win while Richard Ellis and Bob's Sports series has bolled down to one deciding game.

Cablevue rode the one-hit pitching of Lorne Andrews and Mike Leger to their opening game 6-2 win over Crewford Metals. The duo blasted strikes past 21 batters in fining the victory. Leger also picked up a double and single while at the plate.

Howie Dell and Stu Emerson were tagged with the loss for Crawford's, fanning 16 and walking 11. Emerson managed the only hit for the losers, a single.

Richard Ellis Printing stopped Bob's Sports in their first game 5-1 but a 5-5 tie in the second game forces a deciding game this Friday.

Jim Forrester and Jonathon Dent fired the Printers win allowing only three hits. The pair fanned 19 and walked only one. Dent also had three singles and a double.

In a peewee house league game Golden Mile Restaurant outslugged Farrell Motors 18-12.

Gary Stapley and Paul Weeks hurled the win giving up 11 hits and fanning eight. Homers from Roger Bedard, Stapley, and Paul Prokopczuk paced the Mile to victory.

Chapman Leaves Bench To Drive in Winners

An umpire's thumb helped turn thumbs down on Read in their South Hastings Baseball League semi - final bout with Latta last night.

A Latta player was ejected from the game in the seventh inning bringing Davie Chapman into the game as a replacement. The last-inning substitute then assumed the hero's role coming up with a single to drive in the winning run in a 7-5 victory by Latta.

The winners had trailed 5-3 going into the final frame before singles by Glen McMechan, Bob Smith and Wayne Harrison threatened Read pitcher Harold Pascoe. Mike Muscliow then delivered an RBI - base hit to tie the game at 5-5 setting the stage for Chapman's winning blow.

Bob Smith got the win, taking over in the second inning from Latta starter Damon Richardson. The pair yielded six hits and three walks while fanning a half - dozen batters. Pascoe was pounded for 13 hits, striking out six and not walking a man.

Smith helped his own cause with two doubles and a single, while Harrison had a double and two singles and Muscliow a pair of safeties for Latta. Brothers Harold, Larry and Bruce Pascoe each had a single for Read with the other hits going to Peter Enright, Steve White and Carm Milligan.

Fifth game in the best-of-seven series, currently tied at two games each, will be played Saturday night in Read.

Frazier Prefers Ring To Sing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier said Wednesday he loves music but he intends to keep on fighting for four or five more years.

Frazier also said he will give former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, whom he beat in 15 rounds March 8, another shot at his title "anytime he feels he wants that fight, anytime, anywhere, I will give him that fight."

Speaking at the National Press Club ,Frazier told of the recent European and South American tour he made with his rock 'n roll group, The Knockouts, which was anything but an artistic or financial success.

Answering the bad press reviews his act received on tour, he said: "I would love to come back to Washington and do a show here for the newsmen. All you need is one bad press, maybe a guy who is a Cassius Clay fan, maybe a guy who is not a music fan, and he writes it up and they carry it on from there.

"I would like people to see that this (his music) is not a gimmick'," he continued.

Asked if he thought Cassius Clay could defeat him, he replied:

"I don't think there's anyway he could whip me. . . . In 27 fights, I had 25 knockouts. A guy like Clay would like to have another shot but there is no way he can whip me."

Emerson Lobbed Right Out of Tourney

Four players competing in the $70,000 Canadian Open tennis championships at Toronto Lawn Tennis Club, display different techniques used in returning ball during competition. Players are clockwise from top right: Tom Okker of Netherlands; Frew McMillan of South Africa; Tom Leonard of Los Angeles; and Arthur Ashe of Los Angeles. (CP Wirephoto)

TORONTO (CP)—The pressure of being a target for tennis trophy hunters on the professional tour got to Aussie ace Rod Laver Wednesday.

The defending champion was frustrated in his match when Taylor forced him into errors by lobbing into a brisk breeze and hitting high to his forehand.

The fourth - seeded Laver showed his disgust by throwing his racquet and slamming two balls out of the court. He later withdrew from the doubles, leaving Roy Emerson without a partner.

Emerson, who said Laver wanted at least a week of rest and perhaps as much as a month, understood. They talked over the decision for about an hour.

Taylor, who watched Laver fish four overhead smashes in the two games before the first set was decided by a tie-breaker, regarded Laver as "just another player with two arms and two legs."

He lost the final game of the second set by making four consecutive errors off his backhand. He hasn't won a tournament since May.

It was a bad day for the eighth-seeded Emerson too as Andres Gimeno broke his service six times en route to a 6-1, 7-5 victory and a quarter-final berth.

Top-seeded John Newcombe of Australia got past Tony Barnsley of Vancouver, the last Canadian in the tourney, 6-3, 6-4, then coasted by Pancho Guzman of Ecuador 6-1, 6-3.

Wimbledon queen Evonne Goolagong and second-seeded Rosemary Casals of San Francisco both posted victories as a tough international field eliminated the four Canadian girls on the first day of singles play.

Seven Years' Patience Brings Two Gold Medals

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Sports Editor

CALI, Colombia (CP) — Seven years of rigorous training under a German master horseman have paid off for dark-haired Christilot Hanson of Sharon, Ont., who completed a dressage gold medal double at the Pan-American Games Wednesday.

"We've done it at last," the 24-year-old champion rider said after she received her second gold of the Games for winning the individual dressage competition, known as the Reprise de Rappel.

Her total of 1,229 points against two Chilean army riders in the rappel was added to the 1,832 points she received in the team dressage Grand Prix victory Tuesday. Over-all, Miss Hanson won by a margin of 309 points.

Until Christilot turned the trick, no Canadian had ever won an individual gold in the dressage although Canadian equestrians have taken gold in jumping competition.

And no Canadian team until now has ever won gold in dressage. The best previous showing was a third-place bronze in the 1967 Games, and Miss Hanson was a member of that team.

Her coach, Willi Schwelbhels, began teaching her the finer points of dressage in preparation for the 1964 Olympic Games at Tokyo. She was only 17 when she competed in the Olympics that year, the youngest equestrian ever in the Olympics, and finished 20th.

Canada's equestrian showing is the best ever in Pan-Am Games history, with three gold in five events. Mexico has the other two gold in its foal.

The pair of dressage gold and another in the Three-Day Event team competition also surpassed the entire gold production by Canadian equestrians in previous Games. Canada took gold in the Three-Day Event in 1959 and in the individual jumping in 1967.

Miss Hanson's individual gold was the 18th over-all won by the Canadian team in six sports—six in swimming, five in track and field, three in equestrian, two in diving and one each in weightlifting and cycling.

With the 32-event swimming and diving program completed Wednesday night, Canada's chances for more gold have just about dried up except for the equestrians.

Thus the spotlight will remain on the equestrians right up to the final event when the Canadian jumping team competes in the Prix de Nations closing out the two-week Games Friday afternoon.

Canada's medal total after 189 events reached 80. The team cannot better the 92-medal total of 1967 but it is way ahead in gold, 18 to 12.

American swimmers, led by Frack Heckl, won the four finals on the last night in the pool with Canada's efforts producing two silver and two bronze. Another bronze came in one of the wrestling classes.

The U.S. team whipped through eight more gold medals for a total of 104 and the Cubans were hot again, taking five gold in wrestling and volleyball to give them a total of 31.

Canadian swimmers now go home with 36 medals, one less than in Winnipeg, but in gold they doubled their 1967 production of three. Leslie Cliff and Donna-Marie Gurr of Vancouver were the top gold winners for the Canadian team, each with three.

Leslie and Angela Coughlan of Burlington, Ont., won the most Canadian medals—five each—but Leslie had more gold.

Leslie's score was two individual gold, a relay gold, an individual silver an da relay silver Angela, in surpassing her 1967 performance of one relay silver and three individual bronze, earned a gold and silver in relays, two individual silver and an individual bronze. Miss Gurr had two individual and one relay gold and a relay silver.

Heckl, a towering pre-medical student at the University of Southern California, was a one-man swimming team as he won six gold medals in seven events —three individual and three relay first prizes.

The Americans won 14 of 15 men's events and eight of 14 in the women's competition and split the four diving events with Canada. The U.S. synchronized swimmers won all three gold on the board with Canadians getting three silver.

Middleweight Taras Hryb of Victoria joined featherweight Pat Bolger of Dutton, Ont., as the two medal winners on the Canadian wrestling team. Cuba won two wrestling gold, Francisco Lebequer in the welterweight class and Lupe Lara in the middleweight class.

Russell Hellickson of the U.S. grabbed the light heavyweight gold and Dominic Carollo, another American, and Cuba's Francisco Lonchan in the heavyweight class, each getting gold medals.

The United States defeated Cuba in the last match of the water polo tournament to win another gold medal while Cuba clinched both volleyball gold medals and Argentina was certain of the soccer gold medal.

Oakland's 'Blue Hatchet' Carves Sox

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vida Blue, Oakland Athletics' biggest drawing card, had 30,000 fans wailing out a two-hour rain delay Wednesday night to watch the young lefthander chalk his 21st victory of the season as Oakland downed Boston Red Sox 5-3.

Tommy Davis ripped a two-run homer in the first inning and singled home Blue, who has been out a bunt, in the third, as Oakland built an early 3-0.

Blue, counting on a three-hit pitcher, retired 17 consecutive batters, then walked pinch hitter Phil Gagliano with one out in the eighth inning. Doug Griffin followed with his third major league homer, cutting Boston's deficit to a single run.

Bert Campaneris singled with one out in Oakland's 10th and moved up on a wild pitch. After Joe Rudi walked, Reggie Jackson doubled for one run. A fielder's choice and a wild pitch produced another and that seemed to seal it.

But Griffin and Luis Aparicio opened the bottom of the 10th with consecutive singles. Mike Nagy out Blue, who was tiring for his 10th complete game, Darrell Evans relieved, earning the victory that made Blue's season log 21-4.

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore Orioles belted Minnesota Twins 9-6, Detroit Tigers shaded Milwaukee Brewers 2-1, Cleveland Indians nipped Chicago White Sox 3-2 in 12 innings and Kansas City Royals shut out Washington Senators 1-0 in a game halted by rain after five innings. The second game of the Kansas City-Washington doubleheader and California Angels' game at New York Yankees were rained out.

VIDA BLUE

Baltimore's Robinson boys, Frank and Brooks, destroyed Minnesota, keying an eighth-inning rally that moved the Orioles past the Twins.

With two out Frank doubled home Don Buford with the tying run and then Brooks dropped a bloop single, chasing home Frank with the winner.

Ray Fosse's 13-inning homer moved Cleveland past Chicago after the White Sox had rallied in the seventh on Rick Reichardt's two-run single in the ninth.

Jim Northrup's two-run single in the seventh drove in both Detroit runs.

The views were far from scenic in Wednesday night's Prince Edward North Shore Softball League game but then who cares!

Don Bosser fired the win for Bayview, fanning two and walking three in his eight-hit performance. Jim Fisher paced the winners with three hits. Randy Dempsey and Paul Carrick each added two hits.

Gary Eardley and Carl Colton took the loss for Mountain View giving up 10 hits while fanning five and walking six. Ed Callow and Pete Moran each had two safeties for the losers

Quinte Gets Windy Win

It was an ill wind for Whitley Insurance, as it blew them no good at all in a 2-0 Bay of Quinte Soccer loop tilt Quinte Tourist last night.

In the first half, with the wind at their back, Quinte built a 1-0 lead when Terry Crowle converted a pass from Robin Findlay. Only some fine defensive work by Hillier, particularly Bob Arsenault prevented the Transport team from extending their margin before half-time.

In the second period Steve Ormsby broke down the right wing and passed to Findlay who headed the ball into the net for the second Quinte tally. The losers took advantage of the wind to put on the pressure, but some outstanding work by Jack Hetties in the Quinte goal thwarted their efforts.

In a Belleville battle United romped to a 2-1 win over perennial rival Parsons.

Joe Bronco tallied the only goal of the first half when the United attacker blasted in a 19-yarder after ten minutes of play.

Mario Collavigh upped the count to 2-0 in the second half on an outstanding individual effort. Collavigh beat the Parsons defenders to score.

Army Life For Hebner

Richie Hebner, playing in his first game after two weeks of army duty, delivered the game-winning hit in the ninth to power Pittsburgh Pirates over Chicago Cubs 3-2 Wednesday night.

His bases-loaded single with two out gave Dock Ellis only his second victory since the All-Star break a month ago and helped the Pirates keep the charging Cubs at bay in the National League East.

Grill Hot For While

Cosy Grill made things hot for Wesley's Flowers last night before succumbing 5-4 as Wesse's clinched the Womens Softball League pennant.

Charlene Quinn, Irma Barkerstock and Nora Barberstock combined to hunt a five-hitter for Wesse's striking out seven and walking six. Marge Reid was touched for 11 hits for the losers.

Valerie Brown blasted a triple and double for the winners followed by Donna Brant with a double and single. Reid with a double and single and Sharon Francis with two singles were tops for Cosy.

Dairy Queen rode the pitching effort of Marianne Sills to a 7-5 victory over the Belleville Yardmen's Benefit Fund. Sue Morton took the loss for BYBF. Offensive punches for the Dairy Queen was provided by Norma Fuller who crashed a home run.

City Rink Scores

The local rink of Gord Pickens, John Sager, Wally Lavergne and Austin Watkin captured the Pilots Trophy in the third event of, the day with a 22-8 trouncing of Bill Kimberley's rink from Toronto.

Chapman's Scoring Cheaper by Dozen

The Simpsons - Sears' banton forward potted 12 goals to lead his team to a 22-0 pasting of the 707 Jets. Kent Manning added five goals for the winners with the others going to Bob Reid (2), Tom Wilkinson (2) and Gary Riddell.

In another bantam bout, Towers B City beat, Queen's Motor Hotel 7-5. Lowe paced the winners with three goals followed by Murphy with two and Peter and Mike Crawford with one each. Rick Barbeau counted four times for the losers with Randy Hutchinson adding the other goal.

In the final divisional battle Bob's Sports pulled the plug on Bud Gill Appliances with a 7-2 win. Brent Walmsley, Gary Thompson and John Geen each scored twice for the winners with R. Thompson adding the final marker. Bud Gill's goals were both scored by Jeff Belanger.

In a novice match-up Dairy Queen slipped past Bob's Sports 4-3 getting a hat trick performance from Bob Hasz and one counter from Steve Riddell. Gerry Healey (2) and Brad Miller scored for the losers.

TV Tuned Out

Turcotte Heating tuned out Clayton's TV last night with a 24-17 Minor Girls' Softball win. The victory advances Turcotte to the finals of the junior division playoffs.

150th ANNIVERSARY OF THE QUINTE EXHIBITION

5 BIG DAYS! AUGUST 17-18-19-20-21 5 BIG DAYS!

Quinte Exhibition Is 150 Years Old

Quinte Exhibition, formerly the Belleville Fair and at one time known as the Victoria District Fair and Cattle Show, is 150 years old and officials this year are sparing no effort to make the 1971 show a banner event.

Pre - fair advertising lists the five - day show — August 17 to 21 — as a "Once in a Lifetime Event" and the long list of attractions tends to bear out the claim.

Special anniversary year exhibits will demonstrate the pioneer way of doing things in the Quinte district, but at the same time there will be something for all ages, including a top-notch livestock show, a special midway, and a variety grandstand show that is certain to appeal to the most critical entertainment lover.

And good news for special attraction fans is that this year there will be no additional charge for grandstand events.

In other words, the gate admission also pays the way into grandstand attractions.

Gate admissions this year are $1.50 for adults and $1.00 for students beyond elementary school age. Children of elementary school age and under will have free admission until 6 p.m. but will be charged 50 cents in the evening.

There will be no less than 11 special entertainment attractions during the fair, including circus acts, an educated dog show, novelty and aerial acts, a rodeo, greyhound racing and the Greenleaf Memorial Stake race on the closing night of the fair.

Special attraction for August 17 will be the Tom Bishop Rodeo, for the 17th and 18th there will be greyhound racing with Paul Riddell's Hell Drivers to perform on the 19th.

On August 19 and 20 Gatford with his internationally known circus acts will be seen in two shows nightly at 7 and 9 o'clock.

Conklin's Midway will have special shows for the fair anniversary.

Officially, the Quinte Exhibition gets under way on Tuesday, August 17, but even before the fair opens the baby show and some of the horse judging will have taken place.

Horse judging will continue throughout the fair, while contrary to the policy in past years, show cattle will remain on the grounds throughout the exhibition.

Belleville area junior farmers will get into the act on opening day with their 4-H calf show scheduled for the evening. On Thursday, Quinte area juniors will participate in their annual agricultural competition.

The Quinte Exhibition has come a long way since the first fair was held back in 1821 by the Hastings Committee of the Midland District Agricultural Society.

Gate receipts that first year were $68 and by 1907 had swelled to $1,860. In 1964 the gate take was $18,000 while last year the fair gate receipts and assets exceeded $100,000.

The first fair midway made its appearance in 1912 and provided a revenue of $777. Last year the fair revenue from the midway was $9,000.

The first recorded baby show at the fair was in 1908 and in 1910 the fair board decided to go all out in grounds decorating with a budget of $10 being allotted.

In his message to fair patrons printed in the anniversary year prize list, fair president John R. Bush notes that back in 1821 emphasis was on cattle and horses.

By the early 1921s emphasis had turned to general agriculture and homemaking needs with this trend continuing until 1939 when it was realized that food production was a scientific undertaking and that food consumers exceeded food producers by 90 per cent.

It was then realized that a new element, "leisure time" people, had to be considered in planning a fair program.

Mr. Bush says that today it is evident that fairs and exhibitions have the same basic role in society but need to be presented in a different fashion.

Aims of the Belleville Agricultural Society are to provide the producer an acceptable opportunity to display his products and reward him for quality production, time and effort through monetary competitions.

Fairs also must provide a situation in which better understanding between rural and urban people can be developed and provide leisure time people with entertainment which is both enjoyable and educational.

Top Girl Motorcyclists in Parade

Six of Canada's top motorcyclist outriders — all girls — will be participating in the Belleville Exhibition Parade next Tuesday. They are members of the Honda Girls motorcycle team, wearing their eyecatching new red and white outfits. The girls, all of whom hold Department of Transport motorcycle licences, have been specially trained to demonstrate safe handling of the Honda Mini-Trail. The team will be appearing in parades and fairs throughout Ontario this summer.

Perception Tests Available at Fair

How keen is your sixth sense?

The Ottawa-based Bartonian set up a special booth at the fair, free of charge, just to let you test your ESP, or extra-sensory perception, or sixth sense as some people call it, because those who have it "know" things that can't be explained by the five physical senses.

The Metaphysical Society says that if you have ever had a vivid dream that you later realized had come true, you have already experienced ESP. If you have done something and had the feeling you had done it before, or been somewhere you seemed to know without having been there before, you have experienced ESP.

The Bartonian Metaphysical Society believes everyone possesses ESP to some degree and can develop this individual potential.

As well as having your ESP tested at the fair, you can pick up free literature on the subject and buy books written by the Metaphysical Society's founder and president, Dr. Winnifred G. Barton.

The Society will hold an open house in Belleville and later will conduct follow-up classes in ESP development.

Joyride Short

A 16-year-old Campbellford youth who is charged with stealing a car Tuesday didn't get any pleasure out of his effort. Before he could remove the vehicle, he collided with a second car.

City police were making a routine response to an accident at 9.05 p.m. Tuesday when the youth was arrested at the rear of the Belvedere Hotel.

Owner of the car, Thomas J. Elliot of 21 Alice Street, Smiths Falls, reported his car had been stolen from a downtown hotel.

Damage to both cars was estimated at $180.

Quinte Exhibition Visitors Will See Many Improvements

And also a relatively costly one.

Just ask any board member of the Quinte Exhibition or more particularly fair manager Everett Gowsell.

For the past several weeks carpenters, painters, plumbers and electrical crews have been hard at work at the Belleville fairgrounds making repairs to exhibition buildings, tidying up the maze of electrical wiring strung about the grounds, building new livestock sheds and repairing old ones.

The work is all in getting ready for the annual Quinte Exhibition this year observing its 150th anniversary.

Visitors to the women's building will see one of the more obvious improvements to exhibition facilities.

Here all the old shelving and other accoutrements have been torn out and replaced with new cubicles and shelving for the various exhibits.

The entire building has been repainted in pastel shades with members of the women's section of the fair board even getting into the act by helping with the painting.

Horticultural and Women's Building at the fairgrounds is getting a complete interior renovation for the 150th anniversary of the Quinte Exhibition next week. Old booths and shelving have been taken out and replaced with new and the entire interior completely redecorated in pastel shades.

Other improvements under way include a rejuvenation of the poultry building where a new concrete floor has been poured and new stands provided for the poultry pens.

At the horse barns the stalls are being repaired, concrete sills have been poured for the entrances and new gravel has been placed for flooring.

Another anniversary year innovation for the fair will be new stalls for the showing of sheep and swine to replace existing facilities in the extreme northwest corner of the grounds.

Exhibition officials finally bowed to the obvious — that very few fair patrons in the past ever bothered to make the long trek to see the swine and sheep exhibits.

Fair manager Everett Gowsell put it accurately when he said "nobody ever went down there."

The new shed area will provide double back-to-back stalls with a viewing and servicing aisle down the centre of the structure.

Under the new setup, fair patrons with a yen for farm animals will be able to see the swine and sheep from two vantage points — inside and outside the sheds.

Also provided this year is new accommodation for the Kiddie-Mini-Land, or in other words, a dressed up version of the always popular Old MacDonald's Farm.

Junior Farmer members from Hastings and Prince Edward are painting the pens and decorating the Kiddie-Mini-Land area and will also be responsible for programming and staffing the attraction during fair week.

Another big improvement is the disappearance of much of the maze of wiring formerly strung around the grounds to service the various buildings being all livestock together in the same general area.

The new shed area will provide double back-to-back stalls with a viewing and servicing aisle down the centre of the structure.

Another big improvement is the disappearance of much of the maze of wiring formerly strung around the grounds to service the various buildings and event areas. Telephone wires have gone underground.

In the infield alone, seven of the old unsightly poles have disappeared along with excess wiring.

More service transformers have been installed and buildings are serviced with individual circuits rather than having several on the same line.

Now lights on the infield baseball area as well as the track lights can be operated at the same time from individual circuits. Previously one or the other but not both could be operated at any one time.

Also, fairboard members have taken action to as far as possible avoid the probability of a complete hydro blackout on the grounds.

This has been done through electrical service being provided from more than one hydro substation.

This means that if for some reason power is interrupted from one substation, at least part of the grounds would still receive power from another source.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Finch, Garry and Roxanne were among those who gathered at the home of Mrs. Emma Bateman near Springbrook, on Tuesday night to celebrate with her, the occasion of her 90th birthday. A potluck supper was enjoyed on the lawn.

Though recently hospitalized, Mrs. Bateman was able to enjoy the evening with her relatives, and even recited a few short poems during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKeown and Kelly spent a few days recently with his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Beghie at North Bay.

Four little granddaughters, Vicki and Marci Lounsbury of Peterborough, Lori Anne Dooher of Campbellford and Nancy Spencer of Rylstone, visited Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Malyn Jones of Rylstone, their son Alfred, and his wife of Peterborough spent the weekend camping at River Bend, near Bancroft and attended the gemboree at Bancroft.

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Sweet and family of Dunnville, are visiting his brother, Leslie, his wife and family and calling on sever former neighbors.

Marilyn Stewart of Toronto, James Jenkins, of Scarborough; and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stewart of Peterborough visited Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stewart on Thursday.

Sheep and Swine Relocated

Quinte Exhibition fair patrons will no longer have to walk a mile in the hot sun to view the sheep and swine exhibits. Here workmen are seen putting the roof on an extension to the open cattle sheds near the bowling green. Move will bring all livestock into the one general area.

Exhibition Prizes Top $50,000

More than $50,000 in cash prizes is up for grabs for exhibitors showing livestock, farm produce, arts and crafts or in other competitions at Quinte Exhibition.

Dates for this year's exhibition — the 150th staged by the fair organization and its predecessors — are August 17 to 21.

Exhibition manager Everett Gorsell said the cost to the fair board last year for prizes, judging and other related expenses totalled approximately $78,000 and the amount would be equalled or exceeded this year.

The Quinte district has always been known for its fine cattle and this is reflected in the healthy prize list for dairy and beef cattle at the fair.

The total cattle prize list this year is $16,320 of which $10,250 is available to dairy showmen, $5,850 for beef breeds and $180 for herdsmen prizes.

Horses are also a big attraction at the Quinte Exhibition and this again is reflected in the prize list which this year totals about $10,000.

In fact, so numerous are the horse entries that there isn't time to do all the judging during the five-day fair period. Owing to the number of entries, judging of some classes this year will get under way before the fair officially opens.

Sheep and swine classes and poultry also take a big bite out of the total fair prize list funds, with the former accounting for $1,800 and the fowl lovers another $1,450.

In this, the fair's 150th anniversary year, there will be a special class for pictorial exhibits depicting the steps in chesemaking from the receipt of milk at the factory to the finished product.

The anniversary year is also being reflected in the school exhibits with special classes for murals or setups of old-time-fairs and for dolls dressed in the costumes of long ago.

The prize list for plants and flowers totals nearly $600; farm crops, about $700; garden and orchard products $336; food and farm products $665.

There are also cash prizes for art, crafts and hobbies; for domestic science and ladies' work.

Stolen Bicycles Recovered

City police report recovery of two stolen bicycles in the past several days, one of which was discovered by luck.

The owner of a bike stolen recently, spotted someone riding the vehicle on a downtown street and called police, who returned the bicycle to the owner.

Charges in both cases are pending.

IN STEP WITH PROGRESS . . .

This year marks the 150th Anniversary of the Quinte Exhibition, and I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the many people who over the year have done so much to make this big 5 day fair one of the finest in the province.

The Quinte area has been one of the few in Ontario that has shown progress over the past few years. Quinte is still on the move, so lets continue to work together for a continuance of the growth of this area and the welfare of its people.

Icelands' Only Industry

Prairie Rapeseed Farmers May Receive Financial Help

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There was a glimmer of hope Wednesday that Saskatchewan rapeseed farmers, fighting to save their valuable crops from hungry Bertha army worms, will receive financial help.

Saskatchewan Agriculture Minister Jack Messer said he will ask the New Democratic Party cabinet to push the federal government for aid.

If Ottawa wanted to relieve the farmers' plight on a cost-sharing basis with the Saskatchewan, the province would be willing to discuss the terms, he said.

Mr. Messer made the announcement after completing a two-day tour of rapeseed fields buzzing with the fat worms which appeared out of nowhere in early August. Some of the worms, which resemble caterpillars, are so bloated that they burst when touched lightly.

However, Premier Allan Blakeney told the legislature just before it prorogued that the government will not decide when to compensate farmers for their losses until thorough assessments have been completed.

Agriculture spokesmen have said the infestation, which stretches from east-central Alberta to west-central Manitoba, can be compared with the great grasshopper plagues of the 1930s.

An estimated 1,260,000 acres, one million in Saskatchewan, 250,000 in Alberta and 10,000 in Manitoba, are affected. The Saskatchewan agriculture department said some fields would be totally lost, while the majority would receive 10 to 20 per cent damage.

Rapeseed, used in cooking oils and margarine, is valued at $30 an acre. There are 2.5 million acres seeded in Saskatchewan and rapeseed is considered Alberta's most valuable crop.

As more Lannate, a new chemical from Houston, Tex., was being flown into the west to kill the worms, there was mounting concern over its side effects.

At least 13 persons have been treated in Saskatchewan for Lannate poisoning and another six in Alberta. Officials were warning farmers to wear protective clothing and masks when mixing the highly-toxic chemical.

Lannate was rushed in when it was discovered that other chemicals were not effective on the worms. DDT does the job but has been banned by the federal government because of its effects on the ecology.

There have been reports on birds and pigs dying in areas sprayed with the chemical.

Lannate is considered more toxic than DDT but has a life-span of about 14 days. DDT residue lasts for years.

Saskatchewan has enough chemical to spray 500,000 acres, half of the infested crops, while Alberta now has sprayed 30,000 acres.

There were 18 spray planes flying in Alberta Wednesday and about 70 in Saskatchewan, many of them brought in from the United States.

PICKETS SHOW

TORONTO (CP) — A minister led a 45-minute demonstration in front of a downtown strip show and movie house, and the manager of the strip show offered to make a donation to persuade him to continue. "It's good for my business," said Ralph Parcels of Le Strip. "When they stop in front of our place they bring the crowds."

Youth Opportunity Study Proposed 'To Ensure Idea of Program Endures'

OTTAWA (CP) — David MacDonald (PC Egmont) has called for the formation of a Commons committee on youth to discuss the future of the Opportunities for Youth Program.

In a letter to State Secretary Gerard Pelletier, Mr. MacDonald says that despite "inequity of criteria and poor management," the idea of the Opportunities for Youth program is a good one.

"I think it is important that every possible precaution be taken now to ensure that the idea of the program endures beyond this season."

Canoe Pageant Nears Finish

SIDNEY, B.C. (CP) — The British Columbia centennial '71 canoe pageant was to reach its destination in Victoria's inner harbor today with Manitoba still holding an edge in points with one race remaining.

About 1,500 residents of this southern Vancouver Island community turned out Wednesday night to watch the arrival of the 12 canoes with their six-man crews after a 20-mile paddle from Croton.

Manitoba paced the other canoes over most of the 1¼-mile course but New Brunswick put on a spurt over the last 150 yards for the victory.

Manitoba held the lead in over-all points with 135, followed closely by Quebec and New Brunswick, each with 132. B.C. had 121, Ontario 117; Northwest Territories 105; Saskatchewan 90; Yukon 88; Alberta 62; Nova Scotia 35½; Newfoundland 35½; Prince Edward Island 35.

The voyageurs were to be welcomed by civic and provincial dignitaries upon their arrival at Victoria. Following the official reception the canoeists were to hold their last sprint race to determine the pageant winner.

Labor Is Studying Jobless Insurance

TORONTO (CP) — Jean Beaudry, executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress says the organization is surveying inconsistencies in application of the Unemployment Insurance Act in the case of labor disputes.

He said the survey will be presented to the advisory committee under the act when it meets Oct. 1.

The section of the act relating to labor disputes disqualified persons from unemployment insurance benefits if they participate in, finance or are indirectly involved in a dispute leading to a work stoppage.

Laid off workers have been cut off from unemployment insurance benefits as soon as strike benefits were paid strikers.

Mr. Beaudry says the Canadian Labor Congress and affiliated unions feel denial of the benefits is contrary to the act.

Stanfield Planning To Talk to Bourassa

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield will meet with Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa "probably near the end of August" to discuss various matters, including the reason for Quebec's rejection of the Victoria charter, a spokesman said Wednesday.

"No dates have been set," Mr. Stanfield's spokesman said, "but both are interested in the meeting."

Mr. Stanfield said earlier this year that he would be interested in meeting with the Quebec premier to find out his views on the constitution and other matters.

Mr. Bourassa rejected the Victoria charter—a package of constitutional changes worked out at Victoria in June by the provincial premiers and Prime Minister Trudeau—mainly because it did not meet Quebec's demand for additional legislative powers.

Quebec Egg Board Likely to Survive Protests

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's egg marketing board, Fedco, has survived the recent "chicken-and-egg war" and officials here believe it will also survive current attacks from a small but vocal minority of egg producers.

Fedco was established in May, 1970, to maintain the financial position of Quebec egg farmers faced with large imports from other provinces.

Its creation marked the beginning of a series of interprovincial trade barriers on poultry products across Canada and attempts by the provinces to protect their own small and medium-sized producers.

Gilles Yergeau, Fedco director-general, said in an interview Wednesday that Canada is still "facing one of the biggest crises in eggs ever" and many Quebec egg farmers are not breaking even.

"The situation is simple. Canadians produce about 6.45 million dozen eggs a week. We consume only 5.85 million dozen."

Agriculture ministers from all the provinces met in Edmonton in July and agreed to the principle of a national farm products marketing board on a provincial base.

The ministers agreed to create a federal-provincial co-ordinating committee to regulate egg marketing with the federal government acting as a policing agent.

Under the British North America Act, the federal government has responsibility for interprovincial trade.

In June, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled that a proposed Manitoba body, chartered along the lines of Fedco's original constitution, was illegal because it would interfere with the free flow of trade between provinces.

Manitoba and Ontario are the only provinces without egg marketing boards.

Fedco, however, has never been challenged before the Supreme Court of Canada and Fedco officials say all Canadians can sell eggs in Quebec as long as they do so through the board.

A Quebec agriculture department lawyer compared the planned co-ordination of provincial egg marketing agencies with the situation existing now in the movement of alcohol between provinces.

He said a distillery in Ontario can market its product in Quebec by going through the Quebec Liquor Control Board to an authorized sales outlet.

Fedco acts as the intermediary between farmer and marketplace and is the sole medium through which eggs can be sold in Quebec.

It has restricted imported eggs to 45 per cent of the Quebec market and imposed strict quotas on Quebec's own egg producers.

The average Quebec egg producer has 5,000 hens and his capital equipment costs a minimum of $35,000. To break even he needs a price of 35 cents a dozen on grade A large eggs.

A price committee with seven members—three Fedco representatives, three representatives of the trade in general and a government representative—sets weekly egg prices.

Fedco reduced the nearly 400 egg grading stations in Quebec to 13 and agreed to pay producers within two weeks of delivery to the grading station.

Current opposition to the marketing agency comes from the Quebec Progressive Egg Producers Federation, whose 75 to 150 members account for about eight per cent of Quebec's nearly 2,000 egg farmers.

The group, however, produces nearly 20 per cent of Quebec eggs and is noted for its colorful anti-Fedco demonstrations.

In June, federation members killed 26 chickens and broke about 150 dozen eggs in front of the Quebec legislature, Monday they distributed about 7,800 dozen eggs free to low-income citizen's groups in Montreal.

Fedco admits it is slow in payments to farmers but says the problem stems from a lack of co-operation by some distributors and large dealers.

Another major problem was the current black market in eggs as retail outlets continue to deal with out-of-province and Quebec producers who do not go through Fedco.

To combat the black market, Quebec agriculture department inspectors have seized thousands of contraband eggs throughout the province.

Mr. Yergeau says these seizures are hurting the "egg-leggers" and is optimistic that the situation will soon be under control.

Thirsty Plants

A research scientist at the University of Lancaster in England paints hormones, in very dilute solution, on to a coffee plant leaf, during research to help crop plants to moderate their thirst. When rains fall, plants lose their vital water content through the stomata, the minute leaf pores, and scientists have developed a new technique to closing these pores and enabling plants under drought conditions to survive an extra week or so. Offer Refund

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario brewing industry will begin refunding a 15-cent deposit on empty beer cans in August as part of a $250,000 anti-litter program, the liquor control board has announced. At the same time the price of canned beer will be lowered to $2.90 from $3.03. With the refundable deposit of 15 cents, the total cost will be $3.05 for a dozen.

No Bomb Found In Legislature Search

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial police conducted a 1½-hour search of the Ontario legislature chamber Wednesday afternoon after a telephone caller warned a bomb had been placed there. Police said a man called the device. Queen's Park switchboard operator at 1:30 p.m. to tell her about the bomb. The all-clear was given at 3 p.m. when the search uncovered no explosive

No Room for Listing Ingredients

Candy Bars May Get Too Small for Wrapper

TORONTO (CP) — The gradually-shrinking 10-cent candy bar may soon be too small for its wrapper.

Manufacturers say there's not enough room on the labels for listing all the ingredients as required under proposed federal packaging and labelling regulations.

The five-cent bar diminished in size until it almost disappeared in Canada, then was replaced by the 10-cent bar.

As chief executive of Toronto-based Rowntree Co., Ltd., Mr. Brown says that "a 10-cent bar is good PR."

Confectioners recently have been able to keep prices of wrapped products fairly stable by reducing their unit weight to offset rising costs.

However, Mr. Brown predicts that the 15-cent bar will become the next standard. He has no timetable but believes it is inevitable.

Manufacturers say that detailed technical listing of main and secondary ingredients in both English and French would make many smaller candy wrappers illegible.

Spelling out secondary ingredients under the group name "shortening" would require 22 words in English alone.

The confectionery industry is fighting for exemptions of such listing on labels with less than 10 square inches of exposed surface area.

Mr. Brown said the industry is also opposed to fixed weights for candy bars which would force price adjustments in order to maintain a given weight.

For example, a two-ounce bar, usually selling for 20 cents, might switch to nine or 11 cents depending on price changes in raw materials.

The public does not like to pay such odd prices for convenience items, says Mr. Brown. Results were "disastrous" when some five-cent bars went to six cents.

Sneeze Proof

Since biblical times, inspectors have thrust their noses into grain samples to determine value in part by the presence of sour or musty odors that signal poor conditions but they inhale occasional kernels, harmful dust and sinus irritants. Here Edward Wisolsky, chief grain inspector for Cargill Inc., at Chicago demonstrates a sniffer he devised that keeps the nose five inches away from the grain, avoids dust and protects from surrounding non-grain odors. Price Boost Delayed

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp., the second largest U.S. producers, confirmed Wednesday that it had set back by two months the effective date of an eight per cent price increase for cold rolled sheets.

The increase had been announced Aug. 2, less than 24 hours after agreement on a new three year contract with the United Steelworkers of America. It was to have gone into effect Dec. 1.

Ottawa Fields Entice

If Only He Could Go to Pot

OTTAWA (CP) — "If they'd let me in I'd never leave," said the long-haired youth, wistfully watching Ottawa's finest field of marijuana blow in the breeze.

But, he said, the chances are slight that he'll ever get the chance.

The plot of government-grown "weed" is surrounded by a high fence topped with two strands of barbed wire and carefully watched by an RCMP officer with binoculars. It's grown on about an acre of the Central Experimental Farm in the southwestern part of Ottawa.

At night, when traffic is prohibited down Ash Lane — the road bordering the plot—a high-powered light is turned on and, the youth and three friends leaning on the fence said, guard dogs patrol the area.

The marijuana plot, surrounded by two rows of corn, is being grown for research purposes, primarily for the federal food and drug directorate, an agriculture department spokesman said.

Attempts are being made to develop a strain with a predictable amount of THC, or tetrahydrocannabinol, thought to be the active ingredient in the drug.

The directorate said last year a crop with standard levels of THC should be harvestable this summer. But no official sources are predicting when the harvest will be.

The four youths said the field was a popular spot for young people. Most come simply to "speculate on the possibilities," they said.

"I can't figure out whether they wanted to hide it with the corn or what," one said. "But if I could get in there, I could make a pipe from the cobs and never have to leave."

ON YOUR
150th ANNIVERSARY

There must have been a lot of intellectual people contribute a great deal over the last 150 years to make the Quinte Exhibition the success it is today. It would seem there should be some time set aside, during the Exhibition, to commemorate those who are no longer with us, and recognize those who have, and are still doing a tremendous job in putting together this annual event. (How about that, Fair Board?)

For several years we have had the pleasure of having twenty or more Ford cars displayed during the Exhibition. The addition of the Ben Bleeker Auditorium took over this area. Although we do not have a display this year, we do heartily endorse the Exhibition.

"NOW what did I do?"

OWRC Studies Kawartha-Quinte Water System

TORONTO (CP) — The Kawartha water system between Balsam Lake and the Bay of Quinte is under study by the Ontario Water Resources Commission to determine sources of pollution, fish populations, water quality and the effects of excessive growth of aquatic plants.

While the OWRC monitors the water system, data will be collected on how the water and the nearby land is used.

Katchiwano and Chemong Lakes have been selected for a study on what happens to water quality and fish life when plants are removed.

"It is possible that large areas of aquatic plants may be removed without damaging fish production," a government statement said Wednesday.

"A specific pattern of cutting may either enhance or restrict the fishery. However, before a weed-removal program can begin, scientists must first find a basis for comparison by establishing the present status of fish populations, food organisms, angling success and the quality of the aquatic environment in both weedy and adjacent clearing areas."

In recent years agricultural runoff, cottage wastes and urbanization in the area near Peterborough have been intensifying the production of algae and aquatic plants to the point where swimming, water-skiing and boating are affected.

The statement said the scientific studies are aimed at developing a water- and fish-management plan for the Kawarthas.

The studies are a joint venture with the lands and forests department and some universities.

ELECTION ANNOUNCED

MBABANE, Swaziland (AP) — King Sobhuza II has announced that Swaziland will have elections in 1972, the first since the landlocked African nation won independence from Britain in September, 1968.

McKeough Explains Planning

TORONTO (CP) — A status report on the Toronto—Centred Region plan will be made Aug. 17, Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Wednesday.

Mr. McKeough spoke in an interview as he began a tour of the province's 10 economic regions, designed to explain government policy on regional development. The tour ends Aug. 27.

The Toronto-Central plan would limit areas of growth in some parts of the province and encourage it in others. It was announced more than a year ago by John Robarts, then premier.

The status report will be the second planning stage, Mr. McKeough said the implementation stage will be announced in a year, or perhaps sooner.

Ottawa Finances Research

OTTAWA (CP) — A privately-run research institute, funded initially by the federal government, will be established to assess public policies, Prime Minister Trudeau said Wednesday.

The prime minister told a news conference that Ronald Ritchie, a vice-president of Imperial Oil Ltd., has been asked to organize the institute.

Mr. Ritchie, who submitted a report to the government recommending the institute, is to find four other men to help him incorporate the research body.

The institute is to receive an initial grant of $950,000 from the federal government. The government will provide up to $10 million over a period of seven years, matching private contributions dollar for dollar.

Speaking at a news conference later, Mr. Ritchie said the institute will not be tied to any government, federal or provincial. It will be a private, non-profit corporation.

It will be free to choose its own projects he added.

He said the institute would not make specific policy recommendations to government. It would increase understanding of Canadian economic, social and political issues.

Schools Serving New Uses

TWEED (Special) — Some old one - and two - room schools, where our parents and grandparents used to sit to in the good old days have already been scrapped as educational institutions. However, today they are performing a wide variety of uses after being sold by various boards of education.

Since the formation of the Lennox and Addington County Board of Education two years ago, the board has sold six schools in the county. The board's property and accommodation committee is negotiating for the sale of a seventh and the eighth schoolhouse is being re-tendered for.

The schools are being transformed into apartments buildings, private homes, potters' studios and local union halls.

Since the doors of the two-room Moscow Public School were closed by the board, it was purchased by J. J. Evans of Moscow, who turned it into an apartment building.

The Bayview Public School, near Millhaven was purchased by a local at Millhaven Fibres and transformed into a union hall.

Dianne and Kenneth Cumberland have renovated their two-room Wilton school house into a combination home and potters' studio called "Cumberland Pottery".

At the board of education meeting recently, trustees voted to accept the tender of $5,000 for the two - room Northbrook (on Highway 41) Public School. It was purchased by the Northbrook businessmen's association to be used as a community centre and medical unit.

The five acres of land that went with the deal will be used for a sports complex in the future.

The two - room school at Adolphustown was sold to Phillip Johnston who rejuvenated it to make a comfortable home. The Albert Public School, just south of Odessa was also reconstructed into a home by Henry Rasmussen.

Tenders were called by the board for the sale of the one-room Flinton School (just west of Highway 41), earlier this month. However, no tenders were received and the board voted to advertise again.

Sale of the Kaladar (Junction of Highways 41 and 7) Public School, to the Kaladar Community Club is under negotiation with the property and accommodation committee.

The club intends to make a recreation and community area, using the school and existing property.

Bulgaria, centred around Sophia, the capital, and Plovdiv, the second-largest city, offers a new tourist area for Canadians. It has a bit of everything — seas, mountain peaks, lakes, forests, rivers and sunshine. At top is an 1847 house in Plovdiv that is now the Ethnographic Museum. Hissar, 26 miles north, has fourth-century walls of the old Roman town still standing. (CP Photo)

Sydney J. Harris Says

Groups Judged by Worts Members

We tend to judge every group by its least worthy members: of the 12 disciples, by far the best known is Judas.

• • •

What we call "reality" is just the common fiction that most of us have agreed to accept: a reality of consensus, not of conception.

• • •

The word "rare" has almost entirely lost its original meaning of "fine" or "marvelous", in our time, and now means only "coming infrequently" or "unusual" (Lowell's famous line, "What is so rare as a day in June?" is invariably misinterpreted as meaning "uncommon".)

• • •

A democracy that does not generate an elite will perish of its own mediocrity; while an elite society that does not broaden the democratic base will suffocate in its own intellectual stagnation.

• • •

One of the most prescient paragraphs in Gibran's "The Prophet" (published in 1923) is worth pondering in this lawless era: "As a single leaf turns not yellow but with the silent knowledge of the whole tree, so the wrong-doer cannot do wrong without the hidden will of you all."

• • •

Youth doesn't need "ideals" it needs a hitching-post to hang them on, that only the older generation can provide.

• • •

To be bored by others may be merely the sign of a restless mind; to be bored by oneself is surely the sign of an undeveloped mind.

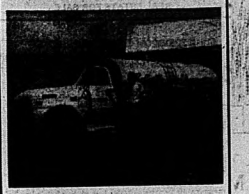
One supposes that the National Association of Manufacturers might condemn as a "communist" the speaker of these words: "People of the same trade seldom meet together, even for merriment and diversion, but the conversation ends in a conspiracy against the public, or in some contrivance to raise prices"— but the statement is Adam Smith's in his "Wealth of Nations", the bible of capitalism.

• • •

Speaking of prices, I don't think the public minds so much being cheated in cost as not getting value in the goods — after all, we can decide how much we want to pay for something, but it is difficult to know if even minimal value is built into the products at any price.

• • •

The most intense fear is negative, not positive; we fear not so much being repulsed from what we desire, but losing what we have attained. (Thus, the reason radicals overthrow conservatives, and not the other way around, is that the radicals can afford to be much bolder, having litt'e or nothing to lose.)



• • •

Most flattery is self-flattery — we compliment people on those qualities that make us feel as intelligent and gracious as themselves.

Tweed

TWEED — The annual supper in aid of the Holy Trinity Church was held in Plevna and was well patronized. A large number from Ardoch attended.

Mrs. Charlie Rosenblath of Denbigh, is still a patient in the Napanee Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Weber visited Mr. and Mrs. George Von-Dulfell who have recently arrived from Virginia to spend a month at their cottage in Ardoch.

Mr. Arthur Rahm is a patient in the Renfrew Hospital; and Mrs. Clara Sallans is in Belleville General Hospital, both are residents of Denbigh.

Mrs. Jane Adams of Thomasburg, is visiting with relatives in Brazil.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bosley of Elliott Lake, and family, visited last week with their parents, Mrs. Amelia Bosley and Mr. and Mrs. Morley Green, in Tweed.

Mrs. John Campbell of Timmins, Ontario, is again a patient in the Kingston Hospital. Her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Peterson of Henderson, spent the past weekend in Kingston to be with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, Hamilton, Bermuda, are spending their holidays in their cottage on what is known as Gilbert Island, in the Ompah area.

The Anglican Church Women put on a dinner recently in Char-Mill hall, at Plevna. There was a large attendance and tickets were sold on a tulip quilt, which was won by Mrs. Taylor of Otawa.

Major Ethel Moore, (well-known in Tweed and district) of the Salvation Army in Niagara Falls, was a recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall, Tweed.

Mr. Robert Marshall, of Tweed has recently received a letter from his sister, Mrs. Harry (Ina) Pridham of Alberton. Prince Edward Island passed away July 27.

Two Toronto MPs Are Added to Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau bolstered Toronto's representation in the cabinet Wednesday by bringing in two new members from that city and shifting a third to a new portfolio.

Joining Mr. O'Connell as a new member of cabinet is Alastair Gillespie, 49, from Toronto-Etobicoke, who becomes minister of state for science and technology.

Mr. Trudeau told a press conference following a morning cabinet meeting that he had considered a major shuffle but he had rejected the idea "at this time." Present ministers "are pretty well cast," he said.

Mr. Stanbury, 41, succeeds Eric Kierans who resigned as communications minister on April 29 because of policy disagreements with the government. Since then State Secretary Gerard Pelletier has been responsible for the department.

The prime minister has been under pressure for some time to increase Toronto's representation in Canada. While there are six cabinet members, including Mr. Trudeau, from the Montreal area, Toronto has been represented by three—Mr. Stanbury, Defence Minister Donald S. Macdonald and External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

By increasing Toronto's representation to five, the number of Ontario cabinet members goes up to 12, compared with nine from Quebec.

The cabinet now totals 30 members.

Mr. Stanbury was appointed to the cabinet, as minister without portfolio in October, 1969, and he was given special responsibilities in assisting Mr. Pelletier. Apart from citizenship, he has been responsible for Information Canada from its inception.

Mr. O'Connell, an investment dealer and former lecturer in political science, will assume the same responsibilities held by Mr. Stanbury.

CN Is Assailed

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democrat John Skoberg (Moose Jaw) has blasted the Canadian National Railways for what he calls its "fascist-like approach" to labor-management relations.

Mr. Skoberg, a former railway engineer, said he was shocked by news reports that CN is using tape recordings of employees' telephone conversations for disciplinary purposes.

His comments were in a letter sent Tuesday to N. J. MacMillan, CN's president.

He said training was necessary in teaching employees how to deal with the public. But using recordings of their conversations was "carrying the big club after the problem has been created."

STEPS TOWARD TOP MANAGEMENT

Because the C.G.A. course is broad it help develop your employees into top management people. That is why we give courses in Taxation and Controllership. Not only do such courses broaden their knowledge, they equip employees for more varied careers.

They are ready and able to switch from one specialty to another as your work load demands, and as their career development road opens up.

If you would like to know more about the career plan of the C.G.A., write direct to the Certified General Accountants Association, 25 Adelaide Street East, Toronto 210, Ontario, or call (416) 366-6501.

For over 60 years C.G.A. has meant financial management.

Economist Heads Science Portfolio

TORONTO (CP) — The man charged with formulating government policy in the fields of science and technology under a new federal ministry is best known as a businessman and economist.

"I'm not an expert scientist—not at all," admitted Alastair Gillespie in an interview from his suburban Etobicoke home Wednesday.

But the 49-year-old father of two, named minister of state for science and technology Wednesday, doesn't see that as a disadvantage.

He says he's a willing learner and thinks being a relative "layman" might even work to his advantage. With a small staff of capable advisers, he feels he'll be able to take a detached view of both practical and science problems.

"There are general questions to be answered such as: Are we investing enough in research and development, are we investing it in the right places and what sort of value have we got for what we invested," he said while stating that his prime objective will be to set policy in the science area.

Mr. Gillespie regards his position as unique, not only because he's taking over a new cabinet post but also because he will be "less public" than many cabinet colleagues.

He said Prime Minister Trudeau outlined the job to him Tuesday and Mr. Gillespie decided then to accept the post. He plans to start work today.

Since his appointment as parliamentary secretary to the president of the treasury board in October, 1970, he has been studying the federal government's scientific fronts, especially the policy advisory agencies such as the National Research Council and the Science Council of Canada.

Mr. Gillespie will be expected to bring order out of the chaos of science policy described by the Senate science policy committee in a report last year.

The report said it was hard to see how effective policy could result from the research and science councils when the cabinet's own policy-making machinery was so inadequate.

In the throne speech opening Parliament on Oct. 8, 1970, the government promised a program to "gather and focus" divergent and competitive scientific resources of the country.

A former Navy man, Mr. Gillespie was first elected Liberal member for Etobicoke in 1968. He attended the University of British Columbia, McGill University and the University of Toronto and was a Rhodes Scholar, specializing in economics.

Born in Victoria, he was married to Diana Christie Clark of Toronto in 1947. They have two children, Cynthia, 21, and Ian, 19. He served as president or director of a number of Canadian companies and last year resigned as a director of W. J. Gage Ltd. in protest of the publishing firm's impending sale of its textbook division to United States interests.

He said 70 per cent of textbooks used by Canadian students before the sale were published by U.S. firms and with the sale, the percentage would jump to 90 per cent.

Facts prove it ski-doo 72 Better overall

We want you to look at Ski-Doo early this year for a very good reason. We want people who really know their snowmobiles to get a good long look at Ski-Doo '72 before snow comes.

You see, the longer you look at Ski-Doo '72, the more good reasons you find for buying it. Good reasons like the Rotax engine that's designed specifically for winter, so it starts even at 40 below. Keeps on going thanks to a heat-dissipating aluminum alloy block, aluminium pistons and special cooling fins. Keeps going strong thanks to a balanced governor, clutch and drive assembly that give you the right torque at any speed. Then there's steering. Efficient steering that carves tight turns. Ball joint steering for less play. Choice of bogies or track-flattening slide suspension and a super-tough cab.

These are just a few of the many, many reasons why Ski-Doo '72 has more going for you. And this is the season when your Ski-Doo dealer has plenty of time to give you all the cold hard facts. The season when the pros choose their snowmobiles.

See them now!

Medical Detective Must Have Clues

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I recall one of your columns in which you wrote that M. D. might stand for "medical detective" as well as medical doctor. Here's a case I hope you can crack.

For 18 to 20 years my husband has had a wracking cough. He has taken all kinds of cough medicines, enough to fill barrels. He quit cigarettes a year ago.

Our doctor says he has a bronchitis. But he hasn't even taken a chest X-ray. Says it was all aggravated by his smoking, and that it will take time. Isn't there anything else to do? — Mrs. F.

COMMENT: Even a medical detective needs more clues than you have provided. For example, I'd like to know your husband's age. Is his sputum blood - tinged? Does he have chest pains? Has he lost weight and strength? Has his sputum ever been examined? I could go on and on.

Americans spend over two billion dollars a year on self-prescribed medications. Much of this is contribution to cough remedies. One estimate is that there are at least 600 kinds of cough medicines bought without a prescription over the counter.

Your husband's cough may be serious. It may not be, Mrs. F. Nevertheless, it's wise not to minimize its importance - even though he has had it for almost 20 years (and is still alive).

I think you will agree it's about time your doctor asked for consultation with a chest specialist. Diagnosis is what's important. It is certainly time for an X ray - at least. Special breathing tests will measure the "maximum breathing capacity" of the lungs. Will he need a bronchoscopic examination (lighted tube examination of the airways)? Is he allergic? Is his heart all right? Sometimes cough is one of the indications of a failing heart muscle. Or, is it "nervous cough" - something for which we can't find the reason.

I think it is evident, Mrs. F., that I have disappointed you as a medical detective in your husband's case. This time call me a traffic director - pointing the way to a complete physical inventory to get right down to the reason why his cough hangs on so long.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Can pruritis ani be regarded as a form of colitis? — Mr. L.

COMMENT: Colitis is an inflammation or dysfunction in the colon - or large bowel. Pruritis is not a part of it. It is simply a high class designation for itching around the rectum. If it has been persistent I suggest you see a proctologist (rectal specialist) about it. Causes vary. For example, it may be due to a systemic disease like diabetes. Locally, the reason may be worms, hemorrhoids or rectal fissure. In some patients, stubborn itching is present without any apparent reason. As you can see, treatment will depend upon the the known cause.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am 34 and single. Last month I was involved in an affair. Last month my period was past due one week. This has happened several times. Once, on the death of my grandmother. Then, my grandfather died 10 years later. I am now overweight 10 pounds and am beginning to be concerned that I may be pregnant. What shall I do? - Miss S.

COMMENT: Guessing and worrying will not make it easier. Only your doctor can give you the answer at this early stage. Why not see him?

Tweed

TWEED — Paul Woodley of Belleville will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Ray and family of Roslin from August 4 to 11, as a part of the present Urban - Rural Exchange program set up by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food.

The program is designed to give young people an opportunity to see first hand how modern Ontario farms are operated, as well as sample life in rural communities.

Mrs. Clara Sallans, of Denbigh, who has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Bert Stein, Denbigh for the past six months, is reported in an unchanged condition in the Belleville General Hospital, where she was taken on July 5, apparently suffering from a stroke. She is still unconscious according to relatives.

Miss Cheryl Petzold, of Denbigh, left on July 22, and returned August 2, where she spent that time in Chilliwack British Columbia. Cheryl is a student at North Addington Education Centre, at Cloyne, (on Highway 41) and she was selected to represent the North Addington School in Cloyne in the Young Voyager Program sponsored by the Ontario Department of Education.

For August 13

Your birthday today: Trial and error rule the current phase in your life. Nothing settles into easy routines or habits, so you must keep yourself in top condition, pace your efforts steadily so you can keep at least the essential wheels turning. Today's natives either abstain needlessly or overindulge themselves — no moderate course is easy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Salvage what you can of past ventures. An unlikely combination is apt to be a winner. Get expert advice.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): It's great to feel unhindered, particularly when you have a good chance of some exclusive benefit. Pause and reflect.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Being systematic is essential. With so many details and so much to do you must assign priorities — the most important first.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Being in the right place at the right time comes naturally where you've had a normal response to recent pressures. Revision of your program follows.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Everything you do now takes on a dramatic tone. Make the most of it. Select your strongest questions, pose them to people who can take action concerning them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Your ideas run at cross-currents with a whole range of theory based on other sorts of experience. Whatever you work out from the encounter is precious, critical knowhow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Co-operation is available to the extent you ask for it and offer gracious courtesy, particularly to older associates.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Keep good running notes as you may encounter distraction from strong feelings. Hurrying produces no better result today than yesterday.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Having got onto unfamiliar ground, its normal to ask and receive technical advice and help. Although you may not feel like asking, go ahead, ask anyway.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Any urgency or pressure you put into your remarks promises to defeat serious efforts. Stick with the exact story as you know it.

Irish Factions Care for Their Own Homeless

"Nerve medicine, the wife and I have been taking it for months to avoid the jitters."

Michael and Ann Heggen are among about 300 Protestant families whose homes have been flattened in the bitter sectarian battle raging in Ulster.

Fires and explosions have sent men, women and children fleeing defenceless from their houses, often under a hail of gunfire exchanged between snipers, police and British troops.

The Heggen's lived in the Ardoyne district of Belfast now razed in the fierce fighting inspired by years of violence and hatred between Protestants and Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland.

Homeless Protestants are being cared for by friends and relatives. Many are living in sparse accommodation offered in the Glencairn Housing Estate being constructed on a hill overlooking ravaged Ardoyne.

Members of both religions share the hopelessness and despair of having watched virtually everything they owned destroyed in a rampage of destruction.

Some Protestants say they burned their own houses to prevent them falling into the hands of Catholics or members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Freda McGlide talked Wednesday night of her horror at seeing fire destroy the house where her three children had been born and where she and her disabled husband had lived for the last 21 years.

Like others among the fear-scarred homeless, the McGlide's may receive substantial government compensation for their loss of property. But this is still far from certain.

Having watched a nearby neighbor in the Ardoyne shot and killed by a sniper as she tried to remove furniture from her house, Mrs. Livingstone lives in a state of dazed shock, served three meals a day by the Glencairn Ladies' Aid Association.

The homeless in Glencairn gather in a still-unfinished community hall for evening dinner. Laughter sometimes echoes through the building but it has a tone of nervous hollowness rather than mirth.

The working-class residents of Glencairn are typical of Protestant families throughout Ulster who have volunteered their homes and assistance to co-religionists harmed in the struggle.

Such displays of loyal generosity—among Catholics as well —are among the few heartening developments in strife-torn Ulster, ripped open again by sectarian inhumanity.

Bourassa Promotes Quebec in California

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa said Wednesday his talks with San Francisco businessmen earlier this week were successful in convincing some of them to send representatives to Quebec to study investment opportunities in the province.

"The reception I received there was very favorable," Mr. Bourassa told reporters. "I initiated with the president of the Bank of America and with the presidents of other multinational companies ..... discussions which should continue between high officials."

Representatives of some potential investors would start arriving in Quebec in a few weeks for discussions with provincial officials.

"I mainly tried to point out the considerable advantages of investing in Quebec, particularly in the development of the James Bay region," the premier said.

The James Bay project to which Mr. Bourassa referred is a $6-billion hydroelectric development on the shores of James Bay in northwestern Quebec.

Second Town Escapes Flames

VANCOUVER (CP) — Enormous tracts of British Columbia timberland are aflame today in a mounting forest fire crisis, but the siege was lifted on two fire menaced communities hundreds of miles apart.

The potential disaster points had been Lillooet, a Fraser Canyon community of 1,800 and, to a lesser degree, the 13,000-population city of Cranbrook near the Alberta border.

On Wednesday night at Lillooet, 120 miles northeast of Vancouver, an Indian church and 12 homes were destroyed when fire roared into the west end of the village.

Thursday, fire erupted suddenly in a timbered area northwest of Cranbrook and caused short-lived concern. Driven by brisk winds, it swept over 40 acres before it was brought under control.

No homes were damaged, although it penetrated within one-half mile of the city limits.

But while there was an easing of tension at the two populated pressure-points, the over-all picture was bleak with more than 3,200 men on the fire lines.

As of Thursday, some 530 fires were burning-scores of them out of control.

W. C. Cy Phillips, chief of the protection division of the B.C. Forest Service, said many fires in the interior had jumped their guards and firefighters had to start all over again.

Slight progress was reported in the battle against the biggest fire—the 350,000-acre 'Tee' blaze which had been sweeping through muskeg and scrub timber in northeastern B.C. for the last two weeks. It was cooled Thursday by light rain.

Meanwhile, forest ranger, Superintendent Jack Cawston said at Lillooet that carelessness was the probable cause of the fire which threatened to wipe the village off the map.

"While no conclusive evidence was found," he said, "it is most probable that the fire was caused from a dropped match or cigarette butt of a careless smoker."

The fire by Thursday night had burned out more than 600 acres of Mission Ridge forest on the west side of the village and still raged near the 5,500-foot peak of Mount McLean despite round-the-clock efforts by firefighting crews and water bombers.

Trudeau Names Five Deputies

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau today announced the appointment of five new deputy ministers, while appointing an existing deputy minister, J. H. Warren, Canadian high commissioner in London.

Mr. Warren, 56, a native of Chatham, Ont., and now deputy minister of industry, trade and commerce, will replace Charles Ritchie, who is retiring.

Mr. Ritchie, born in Halifax and 65 next month, has been high commissioner here since 1967. He now is on holiday in Nova Scotia.

Mr. Warren, 50, known as Jake, has been deputy minister since 1964. He has had considerable experience in international affairs including attendance at meetings of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade on Canada's behalf.

Mr. Warren will be replaced by J. F. Grandy, who has been deputy minister of consumer and corporate affairs since that department's inception in 1967. Mr. Grandy, 52, had previously served in the external affairs department and for a time was an assistant deputy minister of finance.

A new deputy minister of consumer and corporate affairs will be announced later, the prime minister said in a statement.

Sylvain Cloutier, new deputy minister of national revenue, becomes deputy minister of national defence, while R. B. Armstrong moves from the defence deputy ministership to replace Mr. Cloutier.

J. Douglas Love, now deputy minister of labor, is moved to the same position in the department of regional economic expansion. He replaces Tom Kent, who was recently appointed to the Cape Breton Development Corporation.

Bernard Wilson, now an assistant deputy minister of labor, moves up to replace Mr. Love.

Mr. Warren will succeed Mr. Ritchie Oct. 1, when Mr. Grandy will also move into the trade and foreign department. The other appointments are effective Sept. 1.

Britain Offers Malta Millions

LONDON (AP) — Britain offered Malta a five-year deal worth $31.2 million today for continued use of the Mediterranean island as a NATO military base.

The British foreign office said in a statement that an offer has been made to counter Prime Minister Dom Mintoff's demand for $72 million a year.

Sources said the offer called for annual payment of $12 million plus $8.4 million in development aid.

Mintoff brought on the crisis by ejecting the NATO naval commander, Admiral Giro Birindelli, from Malta late in June shortly after his Socialist party gained power.

He followed by scrapping the British defence agreement.

Clash on Syrian Border Is Blamed on Guerrillas

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jordan said today that the border clash that led Syria to break relations was caused by Syria's failure to keep a tight rein on the Palestinian guerrillas.

A government spokesman, broadcasting over Amman Radio, said the fighting between Jordanian and Syrian forces Thursday was "regrettable but resulted from mounting and increased guerrilla attacks across the border this week."

Syria closed its border with Jordan last month to protest King Hussein's successful crackdown on the guerrillas. On Thursday it became the third Arab country to sever relations with Jordan, Libya and Algeria did so earlier this year, and on July 19 Iraq closed its border with Jordan and barred all flights to and from Jordan over Iraqi air space.

The Jordan spokesman said his government proposed that a joint committee be formed to investigate the border incidents but Syria vetoed the plan.

Syria's official Radio Damascus said that the Jordanian tanks and armored cars opened fire Thursday on the Syrian border town of Dar'a, but the broadcast said the attack was beaten back with the loss of four Jordanian tanks. The report said a Jordanian armored car ran over a wounded Syrian soldier and killed him.

The Jordanian spokesman said the fighting began when "a force whose identity could not be determined advanced toward Jordanian positions and opened fire."

The forces returned fire in self-defence and damaged five attacking tanks and two artillery positions. There were no casualties."

The Jordanian reference to an unidentified force appeared to be a suggestion that units of the 8,000-man Palestinian Liberation Army, which has bases in southern Syria, were to blame for the fighting.

Ulster Riots Dying Down

BELFAST (CP) — Violence that has left 25 persons dead appeared to be on the wane today after four days of rioting, shooting and firebombing. The Ulster capital's 412,000 residents began going to work and to shop in almost normal fashion.

However, a new terror tactic by the outlawed Irish Republican Army may be unfolding, as more Roman Catholics flee to the Irish Republic in the south and Protestants move to the quieter parts of the city or to England.

Police, in an attempt to stop the flow of refugees, said they will deal harshly with any cases where militants intimidated residents.

Brig. Marston Tickell, army chief of staff in Northern Ireland, hailed the quiet today as an outright defeat of the IRA.

A man died in a shooting incident in Londonderry Thursday night, and another was killed in a gunbattle with British troops in the Roman Catholic Bogside district. The army said its troops were ambushed and returned the fire. A pistol was found beside the dead man, the army said.

Two incidents in Belfast Thursday night caused fear that the IRA may be launching a new type of terrorism.

Gunmen poured into the homes of two Belfast businessmen and sprinkled gasoline over their furniture and set it on fire. A fire department spokesman said damage to both homes was extensive.

It was feared the two incidents might be the start of a campaign of personal intimidation by the IRA, who have found themselves outgunned by the British Army and are reported to be short of arms and ammunition.

Cabinet ministers, judges, industrialists and top-ranking army and police officers were rumored to be on a list for slaughter.

Troops and roaming gunmen in Belfast exchanged shots but no casualties were reported. Four explosions rocked the town of Newry, near the Irish border, and a frontier roadblock at Aughnakelly, County Tyrone, was peppered by a dozen shots from the Irish side of the border.

In Dublin, capital of the Irish Republic, Premier Jack Lynch called for consultations of Northern Ireland's all-Protestant government by giving equal voice to Ulster's Catholic minority and Protestant majority.

Lynch, regarded as a moderate in the Catholic south, also denounced the tactics of the outlawed Irish Republican Army but blamed "the misgovernment to which the North has been subjected for so long" for the bloodshed.

Prime Minister Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland issued a post-midnight statement saying he found nothing in Lynch's remarks "at all helpful in a situation where the prime need is to protect democratic methods against the rule of the gun."

Red-haired Priest Answers Paisley

LONDONDERRY (CP) — Red haired Father Connally straightened his tall frame, glared at a circle of proud looking Roman Catholics and thundered: "There's nothing so mighty as a risen people."

His voice booming through the embattled streets, the priest, who announced himself only as Father Connally, said he had left his parish in the English Midlands and come to the riot ravaged Bogside "to give the people here confidence."

His words, like those of the extremist Protestant leader, Rev. Ian Paisley, exemplify the terrifying religious animosity which lies at the centre of Ulster's continuing violence.

Father Connally denounced those who advocate negotiation with Britain and the Northern Ireland government to settle the current troubles.

Premier Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic was a "hospital matron" for trying to deal with what Father Connally described as the quisling premier of Ulster, Brian Faulkner.

Price Index Jumps Over Point as Cost of Vegetables Soars

OTTAWA (CP) — The food bill jumped by more than two cents on a dollar's purchase last month, mainly because of unusually sharp increases in fresh vegetable prices.

Statistics Canada said today the consumer price index increased to 134.1 from 133.0 in June and 130.5 in July last year. The index is based on 1961 prices equalling 100.

In dollar terms, this meant that it cost $13.41 last month to buy what $13.30 bought in June in a wide range of consumer goods and services. This was the July price for a parcel of goods and services that cost $10 in 1961.

Across the broad range of more than 300 consumer goods and services, the index reflecting the cost of living now is more than one-third higher than it was 10 years ago. This means that the 1961 dollar now is worth less than 75 cents.

The July increase this year, greater than usual for the season, reflected higher prices for most consumer goods and services, with food prices leading the way. The federal statistics bureau said most food prices were higher, particularly those for fresh vegetables.

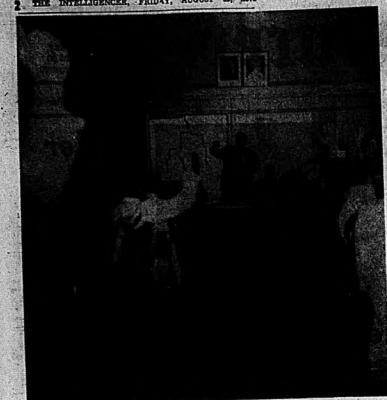
In percentage terms, the over-all index for July was eight-tenths of one per cent higher than in June, and 2.8 per cent higher than a year earlier.

This indicates a faster rate of price increase than has prevailed in recent months, though it is still well below the rapid inflation rate of 4.5 to five per cent 18 months ago.

Food prices led a remarkable 2.2 per cent last month, with the food index climbing to 133.3 in July from 130.4 in June and 131.5 a year last year. For the last several months, food prices have been generally lower than year-ago levels, but that record was broken abruptly last month.

The indexes are based on a monthly sampling survey across Canada of the prices of more than 300 consumer goods and services—items that figure large in the spending habits of the average urban low- to medium-income family.

Statistics Canada said it was the largest jump in food prices between June and July since 1967. Fresh vegetable prices, on average, were nearly 10 per cent higher in July than in June this year. Fresh vegetable prices do tend, however, to come down later in the summer when Canadian crops are harvested.



Food prices account for about one-quarter of the over-all consumer price index.

Housing costs, accounting for nearly one-third, also rose significantly last month, mainly because of higher new house prices, higher rents, higher charges for electricity and higher prices of textiles.

Price Index Breakdown

	July 1971	June	July 1970

Thurlow Residents Put to A Vote

Belleville and Suburban Planning Board chairman Zdenek Kvarda counts heads on a vote for non-acceptance of the residential chapter of the proposed official plan for Belleville, Sidney and Thurlow Townships. The motion was defeated 24 to 18 and a second motion to accept the plan in principal, was passed at the conclusion of last night's meeting, the final public hearing to receive public comment on the plan.

Thurlow Ratepayers Attack Land Plan

IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

CANNIFTON — Echoing the feelings of Sidney Township residents who felt they were playing second fiddle to Belleville's future, Thurlow Township ratepayers last night also claimed they were being sold out to the millionaire speculators: "The filthy rich who are getting richer every day."

Grant Kerr, in making this statement, continued: "The provincial government is taking away the right of citizens of Ontario because of the plans of you planning boys. Every citizen should have the right to work and own land."

Mr. Kerr was referring to a portion of the residential chapter in the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board's proposed official plan which reads:

"For the purpose of the plan, Estate Residential is defined as residential development, consisting of homes with a minimum floor area of 1,800 square feet, on lots of not less than 2.5 acres, which development, by reason of topography and tree cover, does not change the character of the land."

The township resident feels few, if any, future builders could afford to meet the expense of constructing such a large home on a lot as big as that recommended. Only major building tycoons could afford to develop rural residential homes based on the planning board recommendations, he said.

Thurlow Reeve Horace Casey agreed with Mr. Kerr, stating the people in the area would not have enough money for "estate residential" development.

"This is a little too premature and restrictive," he said.

A local builder echoed that with such restrictions on rural development, land within the boundaries of the urban development area would skyrocket in price.

"It's fortunate for those in the area who will make a small fortune, but the government has no desire to put on price controls." he told the more than 70 residents present for the last public hearing to air the residential chapter of the plan.

He suggested that such price controls might not be such a bad idea. "It's good canoeing and fishing area.

They are now selling the lots to the township council, land and forests and the Wollaston Lake Cottagers' Association.

Borden Forsyth, Thurlow Township deputy reeve, ratepayers there would be "no development without services" and he took exception to the planning staff's thoughts that by artificial restriction, township dwellers would help pay for services required for Belleville.

During the past, several weeks, at various public meetings, planning board members and staff responded to recommendations that by keeping urban development in proximity to the city, services would be less stretched out and costs could be shared by more people.

"I don't think the surrounding area owes Belleville one cent," said Mr. Forsyth.

By establishing the urban development area a "blanket free" will be established for at least four to five years, the deputy reeve charged.

"There can't be any development until services are established."

Mr. Forsyth was commenting on Mr. Kenny's earlier statement that the Ontario Water Resources Commission had set Jan. 1, 1975 as a target date for water to be brought to the Lake Ontario. At the same time, negotiations are under way for future construction of a 30 inch sewer main to College Street in Belleville, and a 33-inch main from the township to serve a 2,200 - acre area.

Belleville Alderman E. A. Orr, vice / chairman of the OPB, who described himself jokingly as "representing that big, bad wolf, the city of Belleville," said construction of the sewer on the Bell Farm property had been anticipated for this summer, but it is "too late now".

"The cost would be paid by the amount of measured use and users would be billed accordingly," he said.

This suggestion also came under attack from a pollution angle.

A resident discounted the proposal as a "poor place to put a sewer. Why spoil the rivers and the bay. What if the thing breaks; all that sewage will go down the Moira River and pollute the Bay of Quinte."

Mr. Kenny, quoting a report by the Gore and Storrie consulting firm, said the first lien-bed is the best place for the line. "The logical place for a sewer is to a low point," he said.

Mr. Forsyth echoed a second builder's statement that costs for such construction would be prohibitive because of the township's surface crust of rock and took this opportunity to find fault with the residential chapter's recommendation for the "preservation of good agricultural land for agricultural purposes".

He stated it was getting increasingly more difficult to make an agricultural living in Thurlow Township and suggested if farmers could sell their land for housing, they should not be restricted.

"This is supposed to be a free country; sometimes I wonder."

Another resident questioned the government planners in Toronto could be in a position to judge the needs of smaller communities when "they don't even know who knew the area better".

The planning director agreed that the provincial government has been freeing development across the province, subject to further study.

The recommendations, comments and suggestions taken down by planning board secretaries, will now be studied by the planning board, with final revisions and changes to the residential chapter anticipated.

Children's Group Sets Anti-pollution Example

Spearheaded by a summer cottage area snack bar operator, 250 youngsters in the Wollaston Lake area at Coe Hill are doing something positive about litter and pollution.

The Unpolluters pledge themselves to keeping their own property clean, to pick up dead fish and bury them and to try to prevent others from polluting lakes.

Taking a leaf from the book of Tiny Bennett, Toronto outdoor writer and advocate of pollution fighting, Mrs. Solmes realized the potential of the dozens of children who every day frequented her snack bar and urged their co-operation in an anti-pollution campaign.

And realizing that setting a good example is almost as important as action in getting things done, Mr. Solmes has built fish cleaning tables behind her cottages with directions for use and a request that the fish remains be properly buried.

There is no municipal garbage collection in the area so Maggie had a metal garage built at her own expense to store the anti-litter bags which she provides for campers and boaters.

Then she pays for a trucker to take the litter to the municipal dump.

And Maggie is also doing her bit about the problem of the no - return pop bottle.

The older teenaged youths in the Unpolluters group already have their 'vest years' project all mapped out.

The project is cleaning the old logs and other debris from Deer River above Wollaston Lake to provide a 25 mile canoeing and fishing area.

They are now selling the lots to the township council, land and forests and the Wollaston Lake Cottagers' Association.

Highrise Future Up to Council

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

A new zoning bylaw which would bar the construction of multiple family residences in present B zoned area of the city will be before city council for consideration on Monday.

And if the bylaw isn't approved by council, the Ontario Municipal Board will hold a public meeting on the matter — at the request of East Hill residents.

This was the word from Toronto yesterday where an appeal by East Hill ratepayers on a council decision against a rezoning request was before Ontario Municipal Board chairman J. A. Kennedy.

Mr. Kennedy said if the bylaw wasn't passed by council he would order an OMB hearing for Belleville on August 31.

Under the terms of the proposed bylaw multiple family dwellings would be taken out of the present B zoned areas.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said this morning that what would be before city council Monday would be the complete report of City Planning Director Bert Kenny respecting multiple family dwellings and a proposed draft outline to amend bylaw 6496, covering the old section of the city.

"Council may or may not approve of the bylaw," he said.

Either way, however, Mr. Reynolds said there could be public hearings by the Ontario Municipal Board.

If council tros down the amending bylaw, a hearing on East Hill residents' request for rezoning will be held Aug. 31.

Or, Mr. Reynolds pointed out, if the bylaw is approved and there were objections, the OMB would order a hearing could order a hearing without objections being registered.

City Solicitor John Miller said the recommendation by council was that the report and proposed draft bylaw outline be approved by council and sent on to the planning board for consideration.

A multiple dwelling is defined in the bylaw as being a dwelling with three or more self contained units.

The bylaw would apply to future construction only with present multiple family dwellings in B areas being considered as a non-conforming use.

Early in June residents of the East Hill area, alarmed at the possibility of a highrise apartment being constructed at 217 Bridge Street (the former home of Judge J. C. Anderson which has been sold to Toronto developers), presented a petition to city council asking that their area be rezoned from B to A.

The area for which rezoning was requested took in west of Bleecker to John Street and from Victoria Ave., to 200 feet north of Dundas Street, East.

But council took on immediate action on the request and on June 21 turned down a recommendation from Alderman Robin Jeffrey for temporary rezoning.

The thinking of council at the time the recommendation for rezoning was turned down was that there was no point in a temporary action when a rezoning bylaw based on proposals of the city planning director was to be drafted and brought to council for approval.

What has been termed "indiscriminate" construction of apartments in B zoned areas of the city has met with mounting objection from residents living in areas where single family residences predominate.

These residents complain that apartments result in a lowering in the quality of living and overtax municipal services.

After council turned down their request for rezoning to block apartment construction in their area, East Hill residents again carried their fight to the Supreme Court.

Toronto lawyer Malcolm Robb, acting for East Hill ratepayer William Spinelli, based his injunction application on the city's building bylaw which was ruled defective by the court. The injunction was granted.

City Solicitor Miller somewhat briefly drafted a new building bylaw which was approved by council at its July meeting.

Since then the new zoning bylaw has been drafted and is now ready for council consideration. If it isn't passed the OMB hearing will be held August 31, commencing at 2 p.m.

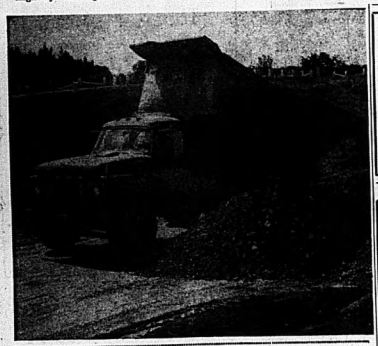
In the meantime, notice of the hearing would have to be given by mail or delivery to all homeowners in the area.

Bon Echo Full Up

Bon Echo provincial park continues to be full to capacity for the fifth straight weekend, the department of lands and forests reported at 9 p.m. Friday.

But campers looking for a spot to pitch their tents or park their trailers have a choice of other area camps.



Black Lake had 100 vacancies Friday morning, but expected to withdraw this number down to 80 by 4 p.m.

Lake St. Peter expected a few campers to move out Friday, leaving 25 empty sites by 4 p.m.

The Outlet had 135 vacancies Friday morning and expected to have 85 left by 4 p.m. Sandbanks, with 40 vacancies in the morning, was expected to have at least 30 left by late afternoon.

Highway 401 Gets an $800,000 Facelift

Workmen here are resurfacing curbs in preparation for fresh paving on entrance and exit ramps east of the Highway 401 - Moira River overpass on the Cannifton Road, to a point 6.4 miles east. Below, fill from turnoff adjustments is being dumped into triangular recessions beside the highway. Matthew Bernhardi, area construction engineer with the Ontario Department of Highways in Kingston, said such work is "something to be expected every 10, 12, or 15 years" This is the first required on this portion of highway since original construction in 1958. The $800,000 job, awarded to McFarland Construction Company, also employing 14 DHO men, includes work on the Quinte Skyway near Deseronto, with the repairs, to be concluded in October, "traffic will be flowing more smoothly," the engineer said. Similar work is being done in Kingston.

Carnival Proves Popular

"At a wild guess," said Bob Cretney, co-ordinator of playground leaders, "I would say there were about 1,000 youngsters in the building.

The penny carnival has traditionally been the final display of the area parks at the end of the summer.

Any profits derived from the evening are fed back into the park programs, to be put toward the purchasing of supplies for arts and crafts.

The perimeter of the ice surface was lined in booths, constructed by various city parks representatives. You could have your weight guessed, your age guessed or indulge in some of the carnival games including ring toss, sponge throw, fortune teller, horseshoes or penny toss.

Fourth Runners up were Lisa Vani of Bayview School and Paul Sprague. Third runners up were Debbie Newman of Parkdale and Bradley Gray of Bayview. Second runners up were Lynn Pistle of Queen Victoria and Stephen Smith of Parkdale.

Prizes for contestants were donated by city merchants.

Altogether, 42 children tried for the crown. Each was between the ages of five and eight.

Tour of Reserves

It will take more than an inspection tour by MPs to give Northern Ontario Indian reserves a sense of belonging in the province, but the six-day air tour of 22 reserves by Minister without Portfolio Dr. Richard Potter and Mines Minister Leo Bernier at least is a step in the right direction.

Dr. Potter, who is MPP for Quinte, and Mr. Bernier are meeting with Indian leaders to review provincial programs that could be expanded to improve the quality of life of the Indian people.

Their interest is commendable but it may be that unusual tact will be necessary if, in their state of isolation and independence, the Indians believe they are happy enough as things stand. Living as they do in such remoteness the Indians of this and other reserves are far from the trappings of our so-called civilization. It may be debatable too which is best, theirs or ours. In terms, that is, of what matters in this world, things material or the spirituality of being close to nature which is part of the tradition of the Indian.

But then we know that Indian life is not of the quality of earlier times, in that the white man's world has introduced to that of the Indian the evils of alcoholism, and brought in its train a sense of lethargy and despair. However, Dr. Potter and Mr. Bernier will bring their own concern for the needs of others and doubtless will return with practical ideas for the betterment of reserve life. We trust also that their interest will be pursued on a continuing basis by the Government.

From Near and Far

Wherever one goes these days there is evidence of the growing cosmopolitanism of Canadian society. In Belleville we have people from many parts of Europe and now, from the Philippines and India as well, not to mention other parts of Asia and the Orient.

From legendary Tahiti too we see this region has gained a citizen in Hauata MacNaughton. At Picton on Saturday Mrs. MacNaughton and her husband, Donald, of Wellington, will be among the star performers in a water ski show in the harbor.

We do not know if Mrs. MacNaughton has viewed Muscote Bay from the high road there near Demorestville, but if she stretches her imagination a bit she might think she was looking at Mataval Bay where the Bounty anchored long ago.

Prince Edward County of course has a fascinating degree of internationalism in its population. One who comes to mind is Janet Lunn who is from Texas and writes children's books. She and her husband Richard, a professor of journalism at Ryerson, live at Hillier. The rest of the world too is well represented in people with unusual and interesting backgrounds.

Bomb Scares

We do not see too many late movies on television, holding our somewhat fitful sleep in too high regard, or perhaps the movies in question in too little regard. Anyway we did become engrossed in one recently called Doomsday Flight.

It starred Van Johnson and Edmond O'Brien and reminded us of The Big High and the Mighty, except that instead of mechanical trouble on a plane Doomsday had to do with a bomb scare. It was pure melodrama, down to the final safe landing of the plane at Denver, a high altitude field just higher than the 5,000 feet the movie bomb had been set to detonate.

But to some nuts in this day and age such a film triggers off dangerous psychological currents. This apparently was the case with the BOAC jumbo jet diverted the other day to Denver. It was the case with three similar incidents in the last year; in each the movie had been shown locally on television.

How to combat this sort of nonsense? We have heard of the sky marshals who travel on some American flights to deter hijackers. What is needed now are security guards to keep aircraft under surveillance on a 24-hour basis. The bomb threats invariably are phoney, we have never heard of an aircraft being blown up as a result, but a constant guard of all such aircraft would enable an airline to call the bluff of any hoaxer. It would have avoided the necessity for example of having the BOAC plane diverted from its Montreal-London route to Denver, with all the attendant anxiety, inconvenience, and economic loss.

U.K. Judge's Crackdown

Youth, Obscenity, and the Generation Gap

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The uproar over the Oz trial in London is interpreted in some quarters as the latest example of what the convicted men termed the generation gap — a phrase which has been resounding across the Western world for the last decade.

Richard Neville, one of the Oz magazine editors sentenced to prison Thursday on obscenity charges, invoked this gap in warning Judge Richard Argyle, 55, about the consequences of inflicting tough treatment on the three editors.

"You will show to the world that your generation, which appears to be listening with every courtesy, is in fact deaf," the 20-year-old Neville told Argyle.

Other protagonists criticized what they called the excessively harsh prison sentences as "an act of revenge by the establishment against dissenting voices."

Defenders of Argyle insisted that a stand had to be taken by authorities against the freedom in sexual matters which, to their minds, has become unbridled licence in recent years.

It's certain that a vast set of cultural and social values has evolved in the West during the last two decades and that they are in direct conflict with the concepts of order and morality prevalent in this general area of the world.

The new values—emphasizing drugs, sexual freedom and hostility to any thwarting or twisting of man's natural energies—have burst out spectacularly of late.

In the United States, they have afforded a powerful outlet to the bitter outcries against the Vietnam war, interpreted by protesters as typical of capitalist reliance on force as a way of maintaining supremacy at home and abroad.

Confronted with Vietnam and the revolutionary tendencies in some underdeveloped countries, the uprush of pop music, expert, mental art and other varieties of defiant unorthodoxy took on a sharply political—and violent—hue in the U.S. and other Western countries.

Yet, despite the bizarre-seeming manifestations of the underground spirit on a variety of fronts, the over-all phenomenon is not as new as might appear.

Ancient Oriental traditions account for some of it and the concept of a generation war—if not a generation gap—was elsewhere as a talking point as long ago as the 1920s.

The glorification of youth reflected in some aspects of the Oz trial has its roots in the romantic movements of the early 19th century—since when, in the view of some skeptical commentators, radicalism as a whole has been systematically indulged by powerful forces in Western society.

With many underground ideas deriving from middle-aged thinkers and from publicly-supported undertakings such as television, the "gap" between different age groups and the apparent conflict of "socialistic-pacifist" versus hippie-style rituals may not be as deep as they seem.

But such incidents as the Oz trial, in setting a stern spokesman for traditional Western values against highly-vocal representatives of an apparently opposing ideology, are occasions for intensified discussions of mutual hostility which are bound to focus attention on patterns of antagonism rather than on the prospects for eventual reconciliation.

But Not Until 1973 At Earliest

Federal Electoral Map May Produce 270 Commons Seats

Quebec Le Soleil: Compared with the rest of the country, Newfoundland,' Nova Scotia, Quebec, Manitoba and Saskatchewan have seen their populations decrease during the last decade and the representation of these provinces in Ottawa will be modified in the next drawing of the federal electoral map. . . .

It is more than likely this work will not be finished before the end of 1973. Thus the number of members will not change before the next federal election.

It is rumored that the Commons will have 270 seats, six more than it now has, when the map is modified. Ontario will have 94 seats (an increase of six), Quebec 73 (one less), British Columbia 27 (four more), Alberta 20 (one more), Newfoundland six (one less), Nova Scotia 10 (one less), Manitoba 12 (one less), Saskatchewan 12 (one less), with New Brunswick staying at 10, Prince Edward Island at four and the Yukon and Northwest Territories at one seat each.

The three most important provinces (Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia) will find themselves in the position of electing more than half the Commons (52 per cent) compared to 49 per cent in the present house. . . .

A suggestion concerning the decrease of the population of certain provinces has arisen because this decrease has been accompanied by a decrease in immigration. It is generally said that the lower population must be replaced by an increase in the number of immigrants. As it is were possible to get these immigrants by force! If there was, last year for, example, a decrease in immigration across all Canada of almost 10 per cent relative to 1969, it's because on the one hand Canada had less need of immigrants and because on the other the supplying countries did not have the desire, or did not feel the necessity, of favoring such immigration. Whatever is said, it's a game with two players.

On the other hand, it is interesting to note that the proportion of French immigrants to Canada in 1970 represented only two per cent of the total. Some 4,000 French established themselves in Canada last year (2,826 in Quebec) compared with 13,000 West Indians, 9,000 Italians, 8,000 Portugese, 7,000 Greeks etc.

The greatest number came from Commonwealth countries (37 per cent). Great Britain and Ireland were first with 28,000. The U.S. followed with 25,000 immigrants. Ontario attracted the largest number of them with 90,000, Quebec welcomed 23,000, British Columbia 21,000, Alberta 10,000, Manitoba 4,000, Saskatchewan 1,700, Nova Scotia 2,000, New Brunswick 1,000, Newfoundland 830 and Prince Edward Island 185.

To sum up, abut 150,000 immigrants entered Canada in 1970 as opposed to about 170,000 in 1969. But immigration in 1970 was still eight per cent higher than the average for the last decade. It is said that the accuracy of computers and statistics speaks for itself. If there is a decline in immigration it can only be assumed that this is the main cause in the population decrease in certain provinces.

Vancouver's Cultural Identity

Vancouver Sun

It is quite understandable that the city, hard pressed financially as it is, would want to ease the burden of unprofitable cultural institutions on its treasury. Unfortunately, not all services to the public can be expected to turn a buck.

There is justifiable concern in council about the operating costs of the two city museums, the Centennial and the Maritime, when revenues offset the expenses by less than 10 per cent. The planetarium has a better, but by no means striking, balance sheet; its revenues offset about 37 per cent of its expenses.

All three are to undergo fiscal surgery for a four year period after which council proposes to cut them loose under independent administration, to sink or swim in grants and donations, as the Art Gallery now does.

Their fate will then depend upon how generous the city council of the day is with annual grants and how much the provincial government is prepared to contribute through its cultural fund as well as public subscriptions.

Actually Vancouver has been remarkably fortunate that it has not had to bear as much of the cost of culture as most other cities. Both the Centennial Museum and the planetarium were built largely on senior government and philanthropic grants. So, too, will be the new archives, this year's centennial project, although council has not indicated whether it should be a pay - as - you - go concern like the museums and planetarium.

It is right that cities should offer some services of the spirit as well as sewers, streets and garbage collection; to their residents and to visitors. But before cutting off responsibility for the museums — there is plenty of room for improving even the existing setup — the city council should take a long second look at the package it is buying from its board of administration. At least there should be provision for guaranteed and substantial grants to these institutions. A city is not all high - rises and highways and this city needs all the cultural identity it can get.

Brockville Recorder and Times

Education Minister Robert Welch's announcement that legislation is being drafted by his department to allow students access to confidential school records at their schools was, no doubt, met with pleasure by students across the province and we think the move is one which shows the department of education is keeping abreast of the times.

There have been complaints in the past that a teacher's subjective analysis of a student's behavior, ability, mental condition, intelligence or activism might be used against him when he is seeking a job, applying for credit or applying for entrance to a university or college.

We're sure this has happened to students in the past, though we would also venture to guess that the majority of teachers assess their students as objectively and fairly as is humanly possible. But, being human, it is not uncommon for a teacher to take a dislking to a student, no matter what the student's abilities may be.

Mr. Welch's move to make teachers' confidential reports open to the scrutiny of students, and their parents, may not only stop teachers from taking out their personal dislikes on students in this way, but should also prompt more professional reporting on the part of teachers. How many teachers will be willing to defend biased comments against the temper of an irate parent whose son's or daughter's future depends on a school report?

Then again the move may prevent some teachers from taking the easy road against him when he is seeking a job, applying for credit or applying for entrance to a university or college.

We're sure this has happened to students in the past, though we would also venture to guess that the majority of teachers assess their students as objectively and fairly as is humanly possible. But, being human, k is not uncommon for a teacher to take a dislking to a student, no matter what the student's abilities may be.

MR. AND MRS. ARDEN LYLE LEWIS

Lewis – Andrews

Rev. J. M. D. McLeod officiated at the wedding ceremony on Saturday, July 31, 1971 when Stephanie Lauren Andrews, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Andrews of RR1, Carrying Place, became the bride of Arden Lyle Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Lewis, Foxboro. Mrs. Roger Spafford, cousin of the bride, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist Miss Patricia Alexy, cousin of the bride, in appropriate nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of imported antique satin featuring an empire waistline, long full sleeves and wedding band collar, all trimmed with embroidered Alencon lace. The sheath skirt was also trimmed with a double border of matching lace and was accented at the back with a chapel length train of the same material as the gown, extending from a pert bow. A nylon tulle veil fell from a rhinestone tiara and was appliqued with roses and with Alencon lace. She carried a white Bible crested with a corsage of baby sweetheart roses and streamers.

Dennis Gould attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were Stirling Belch, Denzil Lewis, brother of the bridegroom and Douglas Andrews, brother of the bride.

A reception was held in St. John's Parish Hall at Point Anne with Raeburn Scott, brother-in-law of the bridegroom as master of ceremonies.

The bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a sleeveless street-length dress in mint green nylon crepe featuring a cowl collar edged with silver braid and sequins, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Assisting, the bridegroom's mother wore an azure blue street length dress of nylon crepe with the neckline trimmed with silver and white beading, white accessories and a corsage of red and white candy stripe carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will reside at West Park Village, Belleville.

WEDDING

GOLDEN — ROSE

St. Paul's United Church, Stirling was the setting for a mid-July wedding on Saturday, July 17 when Susan Rae Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rayman Rose, RR 4, Stirling was united in marriage to Maurice Patrick Golden, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Golden, Belleville, with the Rev. Wilbert Cox and Rev. George Harbus performing the ceremony.

The wedding music was rendered by organist, Mrs. Harold West.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a long white organza gown trimmed with white flowers caught up in front with small white bows. Her veil and train were bordered with small flowers and she wore a circular band headdress. She carried a bouquet of yellow rosebuds.

The maid of honor, Mrs. Jim Stobbert, a sister of the bride, wore long yellow organza in a straight dress with a short train, sea-through sleeves and cuffs and collar trimmed with daisies. A small veil attached to her headdress of yellow roses. She carried a nosegay of aqua 'mums.

The best man was Edward Golden, cousin of the bridegroom. Carl Akins and Allen LaCroix were ushers.

Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother in a street style light blue dress and a lace cost to match. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

For travelling on the wedding trip to Montreal, the bride's costume was a navy crimplene pant suit, white blouse and accessories to correspond. She wore a white rosebud corsage.

On return the couple will live at Canifton.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT JAMES DANIELS

Daniels – Parks

Emmanuel United Church, Foxboro, Ontario was the scene of the summer wedding ceremony which united in marriage Diana Marie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Parks of Belleville and Robert James Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Daniels of Stoney Creek, Ontario. Rev. Abel Pearson solemnized the double-ring ceremony. Wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Robert Sills at the organ.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau-de soie, designed on empire lines with chiffon overlay set off by lace and seed pearls. The bishop sleeves gathered into elbow-length cuffs of chiffon covered with lace. Her four-tiered nylon illusion veil was caught to a cluster of leaf shaped chiffon, Seed pearls also accented the veil and headpiece. White commercial 'mums accented by white and green ivy and salal leaves composed the bridal bouquet.

Miss Jean Parks, sister of the bride was the maid-of-honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Wood, cousin of the bridegroom and Miss Cheryl Palmer, junior bridesmaid, cousin of the bride. Miss Carol Palmer, cousin of the bride was flower girl.

The bride's attendants were attired in floor-length gowns of blue and white flowered polyester chiffon over polyester taffeta, designed on gathered waists with peter pan collars. Matching buttons accented the bodice with matching ribbon at the waist fastened at the back in a bow. The long full sheer sleeves were gathered into elastic at the wrists. Daisies were entwined in their hair and they carried white baskets of yellow and white daisy 'mums.

Norman Grant, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man and Ross and Keith Parks, brothers of the bride were the ushers.

The reception was held in the church parlors. Don Palmer was the master of ceremonies.

For her going-away outfit, the bride chose an attractive coat and dress ensemble in pink with white accessories. Her corsage was a white gardenia accented by stephanotis. Receiving the guests, the bride's mother wore a dress and coat ensemble of pink forirel with white accessories. Her corsage was a pink gardenia with pink centre. The mother of the bridegroom chose a mauve ensemble. Her corsage was a white gardenia accented with pink.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniels plan to travel to points east for their honeymoon, and will make their home at 549 Oxford Street, Oshawa, Ontario.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

* * *

Prior to her recent wedding in Marmora Mrs. Arthur Putnam (nee Winnifred Tasker) was honored at a personal shower with Mrs. Bill Bedore as hostess and a linen shower with Mrs. Don Andrews as hostess.

SOCIAL indent en ma

* * *

Previous to her recent marriage, Mrs. Arden Lewis (nee Stephanie Andrews) was honored at several social events. A kitchen shower was held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Barrett, RR1, Carrying Place; a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Frances Long in Belleville with her co-workers at Stephens-Adamson attended, and at a linen shower held at the home of Mrs. Milton Alexy in Point Anne.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tremblay of London, Ontario are pictured following their recent marriage in St. Anne's Roman Catholic Church in Windsor. The bride is the former Susan Eileen Schmidt, daughter of Mrs. Harry DeRushie of Windsor and Mr. Milton Schmidt of Kitchener. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Bertha Tremblay of London and the late Mr. Raymond Tremblay.

U.C.W. Meeting

PLAINFIELD UNIT

Mrs. Edna Sullivan opened her home recently for the Plainfield Unit of Roslin UCW with an attendance of 11 members and 2 visitors.

The leader, Mrs. Kerr opened the meeting with the call to worship.

As Mexico is the mission study this year, Mrs. Don Chisholm introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Dr. J. Hartt who has spent numerous vacations there to show some beautiful slides of that country. Mrs. Hartt led members on a trip to Mexico with colorful slides and humorous commentary.

Mexico City with its beautiful churches, monuments, cathedrals in a big contrast from the poorness of the country where the majority live. Tourist, business and fishing are their main industries and the famous bullfights. The temperature sometimes reaches 100 degrees.

Mrs. Chisholm voiced her appreciation to Mrs. Hartt.

The treasurer's report showed a good balance from a recent tea. It was announced that the unit will cater again at the Belleville Fair on Aug. 17 and 18.

Mrs. Kerr closed the meeting with a poem. The hostess served dainty refreshments and a social half hour followed.

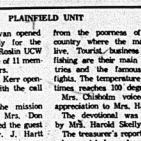
Dangling Fox Scarf Makes Fashion Comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — The fox scarf of the 1930s, complete with dangling paws and tail, has made a fashion comeback in the collection of James Galanos.

Galanos showed the furs Tuesday over the stroller suit which has a fingertip length jacket. Fur also appeared on collars and cuffs and one elegant brown coat had fur sleeves.

The California based designer appeared undaunted by reports that Yves Saint Laurent, the French designer, is leaving the haute couture business for ready to wear.

Galanos presented a large collection of 170 pieces priced from $595 to $2,000.



The 30s look figures prominently in the evening dresses which frequently were reminiscent of Fred Astaire's dancing partners with tiny straps and flared skirts. Several black versions had glitter embroidered in a bird design.

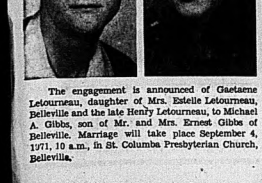
Black was the predominant color with red or a red and green plaid also running a close second.

POINTS FOR PARENTS



BY MARY BRYSON

A bulletin board, with a calendar of activities, is almost a necessity in a family of working parents and busy teen-agers. Everyone should get into the habit of writing down appointments, schedules and plans that may affect the rest of the family's routines.

Engagement Notice

The engagement is announced of Gaetaene Letourneau, daughter of Mrs. Estelle Letourneau, Belleville and the late Henry Letourneau, to Michael J. Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gibbs of Belleville. Marriage will take place September 4, 1971, 10 a.m., in St. Columba Presbyterian Church, Belleville.

Ann Landers

All Are Urged to Send For Booklet on Cancer

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago you urged your readers to write to the National American Cancer Society for a free booklet on breast self-examination. A few weeks later there was another letter saying that nearly 300,000 people had written for the booklet and how pleased you were because this meant that several hundred lives would be saved. My life was among them.

ANN LANDERS

My booklet arrived on December 14. Although I had had a complete physical examination only two weeks before, I decided to give myself a quick breast examination and get it off my mind. The first spot I touched revealed a lump. To make a long story short, within hours I was scheduled for surgery. Even though the tumor was small it was malignant and the breast had to be removed. All further tests were negative but due to the location of the tumor, radiation was recommended and I spent four weeks in another city getting treatments.

Your column will always have special meaning to me. There are no words to express my gratitude. — LOUISE P., MARYLAND.

DEAR LOUISE: Your letter was a thrill, and I thank you for it. Not only do I appreciate your sharing such a personal experience, but you have provided me with another opportunity to remind women to re-read that booklet and use — or if you've mislaid it, write for another. The address: National American Cancer Society, 219 E. 42nd Street, New York, New York 10017.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My 19-year-old daughter goes to beauty school. She says it's a full-time job and she should not be expected to do anything around the house. My mother-in-law lives with us. I look my sister's two young children for relief when she became mentally ill and her husband left her. I tell you all this so you will know that we are plenty crowded and there is lots of work around here.

The question: The 19-year-old has her own room because the two younger children are boys. It looks like a tornado hit it because she is too lazy to keep it clean. She insists it is her room and that I should leave the door closed and forget about it. According to her, if she wants to live like a slob it's her business. When friends or relatives come over I keep her door closed and hope they don't wander in, or I clean the room myself which I hate to do as a matter of principle.

Do I have the right to insist that she clean her room or does she have the right to live like a pig and keep the door closed? She has agreed to by by your decision. — MRS. TIRED.

* * *

DEAR MRS.: The girl has a right to live like a pig — when she has her own home. But she has no right to turn one of your bedrooms into a sty. (P.S. Offer to buy a new bedspread or some fresh curtains as an incentive.)

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to ask Pittsburgh Reader who is uptight because his secretary calls him by his first name, what does he call her?

I am a male woman and a college graduate who works as a secretary. Most of the men in this office call all women by their first names. Some even refer to their secretaries as "the girl."

Any man who dislikes being called by his first name can easily prevent it by calling his secretary by her last name. — CALL ME MRS.

* * *

DEAR MRS.: I checked with several secretaries of executives in Chicago and only one secretary felt as you do. The overwhelming majority preferred to be called by their first names, even though they would not call the boss by his.

Stunted By Family

TORONTO (CP) — Women in our society are degraded, stunted, and mutilated by the regimented family situation, an internationally known spokesman for Women's Liberation said. Evelyn Reed told more than 200 people at the University of Toronto that in a limited structure "women are deprived of economic independence and become dependent on marriage for support."

Successful Living

Hoarding of Material Creates A Problem

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I have storage trouble. Our house is 100 years old, and all the rooms are rather small. On top of that I was a feature writer for a small-country magazine, and I have kept all kinds of literature and books which might help me with some of the things I wrote.

Dear S.O.S.: You aren't the only one who hoards. There are several solutions, and you should use all of them:

1. Take one section of the hoarded material at a time. Go over it as if you were moving out. With a bold stroke consign to the waste basket everything which you know for sure you wont use again. Then get a little bolder and throw out the things you are not likely to use again. When you get the pile reduced to a quarter of its former size, I'll give your permission to keep a few treasurers.

2. Take a look at the storage aids available. You can get—compact metal shelves and bookcases to fit into small spaces. You might upholster a large storage chest to double as a piece of furniture. You can build drawers under beds or under stairways.

3. And mending? Take a long look at every ancient garment or piece of linen and ask yourself whether you would use it even if it were mended. The answer is probably no. Donate it to the next rummage sale.

4. If the clutteration extends to your refrigerator, take the hints included in my leaflet "Refrigerator Housekeeping", which is enclosed.

* * *

Dear Doris: Here is a tip for the dieters.

Dessert is always a problem when you are keeping the calories down. I have a sweet tooth and simply have to pamper it. So when I get tired of fresh fruit I make up several baked apples with a tin of diet pop instead of sugar and water and keep the extras in the fridge.

I buy a diet chocolate bar and eat one square whenever I feel too deprived. — I Did It.

Dear I did It: Right. The sugar substitutes and diet foods can be good friends to the gal who gets on weight easily. And this is the situation with most older women, alas!

* * *

Confidential to A gal With Manners: You have my sympathy and understanding. But I see no point in your carrying on a feud with someone you have never met, who simply can't see your point of view. Can you?

* * *

Confidential to Haven't Got It: "Rush my reply?" Gladly, but you put no name and address on your letter for a private answer, and messages for the column have to be prepared weeks ahead. Get in touch with your local department of health immediately to ask about a free VD clinic in your city. Or see your family doctor.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Icicle-style Cucumber Pickles

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: As the pickle season is fast approaching, would you please publish in your column your best Icicle pickle recipe, also any other sweet pickles and relishes? — Mrs. H. J.

ANSWER: I have mailed to you two sweet gherkins releases, Nora Gilmer's Company Pickles (icicle-style), Mrs. McKay's Own Relish — all recipes which have been popular with readers over the years. The recipe for Icicle Pickles has not been given here for a number of years so I will repeat it.

ICICLE PICKLES

Wash 1 six-qt. basket of 4" cucumbers and cut in halves lengthwise.

BRINE: 2 cups non-iodized salt and 1 gal. boiling water. Pour over prepared cucumbers in crock. Let stand 4 days. (NOTE TO NOVICES: Do not throw out this brew thinking it is spoiled — it is fermenting.) 5TH DAY: Drain brine off cucumbers and cover with clear boiling water. Let stand 24 hrs. 6TH DAY: Drain. Dissolve 1 tbsp. alum in enough boiling water to cover again and pour over and let stand. 7TH DAY: Drain. Make Syrup of 3¼ qts. cider vinegar, 8 cups sugar and 3 tbsps. whole mixed pickling spices. Heat to boiling and pour over cucumbers. 8TH DAY: Drain and reserve liquid. Heat it to boiling and add 2 cups sugar and pour over cucumbers. 9TH DAY: Repeat as above again adding 2 cups sugar. 10TH DAY: Repeat as above, adding another 2 cups sugar. 11TH DAY: Drain. Place cucumbers in hot sterilized jars. Heat liquid, add 2 cups sugar and strain to remove spices. Pour over the cucumbers in jars. Seal. If desired leave cucumbers in crock, cover with wax paper and a plate and weight down with a heavy object like a clean stone.

NOTES: 1) A total of 16 cups sugar is used in making the syrup. 2) Cut into desired shapes and sizes for serving. Chill in refrigerator for crisper texture.

Farm Protection Act---Socialist Curse or Farmer's Savior?

REGINA (CP) — The Family Farm Protection Act has been called an unnecessary piece of socialist legislation and a curse on those it is intended to help.

It also has been praised as the savior of farmers in their hour of need.

These divergent views of the bill ignited the most prolonged and sometimes vehement debate of the special summer session of the Saskatchewan legislature when it adjourned Wednesday to an unspecified date.

The bill gives farmers a year's holiday from paying their debts on machinery, livestock and land. It is designed to free money for essential expenses faced by farmers who have been hard-pressed to meet their commitments.

Most of the opposition to the bill, which is effective from July 31 this year to Aug. 1 next, has been on the contention that it will result in a drying up of credit to small farmers and a crushing financial blow to implement dealers. Abuses also are predicted.

The Liberal Opposition, which made many attempts to stall the bill in second reading and was voted down on its amendment to refer the bill to committee for public hearings, said the legislation was unnecessary because it was just an extension of acts now in force.

Instead of suspending debt payments for a year, the Liberals said the government could accomplish the same thing by guaranteeing loans to farmers.

But "the NDP government is not prepared to put up one plugged nickel to save the family farm," said Deputy Liberal Leader David Boldt.

"The facts will be proven in a matter of months that the NDP are not the friend of the farmer, . . . The NDP are a socialist labor government and no supporter of that free enterprise called the farmer."

Lending institutions and farm implement dealers were concerned over the economic effects of the bill.

"The major problem of a bill of this kind is that it creates an unfavorable environment for all lending institutions, primarily because there is not and cannot be any assurance that the July 31, 1972, date will not be extended," said a telegram to the government from the Canadian Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute.

"Consequently, credit grantors are forced to make determinations as to whether they undertake future business of lending or financing in the province."

The Saskatchewan-Manitoba Implement Dealers Association attacked the bill for not providing compensation to dealers for additional financial losses.

The association said a farmer could defer payments long enough to make a repossessed and reconditioned piece of equipment unsaleable. It is possible, the brief said, for the farmer to escape repossession on a harvester bought on time payments in 1971 until after the harvest in 1973.

The bill doesn't allow farmers to waive payments if they are in a financial position to meet their debts, but the implement dealers say they have no desire, time or money to be going to court to prove something that is already his right by virtue of a contract he already holds."

The government made amendments to the bill to give compensation to dealers, allowing creditors to recover an amount equal to 25 per cent of unpaid balances during the payment-free year and making the bill ineffective on debts entered into after Jan. 1, 1971. A committee has been established to hear representations on the effectiveness of the act.

Rain Halts War on Army Worms in Rapeseed

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Billions of ravenous army worms continued a devastating march across expensive Prairie rapeseed fields today while farmers and flyers worked against the weather and the effects of the highly-toxic chemical called Lannate.

Spraying by air and on the ground was halted late Thursday afternoon when rain swept across most of Saskatchewan. The weather was expected to clear by noon today.

The worms, which appeared early in August, have infested an estimated one million acres of rapeseed in Saskatchewan, 250,000 in Alberta and 10,000 in Manitoba. Rapeseed, used in vegetable oils, has fast become one of the West's most valuable crops and is worth about $20 an acre.

Lannate, a substitute for DDT banned in Canada, has been flown in from Houston, Tex. Farmers generally say that it is doing a good job but there was concern over its effects on humans and farm stock.

At least 37 persons, 31 in Saskatchewan, have been treated in hospital for Lannate poisoning. Health officials say that inhaling the chemical can be fatal and have urged farmers to wear respirators and protective clothing.

Spray plane pilots also have had to avoid power lines as they swoop low to release the chemical. Two persons in a spray plane were injured earlier this week when their plane struck a line and Thursday there were reports of another five planes clipping lines. None of these planes crashed.

There were about 100 aircraft spraying in Saskatchewan before the rain hit Thursday.

Both the Saskatchewan and Alberta governments are expected to ask for federal assistance for the farmers.

Dr. G. R. Purnell, deputy minister of agriculture in Alberta, says Alberta is considering a cost-sharing arrangement with Ottawa and the farmers.

"There's no doubt about it, some farmers will be wiped out," he said in an interview Thursday.

However, a federal agriculture spokesman said in Ottawa that federal acreage payments to aid hard-hit rapeseed farmers are unlikely. He said the Saskatchewan Rapeseed Association had asked not to be included in crop damage insurance and "you can't help them if they don't want to help themselves."

Attack on Pollution Planned

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — Some 300 state, provincial and federal representatives from the United States and Canada met here next week to plan a co-ordinated attack against pollution in the Great Lakes area.

Gov. William G. Milliken of Michigan, who called the conference, will be the official host at the two-day Great Lakes Pollution Control Conference.

Informal plans that are reached at the conference may later be adopted as joint policy by the two federal governments, according to James C. Kellogg, in charge of special projects for Gov. Milliken.

Federal law prohibits individual states from making a treaty with a foreign power, but Kellogg said there were assurances officials from both the U.S. and Canada will heed recommendations put out at the conference.

"It's just whatever is done, will have to be worked through the Canadian-American International Joint Commission," Kellogg said.

Ambulance Safest Way To Get About in Ulster

BELFAST (CP) — I came out of the Ardoyne district of North Belfast just before midnight Thursday night in a Catholic ambulance which was stopped and searched by rifle-carrying British troops.

Driver Frank Howard, a former sheet metal worker, told me it was the safest and perhaps the only way to get out at the time, although I had not been injured.

The Ardoyne, scene of a rash of street struggles and recent house burnings, was tense and angry as street gangs prowled over the rubble-strewn, darkened alleys.

Robert O'Halloran, 41, who owned the house, said he fled with his wife and four children when gangs set fire to the building.

"I am not so much angry as wondering where I can go to look for another home," he said.

All other Catholic homes in his neighborhood were burned or destroyed in rioting earlier this week.

The refugee centre in the Old Ardoyne, where I was taken by Howard, had been converted from a primary school. As many as three families with up to 11 children in all are living in each room.

One of the refugees, Robert Taylor, 30, who has two children in Toronto, described the Protestants as "vermin" whose homes should be destroyed.

One woman inhabitant said the centre "provides few luxuries" but was much better than a reception centre which has been set up at Gormanston in the Irish Republic.

She said she had taken her family to Gormanston Wednesday but returned to Belfast with hundreds of others to seek better accommodation.

The centre now has more than 100 families packed into small rooms and sharing a single kitchen.

There is also a special medical room, closed to outsiders, where Howard and his three-man crew bring those injured in rioting.

Urban Affairs Expert Returns to University

OTTAWA (CP) — N. Hervey Lithwick, whose study was largely responsible for the creation of the new urban affairs ministry, is leaving that ministry to return to university teaching.

Mr. Lithwick, who was not immediately available for comment Thursday is reported to be dissatisfied with the rate at which plans and programs are being implemented.

He was commissioned by the government two years ago to make a study of urban problems in Canada and this resulted in the book Urban Canada-Problems and Prospects. The new urban affairs ministry was largely based on his recommendations.

Mr. Lithwick will return to Carleton University as professor or economics. He was promoted within that department during his leave of absence.

Man Blamed for Forest Fire Now Toils to Restore Land

LYTLE CREEK, Calif. (AP) — Last year Phillip J. Kelley caused a blaze that ravaged 24,000 acres of watershed worth $16 million and cost $1.25 million to put out.

This summer he's back in the San Bernardino Mountains working to help the blackened lands recover, trying to prevent similar conflagrations while serving a four-month sentence.

Every weekday morning, Kelley climbs into the back of a truck with nine other prisoners and rides into the charred mountains 40 miles east of Los Angeles to help clear and restore the land.

"I feel a lot of remorse, to say the least," said Kelley, a bass guitar player with a rock music group before the fire. "It was a nightmare."

The fire started Sept. 28, a day after Kelley's group finished a recording session in he had gone to Lytle Creek in nearby Riverside. Kelley says the mountains "to check on six marijuana plants I had there."

"I brought along some fireworks I had purchased in Denver when the band was playing there," he started shooting them off. I was carefree, careless. I wasn't thinking how dry it was.

"Suddenly one caught in a lush close to me. It began to flame up. I tried stepping on it. That was a mistake. All it did was spread it out. In seconds it was too late."

As he fled from the fire he met a U.S. Forest Service crew. They questioned him and that night he admitted causing the blaze. As the fire spread during the next 36 hours, Kelley was in jail, feeling "pretty small, helpless."

"I prayed for rain, but the fire kept spreading," he said.

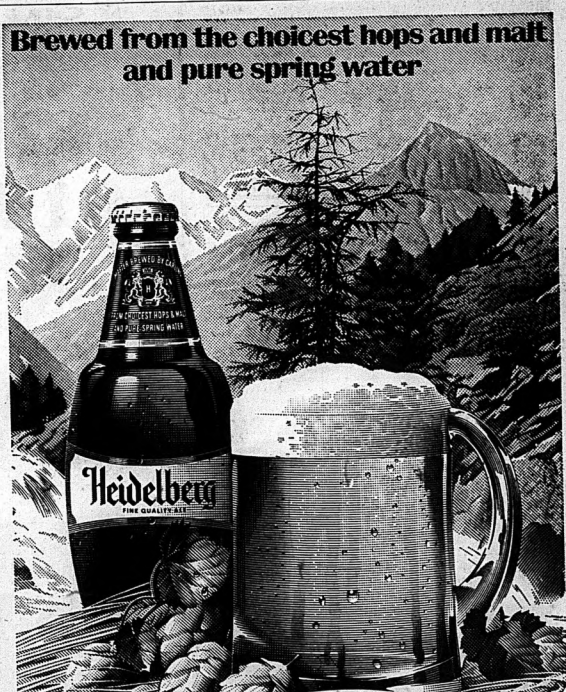
Festival Injuction Is Sought

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice W. A. Donohue adjourned Thursday until Aug. 19 an application by Attorney-General Allan Lawrence for an injunction prohibiting a rock festival on the Labor Day weekend near Orangeville, 40 miles northwest of here.

Mr. Justice Donohue said time is important, but the adjournment should be granted so the Crown can examine the admissibility of some of the affidavits filed on behalf of Orange Productions.



John Hilton, a lawyer for the attorney-general, said the Crown's main concern is the festival will constitute a public nuisance. He said police supervision and its cost is an element in the Crown's case.

Experiment in Housing

This Family's Dream Home Will Be A Dome

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — "Forever blowing bubbles" this summer has become the theme song of Prince Edward musician Charles La Pointe.

Mr. La Pointe, who lives with his family in a transparent greenhouse dome or "bubble" about four miles south of Picton, is now constructing his winter residence — a foam dome.

"It's an experimental house; the master plan is in my head and we work things out as we go along," says the enthusiastic architect.

A former Toronto resident, Mr. La Pointe discovered Prince Edward County four months ago during a search for "green acres." He purchased 20 of them, part of a farm located on a secluded sideroad.

"We wanted to try this but could never have done it in Toronto because of the cost of city land," he remarks.

The foundation for the La Pointe family's foam dome is being constructed with 14 concrete blocks and a quantity of barn beams. The beams will be used to build a 45 - foot - wide platform where the 25 - foot polyurethane dome will perch well above ground.

At completion the 28 - foot dome will boast two stories with bedrooms on the ground floor and a spacious living room "up top."

Asperite, a pressed paper panelling, will be used to finish the interior of this economy home which Mr. La Pointe expects to construct with $4,000 worth of materials.

"Necessity will dictate just about everything," says the builder, considering his new home.

"We use whatever materials work best," he added.

Mr. La Pointe observes construction of a dome taught him to regard objects for what they might be used for rather than what they are used for.

Windows in the dome, for example, will be built from amber-tinted airplane bubbles of acrylic and colored record player covers, also bubble shaped.

A dome can be heated economically because polyurethane foam is a material commonly used to insulate concrete and steel buildings. Mr. La Pointe had budgeted approximately $75 to $90 for winter heating costs.

"I have an interest in seeing the world a little different than it's been," he comments.

The foam dome with its low cost building materials can provide the average working man with a home he can own without spending the rest of his life trapped by payments.

Mr. La Pointe suggested the total cost of a dome, including labor, would be less than $10,000.

Since dome construction is "so much fun" Mr. La Pointe has considered its commercial aspects.

With his building technique "down pat" the foam dome promoter expects he could prefab a home in the winter months, then erect it later in a week's time.

When his experimental home is completed Mr. La Pointe plans to hold open-dome for friends and interested area residents. He stressed this is not a sales gimmick since it will be at least two years before he can consider dome construction on a commercial basis.

Technically it's called a three - eighths, four - phase icosahedron, or a 12 - sided sphere, but to this enterprising group it's simply home.

Several of the bottles date back to 1800 and Johana is convinced they are handblown. The family has loaned many Marysburg museums for exhibition this summer.

"The things we found were common things," says Mr. La Pointe, indicating a chipped china pot lid. He feels the items have intrinsic value although they were not gold bullion as some treasure hunters might have preferred.

Good neighbors represent a second discovery made by the La Pointe family during their "You'd wonder how to move these barn beams," remarks Mr. La Pointe, pointing to the heavy timbers dotted for use in the dome's foundation.

There was no problem at all when eighbors gathered to lend a hand. Hydro workers, well drillers and other county residents also earned gratitude from the La Pointes for their advice and assistance.

A new staff member in the music department at Bayside secondary school this September, Charles La Pointe is eager to complete his dome before classes start.

Prince Edward's pioneer of low cost foam dome housing may have composed a hit tune for would - be house owners.

Building Material

Charles La Pointe and Johanna Carsen examine the polyurethane foam they will use to construct a permanent dome house. It will have two floors, airplane bubble windows and pressed paper interior finish. The plastic foam, used to insulate conventional buildings, is expected to reduce winter heating costs to a minimum.

Unburstable Bubble

Housing is rounding up nicely for music teacher turned experimental builder, Charles La Pointe. He and his family scramble over the plastic dome greenhouse that has been their summer home in Prince Edward County. To prove that the fragile-looking structure is tough enough to take all an active young family can dole out, The La Pointes have plans for a plastic foam dome for winter use, an experimental house that may change the shape of housing in years to come.

Pair of One-act Plays Deserves More Viewers

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

For two hours last night, an audience of 11 and 1 sat in the Pinnacle Playhouse and watched two productions — Chekov's The Boor and Dorst's Freedom For Clemmens. This must be considered as the best theatre deal by the resident group so far this season.

In the opening scene of the one - act Chekov piece, the audience is introduced to Lynda Archer as she rests in the sitting room of her home.

Playing the character of Madame Popova, Miss Archer ushers in the theme of the play in her opening address to Luka, the man servant, played by Mark Mitchell.

The story involves the mourning of a woman (Lynda) for her dead and (while living) unfaithful husband. While the mannerism attempts to get Lynda back on her feet and on the road to love, Smirnov the Boor enters to collect a sum of money owing to him.

While the action of the play is tense and fast - moving, the drama of the action takes on an air of comedy.

Luka, played by Mr. Mitchell, is a fairly insignificant role. He is more of a vehicle for Madame Popova to use for the passing of information to the audience pertaining to the background of the play.

The relatively minor part was portrayed very well. With a broad range of gestures, near - comic lines and facial expressions, the audience is kept interested in the character, but still feels free to pay closer attention to the two leads.

Milton McCrystal, a veteran of the playhouse, walked onto the stage with his usual, becoming arrogance and offered his finest performance so far this season.

Playing the boor, he gave the audience no opportunity to catch him as anything other than the "bully the brute and the boor" that Lynda called him.

Miss Archer, throughout the performance, was a perfect mixture of strength and innocence. She was the target of the play's action and, throughout the play, reflected the action to the audience.

The second play of the evening was an interesting piece, written by ...Tankard...Dorst, which proved to be both a challenge to the players and an exercise in discovery for the audience which, by now, had increased from 12 to 13.

Setting for the play is a jail cell and characters include Bob Lawton in the title role of Clemmens, Nancy Barclay as the female lead, Clementine and the warden played by John Shaw. As a side note, Mr. Shaw, while rehearsing for the play, directed the Boor.

The quality of performance was the same as that quality in the previous performance — outstanding.

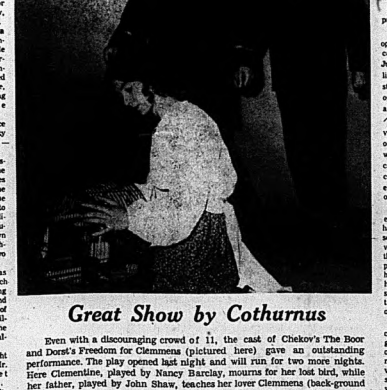
Directed by Milton McCrystal, also a player in the Boor, there are no clear lines to make an appraisal of the plot or theme. Reaction to the play is a personal thing to each member of the audience. The play allows the audience to realize their own personal prison while watching the confinement of two youngsters.

Lighting, in both plays, was simple and effective. The technical aspect of the evening seemed to be handled ably and Larry Ewashen, director of the theatre group, sat smiling from ear to ear after the show, contented with the calibre of performance.

"The house we had tonight was above average," said Mr. Ewashen. "We usually get about ten a night."

The play will continue its run until Saturday for a final showing.

Car Flips, Driver Dead



Friday the 13th proved to be a tragic date for Kenneth Bernard LaPalm, 18, or RR1, Belleville.

Some time before 4:35 a.m. today, his 1961 Austin Healey apparently went out of control rounding a turn on the 8th Concession road of Tyendinaga Township, struck a three foot rock, flipped over, pinning the young driver underneath the roof.

A passing motorist discovered the body and notified Ontario Provincial Police, who transferred the body to Belleville General Hospital.

OPP Constable Donald Bowry investigated.

Great Show by Cothurnus

Even with a discouraging crowd of 11, the cast of Chekov's The Boor and Dorst's Freedom for Clemmens (pictured here) gave an outstanding performance. The play opened last night and will run for two more nights. Here Clementine, played by Nancy Barclay, mourns for her lost bird, while her father, played by John Shaw, teaches her lover Clemmens (back-ground played by Bob Lawton) how to walk. The play is both a social comment and personal conflict.

Festival Fosters Free Enterprise

MADOC — Free enterprise reigned supreme in Centre Hastings during the weekend of Rock Acres Peace Festival, despite some fears that the flower children are out to wreck the capitalist economy.

A new mod shop in Madoc opened, its doors early to catch the festival trade. Mrs. Joyce L. Minnie of Tweed had little time to get a line of stock in, but she decided to open her boutique last week anyway.

The Hole in the Wall on the village's main street received official blessing this Monday, when the president of the local Chamber of Commerce called and presented the owner with a welcoming bouquet of flowers.

Mrs. Minnie is offering flared jeans, T-shirts, incense and hand crafted articles of all descriptions. She said that festival-goers didn't seem to have the money to do much shopping, but local young people have been responding well to her boutique. She expects sales to increase when Centre Hastings Secondary School opens in September.

But if festival goers were chary about buying luxury goods they showed no lack of initiative in getting into the merchandising game themselves. Modern festivals have sprung up of the aspects of medieval fairs, with all sorts of goods offered for sale or barter. They included cars, motorcycles and camping equipment. A few tried to turn a fast buck by selling "moon rocks" for a quarter. They turned out to be pieces of the bones of long-dead cattle. Rattlesnakes were another favorite commodity in the early days of the festival. They were common Hastings county milk and garter snakes, in which the Quinlin acres abounded, with updated images for the occasion.

Merchants were reported to have upped their prices for the weekend, with people reporting that 79 cent packages of cigarettes were selling in Madoc and Stirling for 75 cents. Fans complained that prices at the concession stands at the festival site were too high, with watermelon slices selling for 25 cents each and pizza wedges for 50 cents.

But in Queensboro it was business as usual with low everyday prices prevailing for the duration of the weekend. Prices were pegged by storekeepers at the level of days long forgotten by most urban people. The 10-cent ice cream cone was selling briskly. An extra large cone, of the size no longer seen outside country general stores, cost 15 cents and the festival fans who flocked to Queensboro weren't remiss in showing their appreciation. They paid for their purchases and there were no shoplifting incidents during the entire weekend.

Bassett Succeeding in Bid for More Control of Argos

TORONTO (CP) — A bid by Baton Broadcasting Ltd. for control of all outstanding shares of (Toronto) Argonaut Football Club Ltd. won encouragement Thursday when the club's third largest stockholder agreed to sell his shares at $200 each, the price offered.

"I have decided to accept the offer, and I imagine if I have done so, everyone else will," said Leonard Lambert, an Argo director who holds about 2,300 of the 11,564 outstanding shares.

The offer was made in a letter to shareholders dated Aug. 5 and signed by John Bassett, chairman and president of Baton and Argonaut chairman.

Bassett is also chairman and publisher of the Telegram Publishing Co. Ltd., Toronto, which publishes the Toronto Telegram and controls Baton.

Baton is the licensee of CFTO-TV, Toronto, and owns CKLW-TV and radio station CKLW, both of Windsor, Ont.

Bassett and Charles Burns, vice-president and director of the Argos and Telegram Publishing director, control about 3,500 shares each and both have said they would accept Baton's offer.

The football club has 24 stockholders.

"There are only the three of us who are major shareholders," Lambert said. "The rest are in it but not in the same way."

While Lambert has not formally accepted Baton's offer, he said he is advising his lawyer to draft an affirmative reply.

Control of the shares of the three major shareholders (Bassett, Burns and Lambert) would give Baton control of about 80 per cent of the Argos.

The letter to shareholders said that if less than 51 per cent of the outstanding shares were tendered, Baton could have terminated the offer and returned the shares submitted.

Dump Als 26-14

Explosive Offence Gives Argos Third Win

MONTREAL (CP) — An offence that exploded for three long touchdowns and a defensive corps that, in the words of their coach, "played like wildmen," combined to carry Toronto Argonauts to a 26-14 win over Montreal Alouettes Thursday night.

The quarterbacking duo of Joe Theismann and Greg Barton directed Toronto to a net offence of 477 yards for the Argos' third consecutive win and sole possession of first place in the Eastern Football Conference.

The game was attended by 29,809 fans, the largest crowd ever for a regular-season game in Montreal.

Although the Argonauts were not able to mount consistent offensive drives, their ability to break loose for long gains from their own end of the field proved the key factor.

Rookie speedster Leon McQuay picked up his fifth touchdown in three games in the first quarter as he broke loose from the Toronto 29 and outraced his Alouette pursuers to the end zone.

An 84-yard run by Theismann on a quarterback draw in the third quarter and a 94-yard pass-and-run effort from Theismann to Dave Cranmer provided the Argonauts with their other touchdowns.

Montreal's only touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Sonny Wade connected with Tom Pullen on a 14-yard pass. The convert by George Springate, a single by Wade and two field goals by Justin Canale rounded out the Alouette scoring.

Ivan MacMillan booted a field goal and a single and Zenon Andrusyshyn added another single for the Argos.

Toronto coach Leo Cahill was pleased with his team's ability to complete long plays but the defence drew most of his praise.

"Those guys played like wildmen," he told reporters. "The defence was the key to our success."

The jubilant Cahill said one of the few mistakes Toronto made was the result of "a stupid mistake by me."

The Argos gambled on a third-down-and-one situation in the fourth quarter and when they failed to pick up the yard Montreal took over the ball on the Toronto 54-yard line and marched in for their only touchdown.

Montreal coach Sam Etcheverry said starting quarterback Jim Caseley injured his thumb early in the game and had trouble handling the ball during his infrequent appearances later in the contest.

The Argos jumped into a 3-0 first-quarter lead after Theismann hit end Mel Profit with a 75-yard pass-and-run play which moved the ball to the Montreal 16. Toronto was unable to crack the Alouette defence and Mac-Millan booted a 10-yard field goal.

Less than five minutes later, McQuay broke loose on his touchdown run and the Argos took a 10-0 lead into the second quarter.

Canale's 37-yard field goal late in first half narrowed the gap to 10-3 but Theismann boosted the Argos into a 14-point lead early in the third quarter with his touchdown.

Cranmer's touchdown, a 50-yard field goal by Canale and a 58-yard single by Wade made the score 24-7 with 15 minutes of play left.

Pullen picked up Montreal's sole touchdown at the 8:05 mark of the final quarter and the Argos wrapped up the scoring with a single when MacMillan was wide on a 36-yard field goal attempt.

Toronto gained 258 yards on the ground and 253 in the air while Montreal managed 344 yards but only 86 rushing.

Theismann and Wade both threw two interceptions and the Argos recovered two of three Alouette fumbles.

In the passing department, Barton was good on four of nine passes, Theismann on seven of 16, Wade on 15 of 36 and Chasey on three of seven attempts.

McQuay's Major Gives Him Five

Toronto Argonaut speedster, Leon McQuay scored his fifth touchdown of the season Thursday night as the Argos defeated Montreal Alouettes 26-14 in an Eastern Football Conference game.

McQuay's 30 points this season gives him an 11-point edge over Hamilton Tiger-Cat Tommy Joe Coffey in the Eastern Conference scoring race.

Ivan MacMillan, Toronto's place-kicker, booted one field goal, three converts and a single Thursday to move into fourth place in the scoring race with 13 points, five less than Ottawa Rough Rider kicker Gerry Organ who is in third place with 18.

Orioles Not Taking Backward Glance

Baltimore Orioles, leading the American League's East Division by a comfortable eight games, might be tempted to take a peek over their shoulders. There are interesting things going on back there.

For example, Detroit's Mickey Lolich, hidden by the Vida Blue excitement all season, is on the threshold of 20 victories for the Tigers.

New York Yankees are enjoying the best record in the division since the all-star break with a 19-11 log that has them two games over .500 for the first time all year.

But the Orioles, unconcerned by the shenanigans behind them, whipped Minnesota Twins 8-2 Thursday night to maintain their AL East lead. Detroit took over second place with a 4-3 decision over Milwaukee Brewers—Lolich's 19th victory of the season. The Yankees made it eight victories in the last 10 games by sweeping a doubleheader from California Angels.

Our Yacht Bid Withdrawn

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada is withdrawing its bid for th America's Cup.

The Canadian challenge syndicate announced Thursday that insufficient funds were raised before a deadline for organizers its bid for the 1974 racing series off the U.S. east coast.

A statement from the syndicate, which is backed by the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, said: "It is a tragedy for Canada that having come so far, this project . . . must be terminated because of the difficult climate for fund-raising of all types currently prevalent in Canada and undoubtedly due in a major part to the economic uncertainty of the times."

The bid was made last year after Vancouver industrialist and yachtsman George O'Brien bought the Dame Pattie, former Australian 12-metre challenger in the series.

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP) — The wind was so erratic that one shooter scored a bullseye on someone else's target Thursday during competition in the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association meet here.

Compensating for a strong, irregular wind, Bill Murray of Invercargill, South Island, New Zealand, said he sighted on an opponent's target. As he fired the weapon, the wind dropped and he scored a bulseye.

Targets are about six feet apart.

Second in the Alexander match—the only one featuring long-distance shooting from 800, 900 and 1,000 yards—was Oran H. S. Axan of the National Defence Headquarters team.

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The St. Catharines Rowing Club got off to a good start Thursday in its quest for its 11th straight championship in the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta.

St. Catharines opened up a 42-point lead as the 89th rowing championships got underway along a choppy Henley course. The host club earned 50 points to 17 for second-place Ecorse Boat Club of Ecorse, Mich.

LONDON (Reuter) — British football emerges from its two-month hibernation Saturday when 92 English clubs and 36 Scottish sides launch another season of the world's oldest domestic soccer spectacular.

The start of the season also reawakens dreams of instant wealth for some 12 million pools punters, who will try to forecast match scores by methods varying from the scientific study of past performances to the lucky dip approach of sticking pins in coupons.

Arsenal, who last May became only the second team of the century to complete the English League and FA Cup double, will be the target team in the battle for domestic titles this season.

Giant Step Easy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Francisco Giants, who have had a hard time beating anyone recently, took a day off and let Los Angeles Dodgers beat themselves for a change.

It was a lift in their spirits, to say nothing of their lead in the National League West.

While the Giants didn't play, they narrowed the lead to four games over Los Angeles when the Dodgers fumbled over a 3-1, 13-inning loss to Philadelphia Phillies Thursday night.

The Los Angeles' loss was good news to San Francisco, which had lost eight of 10 games and wasted most of a 9-game lead to the hot Dodgers.

Only three other games were played in the National League Thursday night as Atlanta Braves crushed Houston Astros 10-5, St. Lois Cardinals nipped Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 and San Diego Padres turned back New York Mets 3-0.

Despite Thursday night's loss, Los Angeles shortstop Maury Wills says he feels the Dodgers will eventually catch the skidding Giants.

"I tabbed the Dodgers this spring and I'm staying with it," he said.

The Dodgers didn't look like winners against the Phillies, though. They had a 1-0 lead in the eighth when second baseman Steve Garvey's error opened the door for the tying run.

Then they wasted scoring opportunities in the extra innings before Philadelphia's Don Money put it away with a two-run double in the 13th.

Rookie Earl Williams unloaded two homers in a four-hit night and knocked in four runs as Atlanta buried Houston under a 16-hit offence.

Williams had singled his first two times at bat before blasting a two-run homer in the fourth and a solo shot in the fifth, his 20th and 21st circuit clouts of the year.

Leader Not Pleased

OAKFIELD, N.S. (CP) — Burt Tkobursi although not pleased with his second-round performance, holds a two-stroke lead with two rounds remaining in the Canadian amateur golf championship.

"I'm a little unhappy," the 41-year-old Vancouver golfer said Thursday after shooting a one-over-par 74 to give him a 36-hole total of 145 and the lead over four golfers tied at 147.

"... Too many three-putts" he said after three-putting three of the last four greens.

Tkobursi handled the par 36 front nine in regulation but he nearly missed on the par four ninth.

A member of the Willington Cup winning British Columbia team, Tkobursi shanked his approach shot on to the adjoining first fairway. It took a chip shot past a clump of trees and a downhill 25-foot putt to salvage his par.

John Sale of Calais, Me. had a good opportunity for a share of the lead. He shot a two-under 71 and finished tied with Dick Sidebrowf of Easton, Conn., Jimmy Wittenberg of Memphis, Tenn., and Andre Gagne of Boischatel, Que., at 147.

Going into the final hole, Sale was four strokes under par. A disastrous effort on the 18th green added two strokes to his game.

He put his tee shot on the 18th just in front of a small tree near the centre of the fairway. The tree obstructed his view and the approach shot went to the back of the green, some 80 feet from the pin.

Sale was short on the first putt. The second also failed.

Tom Henry of Peterborough, Ont.; George Haines of Barnardsvill, N.J., and Michael Sanger of Greenwich, Conn., all had 148 counts. Henry and Sanger both shot second round 74s while Haines had a 75.

The field was cut to the top 60 and ties after the second round, leaving 65 golfers with scores of 168 or less in contention for the Earl Grey Cup.

B.C. Gals On Top

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Gail Moore of Vancouver shot two 78s to lead British Columbia to the Canadian women's interprovincial golf championship at Capilano Golf and Country Club Thursday.

The B.C. team total was 459 for 36 holes, one stroke ahead of the Ontario foursome.

B.C. established the lead in Wednesday's first round with a 232 total to Ontario's 233. Despite a one-under-par 73 by Marlene Streit of Fonthill in the second round, the runners-up were unable to catch up.

Wimbledon champion Evonne Goolagong, of Australia, is shown in action during the Canadian Open tennis championships in Toronto Wednesday. Miss Goolagong defeated Elena Subirats of Mexico 6-3, 7-6 in first round action. (CP Wirephoto)

Rosewall Earns Day Off After Dumping Drysdale

TORONTO (CP) — Australian Ken Rosewall has today off to savor his hard-fought 7-6, 2-6, 6-4 win over third-seeded Cliff Drysdale Thursday night in the $70,000 Canadian open tennis championships.

The rare off-day will help him rest before meeting top-seeded John Newcombe, the Wimbledon king who downed seventh-seeded Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 6-4, 7-5 in another tough quarter-final.

Semi-finals of the men's singles will be played Saturday. The final, paying $10,000 to the winner and $5,000 to the loser, is set for Sunday.

The pace told on both Drysdale and Rosewall as they struggled through a match that took two hours and 15 minutes. Both were involved in later doubles matches and both were losers.

The seeded women made short work of their opponents, however, as second-seeded Rosemary Casals and fourth-seeded Francoise Durr recorded straight-set victories to face each other in weekend semi-final play.

Harry Fauquier and Keith Carpenter of Toronto were downed 6-2, 6-0 by Tom Okker of The Netherlands and Riessen.

Rosewall and countryman Fred Stolle dropped a 6-3, 6-1 decision to Bob Baud of South Africa and Allan Stone of Australia while Haroon Rahim of Pakistan and Marcelo Lara of Mexico defeated Drysdale and Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia 7-6, 6-3 in other men's doubles.

In women's play, Miss Casals and Miss Durr thumped Andree Martin of Montreal and Jane O'Hara of Toronto 6-2, 6-1.

Evonne Goolagong and Leslie Bowrey of Australia defeated the Barkowicz-Zegerdicus combination 7-6, 6-2 in the other match. The winners advanced to today's semi-finals.

Quebec Boys Top Netters

MONTREAL (CP) — Three Quebec tennis players led after quarter-finals at the national Junior Davis Cup championships Thursday.

In boys' competition, Zoltan Rona of Montreal trimmed Peter Pospisel, also of Montreal, 6-4, 7-5; Richard Legendre of Quebec City topped Stewart McAlpine of Ottawa 6-2, 6-2; Rejean Genois of Quebec City outplayed Scott Dunlop, also of Quebec City, 6-2, 6-3, and Mark Tindle of Vancouver crushed Peter Vick, also of Vancouver, 6-0, 6-0.

Commercial Schedule Closes

Printers' Surprise No Help

It's never too late to try something different although Howard and Roberts waited until the very last moment to pull a trick out of their bag.

The trick was in the form of a surprise starting pitcher for the Printers in their final regular season game against the Richard Ellis Juniors. Ken Genereaux made his pitching debut Monday night relinquishing his normal short-stop position to try his hand at the glory spot.

Genereaux pitched four strong innings before tiring in the fourth and being relieved by Larry Marshall. His start ended on a sour note as the Printers dropped a 5-1 decision to the Juniors.

In the second half of the Commercial League final regular schedule double-header Rollins Construction enhanced their already clinched pennant with a 2-1 victory over Quinte Hotel.

Genereaux allowed four hits in his four innings and gave up one run. He fanned three and didn't walk a man. Larry Marshall took over in the fifth and was pounded for seven hits and four runs in the seventh inning.

Brian Gariepy had a double and single to lead the Juniors with John Sutherland and Ron

Wannamaker's Got Serious

There's no sense in horsing around when the play - offs come so Wannamaker's got in a serious mood and succeeded in stomping Motorland Chrysler two straight games in Belleville Minor Baseball tadpole play-offs.

Wannamaker's followed the three hit pitching of, Lyle Kelleher and Jim McMullen to a 8-6 second league victory. They had opened the best of three series with a 13-5 win. The same two pitchers were on the mound for the first victory allowing only four hits. Three home runs by Kelleher provided all the runs needed for the winners.

In house league regular schedule action Deseronto peewees defeated Foster Thurlow pee-wees.

midgets nipped the Trenton All-stars 11-8.

Rollins needed only two hits to stop the last place Hotelmen as Wayne McTaggart mowed down 13 Quinte batters. He walked only one in picking up his 11th win of the season on a 3-22 note.

The loss finished Quinte's season on a 2-22 note.

Two errors on Wayne McTaggart's ground ball and Ralph Plane's sacrifice fly gave Rollin's an early lead in the second but Quinte came right back in their half of the inning on two errors and Wayne Woods sacrifice, scoring Lyle Tompsett.

Bob Swan went the distance for Quinte fanning five, walking as better. Thompson, Woods and Swan each had singles for the winners.

The League play - offs begin Sunday evening with Point Anne and the Juniors playing at seven and Rollins and Howard and Roberts starting at eight.

Squirt Win Easy

The big boys had to play a lot more ball but the little guys got the job done just as well their own way, in Belleville Minor Softball playoff action.

The Kinsmen Phillies moved into the bantam division finals with a 27-18 win over the Belleville City Police while Wray's Furniture squirts advanced into the East Hill finals with a 9-0 forfeit win over Ziebart Rustproofing.

Tweedy wielded the big bat for Plane's smashing two doubles and a single. Tom Birch and Larry Adams each had a single to round out the winners batting.

Glen Barberstock blazed third strikes past 13 and allowed only five hits in taking the loss. Brother Bill Barberstock was the only Hawk batter to reach, Abrams connecting for a single.

The return in the series will be Sunday afternoon in Shannonville.

Trainmen on Schedule In Industrial Playoffs

CNR pulled into the Industrial Softball League semi-finals right on schedule, platting four runs in the final inning to take a 7-6 decision over Brooke Bond.

Hits by Jerry Thomas, Ron Marshall and Brian Plumbe keyed the seventh-inning rally as the Trainmen eliminated Brooke Bond in two straight games.

Plumbe fired eight-hit ball to take the win, failing to strike out a batter, but issuing only one walk. Five losers Bob Chambers yielded 10 hits, fanning four batters and walking the same number.

Morch Mariners grabbed a 1-0 lead in their quarter-final series with the Firemen taking a 9-0 forfeit when the umpire halted play in the fourth inning.

Women Have Familiar Front-runner

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — A one-under-par 71 gave Marlene Streit a one-stroke lead over her two nearest competitors for the Canadian women's amateur golf championship as play entered the third of four rounds today.

Mrs. Streit, from Fonthill, Ont., parred each of the first nine holes Thursday, then broke par on the back nine with an eagle on the 15th for a two-round total of 149 on the 6,119-yard Capilano course.

Jo Ann Washam of Auburn, Wash., and Jocelyne Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., were second with 150.

British Columbia scored a team total of 459 to take the Interprovincial team championship phase of the tournament, one stroke ahead of Ontario. Alberta was third with 478 in the 36 hole tournament.

Mrs. Streit has won the women's title nine times.

Also in contention for the title were Cheran Gerber of South Africa and Gail Moore of Vancouver, both with 152.

Signs Up

BROOKVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Fran Tarkenton came to terms with New York Giants Thursday night, four days after the scrambling quarterback had walked out on the National Football League team.

Tarkenton's signing of a one-year contract, on what Giant President Wellington Mara described as the original team terms, was announced by Mara following a conference with the quarterback. Mara said Tarkenton would be subject to disciplinary action.

LUCKY YOU-IT'S FRIDAY 13th.

First Rumblings of Price War Heard Among Major Airlines

MONTREAL (CP) — The first rumblings of a possible price war were felt Thursday when four major airlines announced their intention to introduce certain cut-rate fares for the North Atlantic.

Airlines announcing their stand were Canadian carriers Air Canada and CP Air, Boac, the British flag carrier, and Lufthansa of West Germany.

The announcements followed by hours the breakdown of negotiations for a new North Atlantic fares package by 40 world airlines late Wednesday night.

The talks ended abruptly after 44 days when Lufthansa cast the sole dissenting vote against a fares package that featured inexpensive excursion and youth fares.

At a news conference Thursday, H. Don Reynolds, chairman of the conference, held under the auspices of the International Air Transport Association, said Lufthansa's position was "so rigid" that there was no further room for negotiation.

The airline was given until Sept. 1 to make its final decision known. If its rejection still stood at that time, the IATA membership would face an "open rate" situation or, in effect, price warfare.

As he was making his remarks, Air Canada and BOAC were announcing their intention to seek introduction of the lower-fare requirement of whether Lufthansa came into line or an open rate situation developed.

Along with U.S. carriers Trans World Airlines and Pan American Airways, the two airlines were in the vanguard of those attending the conference in their support of a cut-rate 90-day-advanced purchase fare.

Such a fare, aimed at the vacation trade, was eventually included in the fares package and was priced at less than $300 round trip between Western Europe and the Eastern North America.

It was designed to compete with the independent charter airlines which have been gobbling up much of the scheduled airlines' business in recent years.

In his statement, Yves Pratte, chairman of Air Canada, said:

"If . . . there is no industry agreement by Sept. 1, it is still our intention to file rates in accordance with our proposals.

By Thursday night, CP Air had joined the fray. H. Bryan Renwick, vice-president of marketing and sales, announced the airline would apply to the Canadian government for fares similar to those voted on at the IATA conference.

Meantime, Lufthansa appeared to be adamant in its opposition to the fares package following the collapse of the talks. In a statement issued from its head offices in Cologne, the airline said:

"In case it comes to an open-rate situation, as looks possible, Lufthansa will offer its own tariffs which will mean an all-round simplification and reduction."

The statement said the airline would lower economy and normal fares as well as much cheaper excursion fares which would be available to all individual passengers.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Patient Deserves Full Explanation

For about six months Mr. T., 48 - year - old businessman, has been complaining of constriction and pain in his chest when he walks fast.

"At last I went to my doctor," he said. He took electrocardiograms and examined me carefully. I asked him what's wrong. He said I have an unquestionable case of myocardial ischemia. I asked him what it meant.

All he said is that my heart circulation wasn't normal - and to take it easy. I also have nitroglycerine tablets to put under my tongue when the pain gets too bad. Is ischemia the same as angina? I'd really want to know, as I prefer to face up to the truth."

• • •

COMMENT: This is a typical example in which the patient not only carries the burden of his illness, but is not sure just what it is that plagues him. I could not make the diagnosis on hearsay evidence, but it surely wasn't suspicious of being anginia pectoris.

I suggested that Mr. T. ask his doctor bluntly whether that was the diagnosis or not. His doctor obliged by saying he undoubtedly had been having attacks of angina pectoris.

Now comes the question: "Why didn't the doctor say angina in the first place? Why did he use the term myocardial ischemia"?

Well, I guess the reason is that doctors sometimes use scientific explanations, not realizing that the patient does not understand. For it is true that myocardial ischemia means insufficient blood flow in the heart's arteries. (The heart muscle doesn't get enough blood.) That is aggravated by physical exertion and emotional crises, and the heart cries out in pain (like getting a cramp in a leg muscle when enough blood isn't getting to it). The diagnosis: angina pectoris.

• • •

You might say that myocardial ischemia is mainly due to atherosclerosis of the coronary arteries causing artery disease. Another result may be the well-known heart attack, formally called coronary thrombosis or cardiac infarction. Mainly, myocardial ischemia proves that the heart muscle needs normal blood circulation, too.

Sometimes we can help by surgical intervention: bringing more blood to the heart muscles. But the usual treatment is medical: drugs like nitroglycerine, and adopting a new way of life (low fat diet, moderate exercise, no smoking, no overeating, avoiding tenseness, etc.) to fight atherosclerosis by flank attack and prevent myocardial ischemia.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I haven't said anything to my husband about it, but I think he's an adult "thumb sucker." By that I mean that he always has a pipe in his hand and keeps sucking on its stem like a baby does on a nipple.

He has given up tobacco, but carries the empty pipe around wherever he goes - attached to its favorite blanket.

Is it inferiority? Is it like carrying around a crutch to support him? Of course, I won't say a word about it because he is sensitive. Just curiosity prompts me to write. Mrs. X.

• • •

COMMENT: Whatever the reason, let him enjoy this vestigial pleasure. Whether or not it's due to oral fulfillment or whether it acts as a crutch to support an inferiority complex matter. Just be thankful that he doesn't have to lean on such support as "three packs a day" or a fifth of bourbon.

If this is a way your husband has of being a thumb sucker, remember there are thousands of actual pipe smokers who have been similarly accused. Let's not get too Freudian.

Sydney J. Harris Says

A Result Has Many Causes

What is the "cause" of my hay fever, which has begun every year around this time since I was a boy? The predisposing cause is my inherited constitution. The precipitating cause is the spread of ragweed pollen in the air around the middle of August. And the perpetuating cause is dust, a high wind, and creased sensitivity as the season progresses.

There is, also, I am convinced, a psychological factor: certain types of personalities tend to be more allergic than others. Unless this factor is taken into consideration, the "causes" of an ailment can not be properly described, understood or treated.

In his splendid book, "For Future Doctors," which I read and recommended a dozen years ago, Alan Gregg (then Director of Medical Sciences for the Rockefeller Foundation) makes an important point about the word "cause" that should be pondered by every doctor and patient:

"I doubt if I could exaggerate my feelings regarding the stupidity we show in so frequently assuming that one result is due to only one cause," begins Dr. Gregg. "We ought to use the word 'why' in the plural, and ask "Whys is this patient in coma?' not 'Why is this patient in coma?'

The next time, he suggests, that you hear someone — including your doctor — say anything that attributes a single cause for some event, ask yourself if he means the predisposing, the precipitating, or the perpetuating cause.

"A particular book," he illustrates, "of a fractured jaw in a sailor may be the result of conveyant causes — his letters from home, too much alcohol, the loan of a car by a friend, a dark night, an oncoming car on a road covered by ice at a curve, new brake linings, a skid and a telephone pole.

"These constitute the whys, and the why, of a fractured jaw. Take out any of these whys and the accident would not have occurred. Then will we wake up to the importance of multiple causation?"

These points should be engraved on the walls of every medical school lecture hall — with perhaps a few engineering school, to say nothing of classrooms in history and psychology. For next in every field is a convergence of views into the composite "whys" that defy any simple and unified solution to most human ills.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For August 14

Your birthday today: Riding out an external crisis becomes almost a hobby this year. You get so accustomed to mobilizing inner strength that it prevails and thrives well. Try to any success are your regular meditations and prayer. Today's natives include enthusiasts fishermen and missionary types.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Today is a poor market for your schemes. Perhaps you haven't made the details clear enough or perhaps the proposal you offer is entirely too clear.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): To be bold and active for the gains from today's scramble. You have a better than even-par chance. Speed up early. Whatever you learn must be applied quickly.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): State your views firmly, submit questions and assume part of the responsibilities for meeting the situation.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): It isn't quite your turn yet, though probably you are urged to start something new. Be the first to get in on a brilliant scheme.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Personal affairs thrive, become so alive and busy they may displace career effort, regular work slackens. Pursue creative attractions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): There's nothing like a list of facts, figures, sources of ideas to help you sort fantasy from economic reality. It's possible, but not very probable that you can discard financial considerations successfully for a while.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Life glides so smoothly that you are tempted to let it do so. Be sure you have prepared adequately for tomorrow and have not missed some subtle turn.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): The steadfast and systematic succeed today while those who rush in and demand instant results are disappointed, stir in convenience for all.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): There is no probability of winning an argument. See that you are not provocative, back away for the moment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): An arrangement or local environmental condition ends. Take advantage of the changes to shift your own position.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): If half the promises given now come true, it'll be a grand weekend. You have to pitch in and help.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Expenses rise in odd quirks of coincidence. Children, young people in general contribute both problems and a share in their solution.

Our Horsemen Favored For Final Gold Medal

CALI, Colombia (CP) — The sixth Pan-American Games, the richest ever and the most successful yet for Canada, ended in tropical twilight today with the favored equestrian competition for gold on Friday-daythe 13th.

A Toronto stockbroker and a refrigeration equipment distributor join with a cost accountant and a former champion figure skater over the difficult course to challenge for the last gold medal of the 194 awarded in 20 sports the last two weeks.

Then in the closing ceremony the flaming torch atop Pascual Guerrero Stadium will be doused after a token-force of the 3,000 athletes from 30 countries who competed make the traditional game-ending parade.

The Canadian equestrians already have made their best showing ever in major international competition, winning a share of five gold medals and a silver and bronze. Now it's the jumping team's turn.

Tom Gayford of Gormley, Ont., 43-year-old stockbroker, still is looking for his first medal. Jim Elder, 37-year-old equipment distributor, lacks a medal, too. The cost accountant, Torchy Millar of Watrous, Sask., and former figure skater Jacqueline Gareau of Ste. Station, Que., won an individual jumping bronze. Barbara Simpson of Calgary missed one in the same event. Miss Simpson, 22, won the Pan-American Canadian woman's figure-skating title when she was 16.

The pickings were slim for Canada on the next-to-last day of the Games Thursday, just one bronze in field hockey in the Canadian team of 312 athletes goes home with more gold won than any other from Canada in this quadrennial hemispheric show's 30-year history.

As host country four years ago in Winnipeg, Canada won more medals than in Cali but less gold, and the reality is the gold column that counts.

The Canadians equalled their best post-war showing anywhere, but still finished third in the first-all standing as fast coming Cuba showed a vast improvement over its Winnipeg performance and finished second, a spot Canada held in Winnipeg.

The Canadians and Cubans picked the pockets of their rich American neighbor for gold medals and the Americans go home with 20 less gold than they won in 1967 although 13 extra ones were at stake in Cali.

With just the equestrian jumping left, the Canadian team totalled 90 medals—18 gold, 20 silver and 42 bronze. In Winnipeg, Canada won 12 gold, 27 silver and 43 bronze, a total of 82.

Canada's gold production equals the 18 won at the Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh last year. The all-time high in 1930 was 41 years ago in the first British Empire Games at Hamilton, Ont.

The United States, which didn't send an equestrian team, completed its medal chase with the first gold cycling gold ever in the Games Thursday and won the over-all team title with 105 gold, 76 silver and 46 bronze for 218 total. In Winnipeg, the American's won 227 in 176 events—120 gold, 63 silver and 44 bronze.

The Cubans embarrassed the U.S. no end by winning the basketball gold medal and took away other golds in events dominated by the Americans since the Games began in 1951.

Cuba won 30 gold, 30 silver and 30 bronze, a total of 106. In Winnipeg the Cubans finished fifth with eight gold, 14 silver and 18 bronze—a 45 total.

In replacing Canada as the chief Yankee chaser in the Games, Cuba unveiled a world class triple jumper in Pedro Perez, whose leap of 57 feet one inch was the only record set in track and field competition.

The Canadian feminine team fought the American girls to a stand-off in track and field, each with five gold. Six Canadian gold came in swimming, compared with three at Winnipeg, and Hanson of Sharon Ont., winning two gold in dressage.

Brazil took both basketball gold medals, beating Cuba 63-62 Thursday night to win the men's tournament with a perfect 5-0 slate.

Lower Great Lakes Cleanup Is Planned

Ottawa Will Assist With Sewage Plants

TORONTO (CP) — Canada and Ontario agreed Friday to spend 3250 million by 1975 building and improving municipal sewage treatment plants around the lower Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River.

However large portions of the agreement signed at Queen's Park Friday will be cancelled unless Canada and the United States sign an international agreement to clean up the Great Lakes this fall.

The Canada - Ontario agreement was signed by Robert Andras, minister of state for urban affairs, Jack Davis, federal minister of the environment, and George Kerr, Ontario's minister of the environment.

The deal is that Ottawa, through Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., will lend Ontario municipalities two-thirds of the cost of building or refurbishing sewage treatment plants. That arrangement was already available under the National Housing Act and 25 per cent of the loan is forgiveable.

But Mr. Kerr said Ontario wanted to speed up its program to meet the expected objectives for water quality in an international pact. Prime Minister Trudeau and U.S. President Richard Nixon will likely sign in late October or early November.

So Ontario agreed to ensure that municipalities install or improve $250 million worth of sewage treatment equipment by 1975.

When the ministers were asked whether the agreement was contingent on the U.S. signing the international pact, Mr. Kerr did not complete his answer. Mr. Andras said "aspects" were conditional and Mr. Davis said they were "not fundamental."

Both federal ministers expressed optimism that the U.S. will sign and live up to the international pact.

"We're very confident the Americans will participate," Mr. Andras said.

Mr. Davis said: "I can't imagine the U.S. turning its back on the agreement in the next few years."

Asked what would be done if the U.S. violated the proposed pact, Mr. Kerr said, tongue-in-cheek: "Get a couple of gun boats."

Mr. Davis said the pact would result in "the biggest cleanup ever done anywhere in the world."

The Canada-Ontario agreement, the fate of which apparently rests with the international pact, also says Canada and Ontario will each chip in up to $3 million by 1975 to finance joint research projects in sewage treatment technology. A review board will be set up to look at municipal sewage projects in the Lower Great Lakes.

The figure of $250 million, Mr. Kerr said, is an estimate of what it will take to provide adequate sewage facilities, based on a survey by the federal government and the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

The first installment of Ottawa's contribution—$10 million for this year—will be delivered "forthwith", without waiting for the treaty, Mr. Andras said. Under previous arrangements,

Syria Moves Troops

Vicio

'Come quick, dear! I've found a country you've never been to!'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuter)—Jordanian and Syrian forces stood face to face across their border today and reliable reports from Damascus said Syria is pouring reinforcements into the latest Middle East trouble spot.

Heavy columns of tanks and artillery units were seen moving up to the border and deploying against a possible surprise attack, the reports said.

Tanks, artillery and aircraft have gone into action in the last three days, with each side accusing the other of starting the fighting. The clashes followed a Syrian accusation that Jordan tried to liquidate the Palestine resistance movement during military operations last month.

Syria closed its land frontier with Jordan July 25 and then Thursday night broke off all relations with King Hussein's regime and closed its airspace to Jordanian planes.

Fighting broke out Wednesday but so far has been confined to shelling duels, quick forays across the frontier and, Friday, strafing runs by Syrian fighters against a Jordanian military post.

The use of planes, watched by Reuters Amman correspondent Mohammed Attallah, implicated Syria directly in the fighting, since the commando organizations have no aircraft.

The only fatality reported so far is a Syrian soldier who died in the first clash.

Tradeaus Off To Visit Europe

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and his wife Margaret set out secretly Friday for a 25-day visit to Europe that will be part business, mainly pleasure and as private as he can keep it.

Among the few snippets of information to emerge from the prime minister and European reports is that he will visit President Josip Tito of Yugoslavia about two weeks from now and Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain Sept. 3 and 6.

The Trudeaus, who returned early Monday from a 10-day sea tour of Atlantic Canada, are due home from Europe Sept. 7. That is the day Parliament resumes after the summer recess, but the prime minister is not expected to be in the Commons until Wednesday, Sept. 8 .

Much of the vacation part of the European trip will be spent on the shores of the Adriatic Sea.

That will take in Yugoslavia and also, most likely, Italy. London comes later.

The visit with President Tito at the end of this month will be at the presidential summer home on tne private island of Brioni.

Butter Sale Price Is Already Raised

OTTAWA (CP) — Although the Canadian Dairy Commission will not begin buying butter from creameries at a higher price until Monday, it began selling it for three cents more a pound Thursday.

Dr. S. C. Barry, chairman of the commission, said Friday there was nothing irregular about the situation.

The commission announced Thursday that it would be raising the price it pays for butter, skim milk powder and cheddar cheese in order to permit further increases in the prices received by dairy farmers for milk and cream.

Purchase price for butter will increase to 68 cents from 65; for skim milk powder to 26 cents a pound from 24 and for cheddar cheese to 54 from 51 cents a pound.

Two persons on the train were seriously injured, the report added.

The radio said the train, carrying food grains and an ambulance, struck a mine when it was 10 miles from the East Pakistan border.

Three persons were injured, the report said.

The radio said the train hit the mine near the Indian town of Karimganj, which is located on the border with East Pakistan in an area where both India and Pakistan have alleged numerous border violations by each other's security forces in the last several months.

The train was believed to be heading to the neighboring Indian state of Tripura, a normally food-deficient state that now imports about 600 tons of food a day because of the presence of about 1.2 million East Pakistani refugees—almost equal to the territory's normal population of 1.5 million.

India Maintains Train Blasted By Pakistani Agents

NEW DELHI (AP) — An Indian freight train and an ambulance were blown up today by mines planted by Pakistani agents, in Eastern Assam state, the government radio reported.

The radio said the train, carrying food for East Pakistani refugees, struck a mine about 10 miles from the border with East Pakistan.

An Indian ambulance raveling on a road parallel to the train tracks also was blown up when it hit mines planted by saboteurs, the radio said.

Shopping at The Local Market Today

Local Farmers' Prices Rise Little in 5 Years

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Cost of index figures show a sharp rise in the prices of vegetables in July.

But a long-term increase in produce prices would be rather difficult to determine from prices quoted on the Belleville farmers' market.

A comparison of today's market prices with those of five years ago, shows, that the cost of some produce is up but in other instances there has been little change and in some isolated cases, even a drop in price.

This morning's local market was one of the best-attended so far this season, with a wide range of autumn fruits being offered, some of them for the first time this year.

Niagara grown peaches are making their first appearance of the season with Dixie Reds etc) being sold at $1.60 per six quart basket or $1.10 for the four quart size.

At another stand, early peaches (small size) could be bought for $1.50 per six quart basket.

Five years ago on a comparative date (Aug. 13), peaches were quoted.

Corn also was quoted at the ... price today (60 cents per dozen) as it was in 1966.

Also tomatoes were relatively the same price, with a four-quart basket being quoted at $1. Five years ago the tab was $1.50 for a six-quart basket.

But potatoes were down slightly at 60 cents per six-quart basket, as compared with the quote of 75 cents five years ago.

Bunched vegetables appeared to have remained about the same, with 25 cents being the top price asked for radishes and carrots and beets. Onions were 15 cents per bunch.

Cucumbers were two for 25 cents, while five years ago the tab was a dime or three for 25 cents.

Five years ago yellow transparents and red astrachan apples were quoted at 35 cents per quart box. Today the quote was $1 per small basket — take your pick as to variety.

But there is a marked increase in the price of blueberries which this year are quoted at $1 per quart. Five years ago the price was 75 cents.

Omelette lovers, however, are getting a bit of a break.

Five years ago large eggs were being quoted at 65 cents and mediums at 60 cents per dozen.

Today everyone knows what the "much publicized "chicken and egg" war has been doing to the price of eggs. Today eggs are only two thirds of 1966 prices.

Night Border Battle Fought 45 Miles South of Belfast

BELFAST (CP) — British Army troops exchanged gunfire with terrorists early today near the border of the Irish Republic, shattering a calm that had settled over Northern Ireland after a week of bloody street fighting.

Reports indicated several of the rebels were killed, but an army spokesman would say only that "it is believed some of the opposition were hit."

British Army headquarters said the fight involved "an extensive exchange" of gunfire between a patrol and shadowy figures about 1,000 yards inside the Northern Ireland border, and near the town of Newry, 45 miles south of Belfast. The town is strategically located along routes suspected of being used by rebels to smuggle arms and gunmen into the North.

The IRA wants control of Newry in its fight to unite largely-Protestant Ulster with the predominantly Catholic Irish Republic.

An IRA loudspeaker truck toured the town Friday warning businesses to close and "civil rights supporters" to stay home.

Elsewhere Northern Ireland was relatively quiet. Seventeen persons were arrested in minor incidents with only a handful of rocks and bottles thrown.

A British general said Friday that the Irish Republican Army had been "virtually defeated," although as he spoke, Joseph Cahill, an IRA spokesman, was telling a news conference two miles away that "the fight goes on."

Brig. Marston Tickell, British chief of staff in Northern Ireland, told a news conference that the army inflicted some 50 IRA casualties in the last week, and jailed more than 200 terrorists.

"The catch was up to our highest expectations," he said.

Cahill, chief of staff of the radical Provisional wing of the IRA, talked with reporters in a west Belfast hall as an armed detachment stood guard outside.

He said that contrary to British Army claims, the IRA was not beaten and has sufficient arms and ammunition to keep up guerrilla warfare.

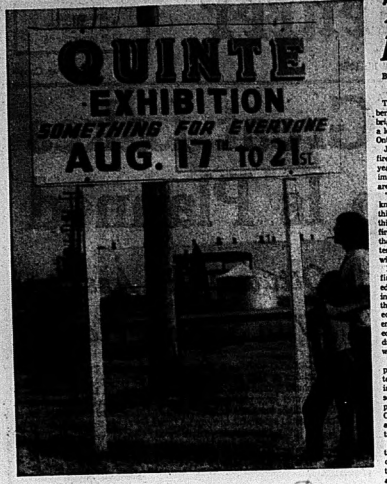
Meanwhile, Bernadette Devlin, 23-year-old member of the British Parliament and a leader of the civil rights movement in the North, told 2,000 supporters in Dublin:



"In the North the people are bringing down the pillars of a society that has enslaved them for 50 years. Your task is to bring down the other—Premier

Tweed Volunteer Firefighter Is Honored by Fire Marshal

By RACHAEL SPENCER
Special Correspondent

TWEED — A veteran member of Tweed's volunteer fire brigade has been honored with a long service medal from the Ontario Fire Marshall.

Johnny Orr has fought fires in the district for 41 years and has seen the biggest improvements come in the area of equipment.

"We can now answer a call knowing that we have something to work with," he said this week. A further gain over firefighting in the old days is the back-up support of an extensive mutual aid agreement with other fire departments.

His father, Thomas Orr was fire chief when Johnny joined the Beaver Fire Brigade in January, 1930. At that time, the major piece of fire-fighting equipment was a Waterous engine and pump manufactured in Brantford in 1918. It was drawn to a fire by hand or with horses.

Horses were obtained by paying $2 a trip to the first team arriving at the fire hall in response to the alarm, sounded by ringing the handpulled bell on the Methodist Church. The bell pull was kept accessible to the public at all times.

Water was obtained from the Moira River, Stoco Lake, or from four underground tanks located at four points around town, including under the fire hall. Two tanks, holding 25,000 gallons each, were filled by the engine from the river. One was fed by a spring and another by gravity from the lake, 600 feet away.

Looking back over more than 40 years service, Mr. Orr recalls 1931 as one of the blackest in Tweed's history.

Tweed Mill was destroyed by fire and in May of that year three children of Fenella Rashotte died as the result of a barn fire on his property. Later that year, the old Hat Factory, used by the LaFontaine Brothers as a printing office, was burned for the second time.

In December, 1932, the Gordon Steel Works was destroyed by fire. Only the office and a small portion of the north end of the plant were saved by members of the fire department, who fought the blaze in 18-below-zero temperatures.

Few fires of a serious nature were recorded during the next 10 years. In contrast to 1931, only four fire alarms were recorded during 1941.

Ed Way's garage, next to the hydro office was destroyed in 1943, and in 1947 Foster's Dairy and Tweed food locators were burned. Wilson's sawmill at the north end of the town was burned in 1948.

The home of Ezra Scott was burned in 1949, with the family barely managing to escape the flames. The following year 5-year-old John Henry Martin was burned to death when the Martin home was destroyed. Also in 1950 a man was burned fatally when a truck collided with a CPR train, setting the vehicle on fire.

The rear of Tweed Creamery was gutted by fire in 1953 with damage estimated at about $5,000. In 1956 the W. T. Hawkins potato chip plant was burned, and the industry was subsequently moved to Belleville.

The Bol-O-Way building was badly damaged by fire in 1959 and in 1961 the Tweed Steel Works was destroyed by fire for the second time in 20 years with estimated damages of $200,000.

The brigade battled a $100,000 blaze that destroyed the James Rivers garage in 1966 and in 1969 confined a fire that threatened to destroy the town's business district.

Man Injured

PICTON (Staff) — A Picton man was treated for injuries early this morning at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital for injuries received in a one-car collision at the corner of Maitland and Lowe Streets.

Injured was Dennis Frost, 20, of 62 Mary St., driver and sole occupant of the car.

A hospital spokesman said this morning he was treated for a broken nose and minor cuts and bruises, then released.

Jeck Lynch and his government.

"If we are to build an all-Ireland workers' republic, it's time you did your share," she told the crowd.

Prime Minister Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland accused Lynch of "hypocrisy and cant" for urging London to replace his Belfast regime.

"What is apparent," said Faulkner, "is that no further attempt by us to deal constructively with the Dublin government is possible."

He accused Lynch of encouraging the IRA's terror campaign in the North.

"This organization is based on the Irish Republic," Faulkner said. "It trains and organizes in the Irish Republic; it sends across from the Irish Republic the explosives, the arms, and the ammunition intended to kill and maim Ulster people; it enjoys in the Irish Republic a safe haven and an atmosphere of approval."

GEORGE (Carman) OSBORNE
Barrie — Belleville

Former resident of this city, George (Carman) Osborne, 182 Edgehill Road, Barrie, died in Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto on Friday. He was in his 56th year.

Son of Mrs. Catherine Osborne and the late Walter Osborne, he was born in Belleville and was a veteran of World War II with 16 years service in the RCAF as a mechanic. He retired from the service in 1955.

Aside from his mother he is survived by his wife, the former Elizabeth Davis, a son William and two daughters, Mrs. Gloria Jean Stewart, and Miss Jacqueline Osborne all of Belleville, and four grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Monday from the John R. Bush Funeral Home with service in the chapel at 2 p.m. conducted by Gerald Mumby of the Jehovah Witnesses. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

Cleanup

Ontario had already been allocated another $27 million for this year from CHMC.

The $250 million does not include an estimate for industrial waste, which Mr. Kerr said is handled through existing legislation.

The municipalities involved are near the international section of the St. Lawrence River, Lakes Erie and Ontario and all connecting waterways below Lake Huron.

They include London, Kitchener, Guelph, Toronto, Oshawa, Hamilton and Cornwall, among others, but not those in the Ottawa Valley or central or northern Ontario, Mr. Andras said.

For the municipalities, it will mean that they can obtain a loan of two-thirds the cost of construction or improvements with 25 per cent of this forgivable. In other words, they could get one-sixth of the project free.

The province has an arrangement whereby it will build and continue to own sewage treatment facilities for those municipalities that have smaller assessment bases. Under this arrangement, the municipality buys the service at a certain rate, in much the same way as power is purchased from Ontario Hydro.

Asked what would be done with municipalities that did not agree to set up adequate sewage treatment, Mr. Kerr said there would be "negotiations" and that they could be "forced" to stop polluting.

IN MEMORIAM

GRAHAM — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandma, who passed away August 14, 1965.
I lost a mother with a heart of gold,
Who was kind to young and old;
Her smile was sweet, her voice was untold,
When I farewell she fell asleep,
I know she's happy, for God in love,
I have her but God has gained.
One of the best has been taken from the world contained.
Ever remembered by daughters Ruby, Dassie and families.

ELLIS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away August 15, 1965.
Sadly missed by wife Lena and family.

ELLIS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away August 15, 1965.
Cold was the hand we held in parting,
Dim was the eye that closed so slow,
Pale was the brow we softly kissed her,
Sweet was the word we spoke, we know.
Ever remembered by son Dale and daughter-in-law Lorna.

GRAHAM — In loving memory of a very dear mother and grandma, who left us Aug. 14, 1965.
Sad to say years ago, August 14, 1965.
And her hand we cannot touch.
Left us with memories,
Of the one we loved so much.
Left us with heartaches,
And sorrows untold,
When will we meet again,
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our memory.

This Just Isn't My Kind of Job

The Penny Carnival, held at the old arena Thursday, was a place of many moods, as these two young people show. While the park leader (left) ponders over the responsibilities of the booth, the young man takes serious thoughts on finding another line of work. The sponge throw was one of the many booths set up in the arena by the local parks in an attempt to show what the children have been doing all summer and to raise a little money to purchase craft supplies for next year. The only thing that didn't cost a penny was a glass of coke. It sold for five cents.

Trenton Highrise Decision Deferred

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON (Staff) — More than 30 west side residents mounted an all-day attack Thursday against the proposed Klemencic highrise in an Ontario Municipal Board hearing but the OMB decision was deferred.

Presiding at Trenton's small council chamber and faced with a mounting gallery of objectors and supporters, OMB member David Jamieson, wasted no time shifting the hearing to the larger meeting hall in the Community Gardens where he heard a constant stream of evidence for five hours.

The Town of Trenton, supporting the seven - storey apartment project for the Fraser estate on Dundas West, was represented by Toronto lawyer, James Taylor, and Klemencic by Belleville barrister, J. D. Templeman, while neighbours of the highrise site — many well-spoken professionals — had their strength in numbers.

Objectors used many standard anti-highrise arguments. They said their property values would decline, traffic on surrounding streets would increase, views of the Bay of Quinte would be obstructed and the tower would cast shadows on their lots depriving them of sunlight.

Dr. H. Hutchison of 228 Dundas West told the hearing children "refuse to go to Hanna Park or the one on the mountain because of the people who use it (hippies)."

He said at times there are more than 20 children playing in his back yard because of this and lack of playground facilities at apartment houses now in the area. In a brief to council, residents had suggested Mr. Klemencic donate the Fraser site for park purposes.

The doctor's wife, Jean, who represents Trenton on the Hastings County Board of Education, levelled criticism against town council for overriding recommendations of the planning board. Planning Board wanted more parking and less units.

"If council can go against planning board on two vital issues — density and parking allowances — I feel there is no protection for anybody," said Mrs. Hutchison.

Another medical man, Dr. D. E. Campbell of 24 Catherine St., told the Toronto lawyer James Taylor, hired by council to fight for the highrise, he meant no personal affront but registered objection that the town would spend money on large legal fees to fight its own taxpayers.

The hearing had been told by civic officials that the planning board had approved the plans for the Klemencic tower but Mrs. Barbara Patrick, wife of planning board chairman, Dr. Robert Patrick, questioned this.

"My husband is chairman of the planning board and I understand he never saw the plans," she said during the morning session.

Dr. Patrick appeared for the afternoon hearing and confirmed that he had not seen the plans. He indicated that the board had dealt with the Klemencic proposal swiftly "because there seemed to be some urgency" on the part of council.

Ralph Martin, another area resident, suggested council had not given the matter adequate consideration. He pointed out that a traffic count on neighborhood streets had not been done before council considered the question but one was commissioned as evidence for the hearing.

"The traffic count was done after they approved the rezoning," he said, adding, "Do some councillors trying to push this through are the same ones attempting to delay other developments in Trenton."

Doctors in the vicinity, particularly Dr. W. L. Griffiths, told of treating many accident victims on the streets adjacent to the proposed building and in her dramatic testimony, with its accident blood imagery, Mrs. D. H. Tugwood of 100 Film Street asked the hearing, "how could council wash their hands knowing the way the traffic is?"

Hearing chairman Jamieson seemed impressed with one argument, at least, made by the objectors — that the tower would alter the character of the neighborhood described in the sessions as "a quiet backwater".

Mrs. Tugwood told the chairman she did not object to highrises but felt the Fraser property was not the right place for one. She said she liked daisies in the fields but not on her lawn.

One thing became clear in the pro - highrise arguments of Mr. Templeman — if the rezoning for the tower is rejected, the builder will fit in several small apartment houses on the site to accommodate approximately the same number of people.

"The problems that come with 170 people will come regardless," he said, referring to the proposal as one of prestige construction compared to that for six-plexes.

James Taylor for the town suggested that the hearing weigh the benefits of highrise against the multi-structure alternative. He indicated that the tower would provide assets, balconies and the building itself would consume substantially less of the property area than would a sixplex development.

Two realtors, W. D. Whitley and David Lewis, gave evidence in support of the proposal, with Mr. Lewis saying "I cannot see why the highrise would slow up property values" (of area homes).

He explained, "I talk to people wanting accommodation six days out of seven," and wanted those wanting apartmen would go to Belleville, if they could not find suitable housing in Trenton.

Maj. D. G. Thornton, personnel services officer at CFB Trenton, reinforced the housing need case when he told the hearing he now had about 30 applications for service personnel for housing in the area.

"I think they are going to Belleville, Brighton and Frankford because they cannot find accommodation in Trenton," he said.

Police Continue Festival Check

A spokesman for district 9 headquarters here said this morning that one girl lodged a complaint of assault. A case of common assault was also lodged, as one man reported a gash on his scalp, said to be inflicted by a member of Satan's Choice motorcycle gang that invaded the Quinlin farm Saturday night.

However, police here said they could find no evidence to a car being burned on the site by Satan's Choice members.

"No burned car was towed out of the grounds and we could find no disabled car on the farm after the festival" said the spokesman. Nor could the police find evidence of tent arson, earlier alleged to have taken place at Satan Choice's arrival at the festival.

By Monday, said the spokesman, most of the beer bottles littering the 200-acre Quinlin farm had disappeared, and the parently picked up for the funds by the family and another competitor.

Few of the Quinlin's four dozen or more workers remained on the farm the day after the early close of the rockfest Sunday afernoon.

It's How You Hold Your Mouth

Booths erected by city parks lined the ice surface of the old arena Thursday as part of the annual Penny Carnival sponsored by the city Recreation-Arena Committee. There is lots of concentration here as this young lady tries to win at the ring toss game. Bingo, Fish Pond and Bean Bag throws were among the numerous games devised by the youngsters. A penny was all it cost for the 1,000 or more people to try the games. Proceeds will go to purchasing supplies for next year's craft classes in the parks.

Mayor Refutes Carter As Debate Continues

By MARGARET BAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — Mayor Margaret Ackerman has charged Colin Carter, chairman of the citizens' committee, with being "misinformed in details re successive proposals to the town council for building and renovations".

In a press release issued Thursday morning, Mayor Ackerman said Mr. Carter, through being misinformed had misinformed the public, in her opinion, through a recent letter—to the editor of the Picton Gazette.

The letter, published last Wednesday after council accepted a demolition tender for Mary Street School, outlines in point form all cost figures relating to construction of a lockup and town office facilities.

"All facts are available to anyone through the clerk-treasurer of Picton. These are verified by letter, committee reports and minutes of council. It is unfortunate Mr. Carter did not avail himself of this privilege," she observed.

Mayor Ackerman stated the total amount spent by council to date is not $5500 as Mr. Carter believes but $3,750 — a small amount including demolition costs.

She explained Mr. Carter incorrectly stated a sketch drawing of Mary Street School cost $900. No such payment was made for this sketch according to Mayor Ackerman.

An architect's plan for a new municipal building with proposed changes recommended by Jack Taylor, advisor for the Ontario Police Commission will not cost $900, as Mr. Carter thinks. The architect's fee is four to seven per cent of the cost estimate. Town council has been advised by letter from town engineers Totten and Sims that a conservative estimate as per the sketch drawing they had made would be $75,000.

The press release continues, "If council had not used the facts, advice of professional engineers and their discretion, the cost to the taxpayers would be a further $3,000.

It is also noted the architect's estimated cost of a new building is $68,000, which is $8,000 more than a figure specified by council but the additional sum represents the architect's fee.

Mayor Ackerman ended her press statement with a reminder to the chairman of the citizens' committee.

"No, Mr. Carter, this projected new structure is not designed to be a tribute to our term in office. It is being built after careful consideration to all other alternatives. It is being built and planned by an elected group who have nothing more in mind but their duty to office, in the best interest of the people, the taxpayers and the future taxpayers of the town of Picton."

Colin Carter, who collected $1,700 in pledges toward a new front for Mary Stree School, if it were renovated as a municipal building, has refused this money to the town for its proposed new building.

The front of the school, had it been renovated, would have been dedicated in memory of veterans of World War II and the Korean War.

Mayor Ackerman said yesterday afternoon she had inquired about donation of the fund toward the new building and had been told "No way." She added the town already has a hospital named in honor of its war dead and a monument has been dedicated to their memory on Picton's Main Street, Picton, in her opinion, has not been remiss in honoring its soldiers.

Colin Carter today replied to Mayor Ackerman's statements, commenting he is "delighted" to learn the architects now have decided to draw plans free of charge.

He referred to a point in the mayor's press release which emphasized a sketch drawing of Mary St. School renovation did not cost $900 but was done free of charge.

"No doubt they're looking ahead to the $75,000 plan, on the tree," he remarked, referring to cost-free preliminary sketches. Mr. Carter said he consulted an engineer and was told the $68,650 cost figure for a new municipal building was "ridiculously low" and would more likely approximate $75,000.

Council at its last meeting approved a revision of original plans to include a police lunch room and locker storage facilities. This revision, in Mr. Carter's opinion, will boost the cost to at least $75,000.

"If there was a $68,450 estimate for the original plan, and three or four rooms must be added, it is not going to do it under $75,000!" demanded Mr. Carter.

Mayor Ackerman stressed yesterday this figure is "supposition" as no revised plans has been completed yet. She asserted that a citizens' petition signed by 1,219 persons did not destroy council's concept of "adequate facilities" after it had approved a $32,000 plan for an addition to the fire hall.

According to Colin Carter, Councillor James Bird moved the adoption of this plan; immediately after re-circulation of the petition council decided two additional calls are needed and the cost figure was revised to $78,000.

Mayor Ackerman insisted the difference in estimates was caused by projected renovation costs of the present police - fire offices and the addition of two cells in the plan.

Mr. Carter observed "I find it a remarkable coincidence that council decided more cells were needed immediately after the petition was circulated".

The former councillor referred to an area newspaper's headline titled "Carter's last stand" and declared "we're still on the warpath".

Moving Along

Belleville's Dundas Street bridge development, allied to the overpass and improvements to the Bay Bridge Road, is an example of what can be done to transform a formerly inadequate route and tacky landscape.

Remember the unkempt roadside along the rail tracks, not to mention the dust and litter by the dump and Zwick's Island? Now the old dump is shedding its former image as bulldozers do some levelling in the early stages of preparation for a park and recreation complex.

When the latter is completed, sometime in the future, the transformation will be complete. Even now it is difficult to recall the former configuration of road and landscape in this area embracing Highways 2 and 37. The landscaping around the Four Seasons Hotel is maturing rapidly and it is enhanced by a verdant relic of the old days, the poplars along the surviving section of the original route.

And with the new Quinte Mall on North Front Street on the verge of completion yet another access route reflects the degree of improvement in the city's image that has taken place in recent times.

Next we shall see work commencing on the widening of No. 2 highway, another project in line with the times here.

Disperse Them

As Northern Ireland searches for an end to its travail the one solution which seems most obvious but which could take years (barring some great rise) is eradication of the industrial tenement areas and dispersal of their warring factions around the province.

We have progressed beyond exiling convicts and anarchists to some remote colony and in any event few such places remain, but since Protestants and Catholics in Ulster, and we are thinking mainly of Belfast and Londonderry, live in what we have described as tinderdry proximity the only real and effective solution is to house them elsewhere. What if it should denude the city of much of its industrial force, the peace that should result would be worth it. In any event industry needs to be decentralized and homes — single dwellings at that — built in new sub-divisions along with green areas and recreation facilities so lacking in the life of these people at present.

The existing tenements are hotbeds of tension and anarchy, and foreign to the concepts of modern architecture. Even new apartment blocks have proved trouble spots. Meanwhile ,forgotten amidst the turmoil is the fact that whole sections of middle-class Belfast and fat suburbs, not to mention other communities throughout the province, have remained quiet and orderly. All the more reason why the older tenement areas where the trouble is spawned should be offered the opportunity of a similar decent way of life, free from strife and religious animosities.

Meanwhile the words of Irish playwright St. John Irvine ring as true today as ever: "All changes for the better are made, first, in the minds of individuals. A case could, I think, be made for the belief that all changes for the worse start in the mind of the mob. The mob is a weak and brainless thing, subject to panic and emotion, and easily dominated by empty eloquence."

There may be a lesson incidentally in the fact that refugees who went south to the republic found no Shangri-la, not even a loaf of bread, and had to return to the blasted Ulster heath they had shunned in its extremity. So much for Premier Lynch's chances of a united Ireland.

Rural Incentives

Journalist Richard Lunn of Hillier may have been defeated as an NDP candidate for the Prince Edward-Lennox provincial riding but his call for increased agricultural production in the area deserves support.

Mr. Lunn wants the area developed agriculturally and with government support. If the area's full potential were realized, he believes things would be a 100 per cent better than they are now. Moreover, with the rural scene realizing such potential, communities could then look for industry.

The rural areas, he says, have been exporting people for 60 years, and the main reason is there is nothing to hold them in the area.

A lot of land we feel, does go undeveloped for want of a concerted policy. The government should encourage this, as well as providing further incentives for young people to enter agriculture.

Ireland: an Inglorious Record of Violence

Ottawa Journal

The tragedy of Ireland is that old passions are not allowed to die: the past is still prologue. The Irish, seem, they hurry their dead and go on fighting as if the world has stood still since the 17th century. But surely there is no glory about it any more. How could there be in recently acts against the innocent? Yet the compulsion to bleed from self-inflicted wounds seems to have become irresistible. Each death to date has only deepened their fixture.

Perhaps these judgements are too hard. Perhaps the latest gun battles, the bombings and the deaths in Northern Ireland will purge the emotions and the gunmen will not be allowed to prevail. How many more lives must be lost, or homes destroyed before the extremists on both sides are cut off by their people as cancers? Self - preservation must be still a stronger instinct than hate, even in Ireland.

We must hope for this for there is of course no "solution" to be imposed even if some government — any government, Stormont, Westminster or Dublin — had the will or the courage to impose it.

Direct rule from Westminster is put forward as if this would be the answer. But direct rule was in fact practised for more than a century and solved nothing. People do like to govern themselves!

Nor would the other extreme be workable, heard more frequently now, that Britain sling her Ireland to the Irish. That might turn the problem around, there would be less bloodshed if the British troops were to withdraw?

Fortunately, the British have no thought of abandoning Northern Ireland now, Prime Minister Heath is not a man to back away when the going gets rough; more British troops, not less are destined for Ulster.

Prime Minister Faulkner was driven to desperate measures in invoking the Special Powers Act which allows for arrest and detention without trial. The Act is as repugnant as Canada's War Measures Act. Perhaps it was a mistake. But who can render judgment?

Faulkner, who appears to be a well-meaning man, was faced with what he considered a deliberate plot to upset life in Northern Ireland, to discredit and destroy the government.

The level of the attacks had increased. There was evidence of well-planned operations and well - organized terrorism, something more serious than even the spontaneous sectarian battling of 1969. Faulkner was entitled to believe that this was different, and the British Government obviously agreed.

The double tragedy is that this bloodshed will set back the reforms which have already been started in Ulster. Of course the pace of change was too slow for many; it always is. But this is an Ireland where there are no miracles any more.

Benjamin Disraeli said in a speech in 1849: "Ireland is in a state of social decomposition." Belfast today is the measure of how far she is still allowed to bedevil the present.

Disciplined ... But Cold And Ruthless Too Says Observer Of 'Children of God' Group

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

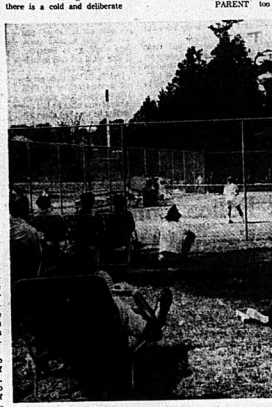
As a former resident and reader, may I be permitted a few lines. Recent first-hand experience with the group of activists who choose to call themselves The Children of God, has concerned me. Having some affection for young people, I would like to report in the public interest.

First knowledge of the existence of this group came as my 17-year-old son called me from Belleville, just over a month ago to say that he was greatly disturbed by the twisting of Scripture, as presented by the group, and also that some of his own intimate friends had been convinced by the long hours of arguments and had signed themselves over to the group.

Natural love for our own son, as well as my high regard for several of the individuals deciding to go with the group, caused great distress. As a disciple of Jesus Christ, however, I cannot feel free to dash off, in any direction, whatever the distress. The Psalmist declares that great peace is the possession of those who do love the Law of God, and further that nothing shall offend them. (Ps. 119:165). Nonetheless, at my first opportunity, I was glad to be able to learn of the facts of the matter.

First occasion came as I learned that one of the group's members was held under arrest in the Regional Detention Centre Napanee. As I visited with this boy, he talked freely of his experience with the group. He had been involved in many commonly reported activities, experienced drugs, etc. and now, in the demands of Christian discipleship, found at last something to challenge all of his resources and abilities. Please note that this boy had newly been introduced to this discipleship and had tried to practice it for about one year. He was filled with questions as to his place and responsibility in society.

Later, I found opportunity to meet personally with some of those of my own acquaintance, who had been persuaded to go with the group. In those of whom I had personal contact over some years, I sensed the tremendous attraction of this group and their demands as they very subtly apply only selected portions of Scripture, chosen to suit their own purposes. Since most churches teach people to honor the Scriptures, these young people are at a distinct disadvantage when approached on this basis. Their reaction is naturally sympathetic, unless sufficiently schooled in the whole teaching of Scripture to be able to balance approach and refute the arguments.



Again, I was able to meet from the group, those who were strangers to me and talk freely with them. Without exception they are recent converts, many from undesirable backgrounds, therefore relatively untaught and immature in the life of a disciple. Let it be noted also, that they are all youth of high ideas, devoting themselves without reserve to the calling that is being urged upon them with unremitting pressure.

Finally I met the upper echelons of the organization and noted at once the strict military discipline imposed. With these senior officers, I find no idealism at all, no recognition or response to common human values of home or society, let alone Christian teachings. Rather there is a cold and deliberate ruthlessness that brooks no opposition.

Saturday, Aug. 7, I visited the Rock Festival on the Quinte farm. As an ex-soldier I observed the military drill with which the whole operation was controlled. Every movement in the compound area and vicinity was monitored double-checked and reported to HQ. Several hours of observation, with keen interest and sincere desire to be sympathetic, produced only sadness and regret.

The whole operation seemed based on fear. This conclusion is supported by qualified observers, questioned at the time. This attitude of fear, defense and deception is evidently contrary to all Christian teaching, and points up the extreme innocence and immaturity of those to whom they appeal.

Quinte Tournament

Tennis is becoming increasingly popular in the Quinte area. We are shedding the unsophistication that goes with the Victorian "Anyone for Tennis?" concept of gentility and instead are beginning to realize it is one of the toughest and most challenging of games. Canada of course has some fine players of international calibre and there has always been a talented nucleus of players in this area. Now however there is increased general interest as more young people take up the game. The Canadian championships, featuring some of the world's top players, are in progress in Toronto this week and the picture above is eloquent of the renewed interest locally. It was taken at the recent championships in Trenton. (Picture by Elmer Boston)

Final Decision Deferred

Liberal Caucus Cagey About Televising Commons

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTWA — There is no end of parliamentary television goodies in the planning for you this fall.

Not only is the electronic press getting a new radio - TV "hot-room" all to itself for the public pillory of the politicians individually, but the House of Commons may be on the brink of the ultimate folly of going on the boob-tube collectively.

The new radio - TV "hot-room," where Cabinet Ministers and some backbenchers undergo the ordeal of playing the part of the accused for the electronic reporters who see themselves as Mr. Public Prosecutor, is under construction in a well in the basement of the Commons.

The actual televising of the Commons has gone beyond the planning stage, and is in that strange state of suspension between hopes and fears of realization.

The TV cameras are set to roll.

The House itself may be set — if political caution can be overcome — to go for a TV audition soon after the September re-opening of the Session.

A special Commons committee on procedure and organization has studied — and more than flirted with — the let-us-all-be-TV-stars idea, and recommended an "experimental encasement in front of the Daily Question Period.

In storage is the required audio and visual recording equipment to transform the Commons into a TV soundstage.

The idea, back last June before the Commons recessed for the summer, was to make a pilot TV film of the Daily Question Period over a two-week time - span.

Everything would be taped on a closed TV circuit, not released to radio and television, but held for private viewing — and assessment of the potential for positive publicity — by the Honorable Members.

All that, as they say in showbusiness, was shot and in the can, ready for private screening.

Then the special committee put it up to the party caucuses.

The word was go from the Conservatives, New Democrats and Creditistes who had everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Doing almost all the questioning in the Daily Question Period they could look industrious, if sometimes on the dumdum side if their interrogation of Prime Minister Trudeau and his Cabinet was not always as sharp as it could be.

The hangup came with the Liberal caucus.

There the backbenchers — who, despite a multiplicity of parliamentary appointments, still manage to outnumber the 29 man Cabinet — had reservations.

Two of them.

One that certain Cabinet Ministers were not exactly brightly shining lights when under good, tough Opposition questioning by such parliamentary gamesmen as John Diefenbaker, George Hees, Robert Coates, John Lundrigan, Wallace Nesbitt, Bob Muir, Lloyd Crouse, David Lewis and Stanley Knowles.

The other that, as backbenchers, the good Liberals they are supposed, traditionally, to be seen but not heard, leaving the talking to their betters, the exalted members of the Cabinet.

They were afraid they would look like dummies.

"There we would be, mute in our seats," protested one backbench MP when the Liberal caucus kicked the TV plan around. "While the Opposition guys would all be leaning to hair feet in glorious color and stereophonic sound."

Nothing then was settled — except wait and see how it looks and feels when the Session resumes in September.

They even have a name for the program hook-tubing of the Commons — "Information Parliament".

With the arrival of H. Olson in early September to take up residence as general manager of Marmoraton Iron Mine, a subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel Co, the north Hastings iron industry is expected to again flourish in the Marmora district after a 40 - year shutdown.

The first Methodist Church in Upper Canada, the old Hay Bay Church at Adolphustown, will be the scene, Sunday, Aug 26, of an annual pilgrimage and anniversary service. The church, built in 1792, stands on the shore of Hay Bay on the site donated by Paul Huff.

Among the 45 graduates of the Class of '51 at St. Joseph's School of Nursing, Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, four were Belleville girls: Gladys Smith, N. Charles St., Helen Cooper, Bridge St. E., Joan Boyd, Oak St., and Helen Bashall, Donald S.

All 99 persons aboard were killed when a New York-bound Dutch airliner crashed into the Atlantic 13 years ago today—in 1958—in the worst air disaster until that time involving a single commercial plane. The death toll was exceeded in March, 1961, when 111 died as a British charter plane plunged into a swamp in the Cameroon Republic and June 1962, when a French airliner crashed at Orly Airport. Paris killing 130 persons.

1947—India and Pakistan were established as dominions.

1945—Meatless days for Canadian restaurants were abolished.

1945—At midnight unconditional surrender of Japan was announced.

1888—Thirty persons died in a collision of the ships Geiser and Thingvalle.

Moving Along

Belleville's Dundas Street bridge development, allied to the overpass and improvements to the Bay Bridge Road, is an example of what can be done to transform a formerly inadequate route and tacky landscape.

Remember the unkempt roadside along the rail tracks, not to mention the dust and litter by the dump and Zwick's Island? Now the old dump is shedding its former image as bulldozers do some levelling in the early stages of preparation for a park and recreation complex.

When the latter is completed, sometime in the future, the transformation will be complete. Even now it is difficult to recall the former configuration of road and landscape in this area embracing Highways 2 and 37. The landscaping around the Four Seasons Hotel is maturing rapidly and it is enhanced by a verdant relic of the old days, the poplars along the surviving section of the original route.

And with the new Quinte Mall on North Front Street on the verge of completion yet another access route reflects the degree of improvement in the city's image that has taken place in recent times.

Next we shall see work commencing on the widening of No. 2 highway, another project in line with the times here.

Disperse Them

As Northern Ireland searches for an end to its travail the one solution which seems most obvious but which could take years (barring some great rise) is eradication of the industrial tenement areas and dispersal of their warring factions around the province.

We have progressed beyond exiling convicts and anarchists to some remote colony and in any event few such places remain, but since Protestants and Catholics in Ulster, and we are thinking mainly of Belfast and Londonderry, live in what we have described as tinderdry proximity the only real and effective solution is to house them elsewhere. What if it should denude the city of much of its industrial force, the peace that should result would be worth it. In any event industry needs to be decentralized and homes — single dwellings at that — built in new sub-divisions along with green areas and recreation facilities so lacking in the life of these people at present.

The existing tenements are hotbeds of tension and anarchy, and foreign to the concepts of modern architecture. Even new apartment blocks have proved trouble spots. Meanwhile ,forgotten amidst the turmoil is the fact that whole sections of middle-class Belfast and fat suburbs, not to mention other communities throughout the province, have remained quiet and orderly. All the more reason why the older tenement areas where the trouble is spawned should be offered the opportunity of a similar decent way of life, free from strife and religious animosities.

Meanwhile the words of Irish playwright St. John Irvine ring as true today as ever: "All changes for the better are made, first, in the minds of individuals. A case could, I think, be made for the belief that all changes for the worse start in the mind of the mob. The mob is a weak and brainless thing, subject to panic and emotion, and easily dominated by empty eloquence."

There may be a lesson incidentally in the fact that refugees who went south to the republic found no Shangri-la, not even a loaf of bread, and had to return to the blasted Ulster heath they had shunned in its extremity. So much for Premier Lynch's chances of a united Ireland.

Rural Incentives

Journalist Richard Lunn of Hillier may have been defeated as an NDP candidate for the Prince Edward-Lennox provincial riding but his call for increased agricultural production in the area deserves support.

Mr. Lunn wants the area developed agriculturally and with government support. If the area's full potential were realized, he believes things would be a 100 per cent better than they are now. Moreover, with the rural scene realizing such potential, communities could then look for industry.

The rural areas, he says, have been exporting people for 60 years, and the main reason is there is nothing to hold them in the area.

A lot of land we feel, does go undeveloped for want of a concerted policy. The government should encourage this, as well as providing further incentives for young people to enter agriculture.

The idea would be to tape the Daily Question Period and make selected television and radio clips available to the electronic press for their stations.

But there is suspicion that clips involve the risk of editorializing. Tapes can be "doctored" — any radio or TV hand can do it — with words and phrases dropped and even others substituted. It has happened. Here, Only more often than perhaps, but enough to alert the honorable members to the hazard.

Information Canada is getting into the parliamentary TV act with a program AIMS (Audience Information Monitoring System) in which the use of clips by radio - TV across the country can be banked in an audio-visual "library" so MPs can check their time - absences.

It is a sort of electronic clipping service.

But the whole TV deal remains in suspension until the re-assembling Commons takes a cool Autumn second look at it before leaping.

Stone Figures

These great stone figures once supported temple entrances in the Toltec metropolis of Tollan, Mexico. Lost for centuries, the city was re-discovered by archaeologists a few decades ago near the present city of Tula, and these figures now stand atop the principal pyramid, looking out over the ancient plazas, courts and smaller pyramids. Expert Says Earth Is Sinking And Great Lakes Leading Way

WASHINGTON (CP) — The earth is sinking, says the chief geodesist of the United States National Ocean Survey, and North America's Atlantic coast and parts of the Great Lakes area are sinking faster than most of the rest of the world.

Charles Whitten, a student of the earth's changes for more than 40 years, says the tremendous increase in industrial activity accompanied by ever-widening demands for water is partly responsible for the phenomenon. In some areas, withdrawal of deposits of petroleum and coal has the same result.

He sees "real and serious hazards" in these areas, possibly as early as the next 50 to 100 years.

Whitten, who recently gained wide recognition for his remarkable earthquake forecasts, based his findings on studies during the last three or four years by geodetic field parties of the National Ocean Survey, a branch of the commerce department. The results are reported in the current issue of the department magazine, Commerce Today.

It is no secret that the earth is an unstable planet—violent natural forces such as earthquakes, storms and volcanoes are constantly altering its face. But now scientists say the continents are not only sinking slowly but also rising and tilting, as the earth revolves.

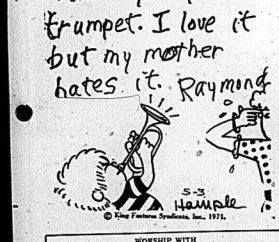
For example, Washington, D.C., is moving toward Canada—10 million years ago it was near the present site of Richmond, Va., 100 miles southwest of here—and Seattle, Wash., is expected to be located 100 miles south of its present position in the next 80 million years.

Europe and Asia apparently are moving clockwise, in the opposite direction to that of North America, and somewhat more slowly—about four degrees every 10 million years. However, the article adds:

"In North America evidence of these changes is seen in the slow but inexorably rising waters which imperil homes and industries along the Atlantic and gulf coasts and some of the Great Lakes."

The Atlantic coast from Portland, Me., to New York has either sunk as much as 10 inches in this century or the ocean has risen by the same amount, possibly a combination of both. Computations were based on surveys made 40 to 80 years ago.

While the New England coast was subsiding at the rate of about one-quarter inch a year, northern Illinois appeared to have risen approximately 16 inches in the last seven decades. Thus, the article says, "the continent from Wisconsin-Michigan to the Atlantic coast is therefore tilting almost 7½ feet a century."



These rates may seem small, Whitten said, but "the effects are subtle" and they affect the maintenance of proper water levels, especially in the Great Lakes system.

"Furthermore," Whitten reported, "there are greater threats for future flooding along the gulf coast, the New England coast and parts of the Great Lakes. The rates of subsidence are substantial.

"When these effects are combined with the effect of a slowly rising level of oceans resulting from the melting of ice caps and glaciers, there will be real and serious hazards in future years, probably as early as the next 50 to 100 years, confronting these coastal regions."

Whitten gained considerable attention earlier this year with a paper linking the earth's "wobble" as it spins through space with earthquakes. He said the wobble reaches a peak in seven-year cycles and that this year would be a bad year for earthquakes. Weeks later California and Pakistan were hit with severe earthquakes.

PUSSYCATS AND POSTCARDS

"The Cat. He walked by himself and all places were alike to him." — Kipling.

* * *

Are you an ailurophile?

A word we just heard of and showing off! From the latin meaning cat-lover as you may know. Anyhow, even if it is new to us, we definitely are.

As a cat-lover, we feel fortunate in being able to observe real ones of our neighborhood. They stray amicably over to pay their respects as we sit outside sipping a second cup of coffee — another delight of summer Canadian mornings.

Afterwards, Smokey and Jiggs, the senior members move sedately in search of cool places on the verandah or grass for their morning nap. A dear favorite Fondick, like his name - sake, ever fearless, has been out for hours exploring, but ready to jump upon to his favorite curved - back chair, which just fits the curve of his own back. Both he and Purr (now a beautiful striped tabby) are losing their kittenhood days and act almost like grown-up cats. While Bounce and Tab (such a pretty grey — and - white cat whom we unintentionally omitted to mention in your last cat column), Happy, (the fairy princess who carries on like a dainty ballet-dancer) and the intriguing orange and black Calico (who can scream any invader quickly off the premises), are quietly independent and downright shy. Probably the elegant Siamese and Sasie, the lovely grey Angora return to long-favorite napping - places, near their own mistresses.

What a pleasure to observe them! What supreme examples are they with polite and polished manners; to sit quietly and look at you with eyes that speak oh, so eloquently, how much they would enjoy a second dish of milk — yet never make a sound in any way, if their obvious wish cannot be granted! They respect each other's wishes, are amused by the slightest diversion, enjoy wherever they happen to be for the moment, yet obey strict invisible boundary lines as to what is theirs by right.

"Have you noticed how cats have come into their own as far as greeting cards are concerned," asks a fellow "aelurophile" who had dropped over for a chat. She is not as fortunate, for she lives in a neighborhood utterly catless and laments the fact. "I have to find my enjoyment concerning them from cats on postcards, greeting cards, playing cards and calendars. And I have noticed — say 15 years ago, there were scarcely any cats on Christmas or birthday cards. Since then though cats have become most popular. Even with photographs of cats are not common. Cats are regular "hams" and just love being photographed.

"But," she went on, "there are of course cat artists. There is one in particular, who lives in Europe, and his cards are imported. His only signature is a device like a heart with a loop at centre top and a dot on either side.

"His cards show him to be a cat lover, who is an anatomist, humorist and psychologist in one. He depicts scenes of a variety of activity, sports, travel, pranks and humorous misfortunes all the actors being cats of every breed, color, size, with facial expressions of human emotions as feline faces that are masterly. He personifies and portrays his cats in human attitudes and surroundings with a sense of the ridiculous that is creative and delightful.

"If you ever come across these cards, buy them — for they will surely become collector's items," she urges.

Our cup is empty, the cats have vanished and so begins this summer's day. A day which, if we remain here much longer, will surely turn into a 'cat-as-trophe'!

MR. AND MRS. STUART CURTIS ARMSTRONG

Armstrong — Woods

Rev. I. E. Munro officiated at the wedding ceremony in the bride's parents' home in Tweed, when Jean Alice Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Woods was united in marriage to Stuart Curtis Armstrong of Sault Ste. Marie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Armstrong of Espanola.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in A-line full length hooded dress of polyester crepe, with a band of French lace and seed pearls encircling the waist and accenting the bodice and cuffs of the full bodiceless sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white shasta daisies with yellow roses and baby's breath.

Miss Marion Woods, sister of the bride as maid of honor wore an empire styled gown of flocked organza patterned with yellow centered white daisies over taffeta and featuring a low rounded neckline and short full sleeves with band cuffs. Miss Joyce Woods, also sister of the bride as bridesmaid was similarly attired but in pink and both attendants carried bouquets of yellow daisy 'mums, white carnations and purple statice.

A reception was held at the bride's home where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a street-length dress of blue shantung satin with the neckline adorned with seeded pearls and crystals with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a pink crepe dress with chantilly lace coat, tone accessories and a corsage of red and pink sweetheart roses.

Travelling to the east coast, the bride wore a lavender and white hot pant suit with white accessories and a corsage of golden sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside at Shetland Park, Sault Ste. Marie.

Red Cross Nurse Retires After 25 Years

Dr. McArthur began her career as a public health nurse and then as provincial district nurse in northern Alberta.

She won a scholarship and earned a master's degree at Columbia University in New York, then became director of the school of nursing at the University of Alberta.

She left there to become superintendent of the nursing branch of Alberta's department of public health. Three years after she joined the Red Cross as director of outpost hospitals and nursing stations.

One of her most memorable assignments with the Red Cross was in Korea in 1954 and 1955 when she served as a special representative of the Canadian Red Cross Society and as associate coordinator for the League of Red Cross Societies, Part of her work was to help rebuild the Korean Red Cross.

She became president of the Canadian Nurses' Association in 1961 and served two terms and has been chairman of the nursing section of the Canadian Public Health Association. She has been chairman of the nursing advisory committee of the League of Red Cross Societies.

Ann Landers

Woman Finds Sound Of Snoring Comforting

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm furious with that knucklehead physician who suggested several penalties for the snorer as a sure way to break the habit. (One was hitting him across the face with a pliable fly-swatter.)

If a person goes to bed worried about being attacked for doing a perfectly normal thing like snoring, how in the world is he ever a night's sleep? If this occurs night after night, the poor guy will surely be a nervous wreck.

Personally, I like the sound of a man snoring. It's very comforting. My father snored and it was music to my ears. It told us he was home and we had nothing to fear.

So, snorers of the world, relax. Not everyone hates you. In fact some of us love you. — RUTH MARIE.

* * *

DEAR RUTH: Speak for yourself, dear. And thanks for an unusual letter.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a professional driver who is concerned about a problem that is becoming very serious. I am referring to bicycle riders.

I can't tell you how many times my heart has jumped into my mouth because suddenly I saw a kid coming toward me on the wrong side of the street. This morning I nearly hit a lad who was bobbing and weaving in heavy traffic — as if he were playing a game. Every truck driver is plagued by bike fanatics who appear unexpectedly from side streets and between parked cars. Some bikes have no lights, and toward dusk, when visability is poorest, a driver doesn't see them until it's too late.

Every child who has a bicycle should be taught rules of safety. To give a kid a bike and let him go off without instruction is as bad as giving him a loaded shotgun. Please alert parents to this danger, Ann. — WORCESTER KNIGHT OF THE ROAD.

* * *

DEAR KNIGHT: Every year thousands of kids are seriously injured and killed on bikes. Most parents give their children no instruction. They just say "Be careful" and hope for the best.

The National Safety Council has a free booklet on bike safety. Write to Harold Hodgkin, The National Safety Council, 425 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your suggestion that well-meaning friends and relatives wait until the convalescent gets home from the hospital sounds good, but it's really bad.

Last April I had a premature baby. Family, friends and neighbors started to drop in the day I came home from the hospital. (I had no help.) Whenever I crawled into bed for a nap, the doorbell would ring. I had as many as nine visitors in one afternoon. The evenings were worse.

After ten days of entertaining I collapsed and was rushed to emergency,back to the hospital. So please, Ann, tell your readers that the new mother needs at least two weeks rest at home with no company. Thank you. — NEARLY KILLED BY KINDNESS.

DEAR N.K.: What nearly killed you was not kindness, dear, but stupidity. A person just home from the hospital with no help should nap with the bedroom door closed and ignore the doorbell. Thoughtful people phone in advance.

'Peach Bloom' Vase Purchased for $18,000

In 1886, Mrs. Mary Morgan bid at auction, $18,000 for a small Chinese Peach Bloom vase. The public was fascinated that so much money, more than a lifetime's income for many people, should be spent on one small vase. The resultant publicity spread its fame around the world and created a market for copies.

Glass manufacturers were quick to produce imitations in color advertised as Peach Blow, and the manis for colored art glass was on. Three American companies, the New England Glass Company, the Mount Washington Glass Company, and Wheeling Glass Company (Hobbs, Brocunier and Co.), specialized in Peach Blow, a shaded, colored glass much like the skin of a peach. There were many other imitators as well.

In 1903 the Steuben Glass Company was founded by T. G. Hawkes and Frederick Carder. Carder was born in England in 1863 and by 1880 was working in the glass factory of Stevens and Williams. He was a superb technician and designer, but at an early age was made their international salesman and as such sold glass blanks to T. G. Hawkes. He eventually moved to the United States and there developed more than 10 different varieties of art glass. His pieces were expensive at the time and are extremely valuable today.

The production that can be attributed to him is enormous and his pieces turn up with some regularity. The cheapest and most overlooked pieces are glass shades for early electric fixtures. They are sometimes available at less than a dollar.

Aurene glass, an iridescent glass in gold or blue and less frequently, green, brown or red, is the most striking of his wares. Pieces are usually marked Aurene on the base. He made imitation jade glass in a wide range of colors for both Steuben and Stevens and Williams. Roseline, a rose-colored glass was considered by Carder as part of his jade wares. Cluthra, a layered glass with air pockets and Cintra, the same glass without air pockets, were the invention of Carder. Ivrine, Calcite, Verre de Sole, Intaglio, Mosa Agate, Rouge Flambe and Floventia were also part of his output.

He also cast architectural glass in Pyrex and is shown here with a cast Indian head made in the late 1920s for Rockefeller Centre. His Steuben, or Carder, or the later S (also used by Sinclair Glass) or the brand name of the glass.

No dealer is likely to offer Carder glass knowingly for less than $50. The value of most pieces runs into hundreds.

NUDE PROTEST

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP) — The shop clerk Sally Belsham was hot under the collar when the The Manufacturers' Association in a survey labelled Bournemouth customers "the least sexy in Britain." It said that "few men in the Hampshire town thought of sex when buying a tie." So Sally, 24, sent the association a photograph of herself wearing only ties to cover her modesty. "Love — and get knotted" the caption read.

Successful Living

Doris Quotes Rudyard Kipling Warning

By DORIS CLARK

Rudyard Kipling warned: "After a marriage, there arrives a reaction, sometimes a big reaction, a little one; but it comes sooner or later and must be tided over by both parties if they desire the rest of their lives to go with the current."

I wonder if this is the same moment when we declare the honeymoon is over - the time when the blissful couple falls off Cloud Nine and lands with a thud on terra firma. In other words, they come down to earth. What do they find?

If the union has been founded on that flimsy stuff which we loosely call sex, they may not find very much that's solid. But if they have waited a while to choose, have examined their own feelings and interests, and have taken time to become good friends, the spot they land on may, after all, be cushioned with enough to carry them through a lifetime.

The thing to remember is that there is an awakening.

Dear Doris: In my brother's will he left everything to his widow, which wasn't much. The married son and daughter consider that at least some of the money should have been left to them. They tried to make out their mother was mentally ill but the lawyers and doctors knew different.

I was shocked to learn that these people held a party in their home, putting on a skit which had their mother dying slowly and thrashing about. Then her dead body was put in a casket. They laughed and had fun over this.

When one of the friends who were present told the mother she fainted with shock. I went cold all over when I heard of it.

They sound possessed of the devil to me. The nearest to it I have heard is the hippies who burn a Canadian Maple in effigy. I told my sister - in - law she should move far away from such children and forget them. — Appalled.

Dear Appalled: Sounds inhuman. Suffice this over a grieving mother is unthinkable. Could it be that money is the root of such hatred?

I see no possibility of mending this relationship. The mother must break away and find satisfaction in new friends. She needs spiritual comfort and a source of strength not related to her own family - the usual support of grieving mothers, but alas, not this time.

* * *

Dear Doris: I am fragmented by the present day society. I am a married woman with two daughters - British immigrant 1967 - trying to get a separation from my husband and have no one to help me with personal problems.

Doctors send me to social workers and from them I am passed from one social worker to another; now, finally I am passed on to a lawyer. It has all been so devastating.

Please could you put me in touch with a self - help group or a group formed to help people who are in the process of separation? — Isolated.

Dear Isolated: I know. It isn't easy to have to explain yourself to one person after another. Yet each individual had his (or her) part to play in listening to your story and in helping you move toward a solution, which would be the right one for you.

SEE IDENTIFICATION

Don't let service men, telephone inspectors, or repair men into your home unless you see clear identification from the company they represent.

The group for you is Parents Without Partners, an international organization with branches in many Canadian cities. Hole Method in Cooking Beans

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: May I request any recipe and method for baked beans in a hole? My Guides wish to experiment with this at camp. — Donna P.

ANSWER: I have not done what follows. It is a direct quote from a campers' cookbook. I hope it is satisfactory for your Girl Guides. I have forwarded a recipe for Baked Beans.

BEAN HOLE COOKING
(From "Cooking for Family Campers")

The prime advantage is that a bean-hole meal cooks while everyone has gone swimming, hiking, boating or loafing, and is ready when everyone returns to camp several hours later.

A Dutch oven or other large, heavy pot with a tight fitting cover is necessary for bean-hole cooking. Dig a hole a foot wider and a foot deeper than the pot. (Make sure, if you're in a public campground, that you are permitted to dig such a hole — and don't forget to fill it in when you are through!— using it.) Line the hole with flat stones (don't use shale which is likely to explode when it heats up), and build a large fire over the top of the hole.

Keep the fire going a couple of hours, adding wood as necessary, until the bottom of the hole is well filled with glowing coals and the rocks are red hot. Rake half the coals aside. Place the Dutch oven, containing the fixings for a stew or baked beans, on the coals at the bottom of the hole. Rake the rest of the coals over the top. Place damp burlap bag over top. Fill the balance of the hole with dirt and mark the spot.

The stew or baked beans will be finished six or seven hours later with no further tending. Just uncover the pot carefully, and serve. Be sure to fill in the hole and replace the turf.

If the bean-hole is to be used for the evening meal, it is best to dig the hole the night before and start the fire at breakfast time.

Cubans Proved They Were Handy With Fists -- Outside Ring!

CALI, Colombia (CP) — You didn't have to watch the boxing at the Pan-American Games to find out that Cubans are handy with their fists.

Besides the four gold medals Cuba won in the ring, an unofficial fifth belongs to Silvio Chibas, the angry sprinter who pulled two Colombian soldiers in her efforts to get out them and deal with a group of fans with uncomplimentary things to say about Fidel Castro.

Cuban team officials applauded her patriotic zeal. But the clenched fist of another athlete won a different response from the Pan-Am team headquarters.

Amado Morales raised it in the air in a defiant radical gesture from the podium where he was being presented with a bronze medal in the men's javelin. He said later he was protesting United States "oppression" on the island.

Puerto Rican officials decided against disciplining Morales but quickly put him on the next plane home.

These were two of many odd incidents that added a touch of the bizarre to this edition of the Games. There was even a hijacking incident with a hand to political overtones.

U.S. marathoner Kim Moore was plodding along in the heat when two men jumped out of an ambulance, scooped him aboard and drove off. Moore, who hadn't asked for the ride, agreed afterwards that he was ready for it. He was 17th in the 18-man field at the time.

Another distance man with problems was Guillermo Cox, sales of Colombia, who was issued with a pair of Size 8 shoes for his Size 10 feet just before the 50-kilometre walk.

He rushed to a downtown store but the best the salesman could do was split the difference with a Size 9 shoe for one foot and a Size 11 for the other.

Other athletes shopped more successfully.

Elizabeth Carruthers of Edmonton and Nancy Robertson of Saskatoon, who had to buy their own diving suits because of the Canadian team's budgetary limitations, were them to the victory platform, as they accepted gold medals in the springboard and tower events.

Bob Osborne, chef de mission of the Canadian team, ranked among the leading dignitaries at the Pan-Am village.

First he talked the Canadian water polo team out of packing its bags and heading home when one of its players was ruled ineligible because his registration forms arrived late.

Then he cooled off an even angrier group of Cubans who wanted heads to roll because an unidentified athlete, presumably a bandit, tried to steal a Cuban flag. He persuaded them to free Lester Wong, an innocent Toronto fencer whom they had seized as a hostage.

The lights went out on Donna-Marie Gerr when the power failed at the Pan-Am pool. Miss Gerr had bid for a gold medal in the 200-metre backstroke. Undaunted, the Vancouver, 16-year-old came back to win her race when she was started 1½ hours later.

Equestrians End Games On Gold Medal Note

CALI, Colombia (CP) — It was the Olympics all over again for Tom Gayford and Jan Elder, Canada's precise equestrian champions.

The bright final-day crowd was there along with the noise and tension.

But as they did in Mexico City four years ago, the two Toronto businessmen won another team jumping gold medal for Canada.

Gayford and Elder stirred the excitement of the overflow crowd of 42,000 with their second perfect ride Friday as twilight beckoned and then the sixth Pan-American Games closed.

The equestrians beamed after completing an unprecedented sweep of all three team gold medals but it wasn't all that easy.

"The course here wasn't as high in the fences as it was at Mexico City for the Olympics," Elder said, "but it's a tougher, tighter course that puts a premium on care and caution."

Gayford and Elder were members of the team that won the Three-Day Event in the 1959 Games. In the 1968 Olympics, Canada hadn't a gold medal going into the last day until Gayford, Elder and Day defeated the riders of 14 countries, totalling 102.75 penalty points after six rides.

The gold was the 19th won by the Canadian team, the most gold in 41 years of international competition.

Summing up the over-all Canadian performance, chef de mission of the team, Bob Osborne of Vancouver, said:

"Many exceeded our expectations."

He conceded there were a few disappointments but "others made up for them."

Some will call the windup of the Games a storybook finish for the Canadian team, just as they did in Winnipeg four years ago when Don Day of Peel, Ont., beat a Brazilian rider by 1.2 seconds to win the individual gold medal on the last day of the fifth Games.

Day's gold gave Canada second place in 1967, nosed out Brazil 12 golds to 11.

There wasn't that kind of pressure here as Cuba easily walked off with the second spot, winning 30 gold against eight in Winnipeg. As one doubtful it would be, the United States again was top dog, winning 105 gold to 104 events.

Gayford and Elder and their partners Torchy Millar of Ste. Marguerite Station, Que., and Barbara Simpson of Calgary were considered the best in the field since the strong Brazilian and U.S. equestrian teams didn't compete in these Games.

And they just about had the gold clinched after Gayford, 43-year-old Toronto stockbroker from Gormley, Ont., made his second perfect ride in late afternoon.

With Elder, a Toronto distributor from Aurora, Ont., facing his second go-around, someone asked if it was necessary. His reply was sharp.

"Jump! Of course, I'm going to jump. I didn't come all this way to watch.

"Besides, we've got precious little time to give our horses the experience in big noisy stadiums that they're going to need for the 1972 Olympics in Munich."

There was noise aplenty in the huge Pascual Guerrero Stadium for the closing ceremony as Colombians fluttered white, tear-stained handkerchiefs by the tens of thousands and shouted "adios, amigos."

Athletes—10 from each of the 30 competing countries—paraded, each in strict national ranks but mixing freely among their counterparts. A few clowned it up with the crowd's approval.

The Olympic flame was extinguished at 7:07 p.m. EDT and a big electric scoreboard flashed "Chile 1975." In a gesture of goodwill to Santiago, host of the seventh Games.

A lone trumpeter blew taps to silence the crowd before the flaming torch was doused after 14 days of competition in 20 sports. A burst of fireworks closed the greatest sports happening in Colombian history.

The 312-athlete Canadian team competed in all the sports and won a total of 81 medals—19 gold, 30 silver and 42 bronze — 11 under the 1967 total.

Osborne, the chef de mission who also is chairman of the Canadian Pan-American Games Committee, noted improvement in team sports and said "our women did a great job."

Fourteen women won gold medals outright for Canada and women took part in all three team equestrian victories.

Swimming coach Deryk Snelling of Vancouver would be the last one not to agree with Osborne.

"Our kids did a fantastic job here," said Snelling, "much better than we had hoped for."

He said "it will make a big difference to the future of swimming. Not only is it going to give our swimmers more incentive, but it will also give our backers more confidence and we should be able to get a lot more support."

The Canadian girls won six swimming and two diving gold medals. Leslie Cliff took the two individual medleys and Donna Marie Gurr the two backstroke events. The two Vancouver girls also were part of the winning medley relay team. Sylvia Dockerill of Vancouver was the 100-metre breaststroke champ and in diving Elizabeth Carruthers won the springboard gold and Nancy Robertson of Saskatoon the tower one.

Osborne said that while some of the Canadian teams such as basketball and volleyball had disappointing finishes, other teams showed improvement.

"Our basketball and soccer teams were stronger. They worked very hard and deserve a lot of credit for coming up the way they did."

The baseball team played .500 ball in finishing fourth with a 4-4 won-lost record and the soccer team advanced to the final round and placed fifth.

The Canadian team was not without some unhappy members.

"Winning the bronze here was a step up from 1967 when we went away empty-handed," said field hockey team manager John McIlwyde of Vancouver. "But we still would have liked to come up with the silver or gold and we weren't far from it."

John Richardson of London, Ont., manager of the Canadian water polo team, was perhaps the most disgruntled.

..."We finished fifth which means we don't qualify for the Olympics," said Richardson. "And I blame much of it for the fact that we didn't have Peter Hart playing."

Hart was not allowed to play because the Amateur Swimming Union, governing body of the sport, ruled his name was entered too late.

Another sport which professed mixed feelings was soccer.

"No other Canadian soccer team has made it this far," said coach Frank Pike of Toronto.

Pike said the Canadians play "European-style" soccer emphasizing checking over ball control.

The result was a series of hard-fought games which featured the Canadian steam in the role of villains.

TORONTO (CP) — Fresh Yankee, world trotting champion, finished third in the $7,500 Open Handicap Trot Friday night at Greenwood Raceway. Fresh Yankee, an 8-year-old trotting mare owned by Duncan MacDonald of Sydney, N.S., was beaten by entry mate Armbro Jet, owned by the Armstrong brothers of Brampton. The handicap was Fresh Yankee's preparation race for the $125,000 Roosevelt International next week in Westbury, N.Y. Driven by Keith Waples, Fresh Yankee led from the first quarter until the stretch. Armbro Jet passed Fresh Yankee in the stretch to win by a neck over Keystone Brian. Fresh Yankee was another neck behind the second place horse. Armbro Jet finished the mile race in 2:03. The entry paid $2.30, $2.10 and $7.10 and caused a minus show pool. Keystone Brian returned $2.40. The exactor paid $15.40.

OTTAWA (CP) — A sudden death shoot off Friday between 17 marksmen determined the last four spots for today's wrap up in the annual meet of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association. The shootout came in the President's match. First in the match was lawyer Colin N. McEachern, 31, from Edinburgh, Scotland and shooting for the British team. G. R. Ouellette, 37, of Windsor, Ont., came second and G. Westling of Coquitlam, B.C., was third. The top 300 riflemen in the eight day event will contend in today's Governor-General's match, the final and most important contest. The eight day event ends today and 650 to 500 riflemen from Canada, Great Britain, the United States, Australia and New Zealand, as well las South Africa and Trinidad Tobago go home with their prizes.

CHAPLEAU, Ont. (CP) — Brockville dumped Toronto Parkdale 8-1 Friday night to take the all-Ontario Little League baseball championship. Don Collison was the winning pitcher, giving up only two hits. Brockville, which now goes to Ste. Catherines, Ont., for the all-Canadian final beginning Aug. 17, opened up a 2-0 lead in the first inning and pushed it to 8-1 by the end of the fourth. Toronto's only run came in the third inning.

Nothing Deters These Oarsmen

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Blustery weather, calm weather, it makes no difference to St. Catharines oarsmen—they just go ahead and win.

Competitors found this out Friday as the hard-stroking men from St. Catharines Rowing Club continued to dominate the 89th Royal Canadian Henley Regatta which they have won for the last 10 years.

And they did it on ca'm waters, in sharp contrast to the choppy course that greeted them Thursday at the beginning of the four-day event.

They set up a commanding 145 point lead over oarsmen and scullers from 45 Canadian and United States clubs competing on the 2,000-metre Henley course.

They lead with 175 points, with Toronto Argonauts far behind in second place at 30. Course (Mich.) Boat Club is third with 28, Detroit Boat Club and Buffalo (N.Y.) West Sides are tied for fourth with 26 and Wyandotte, (Mich.) sixth with 22 points.

Penn Athletic Club of Philadelphia holds seventh position with 17, one point up on Blood St. Sculls of Old Lyme, Conn., and two ahead of Ottawa Rowing Club.

St. Catharines took decisive wins three times Friday. They were 2½ lengths over Blood St. in the 155-pound event, a length over Ottawa in the junior 145-pound four and three-quarters of a length over Brockville, Ont., Rowing Club in the junior 135-pound eight.

Okker Speeds Past Backhand

TORONTO (CP) — Tom Okker of The Netherlands used his speed and blasted away at Roger Taylor's backhand Friday for a 6-3, 6-4 quarter-final win in the $70,000 Canadian open tennis championship.

The other quarter-final saw Andrea Gimeno take half the first set to figure out Marcelo Lara's game before the 10th seeded Spaniard triumphed over the Mexican veteran 6-4, 6-3.

Okker and Gimeno will meet in singles semi-final play today, as will 9th-seeded John Newcombe and sixth-seeded Ken Rosewall in a battle of Australians.

Okker, the fifth seed who has won two tournaments in the last three weeks, fired powerful forehands to the unseeded Taylor's backhand and forced him into errors on key points.

Taylor double-faulted twice at game point in the second set to erase the only service break he got off Okker.

"I was playing to Roger's backhand, his weakest point,"

EVONNE GOOLAGONG

Okker said after the match. "He was making a few errors off it."

Gimeno found himself down 4-2 in the first set against the 23-year-old Lara before the 36-year-old Spaniard in a native turned the match around.

Top-seeded Evonne Goolagong of Australia was another early starter but she got hot on her passing shots late in the first set to get past a stubborn Joyce Williams the Scottish champion, 6-4, 6-3.

Third-seeded Virginia Wade of England earned the right to meet Miss Goolagong in Sunday's semi-final by easily dominating Leslie Bowrey of Australia 6-1, 6-2.

Second-seeded Rosemary Casals of San Francisco will trade shots with fourth-seeded Francoise Durr of France in today's half of the women's semi-final draw.

Miss Goolagong and Mrs. Bowrey will meet Miss Casals and Miss Durr in today's doubles final.

The Goolagong-Bowrey combination beat Miss Wade and Mrs. Williams 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 while Miss Casals and Miss Durr triumphed 7-6, 6-3 over Christina Sandberg of Sweden and Peggy Michel of Pacific Palisades, Calif.

The unseeded doubles duo of Gimeno and Taylor recovered from an almost impossible situation Friday night under the lights when they rallied to beat Bob Maud of South Africa and Allen Stone of Australia 9-6, 7-5.

The winners trailed love-40 and 2-5 in games in the second set but fended off five match points to deny John in the most exciting match of the tournament.

The other doubles quarter-final saw the top-seeded Okker and Marty Riessen beat Lara and Haroon Rahim of Pakistan, 7-5, 6-4.

They will meet sixth-seeded Bob Lutz of Los Angeles and Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico in today's semi-final while Okker and Riessen go against fifth-seeded Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and Arthur Ashe of Los Angeles on Sunday.

Kinsmen Add Feather

The Belleville Kinsmen Juniors earned another feather to their baseball caps Friday night as they captured the Eastern Ontario Baseball Championship by defeating Oshawa 9-6 for their second straight win in the series.

The Kinsmen had knocked out Kingston last week in the Junior A play-downs and last win, combined with a 4-1 Kinsmen win last Wednesday gave the locals the EOBA championship.

The Kinsmen left little to the imagination of the fans Friday evening four runs in each of the first two innings to bury Oshawa. A 15-hit outburst by the visitors was too much for Oshawa's duo of pitchers to handle.

Rick Meagher, the leading batter in the Kinsmen lineup, showed why he is on top of the list, pounding out two doubles, a triple and a single to Scott McLaren who usually sees spot duty, saw enough to smash a triple and a single to while Paul Hall batted in four runs with his double and single.

Third sacker Brian Cousins punched a double and two singles for Belleville and pitcher Ted Shaw aided his own cause with a double. Barry Culkin, Steve Bedard and Glenn Carleton rounded out the Kinsmen hitting parade each with a single.

Ted Shaw started on the mound for Belleville giving up two hits while Hamming and Brooks took over after that, giving up three hits and seven walks while fanning five.

Kim Rogers was batted around the box for one inning before giving way to Al Taylor in the second. Rogers gave up nine hits and struck out four.

Taylor finished the game for Oshawa allowing four hits and four walks. He struck out five.

Les Kirally had the only extra base hit for the losers, smashing a triple.

Familiar Winner

PICTON — The opposing ace got into the golfing scene in this week's Picton Field Day with a familiar name coming through again.

Betty Ingram, perennial Bay of Quinte club champion took the first flight low gross with an 80 to lead the field.

Helen Lewis took the first flight low net honors. Second flight low gross and net went to Hazel Pigeril and Ana Fyfe respectively. Lil Taylor took low net honors in the third flight with Anne Fisher winning the low gross. Fourth flight low gross went to Edna Shane and low net went to Lequis Rombeck.

Shearer Takes Title

CAMP BORDEN, Ont. (CP) — The Zone 3 team, consisting of southern Ontario units, won the team title Friday at the Canadian Forces National Golf Championship.

Finishing a close second was the zones 7 and 8 team from the Maritimes.

Sgt. Bing Shearer, of CFB Trenton, Ont., captain of the winning team, took individual honors with a two-day score of 143.

More than 50 top golfers from all 10 provinces and Canadian Forces Europe competed.

Storm Warning!

The forces of nature would be hard pressed to challenge this storm especially on the clay courts of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club. Wayne Storms, showing his tennis style here, has moved into the number one seed position at the local club this year with recent wins at Peterborough and Trenton. The Queen's University student is preparing for the upcoming Belleville-Kingston head-to-head match competition.

Win Takes 11 Innings

Rollins Oust Cementmen In OASA Gem

Whoever invented play - offs must have had Friday night's OASA Intermediate 'A' game between Rollins' Construction and Point Anne in mind as the teams kept a packed Alemite Field on the edge of their seats for 11 innings before Rollins emerged 3-1 winners.

The win gave Rollins, who beat Point Anne to the Commercial League pennant, the best-of-three series two games to one and advances them into the Zone 4 finals against either Kingston or Brewers Mills.

Steve Ling's load-off double and Paul Goodfellow's single gave Rollins an early first inning lead which looked like it would stand up as hurler Scott Reid fired one-hit ball for eight innings.

The ninth inning was Reid's only moment of weakness, when a walk to Eric Maher, two wild pitches, an intentional walk to Larry Mavety, and Jim Horwood's clutch single drove in Maher to send the game into extra innings.

Reid had worked himself out of a fourth-inning jam when he walked Maher, Dick Rebbush singled and intentionally walked Mavety with only one out, but he bore down and fanned Horwood and Vern Whalen to end the threat.

Rollin's appeared to be in deep trouble in the tenth inning when lead off batter Ralph Plane tripled into left centre field. Then a big play for Point Anne delayed their imminent defeat as third-sacker Bill Goodfellow snagged a bullet drive from pinch - hitter Wayne McConnell and tagged out Plane who had left the bag. Reid then bounced into a fielder's choice to end the inning.

Wayne McTaggart's clutch 11th inning single drove in both Ling and Jerry Hill who had reached base on singles. An error in the outfield allowed McTaggart to try for home but he was cut down at the plate for the third out.

Scott Reid picked up 21 strikeouts in his two-hit performance for Rollins while Don Holoway blazed strikes past 16 in taking the loss.

Ling had the most consistent bat of the night for Rollins hitting a double and two singles, Jerry Hill had two singles to go along with Plane's triple and singles from Goodfellow and McTaggart.

Rosebush and Horwood were the only Pointers to reach Reid.

Juniors Reach OASA Dropoff

KEMPTVILLE (Special) The Richard Ellis Juniors found their Ontario Amateur Softball Association Junior A playdown road a long one but with the results too short and not so sweet.

The long drive to Kemptville Friday night only led to a 9-1 defeat from the host city's juniors and a long winter as the loss eliminated the Petercrs from any further OASA playdown action. Belleville now awaits the winner of extending the defending Provincial Junior 'B' champions for 10 innings.

The locals ran into the strong pitching of Murray Hundman who held the Printers, to only four hits in the one striking out 17. The disastrous sixth inning ruined any Belleville hopes for victory as Kemptville pushed across all four of their runs on singles from Neil Forbes plus a double from pitcher Hundman.

Ellis hurler Ted Waite was touched for seven hits in going the full nine innings. He put 12 Kemptville batters down on strikeouts. The Printers' only run came on first baseman Neil Goyers' shot out of the park in the top of the fifth inning which gave Belleville a short-lived lead.John Campbell and Ken Richardson each had singles for Belleville with Dave Lott rounding out the hitting with an eighth-inning single.

Carlos Claims McQuay Not Fast

MONTREAL (CP) — Former U.S. Olympic racer John Carlos co-holder of the world record for the 100-yard dash, knows a thing or two about speed and the 26-year-old sprinter is sure about one thing—Toronto running back Leon McQuay is not fast.

Carlos made the observation Friday after watching McQuay score 18 yards for a touchdown in Toronto Argonauts' 26-14 victory over Montreal Alouettes in an Eastern Football Conference game Thursday night.

Carlos, who has run 100 yards in 9.1 seconds, is hoping his speed will land him a job in pro football. He had two tryouts with Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League but his inexperience was too great a handicap to overcome.

Quinte Tennis Courts Taken by Storms

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

There are thunder storms and lightning storms and snow storms but when it gets to the destructive powers of tennis, there's no doubt that Wayne Storms ranks as the Quinte area's biggest threat.

The blonde Bellevillian has become, over the last few years, the most potent force on the tennis courts of the city, and it all started with a badminton racket.

"Some of my friends were playing tennis and one day someone came over with a badminton racquet and I've been playing ever since," remembers Wayne.

From that inauspicious start seven years ago the 21-year-old third year Queen's University student has been playing every day pulling him from the beginners class to the top of the Belleville Skating and Tennis Club ladder.

Standing on the local year's championship team in the annual Belleville - Kingston Grand Trophy rivalry, Wayne has come into his own winning the Junior Tournament in Peterborough and coming Trenton and Belleville men's singles titles.

A veteran of two year's experience on the Queen's tennis team, Wayne has turned more and more of his attention to the courts rather than his other athletic endeavors, including hockey, football and basketball. "I like playing these other sports but as team sports they lack that extra challenge that tennis provides. When I play tennis it's just me against someone else and there's no one else to rely on," he says.

Even without any great background in tennis, Wayne has gone into one of the most respected ones at the Belleville club, it seems, through opposition, consistency is my strong point, I like to play a net game because I feel I'm quick enough but a lot of any game is the ability to figure out your opponent. I've been playing ever since," remembers Wayne.

Whatever the future holds for tennis in the Quinte district Wayne Storms will undoubtedly be adding his own downpour.

Industrial Series All Sawed Off

Those who came to play, got to play another day in the Industrial Softball League quarter-finals as both Mead Johnson and the Firemen came up with important playoff wins to force third and deciding games.

Mead's came up with five runs in the first two innings Friday night and then coasted to a 14-5 win over the Unemployment Insurance Commission to even their series at one game apiece while the Firemen stopped Morch's 10-8 tie their best-of-three series.

Sonny Holoway fired the win for Mead's, giving up four hits and six walks while fanning seven. Ken Lessels produced four singles for the winners with Tim O'Connell adding three safeties and Ray Finkle hitting a triple and a single.

nine runs the rest of the way. Coughlan picked up seven strikeouts, Gordon pounded a triple and Collins a double to lead the losers at the plate.

The Firemen dented Morch's despite being out-hit 12-7. Perry Soule fanned five Snowmobile enthusiasts visiting the Quinte Exhibition next week will get a chance to view the ultimate in snow-going when Alouette dealer Gary Sine will exhibit "Big Al." The 2600 cc engine will produce 340 horsepower and is capable of hitting speeds in excess of 200 miles per hour.

'Big Al' Ultimate Go In Snow

For those who wish to Go! GO! in snow, Gary Sine's boots at next week's Quinte Exhibition will be of interest.

The Belleville service station operator will be demonstrating "Big Al", the fastest thing on the slopes this winter. The powerful three-cylinder machine is billed as the world's most powerful psi toi engine sled.

The chassis formed from two standard Alouette steel frames is capable of hitting speeds in excess of 200 miles per hour. Disc brakes are supplemented by a drag parachute in order to hald the big machine.

Safety features on the Alouette powerhouse include a tri-shaped roll bar and a Formula 1 fire extinguisher which automatically douses open flames.

The concept for the snowgoer was developed in Montreal, while the airfoil body was fabricated by George Morris of Hollywood, California a well-known custom car designer.

Later this year an attempt will be made to crack the world speed record for snowmobiles, utilizing "Big Al's" power to its fullest extent.

Green Luck Helps

OAKFIELD, N.S. (CP) — "I've had pretty good luck on this course," Dick Siderurf of Easton, Conn., said Friday after coming home with a 71 and a three-stroke lead after three rounds in the Canadian amateur golf championship.

The 34-year-old stockbroker, with earlier rounds of 76 and 71, handled the front nine in par 36 and carved two strokes from the par-37 back nine for a 54-hole score of 218.

Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver, the defending champion and Michael Senger of Greenwich, Conn., held second spot with 221. John Sale of Cedar, Me., was next with 222 while Stu Hamilton of Brampton, Ont., and Keith Alexander of Calgary both had 223s.

At 224 were John Macleod of New Glasgow, N.S., George Haines of Bernardsville, N.J., Jimmy Wittenberg of Memphis, Tenn., and Mick Weslock of Burlington, Ont.

Bert Tickhurst of Vancouver, who with Roxburgh was on the British Columbia team that won the Willingdon Cup for amateur team play, had ballooned to an 83 and 228, losing the lead he held for the first two rounds.

"Did bad luck?," Tickhurst said, "just bad playing."

From the first hole where his second shot went into wooded area, he started picking up strokes.

On the second hole, he had a short putt rim the cup, costing him a stroke. On the fourth, he thrashed a shot into a clump of trees and then missed the green with an approach shot. The par three fifth cost him a penalty stroke as his tee shot went into a brook.

The data processing supervisor—having his worst round of competitive golf in recent years —took a 45 on the par 36 front nine on the way home, he was 41, four strokes over par.

Streit Tied

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Jocelyne Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., shot a par 74 Friday to move into a first-place tie with Marlene Streit after the third round of the Canadian Women's amateur golf championship at Capilano Golf and Country Club.

Mrs. Streit shot a 75 for a third-round total of 224.

Head Over Heels

Montreal Alouettes' Sonny Wade goes head over heels to land on Toronto Argonauts' Harry Abofs during CFL action in Montreal Thursday won by Toronto 26-14. Closing in is Montreal's Bruce Van Ness while Toronto's Peter Paquette (17) looks on. (CP Wirephoto)

Pieces Fell Into Place As Bombers Upset Regina

REGINA (CP) — "One of these days all the pieces are going to fall into place and we will knock someone off," said Winnipeg Blue Bombers' coach Jim Spavital earlier this week as his team prepared to do battle with Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The pieces fell into place Friday night and the Bombers handed last year's Western Football Conference champions a 32-22 defeat, the first Winnipeg win at Taylor Field since the 1965 playoffs. It also was Winnipeg's first regular-season victory this year following three wins in four exhibition games.

Spavital made good his promise to play a passing game as quarterback Don Jonas completed 15 of 23 passes for 262 yards in less than two quarters of play. He left the field in the third quarter after being shaken up and was replaced by Benji Dial, who completed one of two passes for 16 yards.

The 16-yard pass to Ed Williams was good for a touchdown in the third quarter. Williams also went over the line with a 14-yard run in the final period.

Newcomer Rex Pitts grabbed one of four Winnipeg interceptions and carried 25 yards for a Bomber touchdown in the second period and rookie Bob Kraemer, who snagged a 17-yard Jonas pass, got the other.

Jonas was well enough to kick four converts and added a 42-yard field goal, one of three attempts. A 36-yard single by punter Ed Ulmer rounded out the Winnipeg scoring.

Veteran fullback George Reed got all three Roughriders' touchdowns and now has 85 touchdowns rushing—six away from the Canadian Football League record held by Dick Shatto He scored from one, three and six yards out.

Reed carried 11 times for only 51 yards, bringing his total number of carries in his career to 1,998, a CFL record.

Jack Abendschan added a 20-yard single on a wide field goal attempt for Saskatchewan and kicked three converts.

Summary

REGINA (CP) — Statistics of the Winnipeg-Saskatchewan Western Football Conference game:

	Wpg.	Sask.
First downs	23	18
Yards rushing	134	81
Yards passing	278	175
Net offence	396	231
Passes made-tried	16-25	16-32
Interceptions-yards	4-105	1-10
Punts-average	9-43	11-42
Fumbles-lost	3-3	6-0
Penalties-yards	7-55	10-75

Net offence is yards passing plus yards rushing minus team losses such as yards lost on broken plays.

Mays Looks at Plate Like Frisky Youngster

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Even Willie Mays' played his first major league game, Don Gullett was in diapers.

Now, Gullett still is a baby — as far as major-league experience is concerned — but pitching like a veteran, while the 40-year-old Mays is acting like a frisky youngster.

Gullett, the 20-year-old fireballing Cincinnati left-hander, pitched 7 1-3 innings of no-hit ball and wound up yielding one hit in eight innings as the Reds trounced Chicago Cubs 8-2 Friday night.

Mays, a major leaguer since May 25, 1951—four months after Gullett was born—rapped a single, double and triple, scored twice and drove in one run before being removed from the lineup, sparking San Francisco Giants to a7-3 victory over New York Mets.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Montreal Expos 3-0; S. Louis Cardinals defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 2-0; Houston Astros whipped Atlanta Braves 6-2, and Philadelphia Phillies downed San Diego Padres 5-3.

Gullett, the youngest member of the Reds and only two years out of high school, held the hard-hitting Cubs hitless until Cleo James blooped a double to right field with one out in the eighth inning. Right fielder Pete Rose made a diving attempt for the ball, but couldn't reach it.

Gullett was lifted for a pinch hitter in the bottom of the eighth after admitting he was tired.

Before the eighth, Gullett, 13-4, had yielded only a walk to Ron Santo in the second, and had hit Chris Cannizzaro with a pitch in the third.

Then, with one out in the eighth, Gullett walked Paul Popovich and James looped his pop fly double down the right field line, sending Popovich to third. After Cannizzaro popped out, pinch hitter Ernie Banks hit a low line drive off the glove of shortstop Dave Concepcion for an error, scoring both runners.

Mays, the second-leading home-run hitter in major league history with 643 (Babe Ruth is top with 714), didn't get a chance to add to his home run total against the Mets. After collecting his single, double and triple, raising his average to .285 in 100 games, the all-star centre fielder was taken out of the game after the fifth inning by Giants' manager Charlie Fox.

By that time, the Giants had built a 6-0 lead—mainly because of Mays' hitting exploits.

Mays doubled in the third, scoring Tito Fuentes, who had singled. Then, Mays stole third for his 14th steal of the season, Bobby Bonds was hit by a pitch, Dave Kingman hit a sacrifice fly and Dick Dietz capped the four-run inning with his 12th homer.

In the fifth, Mays lead off with a triple and came home on another sacrifice fly by Kingman. Alan Gallagher had singled in a run in the second and added an inside-the-park homer in the eighth.

The victory kept the first-place Giants four games ahead of Los Angeles in the National League West.

The Dodgers kept pace as Don Sutton, 13-10 handcuffed Montreal on six hits for his 11th victory in his last 16 decisions.

Los Angeles scored both its runs in the fifth inning, with Tom Haller's double delving in one and Sutton's grounder sending home the other.

WILLIE MAYS

McLain Gets Help

Washington Senators scored three runs in the first inning for Denny McLain. Imagine his surprise.

"I got those runs and in the beginning I forgot how to pitch with a lead," said McLain, who has been complaining all along that his team-mates don't score enough for him.

McLain remembered how to pitch in time though, and fired blanks at California Angels en route to a 4-0 triumph Friday night—his first shutout since April 27 and only his seventh victory of the year.

"After I lost nine in a row," said McLain, who has dropped 16 games this year, "I began to pitch defensively.

McLain is finding things a lot different as Washington than at Detroit, where he once won 31 games.

"I always gave up a lot of home runs, 30 to 35 a year, for Detroit, but that's a different ballclub offensively," said McLain. "I've pitched so little with leads here . . . can you remember when I had three runs at the beginning of a ball game? I can't."

Football Briefs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Burlington Braves and Scarborough Rams posted their second consecutive wins Friday night in the Ontario Junior Football Conference.

Burlington shut out Brantford Bisons 25-0 and Scarborough whipped Lakeshore Bears 36-7.

* * *

TORONTO (CP) — The newly-formed Ontario Universities Athletic Association Football League kicks off the season Sept. 11 with all 12 teams in action.

Teams that once saw each other only in pre-season play or post-season bowl games now probably will meet in regularly scheduled play.

With the withdrawal of Quebec teams the revamped Ontario university league is made up of teams from the old Senior Intercollegiate circuit, the Central Ontario league and the Ottawa-St. Lawrence conference.

The makeup of the OUAAFL:

WESTERN SECTION

West Division—Waterloo, Western, Windsor.

Central Division—Guelph, Waterloo Lutheran, McMaster.

EASTERN SECTION

Capital Division—Carleton, Queen's, Toronto.

Northern Division—Laurentian ,Ottawa, York.

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says the federal government will donate 50 acres of land for a domed sport stadium here, if Metropolitan Toronto meets Ottawa's requirements.

The newspaper says the major requirement for the proposed $15-million stadium on federal land near Downsview Airport in North York, is that it include facilities for a national athletic centre where a training program for amateur athletes could be carried out on a year-round basis.

Plans for the stadium will be unveiled next Tuesday by Metropolitan Toronto chairman Albert Campbell at a meeting of Metro council.

Mr. Campbell declined comment on details of the stadium, but the Star previously reported it would accommodate 50,000 and have parking for 10,000 cars.

Western Oil Issues Move Up

By PETER LEICHNITZ
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Speculative buying pushed western oil issues sharply higher, led in general trade renewed light on most Canadian stock markets this week.

Industrial issues also posted moderate advances, while other sectors drifted lower.

Observers said there was no major news responsible for the advance in oil issues, but an increase in buying by U.S. investors in Canadian resource companies in anticipation of increased oil and gas sales to the U.S. was a major factor responsible for the advance.

The Toronto market's western oil index climbed 9.49 points during the week to 235.45. Thursday, the index recorded its sharpest advance of the year, climbing 5.64 points.

Combined volume on the two exchanges was 5.49 million shares, compared with 7.18 million last week.

At Toronto, trading was light throughout the week. Monday, volume was the lightest of the year at 1.31 million shares. Total volume for the week was 7.78 million shares, up from 6.81 million during the four trading sessions last week.

The Toronto market's industrial index, the prime indicator of market activity, rose 1.49 points during the week, closing at 189.89. Thursday, it recorded its second largest advance of the year, gaining 1.84 points.

Analysts said active buying of issues which had been oversold during the market's recent decline was responsible for the advance.

At New York, the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 key blue-chip stocks was up 6.40 points to 898.91. The Dow recorded its sharpest advance since June 16, 1970, Thursday, climbing 12.53 points.

However, observers said weakening of the U.S. dollar on international money markets continued to have an adverse effect on the market. Renewed investor fears regarding interest rate increases by the country's major banks also had a dampening effect on prices.

Volume at New York was 54.9 million shares, down from 69.72 million last week.

The Toronto base metal index dropped to a low for the year Thursday, but managed to recover part of its losses Friday. On the week, however, he index was down 1.45 points to 89.13.

A drop in the price of gold on the London bullion market resulted in a corresponding decline in gold issues prices on Canadian markets. The Toronto market's gold index lost 1.18 points during the week closing at 189.88.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Slow Resentment Can Breed Ulcers

Have you ever been so angry you couldn't sit down and eat? Your stomach turned on it-sat as if someone took a wrench and tightened a nut? Then, after a few minutes-having let out some resentment against your boss or someone else — you felt your appetite relax and were able to swallow.

This is a common example of "fast" resentment. But when slow anger turns into "slow" resentment that eats into you day after day, you are at the mercy of "slow poison."

Mr. T. was not yet really a mister. He was a boy of 17. His father, a farmer, had promised to send him to college on one condition: Tommy had to help out on the farm every summer since becoming a high school student. The boy stuck it. Worked hard every vacation, giving up the fun of sports and being with his pals.

Came graduation from high school and Tommy sat down with his father about choosing a college to go to. But his father reneged on his promise. He gave Tommy some lame excuse about needing him for another year on the farm. Like a good son the boy agreed to work.

But the poison of resentment began to work. One day, months later, he was rushed to the hospital with a hemorrhage requiring pints of blood to save his life. Sitting at his bedside, I got the full story from Tom.

I talked with his father. Told him that he was probably responsible for "boring a hole" in his son's stomach. Luckily the man was a real dyed-in-the-wool Yankee. He readily admitted his failure to keep his word.

Tommy began to improve from the time his dad visited him in the hospital and promised that he would be in charge "this year not next."

Today, Tom is a successful lawyer with a family of his own, His ulcer? There's been no sign of it for years.

What's a moral to this tale? No. All I've tried to show is that resentment can be a slow poisonwhatever. the cause, If you are a resentee, you're only harming yourself. Somebody or something may be the reason for causing or worsening your chronic high blood pressure, coronary disease, diabetes, thyroid disease-whatever is making you miserable.

Come to think of it, there is a moral: if you can't change the one who is producing or affecting your illness, then it's up to you to change your own philosophy and learn to accept it. (Not easy, I admit.) Otherwise, resentment will eat a hole in you somewhere.

For Mr. P.: Your remark about feeling good enough to live until 80 even though you smoke a lot and cough a lot reminds me of what must be many old jokes by now.

There was an old man, 90 years of age, who smoked two packs of cigarettes each day. He was contacted by a tobacco company and asked if he would be willing to be part of a TV ad for tobacco promotion.

He agreed. He was informed by the tobacco people that they would arrive at his home the next day for filming. The old man said: "Please don't come that early. I don't quit coughing until 12 o'clock each day."

For Mr. T.: I don't believe that "special hormone creams" rubbed into the scalp daily will prevent (or cure) baldness.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For August 15

Yor birthday today: A year of intensive competition opens. Partner's surprising resources challenge your ability to keep your rivals guessing. You are strong. While learning subtle touches in producing better results you also learn to present a firmer face to the world. Today's natives have a knack for dramatic effect, often take themselves seriously while clowning.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Set the pace, get a pattern established. Involve others who can keep activities rolling, then get yourself a break, real or symbolic.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): A long awaited personal marvel comes gently to pass. Sound planning pays off in many aided phenomena, some of them puzzling.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): If there's nothing for your family to fret over, you'll invent something on which to take sides before the day is out. Compromise for the moment.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Now it's your turn — and like as not there's nothing to do, no special company you need to keep.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Take your normal share in leading your community's Sunday activities. Getting them out of the way early clears the path for a major personal project.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Survey your belongings and property, count your blessings, protect and improve your situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): It's better to share news, show incoming goodies, than to get a mystery started. Make all the rounds, catch up on neighborhood developments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Beneath the formalities and pleasantries of Sunday you may come to terms on some definite plans for action tomorrow.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Pay more attention to your home and responsibilities there. Full sharing can be achieved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Placing the blame elsewhere won't work. You have to face issues, perhaps take sides. Keep everything simple.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 19): The major quality of this day is a mood of festivity, thanksgiving. Line up whatever supplies you need.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Family action sweeps you along with it. Personal plans may have to be postponed and revised, as nothing can quite be the same again after this lively Sunday.

For August 16

Your birthday today: This year is like a bridge from the past to a broader future — a training phase of your life. Select worthwhile studies, improvement programs. Home life is better as stronger emotional ties form subtly. Today's natives have a special knack for handling money, may develop and champion a serious cause for many years.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Set your own standards, be guided by a normal quota. Nobody can really see your strength and limits accurately. Write your own ticket.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): For you the week doesn't really begin until tomorrow. If you must work today, keep to a minimum routine.

GEMINI (May 21—June 20): Whatever and where you've planned, do all you can to make matters even. Friends and relatives are particularly sensitive to minor misunderstandings.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Place emphasis on patience and tact. Friends must realize you are holding confidences very well on all sides and not likely to spill them.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Let the week begin before you start pushing any serious new arrangement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Where you're spoken and definite moves you a long way towards your goals. Accidental social contacts provide possible fresh connections.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Where complex week unfolds, put in the day returning favors, redeeming obligation, tidying up in general.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Leaving glamour and publicity aside, reflect on the basic things that really count, pitch in and get as much done on them as you can manage.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your more important efforts now relate to the welfare of your community — see that they are genuinely constructive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 19): Today with its bustle should satisfy you. Get out of being set; meet others who work in your field.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Your impulse for movement, an urge to go places gains sympathy, co-operation.

Marriage-of-convenience Scheme in B.C. to Keep Courts Busy

VANCOUVER (CP) — The titillating case of a marriage-for-convenience scheme on Canada's West Coast involving female impersonators, bigamists and more than 300 East Indians is expected to be before the courts for several months.

The scheme, allegedly involving East Indian men who married Canadian-born women—and in some cases female impersonators—to qualify for landed-immigrant status, first came to light last January when police began a series of arrests following a 18-month investigation by immigration department officials, RCMP and city police.

On Thursday Gurcharanjit Singh Atwal, 26, pleaded guilty in provincial court to a charge of conspiracy, admitting he arranged "marriages" for two East Indian men to female impostors to enable the men to gain landed status. He was put on suspended sentence and ordered to leave Canada by next night Monday for his native India.

Atwal is the third person to plead guilty to charges laid in connection with the case. Two women pleaded guilty to charges laid in connection with the case. Two women pleaded guilty earlier this year, one being fined $400 and the other is scheduled for sentence later this month. Another 32 have been charged, including 28 expected to be dealt with in a mass trial in Vancouver.

Charges against the remainder are expected to be heard starting later this month and in September in courts situated in a number of communities in the lower British Columbia mainland.

Among those charged is Anton Paul, commissioner of marriages at Abbotsford, B.C. A marriage commissioner is a civil servant who issues marriage licences and keeps the necessary records for a district.

A police spokesman said Friday that fewer than 100 marriages are involved in the cases now before the courts although the Immigration department estimates at least 350 marriages for convenience took place.

"We just haven't enough manpower to investigate every one in sufficient detail to bring it before the courts," the spokesman said.

When the case broke last January, L. C. Hawkins, Pacific region director of immigration, said investigation of the marriages started in March, 1970, when applications for landed-immigrant status started piling up from recently-married East Indian men who had entered Canada as visitors. Most were unskilled workers who would not normally qualify for admission.

He said discovery in January this year that some marriages involved transvestites, including some performers who impersonate females in Vancouver clubs, was the "big break" in the case.

Members of Vancouver's 15,000-member East Indian community also assisted the authorities, reporting the marriage scheme to immigration officers after receiving reports from some recent arrivals that they be allowed to be married in the Sikh temple in south Vancouver.

Members of the community said some East Indians had been charged as much as $10,000 to be brought to Canada and to go through the marriage ceremony in order to gain landed status. They said operators of the scheme had conducted what amounted to recruiting missions in India, particularly in the rural areas of the Punjab.

The case poses the tantalizing question of whether two men can legally marry each other in Canada.

During a preliminary hearing earlier this year before Provincial Court Judge Gordon Johnson, the Crown attempted to produce evidence from Rodrick Gordon Marshall, who is alleged to have gone through a form of marriage with Darshan Singh Narwal.

Counsel for Narwal attempted to prevent Marshall from giving evidence against Narwal, citing the Canada Evidence Act which contains a provision that a wife cannot testify against her husband.

After Judge Johnson made no ruling on the contention, saying he had no authority to do so, the Crown asked Mr. Justice W. R. McIntyre of the British Columbia Supreme Court to order the lower court judge to hear evidence from Marshall.

An intriguing aspect of the case as presented to Mr. Justice McIntyre was the assertion that Marshall had gone through another form of marriage with another man, which marriage had not been dissolved or declared void by the court before going through the form of marriage with Narwal.

Mr. Justice McIntyre neatly sidestepped the thorny question of the legality of marriages between males, by directing the lower court to look into the validity of the marriage.

Trudeau's Shuffles Annoy External Affairs

OTTAWA (CP) — Whenever Prime Minister Trudeau shuffles his senior public servants—as he did a few days ago—officials in the prestige department of external affairs are decidedly uncomfortable.

"One thing we are sure of," said official, "if the changes affect us, it's going to be in the form of a net loss."

After years of relative isolation from political interference, the department is clearly not getting any special consideration as Mr. Trudeau carries out his avowed policy of introducing senior public servants to new fields.

There are some who will argue that the prime minister appears to enjoy rocking the external boat.

Since there was a long history of senior diplomats remaining within the department until retirement, there were some sharply-raised eyebrows last year when Mr. Trudeau plucked Basil Robinson from one of the top rungs on the external ladder and made him deputy minister of Indian affairs and northern development.

Mr. Robinson had been right-hand man to former external affairs minister Lester Pearson when Mr. Pearson won the Nobel Peace Prize and subsequently held major posts in the department.

Then Mr. Trudeau moved another senior diplomat, Blair Seaborn, to the consumer affairs department where he is an assistant deputy minister. Recently, another career diplomat, Peter Roberts, 44, was brought into the prime minister's office as press secretary.

Mr. Roberts had been, among other things, trade commissioner in Hong Kong.

In the latest appointments, the external affairs department was not directly involved. But in appointing J. H. Warren, now deputy minister of industry, trade and commerce to become Canadian High Commissioner in New Zealand, the prime minister appeared to be breaking some new ground.

It is not uncommon for prime ministers to go outside government in appointing senior representatives abroad, but some external affairs officials say they don't recall such appointments from other departments.

Mr. Trudeau has frequently said he wants to see a closer tie between trade and diplomacy abroad. This latest appointment is being viewed in this light.

The trouble with this, said an external affairs official, is that the trade department stands to make all the gains in terms of appointments.

Small Cheese Plants Are Said Better Off

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the Ontario Milk Marketing Board said Friday the small cheese producers in Ontario are better off now than they ever have been.

He was commenting on a report that several small plants will be forced out of business within the next few weeks because they cannot buy sufficient milk under the province's quota system.

The spokesman said there are 14 plants in production in western Ontario, 26 in central Ontario and 22 in eastern Ontario. In the central and eastern regions, 21 plants have gone out of business in the last three years, but of these, 27 sold their quotas to other cheddar cheese plants, so the quota remains in the cheese pool.

The price received by producers for cheddar cheese on the exchange in Belleville last Wednesday was 69.4 cents a pound. Two months ago, the price was 54.2 cents a pound.

The spokesman said that any financial distress suffered by Ontario producers can be traced to competition from Quebec. He said that last year Ontario produced 78.6 million pounds of cheddar, and that next year in Quebec, one plant alone—the Granby Co-Operative, in Granby, Que.—will produce 75 million pounds.

Organized Crime End Is Predicted

TORONTO (CP) — If police in Ontario continue at their present rate of effectiveness, organized crime in the province will be finished in 15 years, an investigator for the Ontario Police Commission predicted Thursday.

Walter Lee, in an interview after he spoke to a closed session of the Police Association of Ontario convention, said organized crime is a fact in Canada and is centred in Toronto and Montreal.

He said that he would estimate there were about 30 to 40 members of Mafia-connected "families" in this area, but added that they only represent about five per cent of the big business underworld.

Although he gave no specific examples of syndicated crime at work in the Toronto area, and admitted the term "organized" was hard to define, he did say they had heavy interests in prostitution, off-track betting, gambling, loan-sharking, frauds, large-scale thefts and the movement of stolen goods.

Mr. Lee, who has been with the commission since 1963 when he ended 23 years of service with the RCMP, said organized crime needs a lot of corruption to make a major impact on a city.

He said the amount of corruption in Ontario is low and as a result "we are making great strides against organized crime, and if we can keep the machine rolling, keep up the head of steam we've generated, then in 15 years organized crime will be finished."

Police Arrest Union President

BRANTFORD (CP) — The president of the Canadian Textile and Chemical Workers Union and nine Hamilton steelworkers were arrested Friday at the strikebound Texpack Ltd. plant and charged with disobeying a court order.

Police said Kent Rowley and the nine steelworkers were arrested about noon when officers were called to the plant because a picket line had been formed.

Mr. Justice E. G. Moorehouse of the Supreme Court of Ontario granted an injunction Wednesday to limit the number of pickets at the plant to four, two of them at the main gate and one each on the two secondary gates.

DISCOVER THE NEW SCENE IN SHOPPING CONVENIENCE

LOCATED AT THE INTERSECTIONS OF HIGHWAYS 14 and 401 BELLEVILLE

Quinte Mall Opening Set for Wednesday

Quinte Mall — the only major shopping development between Montreal and Oshawa featuring a climate-controlled, enclosed shopping mall — opens in Belleville on Wednesday, at 9:30 a.m.

The huge complex, on North Front Street at Highway 14 and 401, has parking space for 1,800 cars and covers 24½ acres. It includes a 93,000 square foot Simpsons - Sears department store, a large Miracle Food Mart, a dual auditorium Famous Players cinema and 40 other high class stores and services all grouped around an architecturally-designed, climate-controlled enclosed mall.

The location — on Highway 14 at 401 — brings the latest most modern shopping facilities within easy driving distance for the more than 130,000 people living in the greater Quinte area.

Because of its convenient location and wide choice of stores and merchandise to be offered, the developers expect the new Quinte Mall will regularly attract shoppers to Belleville from as far west as Trenton and Colborne, east to Napanee, from all of Prince Edward County, and north to Tweed, Madoc and Marmora.

Built at a cost of more than $7 million, Quinte Mall brings to this area a new experience in shopping pleasure and convenience. Featuring two of the major merchandising organizations in Canada — Simpsons — Sears and Steinberg Miracle Food Mart — Quinte Mall with its 40 selected tenants offers a complete merchandising service for the entire area.

From the outset it was designed to make shopping both a pleasure and a convenience. The stores are all air-conditioned and climate-controlled, as is the mall.

The location puts Quinte Mall within 5 to 10 minutes driving from anywhere in Belleville. For out - of - town shoppers, Highway 401 provides ready access to the huge parking lot without having to drive through the city. Highway 14 from the north passes the entrance to the new centre.

Quinte Mall was constructed in record time of 8½ months. Even as the power shovels dug into the frozen earth to prepare the site for the foundations, over-all plans for the centre were being finalized to ensure that the most modern facilities and merchandising features available were included.

The result of all this planning has given Belleville an attractively - designed major shopping centre where shopping can be done conveniently in 40 stores providing the widest range of goods and services.

Keystones of this major development are, of course, the Simpsons - Sears department store at the north end of the mall, the Miracle Food Mart at the opposite end and the dual auditorium Famous Players theatre.

The new centre reflects an air of spaciousness yet does not create a feeling of immensity. The mall (476 feet long and 36 feet wide) features a series of high-domed ceilings attractively beamed in simulated weathered oak. A series of bricked planters at either end of the mall add a touch of greenery to the overall scene.

The huge parking lot has spaces for 1,800 cars which will ensure adequate parking at all times. The many entrances to the mall and the department store provide convenient access from any direction.

Once the shopper parks her car and enters the enclosed mall she will be able to shop in complete comfort in a variety of high quality local and nationally known stores without having to brave cold, rain or summer heat.

Every store in the mall is different, according to David Blandford, the mall manager, because each has been custom built to custom designs and specifications. Except for two or three units, all 40 stores will be ready for business when the doors open for the first time on Wednesday, Mr. Blandford stated.

Quinte Mall will have some newcomers to the Belleville retail market. These include Shoppers Drug Mart, Miracle Food Mart, People's Credit Jewellers, Coles Book Store, Fifth Avenue Ladies' Fashions, Freddie's Fashion Shoes, The Loft Ladies Sportswear, Pulver's Ladies Wear, Alice Wea Hers Mod Shop, Linder Ladies' Wear, Young Canada Children's Shop, Elk's Men's and Boys' Wear, Montreal Draperies, Living Lighting, Hayward Camera Shop, Toy World, Nelson's China and Gifts, Emporium Card Shop, Currie Optical, Shoppers Records and Tape Mart, Tiffany Bakery, Laura Secord Candy Shop, Soesky Pete Restaurant and Frozen Foods.

Three restaurants will serve the hungry shoppers — Simpsons - Sears, Soesky Pete Family Restaurant and Ice Cream Shoppe.

Quinte Mall wants people to do more than spend money at the shopping centre and the developers are making the mall and the parking lot available for community and other non-commercial activities.

Quinte Mall stores will employ 300 full-time employees, with up to 200 additional at peak periods, such as Christmas time. The annual payroll will be about $2 million. All stores will open at 9:30 daily and all stores will be open six days a week. The stores will be open until 9 p.m. for night shopping on Thursday and Friday nights. The Cinema and Shoppers Drug Mart will be open on Sundays.

To introduce the new centre, a "passport of savings certificates" is being distributed with The Intelligencer early next week. The passport contains savings certificates on purchases at the various Quinte Mall stores, as well as details of daily lucky draws. A trip for two to Vancouver aboard Air Canada's new 747 jet is one of the major prizes. A limited supply of passports for out-of-town shoppers will be available at the shopping centre on opening day.

Quinte Mall was developed and is owned and operated by Cambridge Leaseholds Limited of Toronto, one of Canada's leading shopping centre developers. It is the 18th property to be developed and operated by Cambridge Leaseholds in Ontario and the Maritimes. Last year the Company opened the huge 70-store Devonshire Mall in Windsor, and will open another centre this fall in Trois Rivieres, Que.

Plans for a 100-store two level shopping centre on the west side of Ottawa were recently announced by Cambridge Leaseholds. This will be developed jointly with the T. Eaton Co. Ltd., and Steinberg's Limited, and is to open in 1973.

Quinte Mall was constructed by Eastern Construction Co. Ltd., one of Canada's largest and most experienced builders of shopping centres. Ground was broken on Dec. 1 last year and the project was completed in the record time of only eight and one-half months.

Quinte Mall all built by Eastern Construction

Quinte Mall is, in fact, the 49th shopping centre built by Eastern Construction. The last three have all been major, regional enclosed shopping malls.

Quinte will serve the needs of this area with over 256,000 square feet of elegant, comfortable, enclosed shopping space. In addition to 40 stores, Quinte will have a large dual-auditorium theatre.

On all these shopping centre projects, Eastern Construction gave guaranteed upset prices and delivery dates in the initial design stages. Then, we worked as a team with the architects and engineers to maintain those objectives.

To make the most of Eastern's experience and expertise, call us in at the concept stage.

Eastern is in the construction business – with the emphasis on business.

Fashions Featured at Simpsons-Sears

Lynda Campbell and Pamela Smith display some of the new fall fashions now arriving just in time for the opening of Simpsons-Sears new store in Quinte Mall. The fashion department is stocking styles to suit all ages, with special attention to the teenagers and young mods in bazaars set up just for them.

Simpson-Sears A Full-service Store

Simpsons-Sears new multi-million dollar department store in Belleville is now completed and will open its doors to the public next Wednesday. Store manager Peter Lant will unlock the doors at 9:30 a.m. and the beautiful new store will be open for business. It will be the 40th department store to be opened by the company in the past 17 years.

Simpsons-Sears present furniture and appliance store on downtown Front Street will be closed after next Tuesday and the entire staff will be transferred to new location. The in the Quinte region the widest have a full-time staff of 125. This will be increased to around 250 at peak periods. Douglas Thompson, who has been in charge of the downtown store for the past several years has been appointed to a senior merchandising position in the new store.

The new Simpsons-Sears store is located at the north end of the new Quinte Mall on North Front Sreet at Highway 14 and 401. It will be one of the largest stores of its type in this part of the province.

A special section in The Intelligencer will carry Simpsons-Sears opening sale advertisements. The sale starts on Wednesday morning and continues to the end of the week.

Simpsons-Sears new store will introduce a number of important shopping improvements. The new store is built entirely on one floor and has more than 50 departments. About one-half of the store is occupied by fashions and family clothing departments. Furniture and home furnishings take up nearly one-third of the floor space.

From every entrance shoppers to the new store will be impressed with the modern attractive decor and the tremendous assortments of merchandise on display. By actual count there are more available in the store, ranging from lipsticks to adding machines, from baby clothes to pant suits.

"Our new store in Belleville is designed to give shoppers in the Quinte region the widest possible selection of quality goods," store manager Lant stated. "In most departments, shoppers will have a choice of good, better and best qualities at corresponding prices."

"We are a complete family shopping centre with everything for all ages," Mr. Lant explained.

The company neatly sums this up with the phrase "Simpsons-Sears has everything."

Much of the store's area is devoted to fashions and family clothing. Departments are arranged in logical order so shoppers may move from one department to another without confusion. The children's and women's shoe departments are logically combined.

With customer convenience still in mind, all women's sportswear is grouped in one department under fashions are next to lingerie; millinery is next to coats and dresses. Th cchildren's wear and the baby shop are adjacent to each other.

A special Junior Bazaar section features the latest co-ordinated fashions for the young junior swinger. Here, the young juniors can choose from a fabulous array of dresses, pantsuits, co-ordinates, hot pants and slacks in sizes 5 to 15.

Men's and boy's shoes are sold in the same department but the young men's clothing is separate from the boys' department. Men's shop features made-to-measure and ready-to-wear suits and coats.

All fashion departments in the store maintain separate fitting and try-on rooms.

Items such as cosmetics, jewellery, stationery and candy are all conveniently grouped in the centre of the main floor. Cameras and photo supplies are also in the centre section.

All merchandise in the new store is on open display where customers can see and inspect it before making their selections. All prices are clearly marked and everything is backed by the Simpsons-Sears guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded.

At the catalogue sales department, shoppers can choose from 70,000 items in the various Simpsons-Sears catalogues.

These model rooms are designed to let customers see how new furniture will look when drapes, rug, wall colorings and accessories have been selected to harmonize with the furniture.

The color schemes in the rooms are suggested by Simpsons-Sears "Harmony House" co-ordinated color plan, which is available in a wide range of merchandise, including floor coverings, drapes, bedspreads, bathroom fixtures and paints. A number of model bathrooms are also displayed in "Harmony House" colors.

A wide assortment of kitchen accessories in the same matching colors can also be found adjacent to the home furnishings department.

A special decorator shop will provide homeowners with information on the latest color selections and decorating materials.

The remainder of the store is occupied by a large selection of floor coverings, lamps, draperies, television and stereo sets, china and gifts, home appliances, and electrical goods; a large sporting goods department, toys, hardware, paint, plumbing and heating, and automotive supplies.

There is a large, 8-bay auto service department at the north end of the store which faces Highway 401.

The credit account department, customer service department, cashiers, and general offices are all conveniently grouped in a new "customer convenience centre" which is adjacent to the restaurant.

Simpsons-Sears will be open six days a week. Shopping hours will be 9:30 a.m. daily, to 5:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday, with night shopping to 9 o'clock on Thursdays and Fridays.

All-family Choice Available at Bata

An entirely new concept in store design, combined with the very latest footwear — selling techniques, is being used in Bata's new store in the Quinte Mall in Belleville.

Bata has more then 4,500 stores in various parts of the world, but the new Quinte Mall store was selected to introduce the new innovations in this part of the province.

Bata's Quinte Mall store is wide open to the shopping public — no doors, no windows, no shoe boxes. All shoes are on open display so that customers can see the complete range of styles and feel and examine the shoes which appeal to them. Expert attention, advice and service is always close at hand from the manager and his experienced sales personel.

Bright colors set off the smart, functional furnishings and the whole store is flooded with balanced lighting. All this is the result of lengthy study by leading European and American experts who developed Bata's new approach to shoe selling.

For the new Quinte Mall opening, Bata is featuring the latest in back - to - school children's and teens footwear, and all the new fall styles in women's and men's lines.

Credit Built Business

A belief that people are basically honest has served as the foundation upon which Peoples Credit Jewellers — Canada's largest jewellers — has been built.

The latest store in this nation-wide all-Canadian chain will open in Quinte Mall next Wednesday. And like all the other stores established since 1919, it will carry a complete line of diamonds, jewelry; watches, gold rings, dinnerware, home entertainment, appliances and giftware.

Peoples Credit Jewellers began with little more than "a hole-in-the-wall" shop opened in Toronto by an energetic young watchmaker named Frank Gerstein. He had $500 borrowed capital, a 20 by 12-foot shop over a lunch counter, a few watches and an odd assortment of silverware.

But Gerstein also had the intangible asset of trust in the honesty of his fellow Canadians. He established and expanded credit wherever possible, even in the face of opposition from friends and foes who felt such liberal credit policies would ruin him.

Peoples Credit Jewellers was the first retailer in Canada to extend credit, and the company prospered with stores from Halifax to Vancouver and 12 monthly catalogues for customers. More than 2,300,000 Canadians have purchased from Peoples Credit Jewellers.

The company today sells more diamonds and watches than any other jewellers in Canada. And more than 75 per cent of sales are credit.

Only one quality of diamonds — certified perfect, the finest — are sold at Peoples Credit Jewellers. This entails perfection in three aspects: color — clear as a drop of water; cut — by master craftsmen to ensure maximum fiery brilliance; quality — flawless under 10 power magnification.

For this policy the company received acclaim from the diamond industry with awards from the City of Antwerp and the Guild of American Diamond Cutters in New York.

Peoples Credit Jewellers new store occupies a prominent location in the Quinte Mall and reflects the company's dynamic new image in its imaginative design and decor.

Cards A Specialty

The Emporium, an exciting new idea in Hallmark Card shops, is opening in the new Quinte Mall on Wednesday.

The Emporium will feature the complete Hallmark line of cards, as well as wraps, ribbons, stationery, candles and party supplies. An equally large selection of best-selling pocket books, magazines and newspapers is also a feature of the new shop.

The Emporium was custom-designed by Hallmark of Canada and is carpeted in rich purple and hot pink with complementary vibrant wallpaper. The fixtures are a hot orange color with turned oak gables.

The Emporium also carries cigarettes, cigars, pipes and tobaccos, snacks and packaged candles, all displayed for easy self-selection.

Steinberg's Miracle Mart supermarket is one of the keystone stores in Cambridge Leasehold's Quinte Mall. Designed to serve both Belleville and the surrounding country, it will feature large size packaging of staple items. Fourteen check-out counters await the expected influx of customers.

Miracle Food Mart Emphasizes Sanitation, Variety, Efficiency

The store which introduces to the Belleville area shopping facilities of the 1970s is soon to be opened by Miracle Food Mart in the new Quinte Mall. The store, the largest of the chain in Ontario, combines a modern supermarket, a large general merchandise area such as usually found only in a department store, and a pharmacy. This new store will provide some 80 jobs in Belleville.

Miracle Food Mart is a division of Steinberg's Limited which was founded by Mrs. Ida Steinberg who opened a small grocery store in Montreal in 1917. Since that time the company has grown to be a leader in the food retailing industry in Canada. It was the first to introduce the self-service meat department and was a leader in such other innovations, which are now taken for granted, automatic doors for stores and parking facilities for customers.

In February 1969, Miracle Food Mart began its program of Miracle discount prices with the elimination of weekend specials and other costly expenses. Profit margins were reduced and prices cut to be increased only when the supplier puts up the cost of the merchandise to Miracle Food Mart.

The store is a new concept in retailing which brings to mind the idea of the old "general store". The customer will no longer have to go to the food store for food, the hardware store for hardware and the department store for clothing and pots and pans. Nor will she have to stand in as many checkout lines.

The new store puts under one roof, with one set of checkouts, over 15,500 sq. ft. of grocery sales area and almost 7,000 sq. ft. of general merchandise floor space, not counting the checkout area.

The non-food section carries a very wide selection of merchandise. The variety ranges from hardware and automotive needs to towels and pillows and includes glassware and wooden ware, socks, sweaters, jean s and underwear, work clothes, baby needs, blankets, toys, games, stationery and even small appliances.

A quick look at this list shows that they are mostly products that the housewife would buy on her own, probably on her regular weekly shopping trip. Having them in the same store as her food needs then is a time saver for her.

Besides the large non-food section already mentioned other outstanding features in the store include the pharmacy which will provide all the services the public expects, including a large variety of health and beauty aids in addition to the filling of prescriptions.

One feature which customers will probably not notice is the fact that the store is designed for the ultimate in sanitation. This has meant the inclusion of special equipment rooms and wider aisles to permit the passage of cleaning machines.

The produce department makes use of free standing display units so that the shopper can see more fruits and vegetables at once and so think more easily of the combinations she wants in planning her meals.

All the latest technological developments available are used in the store along with the newest merchandising techniques. The two combine to increase efficiency, an important factor in the maintaining of the Miracle Prices Policy.

Completing the store are the service facilities provided. There is a service delicatessen with a staff to serve the shopper the exact quantity of the items she wants. For the customer in a hurry there are 15 checkout counters to help speed her on her way.

This is the 47th Miracle Food Mart in Ontario. The Company also has 131 food stores in Quebec and 26 Miracle Mart Department Stores in the two provinces.

Economy Emphasized

When shoppers walk into the new Shoppers Drug Mart in the Quinte Mall they'll know immediately that this is no ordinary drug store.

For one thing, there are shopping carts because when people shop at Shoppers Drug Mart they usually buy a lot of things. The store is large and brightly lit, the aisles are wide and there are rows and rows of everything you'd ever expect to find in a drug store. The prescription centre is the largest this side of Toronto.

The new Quinte Mall store is the first Shoppers Drug Mart to be opened in this area. It represents an entirely new concept in drug marketing and incorporates all the mass merchandising techniques, centralized buying and low pricing for which Shoppers Drug Marts have become noted.

This unique approach to pharmacy sales — and the elimination of expensive customer services, such as prescription deliveries and charge accounts — allows Shoppers Drug Marts to pledge "the lowest price possible" while maintaining the highest quality of goods and services.

Approximately 15,000 items are carried by Shoppers Drug Mart in Belleville, including proprietary (non - prescription drugs), greeting cards, photographic equipment, magazines, gifts and hostess needs, sundries, prescription drugs, cosmetics, convalescent aids and professional supplies. The average Shoppers Drug Mart dispenses over 40,000 prescriptions per year, with all dry ingredient prescriptions being dispensed in Palm-N-Turn safety containers.

As a member of the health team in the Belleville area, Shoppers Drug Mart will provide customers with the lowest prices possible on drugs and medicines while maintaining both the quality of the product and the integrity of the pharmacist.

Coles Store in Quinte Mall Ready for Browsers Wednesday

Coles — the book people — are now in Belleville. The new store opens Wednesday in the new Quinte Mall.

Coles is an all - Canadian company founded in Toronto in 1994. It has grown in 36 years to be the largest retail bookstore chain in North America with stores spread right across Canada.

The new Quinte Mall store is one of the largest bookstores between Montreal and Toronto. It is bright and modern but still has that old-fashioned friendly "come in and browse around" feeling that makes shopping in Coles so much fun. One never knows what you're likely to find at Coles!

In addition to a huge selection of books, for which Coles is famous, the Quinte Mall store carries office and school stationery, art supplies, color prints, posters and stamps for collectors, etc. . . . in fact over 8,000 different items.

The biggest selling items at Coles are the paperbacks. With the advent of the "paperback revolution" during the 1950s Coles was one of the pioneers in the introduction and distribution of the low priced paper bound books and today probably 60 per cent of all books sold by Coles are paperbacks.

One of the widest - known paperback series in Canada is published by Coles themselves. Coles "Notes" in striking yellow and black covers, are used by nearly 500,000 high school students every year. In addition, the Notes are also sold in about 70 different countries around the world.

At the present time, Coles have 42 stores. The new store in Belleville will be their latest and best.

Both Sexes Are Welcome At Jack Fraser Store

To shop in Jack Fraser's new store in the Quinte Mall is an experience in itself. The store is an entirely new concept in men's fashions and boys' wear retailing.

Until very recently, when a man bought a suit he was mainly interested in price and wearability. Whether it "did" anything for him was secondary.

Today's men and especially the younger men are extremely style conscious. While still interested in value, they put style and expression ahead of every other consideration. If it doesn't do something for them, they don't want it.

And that is what Quinte Mall's new Jack Fraser store school and university station, smart 'in' styles for boys.

A men can walk into the new Jack Fraser store and be outfitted from head to toe in shirts, ties, sox, slacks, jacket, suit and coat in whatever individual "look" he feels best expresses his personality.

The whole store is one giant display of styles, according to Jim Duffley, Jack Fraser's new Quinte Mall store manager.

For the boy-girl combination, there's "the Joanery" a special area featuring unisex jeans in every shade, color and style imaginable.

Next to the Joanery is "the Loft" a unique shop-within-a-shop featuring an extensive collection of smart sportswear for the career girl and campus set. You step down into the Loft to an intimate area featuring the unusual angular design that prevails thick red carpeting and a "lofted" cedar board ceiling.

Hot skirts over hot pants is the latest fall fashion to be featured at the new Jack Fraser store when it opens in Quinte Mall on Wednesday.

Fashion Reitman's Specialty

Reitman's will open its third Belleville store in the new Quinte Mall next Wednesday. This will bring to 253 the number of Reitman's stores now serving Canadian women from coast to coast.

Reitman's new Quinte Mall store will open with a complete range of ladies and girl's dresses, pant suits, hot pants, sportswear and coats in back-to-school and fall styles.

To keep abreast of current trends, Reitman's buyers regularly shop the fashion markets of Canada, the United States and Europe. A resident buying office is maintained in New York to keep close watch on innovations in fabrics and styles.

Emphasis is placed on customer service and comfort at Reitman's new store in Quinte Mall. Wide aisles, air conditioning and modern methods of merchandise display are all part of the new store's attractive decor.

Since its establishment over 40 years ago, Reitman's has made it possible for the fashion-conscious family to dress well economically. This aim, plus the company's established guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded, has been greatly responsible for Reitman's growth and leadership in popular - priced fashion in Canada.

Ice Cream New for Laura

Laura Secord, the well-known candy stores, will have a new kind of shop in the Quinte Mall shopping centre when it opens Wednesday.

In addition to the assortments of fine quality candies for which Laura Secord stores are famous all over Canada, the Quinte Mall store will introduce Laura Secord's new high quality ice cream. This will be available in six bulk and four packaged flavors.

The new ice cream is made to Laura Secord's own recipes from only the finest of ingredients. Although it is very rich-tasting, it actually has a low fat content, according to the company.

Childrens Styles Are Store's Feature

The Young Canada Children's Shop in the new Quinte Mall is the place to go for infants and children's clothing that is up to the minute in 12 years of age and carries style and quality.

Young Canada shop caters to the needs of children up to all the better known quality Canadian name brands in the medium to higher price ranges.

The new store will open on Wednesday with a complete selection of back - to - school dresses, coats, jackets and snow suits. Young Canada also carries infants wear and baby essentials and christening sets.

Young Canada Quinte Mall shop is decorated to make shopping for new clothes a happy event for the younger fry. All merchandise is on open display for easy selection. For grandparents unsure of sizes, there are Young Canada gift certificates and free gift boxes are available on request.

The new Quinte Mall shop is the 10th Young Canada shop to be opened in southern Ontario.

Big Choice Available In Drapes

Homeowners in search of new draperies will find more than 1,000 different patterns to choose from at Montreal Draperies new store in Quinte Mall.

This enterprising organization is the largest drapery chain in Canada and specializes in ready - to - hang and custom - made draperies and drapery fabrics by the yard.

Montreal Draperies also carries a large selection of bedspreads, shower curtains and bathroom accessories, as well as drapery track, trimmings and window shades.

Consumer Price Index Increase Shaves Dollar's Power

OTTAWA (CP) — Rising consumer prices shaved another two-thirds of a cent off the spending power of the dollar last month, federal government statistics show.

Statistics Canada reported Friday that the consumer price index based on 1961 prices equalling 100, rose to 134.1 in July from 133.0 in June and 130.5 in July last year.

This was an increase of eight-tenths of one per cent for the month. If the same rate were compounded for 12 months, it would mean an annual rate of price increase of 9.8 per cent—about four times the rate generally regarded as non-inflationary.

The July jump is in contrast to a generally declining rate of price increase recorded in the last few months. Statistics Canada said it also was "somewhat larger than the average" recorded between June and July in recent years.

Food prices were sharply higher last month, jumping 2.2 per cent over June prices and 1.3 per cent over July food prices last year.

The big increases were in fresh vegetables—tomatoes, up 27.7 per cent; onions, up 11.6 per cent; potatoes, up 10 per cent; and carrots up 8.5 per cent.

Normally fresh vegetable prices drop later in the summer when Canadian crops are harvested. The July increases reflect the high prices of imported pre-season produce.

The jump in food prices last month meant that it cost $13.37 to buy what $12.04 bought in June. This is the same grocery cartful of foods that $10 bought in 1961.

In the over-all index of consumer prices, covering about 300 goods and services that figure large in the spending habits of average urban low- to medium-income families, the increase was less. It cost $13.41 last month to buy what $13.26 bought in June.

Food accounts for about one-quarter of the all-items index and housing about one-third. Housing and household operation costs rose six-tenths of one per cent last month, mainly because of higher rents, new house prices and postage rate increases.

But for another one-quarter of the total price index—the component covering transportation, health and personal care, and tobacco and alcohol—there was no change in prices on the average, Statistics Canada said.

Water Ski Show Is Free to Watch

PICTON (Staff) — Free admission and the promise of a really big show should draw a large crowd of spectators to Prince Edward County Yacht Club this afternoon for a water ski spectacular.

Presented by the Prince Edward Water Ski Club, the program features several nationally-known performers and members of the junior ski program under the direction of Wayne Ring and Jamie Culliver.

The 18 acts scheduled for the program will be performed to music and according to James Wharton, a senior ski club director, are similar to those seen at Cypress Gardens, Florida.

Ski jumping, slalom crisscross, kite flying, clowns and show that begins at 4 p.m. water ballet highlight the today.

ESP Centre Opens Soon

A centre devoted to the development of extra - sensory perception will operate for the next six weeks at Madoc Art Centre on Highway 7 near Madoc.

Madoc PSI Centre, an offshoot of the Ottawa - based Bartootan Metaphysical Society, will be both a study and activity centre. In addition to ESP development courses starting Aug. 16, Aug. 30 and Sept. 13, the centre will hold many programs open to the public free of charge and visitors will be welcome.

As well as residential study, the centre will have vacancies for day students, who wish to commune from nearby towns.

The beginner's ESP course includes dream analysis, meditation and astral projection. Cost is $75 a week, the same rate charged for regular summer courses offered at the art centre by director Roy Cadwell.

Toy World Store Makes Shopping Easy

Parents and grandparents who have shopped for children's playthings in one of Toy World's shops elsewhere in Ontario, will be pleased to find that there is now one of these wonderful shops in the new Quinte Mall.

Toy World carries all the better-known makes of children's toys all year round, not just at Christmas.

The Barbie Doll is still one of Toy World's biggest selling items for little girls, but boys seem to be looking for something new all the time.

The biggest selling toy for boys right now is the fabulous Hot Wheels. Needless to say, Toy World has all the latest numbers in its new Quinte Mall store.

Seven-cent Stamp Tribute to Painter

By IAN ROBERTSON

One of Canada's foremost artists who captured early plains history on canvas, Paul Kane is widely recognized for his paintings of Indians and their way of life and for his classic descriptive journal, "Wanderings of an ARTIST Among the Indians of North America from Canada to Vancouver's Island and Oregon through the Hudson's Bay Company's Territory and Back Again."

Apart from its long title, Kane's book contained detailed descriptions of the way of life of Canada's plains Indians, the like of which has not been excelled.

Born in County Cork, Ireland, in 1810, young Kearne, as he originally spelled his name, came to this continent to take up residence with his family in the village of York.

Postage Canada 7

In what is now the Toronto area, he came in frequent, friendly contacts with the Mississaugas who frequented the shores of Lake Ontario at that time. Drawn to the more picturesque aspects of life among the Indians, young Kane dreamt of travelling to the wilder portions of his new country.

When he was 26 and an accredited portrait painter, Kane travelled to the United States where he spent four years before journeying to Europe in 1841. For the next four years, he toured many countries on the continent, Africa and Britain seeking a refinement to his growing talent.

It was upon his return to Canada that he wrote: "I determined to devote whatever talents and proficiency I possessed to the painting of a series of pictures illustrative of the North American Indians and scenery."

Constantly risking great danger and taking advantage of every possible form of pioneer transportation, he travelled the length and breadth of the western wilderness. Kane made two trips; one in 1845 and a more ambitious expedition from 1846 to 1848, the latter which took him to the Pacific coast.

His works, the original sketches made under severe conditions, have gained particular recognition for an accurate recording of facial types and the details of costumes.

On one occasion, riding with Indian friends in a buffalo hunt, the artist dismounted to capture a particularly striking bull on canvas. However, friend bull did not take kindly to the attention and a charge ensued, with one harried artist departing the scene post haste. Undaunted, however, Kane reorganized his approach an deventually obtained his sketch.

During these trips, he recorded not only the pictorial way of life, but kept an up-to-date journal of his travels, which eventually were published.

In the quiet midtown St. James' Cemetery in Toronto, a stone was erected to commemorate Paul Kane, whose death Feb. 20, 1871, marked the demise of one of Canada's most remarkable pioneer painters.

To honor this Canadian pioneer, the Canada Post Office has selected "Indian Encampment on Lake Huron" for reproduction on a seven - cent commemorative stamp released Aug. 11.

Captured in full detail by British American Bank Note Co. Ltd. in Ottawa, this four color lithographic reproduction marks one of those rare instances of Canadian philatelic excellence.

Printed on the larger, 40 mm by 32 mm size, this issue might well prove to be one of the post office's best achievements in recent years, parallelling the Suzor - Cote 50 cent issue.

As is the case with most special issues, corner plate blocks are available from The Philatelic Service, Canada Post Office, Confederation Heights, Ottawa K1A, 0B5.

Released on the date of issue, specially designed first-day covers often tend to be as colorful as the stamp itself.

An interesting, non-scheduled cover, released by the McGill Fund Council for the Stephen Leacock stamp of 1969, has come to light. Honoring the famous Canadian humorist, the cover bears a tongue - in - cheek view of stamp issuing, worthy enough to have come from the pen of Canada's well - known and subtle author.

"Whenever a part of the earth contains a sufficient number of people to need stamps, the people all get together and join in forming a government, the purpose of which is to issue stamps. If the stamps are to have a man's head as the design, the country is placed under a king, the person selected for the king having the kind of features needed for a stamp.

Go To Win Air Fare To West

Shoppers to the new Quinte Mall can win up to $100 in gift certificates by matching up the number printed on the cover of their savings certificates coupon booklet with lucky numbers displayed in the Mall stores. The gift certificates are redeemable on purchases in any of the Mall stores.

CFB Trenton Plans Anniversary Party

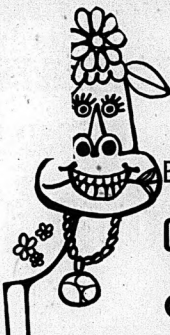
TRENTON (Staff) — The AMDU and South Side Sergeants and Senior NCO's messes are now planning the biggest round of celebrations they have staged since Centennial Year.

A 15-member committee has been meeting frequently for the last several weeks to organize a massive dance in honor of the 40th anniversary of the opening of the military installation at Trenton.

Other commemorative activities are slated for the last days of August but the cocktail party-dance slated to be held Aug. 21 will be the largest.

Belleville Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott, and Trenton Mayor Duncan McDonald, will number among the anticipated assembly of 600 who will gather at the South Side Recreation Centre for the evening of reflection and reverie.

Chief Warrant Officer Leo Kelly, the committee chairman, told The Intelligencer yesterday the Air Transport Command Band will play for the dance, following a cocktail hour performance by the CFB Trenton Brass and Reed Band.



Mod-Style Boutique Is Ready for Shoppers

"Alice Was Here", a fascinating new flis and Hers mod boutique in the new Quinte Mall is the place to go for "now" fashions in Belleville.

This fascinating new boutique carries only very current styles including the minimest of mini skirts and the hottest of hot pant outfits.

The decor is planned around the Alice in Wonderland theme and mod music complements the interesting poster treatment.

The new Quinte Mall boutique is the second "Alice Was Here" to be opened in eastern Ontario. There are "Alice Was Here" kiosks in Montreal and Saskatoon and three more boutiques are to be opened in Kingston, Moncton and Halifax in 1972.

Two Theatres In Quinte Mall Will Feature First-run Films

With the opening next week of two additional cinemas on the new $7 - million Quinte Mall, the city of Belleville for the first time becomes a five theatre town.

And officials of Famous Players, operators of all five of the picture palaces, feel that there is room for all of them.

To Quinte - area theatre-goers the names Belle and Park have been synonymous with movie entertainment for many years. And for a shorter period of time this also has been the case with the Belleville Drive - In on Marshall Road.

The two new theatres at the Quinte Mall don't have the distinctive names of their forerunners in the Quinte area — they will be known simply as Cinema 1 and Cinema 2 — but what they lack in distinctive names will be made up for in customer comfort and quality screen reproduction.

Projection equipment at the two new theatres will be the very latest in the industry.

In fact there is but one projection room for the two theatres and the equipment is so completely automated that only one projectionist will be required.

Both projection machines will be pre-programmed so that screening operations right from the dimming of the lights to the pulling of the curtains and running of the "spots" will be carried out automatically.

Royal blue and red are the basic colors for the two theatres one with a seating capacity of 380 and the other with 326 seats. The seats are the most modern available and are staggered for better viewing.

And good news for the six-foot-plus theatre patrons is that there is plenty of leg room between the seat rows.

The new theatres feature a circular, completely open box office just off the main mall and the cashier will sell tickets for both shows.

Famous Players officials in town for arrangements of pre-opening details say that the dual theatre concept is meeting with much success in shopping malls across the country.

One of the reasons is that it gives a selection of pictures, while the shopping plaza location means ample free parking. But there will be no matinees with evening only shows to be run seven days a week.

The two Quinte Mall theatres are expected to take only a little away from the two downtown theatres or the Belleville Drive-In.

"The Mall theatres will attract many people from the area north of Belleville" stated a Famous Players official.

The opening show for Cinema 1 will be Warner Brothers beach romantic, Summer of '42 which has played in Toronto for two solid months and is still packing in the customers.

For Cinema 2 the opener will be Le Mans, a thrilling, fast paced film of racing action in France which is certain to appeal to the car racing bugs.

Decor of the twin theatre lounge will be a display of paintings by Belleville area artists.

To be known as The Gallery, the display will be the only decor in the lounge and will be changed periodically so that new paintings will be continually on display.

Bank Open Later

People shopping at the new Quinte Mall will be able to do their banking at the same time. The Bank of Montreal has established a branch there, its fourth office in Belleville.

The bank, bright and attractive, is located just north of the east entrance to the mall.

Business hours at the new B of M have been designed to include evening shoppers. The branch will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday to Wednesday, and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Thursday and Friday.

Manager is Frank Heinz, who has been manager of the North Front and College Streets branch since 1969 and was assistant manager of the main local office before that.

The branch opens on Aug. 16, along with other mall shops and services. As an opening special, free silver dollars are being given to the first 1,000 people opening personal deposit accounts of $25 or more.

Rug Display Area

Rug Gallery at the new Simpsons-Sears department store at Quinte Mall features suspended full-length display for better customer viewing. Bob Loptson shows Verna Akey how suspended rugs may be turned like leaves in a book allowing customer to view entire rug at one time.

Grooming, Deportment Expert Prepares Staff

Simpsons-Sears at Quinte Mall is giving shoppers a special incentive to browse and buy at its new store.

All women employees of the company here are graduates of a charm school being conducted this week by Lucy Seto, a fashion co-ordinator and graduate of the fashion option of Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto.

This Simpsons-Sears service to employees is designed to bring them up to date in clothes and makeup trends and give them confidence in their dealings with the public.

It is especially valuable to women returning to the working world after time out to raise their families, and to older women who have felt lost in the fashion stampede to the young look, unisex and the rest.

Miss Seto has given the course to 200 women this week divided into groups of 20 to 40 for 2½ - hour sessions. The fun part of the school comes at the end, when the women are issued a makeup kit and told to go to it in experimenting with eye makeup and blusher. The makeup kit is theirs to keep and use after they have learned the knack under Miss Seto's professional direction.

"They are afraid to use the full line of eye cosmetic products, because they are afraid they'll look like painted clowns," she says of the older women in her courses. "But once they see how it looks on them they realize it isn't a bit clown-like."

Miss Seto's advice on fashion is down-to-earth.

"We stress common sense," she says.

The women are taught the techniques of the optical illusion in clothes, and shown how to apply optical illusions to disguise their own figure faults.

Miss Seto has been working in retail fashions at Simpsons-Sears in various capacities since 1963.

When she is not running her training school for employees of new stores, she works on co-ordination for fabric departments across Canada, and trains staff members in the use of knitting machines.

One of a family of 10 Canadian - Chinese children, her hobbies are cooking and dancing. And the best part of her job she says, is the opportunity it gives her to travel across Canada and meet "all kinds of interesting people".

Beauty Build-up

Miss Lucy Seto shows a new Simpsons-Sears employee a few tricks with makeup. Miss Seto conducts charm and grooming courses for employees in new Simpsons-Sears stores, designed to equip them better to meet the public. The course covers clothes selection, makeup and grooming as well as charm and deportment.

TORINO

Stevenson Ford welcomes the New Quinte Mall. The added business potential for the Quinte Area by way of the new Mall is greatly enhanced.

It is very thrilling to see such confidence portrayed through this very large endeavor. We are sure the existence of the new Mall will attract thousands of people from many miles away, to Belleville. For this, each business establishment in the city could, and should benefit.

We opened our Ford Dealership in 1964. We now are the largest single line Ford Dealership along the 401 route between Toronto and Montreal. And yet we feel Belleville is just beginning to grow.

We at Stevenson Ford are delighted to be part of this thriving and expanding Quinte Area.

Let's get acquainted real soon, neighbors.

Merchants Send Two to Vancouver

Quinte Mall's grand prize to celebrate its opening Aug. 18 is a trip to Vancouver for two on one of Air Canada's 747 jumbo jets. Ballots for the draw will be available from all mall merchants for a month after the opening date and also from the Quinte Mall Information Kiosk. Draw for the lucky winner will take place Sept. 18.

Catalogue Shopping Is Made Easier

Catalogue shoppers will find that a large catalogue sales department has been provided for them in the new Simpsons-Sears store in the Quinte mall.

The former furniture and appliance store on downtown Front Street is being closed and the entire catalogue staff, headed by Mrs. Nina Huffman, will now be located in the new store.

The customer accounts department is also being moved to the Quinte Mall store and will continue under the management of Wendell Laidley, credit sales manager for the past three years.

In anticipation of the heavy demand for catalogue shopping at the new store, extra staff will be on hand to assist catalogue customers during the opening days. The credit department will also have additional people.

The catalogue sales department in the new store offers several major improvements for customers' convenience. One of the big changes is the extra telephone lines and new telephone ordering system which will give fast, personalized ordering service for at-home shoppers.

Simpsons - Sears catalogues list more than 70,000 different items and provide an important extra service for shoppers at the new Quinte Mall store.

STELLA CULHANE

Double Theatre Her Move

The two new movie theatres at north Belleville Quinte Mall have the very latest in sophisticated projection equipment, but some of the operating personnel will be familiar to local theatregoers.

Manager at the new Mall theatres — Cinema 1 and Cinema 2 — will be Mrs. Stella Culhane, current manager of the downtown Belle Theatre.

Mrs. Culhane has been manager at the Belle since 1967 and prior to succeeding the assistant manager for nine late George H. Forhan was years.

But she has long experience in the theatre field having worked for many years as cashier at the Belle. In 1967 she became a member of Famous Players "25 year club."

Taking over as manager at the Belle will be Ronald Scott, relief manager at the Belleville Drive - In. Mr. Scott will continue on at the Drive-In as well as taking over as manager at the downtown Belle.

Allstate Reps Set for Opening

Agents of Allstate Insurance Company of Canada will be on hand in the new Simpsons-Sears store when it opens next Wednesday.

The Allstate office, formerly at 229 Front Street, is being transferred to the new Quinte Mall store.

Allstate will sell a full line of insurance from the new store, including life, automobile, boat, fire, liability, income protection and other associated lines.

Allstate is one of the largest writers of car insurance in Canada and has been in Belleville for the past 15 years.

Installation Service Available

When you buy an item for the home at Simpsons-Sears new Quinte Mall store, the company can arrange to have it installed, for you if you wish.

Installation service is available on a long list of merchandise, including carpet and floor coverings, draperies, plumbing and heating, kitchen cabinets, counter tops and sinks, aluminum doors and windows, roofing and eaves troughs.

Cost on installation can be charged to a Simpsons-Sears all-purpose account and all work is covered by the company's guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded.

Maher's Display Distinctive

An entirely new method of displaying footwear that will provide Belleville with fashion excitement is being used by Maher's in the new Quinte Mall.

The new Maher store is a "wide open" to the shopping mall with no doors and no display windows. All the shoes are on open display. When a shopper comes into the new store she looks over all the styles, compares them, then decides which styles she wants to try on. The new plan saves time for the customer and for the sales staff.

The new Quinte Mall store has other interesting innovations. The ceilings are of various heights which are used to define areas between the men's areas. A treatment of oak beams adds masculinity to the men's department. The carpeting is of one color throughout which visually ties all the departments into one unit. The lighting is designed to highlight the merchandising areas so that the over-all store interior looks alive and exciting.

Practically all new Maher stores in recent years have been located in enclosed shopping malls like the new Quinte Mall, where families can enjoy the atmosphere and fun of shopping together in a large weather-protected area.

Maher will have all the latest fall and back - to - school shoes on display when the new store opens in Quinte Mall Wednesday.

Wines Move Uptown

Barnes Wines, Belleville's only wine store, is moving to the new Quinte Mall and will occupy an exciting new location at the south end of the mall opposite the Miracle Food Mart.

The new store has been custom designed to reflect the 98-year-old tradition of Canada's oldest winery, by the use of distressed red bricks and dark, weathered woods.

The full line of Barnes wines will be carried by the new store and chilled bottles will be available on request. Home delivery will also be available.

The store will cater to wedding receptions, wine and cheese parties and other special functions. Glass service for home entertaining is also available.

Barnes Wines in Belleville operates the only wine store in the Quinte area. The present staff will move to the Quinte Mall store which will be under the management of Mrs. Jean O'Meara.

Barnes Wines will be open Thursday and Friday nights and all day Wednesday.

All Ages Sneaky Pete Fans

Sneaky Pete, a new idea in dining pleasure, has three restaurants in the new Quinte Mall. Each is done in Western saloon style in keeping with the fun-loving symbol of the old prospector — Sneaky Pete.

A fast-service saloon bar offering specialty sandwiches and hot dogs is complemented by a 170-seat full service saloon featuring Western burgers, pizza and that favorite summer beverage.

For the children and young at heart there is a separate Sneaky Pete soft ice cream parlor complete with seats to rest and enjoy your cone.

Circle TV Makes Move

Circle TV Service and Sales is opening a modern home entertainment centre in the Quinte Mall and will be closing its present downtown store on Front Street.

The entire staff of the present store will be on hand to greet visitors when the shopping centre opens next Wednesday.

Circle TV's main store and service department at 249 Coleman Street is not affected by this move and remains open for business as usual, Jerry DiNocci explained.

Circle TV Service has been in business in Belleville for the past 18 years and is today one of the largest authorized RCA dealers in Eastern Ontario.

The new Circle TV centre in Quinte Mall will open with a full display of the latest RCA 1972 models in color and black and white TV, portable and table radios, refrigerators, freezers, washers and dryers and dish washers. Westinghouse, Toshiba and Sony lines will also be displayed.

Robert Coleman will be manager of the new Quinte Mall store.

Mayor Will Open Mall

Mayor J. Russell Scott will officially open the new Quinte Mall shopping centre on Wednesday morning at a short ribbon - cutting ceremony starting at 9:15 o'clock. The stores will open for business at 9:30 a.m.

The event will take place on the parking lot in front of the main entrance to the mall. Quinte Mall is located on North Front Street at Highway 14 and 401.

The mayor will be assisted by Charles L. Tabashnick, president of Cambridge Leaseholds Limited, developers of Quinte Mall, and by J. C. Barrow, chairman of Simpsons - Sears.

The public is invited.

Home Sewers Welcome

Shoppers at the new Quinte Mall will find the Quinte Sewing Centre a paradise for those who sew at home.

Here home sewers will find a complete sewing centre stocked with fashion fabrics and all the latest patterns and sewing needs. The exotic colors and variety of the fabrics combine with the colorful decor to give the new Quinte Sewing Centre an air of shopping gaiety and pleasure.

The new shop is the latest of such sewing centres operated by Harry Outtrim in the Belleville and Picton areas.

The new Quinte Mall centre opens on Wednesday with a full stock of fall fashion fabrics and pattern selections from the leading pattern services. The extensive assortment of notions and accessories, sewing books and instruction books combine to make this "sewing headquarters" for homemakers everywhere.

Also on display are the latest models in straight and zig-zag stitch sewing machines.

Expert service and parts for all popular makes of machines is available.

Hair Grooming Shop to Open

High quality men's and ladies' hair styling will be a feature of George Basilone's new hair grooming and beauty salon in the new Quinte Mall.

The ladies' hair styling salon will be under the direction of Mrs. Anna Basilone and will offer the latest in hair styling, shampooing, coloring and tinting by skilled operators trained in the latest hair care techniques.

For the opening of the salon a special treatment for correcting sun bleached hair will be a feature with a mini-miss hair styling special for back-to-schoolers.

The men's hair styling salon is the most modern design and latest equipped shop in Belleville, Mr. Basilone states. A separate styling room is available for hair tinting.

Whether it's a boy's first school hair cut or the latest in men's styling, razor cut, coloring or hair relaxing, Mr. Basilone is looking forward to providing the finest personal service in the Quinte area.

Experience Biggest Asset in Running Smooth Operation

Checking Opening Plans

Douglas Thompson, manager of Simpsons-Sears Front Street store, and Peter Lunt, manager of the firm's new Quinte Mall location, discuss plans for official opening on August 18. Simpsons-Sears Mall store with over 91,000 square feet of floor space is main anchor store for the 40-store, $7-million shopping plaza.

Peter R. Lunt, manager of Simpsons-Sears new multi-store in Belleville, is a man of considerable experience in the retail business.

In the 15 years he has been with Simpsons-Sears, he has worked in eight different stores and held 14 different jobs.

Shortly after arriving in Canada in 1957 from England, Mr. Lunt was hired by Simpsons-Sears as a trainee and sent to work in the store at Sarnia where he quickly became customer service manager, and later manager of the furniture and draperies departments.

He was then moved to Toronto where he held a number of positions in the company's national buying organization.

Next followed merchandising assignments in the Ottawa, Port Arthur, Oshawa and Saskatoon stores. A little over a year ago he was made manager of the store at Moose Jaw, Sask.

This varied and extensive experience especially qualifies Mr. Lunt for his latest position as manager of the big new department store which is to open next Wednesday in the Quinte Mall.

"Nothing takes the place of experience when it comes to running a retail business" Mr. Lunt told The Intelligencer. "Until you have operated a department or group of departments, budgeted sales and expenses, hired and trained people, you really don't know what it is all about. Even then, you'll run into problems for which you don't know the answer. That's when the experience really helps."

In the three months Mr. Lunt has been in Belleville, he has seen his store grow from an empty building to a full-scale department store with 53 departments and a staff of more than 250 people. Except for about half a dozen key positions, all the staff has been hired locally and trained in Simpsons-Sears methods.

In spite of his busy business schedule, M.R. Lunt has managed to find time to participate in community activities in the various cities in which he has lived. In Ottawa he conducted courses in retail management for owners and managers of small businesses. "In Moose Jaw he spearheaded the business development section of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Lunt has two main hobbies — playing the organ (he studied for 10 years with the London Guild Hall School of Music) and rock climbing. He plans to get back to both of them as soon as the new store is open and running.

Mr. Lunt and his wife Beryl live in Corbyville.

New Mall Is an Easy Move For Downtown Store Manager

Douglas W. Thompson, who went to work for Simpsons-Sears as a plumbing salesman when the Belleville store opened 18 years ago and who has been its manager for the past five years, will lock the door of the Front Street store for the last time today.

Simpsons-Sears is closing its downtown store in preparation for the opening next Wednesday of its new department store in the Quinte Mall.

Doug, as he is known to hundreds of his customers, moves over to the new store where he will occupy a senior merchandising position in the management group.

In announcing his appointment, company officials paid tribute to Mr. Thompson's past efforts and the high level of acceptance and excellent reputation which Simpsons-Sears enjoys in the greater Quinte area.

All of the downtown staff is moving with Mr. Thompson to the new Quinte Mall store. Garry Curtis, former assistant manager, heads up the new personel department. Mrs. Nina Huffman has charge of catalogue sales, Wendell Laidley is credit sales manager, Ron Poirier is receiving manager.

Others will be going into sales departments, telephone orders, customer service or inventory control.

"After our downtown operation, it's a little frightening to suddenly find yourself part of an organization of 250 people with sales which will run into millions of dollars a year. But it's a real challenge and a wonderful opportunity for us all," Mr. Thompson told The Intelligencer.

Blandford Is Manager of Mall

The man responsible for the smooth operation of Belleville's new Quinte Mall is mall manager, David F. Blandford.

A former merchandiser and inventory control manager for Hudsons Bay Company, Mr. Blandford typifies the youthful, energetic and merchandise - oriented management which the developers, Cambridge Leaseholds Ltd., have found most successful for their other shopping centres.

Prior to joining Cambridge Leaseholds and his move to Belleville, Mr. Blandford was assistant manager of one of Toronto's regional shopping centres.

As manager, Mr. Blandford will be responsible for insuring that the mall achieves its full market potential. Quinte Mall is the largest and only enclosed shopping mall between Oshawa and Kingston. The 40 selected stores and services are designed to attract retail sales estimated to reach $14 million a year and to provide employment for 200 full-time workers. Annual payroll for the centre will be about $3-million.

Mr. Blandford is married and lives with his wife, Edith and infant daughter Christina, in one of Belleville's western suburbs.

Dollar Devaluation Sought

Money Marts Hit By Bold U.S. Move

Money Trades Halted

By the Canadian Press

Major European governments kept their foreign money markets closed today while they sought clarification of President Nixon's sudden action to defend the U.S. dollar.

The West German government ordered foreign currency exchanges in that country closed until further notice.

France, Italy, Belgium and Luxembourg were having a bank holiday anyway for the Roman Catholic Feast of the Assumption.

Foreign exchange transactions also were suspended in Sweden and Norway. In Oslo, as in France and West Germany, tourists were allowed to exchange only $50 a day.

The five London banks that operate the free gold market announced that it would remain closed also. Bullion dealers expected that at the market's reopening the price of gold would soar, probably to an all-time high.

Despite the suspension in foreign exchange dealings, a spokesman for the British treasury said banks would be allowed to meet the needs of bona fide tourists under "contracts already entered into."

The Swiss National Bank said tourists in Switzerland could exchange a maximum of $30 a

Canadian Dollar Rises

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian currency market was open today while most European markets were closed and the Canadian dollar moved to within a penny of parity with the United States dollar.

The Canadian dollar opened at 98.94 cents U.S. and within a half hour of the opening was trading at between 99.1 and 99.2 cents U.S.

'Save the job crisis could be worse. We could be unemployed!'

Gold Sale Cut Off; Prices, Wages Fixed

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon has imposed a largely voluntary 90 day wage price rent freeze and invited worldwide reshuffling of exchange rates—changes that would amount to devaluation of the United States dollar.

In a television and radio address Sunday night, Nixon pictured his far-ranging program —much of which he put into effect immediately—as a bid to cut unemployment, slow inflation, protect the U.S. dollar and make American goods more competitive with foreign products.

The president's historic announcement that the United States is temporarily abandoning its long-standing policy of selling gold to foreign governments at $35 an ounce, and the wage-price-rent move, were among the measures that took immediate effect.

Nixon also announced a temporary 10-per-cent surcharge on most imports, a 10-per-cent cut in foreign economic aid and a deep slash in federal spending at home. He also proposed ending the car excise tax, now at seven per cent.

He temporarily cut the 37-year-old link between the U.S. dollar and gold in an attempt to ease foreign speculation over the dollar. Economic observers said the move would probably force some major world currencies to revalue upwards against the dollar.

The president called for international talks aimed at altering the range of exchange to provide a fairer alignment between the U.S. dollar and other currencies, but not the price of gold itself.

Treasury officials said the move to unpeg the U.S. dollar from gold convertibility for foreign monetary authorities, after weeks of speculation against the U.S. currency, did not imply that the dollar would float freely on exchange markets.

They said this could depend on whether foreign central banks decide to support the American currency by buying dollars at the official rate.

Nixon's package of measures also included plans to seek accelerated tax cuts from Congress.

It was one of the most drastic sets of emergency steps in U.S. history to rescue the embattled dollar abroad.

The president's decisions were believed to be an attempt by the White House to seize the initiative from administration critics who feel the economy will be the major issue in the 1972 presidential election campaign.

Nixon's new course represented a reversal of his earlier refusal to consider wage and price controls or to seek relief for the taxpayer.

The far-reaching monetary and economic package was put into effect after a fierce assault on the U.S. dollar abroad and rising criticism of the lagging yet inflationary economy from members of his own Republican party as well as opposition Democrats.

The chief policy changes disclosed by the president after a weekend of private talks with top advisers at the presidential mountaintop retreat in Camp David, Md. are:

—The temporary suspension of full convertibility of U.S. dollars into gold for foreign treasuries and central banks and the start of international consultations to alter the range of exchange between the dollar and other currencies. But there will be no change in the official gold price of $35 an ounce set by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1934, when the United States undertook to sell gold to and buy it from foreign official hold-

Nixon's Moves At a Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here at a glance is what President Nixon said Sunday night in his address on economic policy:

—He is freezing all prices, wages and rents for at least 90 days.

—Effective at once, the United States for the indefinite future will not buy gold at the $35 an ounce price fixed in the 1930s, leaving the U.S. dollar to find its own level in relation to foreign currencies.

—He hopes his actions will initiate global consultation and negotiations to reform international monetary arrangements in effect since the mid 1940s.

—All imports will be subject to a temporary surcharge, generally 10 per cent.

—He is recommending that, effective Sunday, the seven per cent excise tax on automobiles be repealed so that the average price per American car would be reduced by $200.

—He is asking Congress to grant industry, effective Sunday, an accelerated investment tax credit of 10 per cent for one year, and a five per cent permanent rapid tax writeoff after the first year.

—He plans to cut federal spending by $4.7 billion this fiscal year, and reduce federal employment by five per cent.

U.S. Policy Will Hurt Canada's Exports Drive

OTTAWA (CP) — President Nixon's new U.S. economic policies are expected to push the Canadian dollar up in international exchange markets and hurt the Canadian export drive, an informant said today.

However, this may only be a passing phase, and ultimately Canadian trade may improve, he said. For consumer purchases of imported goods, prices of American products could decline while overseas goods may become more expensive.

President Nixon's Sunday night announcement caught the capital by surprise, with both Prime Minister Trudeau and Finance Minister E. J. Benson away on overseas vacations. Finance, trade, and other department officials were meeting early today trying to assess the implications of Mr. Nixon's announcements.

The 10-per-cent surcharge on American import duties is regarded as the most damaging one to the Canadian economy, affecting sales of most Canadian manufactured goods to the United States. Most raw materials, however, are expected to be little affected by the surtax alone.

Statistics Canada reported today that 68 per cent of all Canadian exports in the first seven months of this year went to the United States. About one-quarter of all Canadian exports to all countries are raw materials.

An economist outside the government service said he expects the Canadian dollar to rise initially in international exchange markets. Most European markets were closed today to give them time to sort out the implications of Mr. Nixon's withdrawal of the U.S. to promise to buy and sell gold at $35 an ounce.

The Canadian dollar has been floating on international markets since June, 1970, when its old 92.5-cent peg was removed. Speculation now is that it could rise close to or even above par with the U.S. dollar.

A rising Canadian dollar makes imports cheaper but exports more expensive for foreign buyers.

It is believed that the rise in the Canadian dollar recently to nearly 99 cents in U.S. funds has been the result of U.S.-Canadian trading. If, as expected, the most European currencies are revalued upwards in relation to the U.S. dollar, this would have the effect of lowering both the U.S. and Canadian dollars.

The longer-run effect of lower valuations on the Canadian and U.S. dollar would be to make European imports more expensive, but would make Canadian exports to countries other than the United States cheaper.

Canada last year considerably boosted its exports to non-American markets, but in the first seven months of this year, exports to the United States were up six per cent.

Statistics Canada reported that of the $10.2 billion worth of Canada's exports to all countries so far this year, $6.9 billion went to the United States.

Canada's exports to the U.S. showed a 8.3-per-cent growth in the January-July period. Last year, for the same months, the total was $6.5 billion, and Canada's total export volume was $9.9 billion.

Statistics Canada's preliminary report on exports up to the end of July, released today, did not give a breakdown by commodities shipped to the United States. However, two large segments—automobiles and petroleum—are not to be affected by President Nixon's new surtax on American imports.

In the six months, January to June this year, Canadian exports of automobiles, chassis, trucks, engines and parts—principally to the United States—totalled $2.1 billion. President Nixon exempted trade under the Canada-U.S. automobile free trade agreement from his new economic measures.

Generally, U.S. import duties are low or non-existent on American purchases of raw materials, and almost one-quarter of Canada's total exports to all countries are in that category.

Missing Napanee Sloop Safe

TRENTON (Staff) — A 38 foot sloop, missing since Saturday night, was found this morning in Lake Ontario, off the Outlet, by a search and rescue Dakota from CFB Trenton.

The sloop's crew, comprising Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wortman, their daughter and nephew Stephen Finlay, all of Napanee, were found safe aboard the craft that became lost in bad weather while participating in the annual round-the-county boat race this weekend.

The 103-mile event started from Presqu'ile Point Saturday morning. Winds of 45 knots and high waves struck the fleet in the evening, and only 10 of the original starters succeeded in finishing.

Captain E. R. Caird of the Trenton Search Centre reported this morning Coast Guard Cutter 112 had escorted the vessel to Presqu'ile, following its sighting by the spotter plane at 9.30 a.m.

He said the sloop had last been seen Saturday night about two miles off Point Petre, in Prince Edward County.

The Search and Rescue Coordination Centre was informed of the missing yacht late Saturday afternoon. A search plane and coast guard cutter were sent out to comb Prince Edward's shores during the evening and again this morning.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Most regions will continue to have generally sunny skies and near normal temperatures today except for eastern portions of Ontario where the remains of Hurricane Beth will give cloudy skies and the possibility of rain later today.

Apocrines and Eccrines Everybody Has Them
Your body has millions of tiny useful secretive sweat glands which prevent the body from overheating by secreting a clear odorless fluid that is mostly water. In areas where this fluid can not evaporate, the underarms and on the feet, the sweat can be noticeable and uncomfortable. But this wetness alone does not cause body odor.....
Body odor can come from the less numerous apocrine glands which work mainly in the underarm area. These glands secrete a complex organic fluid that is broken down by normal skin bacteria to form a smelly substance. A deodorant will just hide a body odor but an anti-perspirant works against both odor and wetness. We carry a complete selection of these products and can recommend one to you that is non-irritating.

Dust Buildup Causes Hydro Power Failure

A long period of dry weather followed by a brief spatter of rain resulted in a short circuit Saturday night which caused a power blackout in the northeast end of the city and damage to leadin services at several residences in the Hillcrest area.

Public Utilities officials said the power interruption lasted for a total of 13 minutes.

Two industrial plants, Brooke-Bond and Mobile Plastics were without power for a slightly longer period.

Although the greatest extent of damage was to city public utilities equipment, the trouble all started on an Ontario Hydro high tension line.

Norman Manning, information officer at the Belleville area hydro headquarters office, said the long spell of dry weather had allowed pollutant material to build up on the insulators and the brief rain Saturday night was insufficient to clean them off properly.

The result was that a short developed at one of the insulators setting the pole afire. The blaze burned off the cross-arm allowing one of the wires to drop across service wires leading into several houses.

Firemen reported kitchen damage at one of the Hillcrest residences. Houses affected were at 161, 164, and 174 West Street.

A hydro official reported also that the lowered high tension wire dropped onto a parked car.

Ontario Hydro and city public utilities officials today are still investigating the trouble and assessing the damage.

Three Break-ins Over Weekend

Sometime between Friday night and Saturday morning, a safe at the Belleville Livestock Yards on North Front Street was pried open, apparently by someone wielding a crowbar, and more than $700 in cash is reported missing.

Police report the second storey artist climbed onto the roof, slid down into the yard and pried boards off a window, to gain entry into the building.

Also on North Front Street, King George Public School, was entered sometime Friday or Saturday through a closed, but unlocked door.

Although nothing has been reported missing, a photograph and tape player were damaged.

A thief lifted an unlocked window at the Kiwanis Centre on Dundas Street, also between Friday and Saturday, ransacked a desk and walked off with between 30 and 40 cents from a soft drink machine.

Council Supports Gasoline Dealers

CAMPBELLFORD (Special) — After a lengthy discussion, council agreed at its August meeting to forward a request by the local retail gasoline outlets association to the federal government to secure uniform pricing standards for the industry.

The action was taken after D. Ferguson, president of the association, phoned the council not to issue further outlet licences. He stated that competition within the community had reached the level where business was not profitable and, coupled with the rising costs of purchasing gasoline from the major oil companies, local businesses were starting to remain in operation.

After a reply has been received from Ottawa, council will meet with the association to further discuss the situation.

Light Rain Helps Douse Forest Fires

TWEED (Special) — Spotty rainfall throughout the Tweed forest district over the weekend assisted in dousing forest fires under control.

At the end of last week, seven fires were reported burning in the district with four of them still burning this morning.

These were an eight-acre blaze in Sheffield township, and three other smaller fires in Barrie, Ashby and Herschel townships.

One of the blazes was reported started by lightning, with the other three as the result of campfires.

Rain so far this month is far below the normal for August with precipitation to the end of last week amounting to only .04 inch. Over the weekend one-fifth of an inch fell at Tweed, although heavier rainfall was reported in other areas.

Normal rainfall for the month of August is three inches.

Campsites Now Open

TWEED (Special) — For the first time in many weeks, would - be campers today have a choice of campsites in Tweed district lands and forests parks.

A report from the lands and forests office this morning revealed there were 85 sites available at Black Lake; 45 at Bon Echo; 27 at Lake St. Peter; 130 at the Outlet and 45 at the Sandbanks.

Family of Five Injured in Crash

A collision between a tandem truck and a car near Marysville resulted in a family of five and their passenger being admitted to Belleville General Hospital Saturday suffering a variety of injuries.

Injuries:

His wife, Thelma, 28, is listed in serious condition after sustaining two broken legs, a broken nose and multiple lacerations.

Son James, 8, is recovering from facial lacerations; Tim

Fire in Grill

Belleville firefighters were called to the Cozy Grill on Front St., Sunday at 11:07 p.m. when a cleaning rag under a stairway ignited and caused a small fire.

Firemen also answered calls to several grass fires over the weekend.

Changing Address the Easy Way

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hubbs with a new address at 36 Colborne Street in the city, didn't need a van to move from their former address, 58 Dundas Street West. During the weekend their permanent dwelling for years was jacked up and wheels placed under it for a short trip around the corner. The relocation is part of ex-mayor Jack Ellis' plan to establish a car wash business on the north side of the main route.

Money Markets Hit by U.S. Move

—A temporary surcharge on existing duties on imports, generally at a rate of 10 per cent. Imports which are subject to quantitative restraints, such as crude oil, petroleum products, meat, cheese, sugar, dairy products and cotton textiles, were exempt.

—A 90-day wage-price-rest freeze and the creation of a cost-of-living council to administer it and draw up voluntary restraints to go into effect when the freeze expires. Violations of the freeze can draw a fine of up to $5,000.

Nixon did not mention the rent freeze in his text. But an explanatory note handed reporters at a briefing listed the moratorium in rent up veluntary increases as part of the president's package.

The Nixon "freeze," authorized under the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970, could be extended beyond 90 days or, said the administration, there could be a transitional return to "free markets without inflation."

In any case, interest rates and dividends on common stock are exempt from the restraints.

However, Treasury Secretary John Connally was expected to call upon lenders to put a lid on interest rates voluntarily, and Nixon asked for a similar temporary ceiling on dividend payments.

—A recommendation to Congress for the approval of an investment tax credit at the rate of 10 per cent for a year, and five per cent in following years, to encourage investment and spur employment and economic growth.

—A 4per-cent cut in foreign economic aid, now running at about $1.5 billion a year.

—A request to Congress for the repeal of the car-excise tax now about $200 a vehicle, for a revenue cut of $2.3 billion in the current fiscal year ending next June.

—A $4.7 billion cut in federal spending, comprising a five-per-cent cut in federal employment, a six-month freeze on a scheduled federal pay raise, and the postponement of several tax-sharing and welfare programs.

A recommendation that Congress agree to a one-year advance in tax exemptions on personal income-tax returns, amounting to $50 a person and reducing federal revenues by $1 billion.

Congressional reaction to Nixon's wage-price-rent freeze and other economic proposals was generally favorable, although some Democrats said he should have acted sooner.

Nixon delivered a savage attack on international currency speculators whom he blamed for the weakness of the U.S. dollar abroad and accused of hoping to create crises to the detriment of the American economy.

"I am determined that the American dollar will never again be a hostage in the hands of international money speculators," he said.

The president emphasized that the suspension of convertibility of dollars into gold and the import surcharge were temporary measures to give the United States economy a breathing spell and were not aimed at harming other countries.

But he was forthright on foreign economic aid, saying that the time had come for other countries to bear their fair share of the burden of defending freedom around the world.

After providing $143 billion in foreign economic aid since the end of the Second World War, "there is no longer any need for the United States to compete with one hand tied behind her back," he said.

In domestic political terms, Nixon has weakened, at least temporarily, his hitherto rigid Republican philosophy barring interference by the government in a private-enterprise economy.

Political observers suggested that his decisions to freeze wages, prices and rents for 90 days and to recommend tax relief were an acknowledgement that his economic policy was not working and that more direct and dynamic action on his part to boost the economy and restrain inflation was vital to his chances for re-election next year.

Meetings This Week

Public meetings this week (Aug. 16 - Aug. 22) of which The Intelligencer has received notice are:

MONDAY

City council, council chambers, city hall, 4 p.m.

TUESDAY

Hastings County Board of Education, special meeting called at board offices, 208 Bridge Street East, 1.30 p.m.

Exchanges

day, and exchanges offices and banks were instructed to enter all such transactions in passports or other identity papers.

There was no indication what limit the British would put on tourist exchanges.

Prime Minister Edward Heath hurried back to London from Chequers, the prime minister's official country estate, to meet with his top ministers.

Officials of West Germany's central bank also held an emergency meeting to discuss the situation.

The Japanese stock market showed its heaviest decline in history today. Stock prices plummeted as dealers placed sell-at-any-price orders as soon as the stock exchange opened.

In Hong Kong, the price of gold shot up to $45.51 an ounce after the announcement compared with $44.33 at the week-end.

British newspapers classed the president's suspension of convertibility of the U.S. dollar into gold as "virtual devaluation."

Garbage Showers Police Offices

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Search continues for a culprit who threw a loaded garbage can through a window of town police officers here Friday night.

Brighton Police Sergeant Kenneth Brown reports he was sitting at his desk in police offices Friday night when the cascading can came flying through the closed window, spewing refuse over his desk and every which way.

Immediately, the Sergeant called in the force's special Constable Miss Foster to mount a search for the rubbish hurler.

The garbage can has been identified as one belonging to the village, placed in the park for the use of picnickers.

Car Flips, Two Hurt

SHANNONVILLE (Staff) — Sylvester Ting-a-Fok, 26, and his wife Wendy, 24, both of Scarborough, were admitted to Belleville General Hospital Sunday both suffering from concussion and multiple lacerations.

Their late - model Japanese car apparently left Highway 401 near the Shannonville turnoff, rolled over and came to rest on the median.

Damage to the car was estimated at $2,000. Constable William Brant of the Belleville detachment, OPP, is investigating.

Water Main To Be Extended

CAMPBELLFORD (Special) — The present "inadequate" sanitary facilities in Ferris Memorial Provincial Park will be soon corrected with the announcement by the provincial Department of Lands and Forests that it will extend the six-inch water main leading into the park installed two years ago at no cost to the town of Campbellford.

The new sewer and water mains will be laid in the small portion of the park within the corporation.

The department of transportation and communication informed council that soon after the new facilities are installed, camping will be permitted within park grounds.

Welcome to the Fair

Welcome once again to the Quinte Exhibition. Starting tomorrow the former Belleville Fair is celebrating its 150th anniversary with a fresh round of interesting activity.

Already outlined in our special exhibition issue are the 11 special entertainment attractions and visitors will be happy to note that this year there will be no additional charge for grandstand events.

As it is, the popularity of the fair is such that its financial success is assured. Last year fair gate receipts and assets exceeded $100,000.

The fair coincides with a significant period in the city's history ,that is with the opening of the Quinte Mall, with the arrival of additional air force personnel at CFB Trenton some of whom likely will be taking up residence here, and with the increased economic confidence that comes with these developments.

It will be all the fun of the fair again this week, and more so than ever with events and attractions in keeping with this anniversary occasion and with the exhibition's long history.

The Ad Scene

Gravel-voiced Johnny Cash has joined the growing number of movie and television personalities who may be seen and heard intoning those television advertisements.

What gets us about these performances is the lack of imagination of some ads. Oh sure they are clever at times, but must sponsors keep playing the same tired old theme endlessly. The same old guff about this or that pill to make you sleep, active ingredients and mouth wash and so on. No wonder we are a nation of pill poppers and more neurotic in consequence than we need be.

One we never tire of, however, is that morning bit on radio when The Travellers, a singing group, sing it for you-know-who and their tires. It is all the more attractive for the soft and engaging tones of a young woman member of the group who talks about prices. Lately a man has been doing the monologue and the ad has less color as a result. After all, it is virtually a man's world on radio advertising; this one was a pleasant exception.

Answer Is 'No'

Legalise marijuana? Those who advocate such a course are reckless, irresponsible, unheeding of what this and other drugs can do to an individual's psychological processes.

Soldiers in Vietnam have been shot by buddies under the influence of pot; now from Montreal there is word of a savage murder allegedly involving the drug. A 17-year-old Laval student who operated a pushcart concession at Man and His World was knifed at least 20 times in the chest and back, in custody is a 19-year-old student who had been seen earlier scuffling and shouting inside the pushcart kiosk. When police came one was lying on the floor against the wall stained with blood. Somebody had been smoking marijuana and admitted to another young sweeper that he was "really gone." A police officer testified the accused was unable to walk when they took him away for medical treatment. He had to be carried, "looked lost and didn't seem to know what was going on around him."

There is only one thing more to say, and that is there must be no legalization of marijuana.

Kids on Bicycles

There are a lot of kids on bicycles these days and the way they weave about and use the wrong side of the road should raise the shackles of any safety committee. Groups of kids walking the roads are a common enough sight too in summer, and we are not referring exclusively to hitchhikers but rather to the younger fry with time on their hands and cheek on their tongues. Some have a nasty habit of grimacing or otherwise gesturing at passing motorists. Circus clowns, an honorable profession, do a better job, and with less malice.

Extra Expense

The railways are losing money. Why then, an overseas visitor asks, does Canadian National provide such little extras as ticket folders? It would be interesting to know just what they do cost over the course of a year.

Silly Season in Ottawa

Trivia Grips A Capital in Midst of Summer Doldrums

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — If public-ity-conscious politicians were on the ball, they would be in Ottawa once a week during the summer doldrums to denounce somebody. In fact, there is even good mileage now days in praising somebody.

Apart from, say, a cabinet shuffle or garbage strike, things are as quiet in Ottawa that any public utterance by any politician become the highlight of the day.

When David MacDonald (PC —Egmont) issued a statement this week calling for the formation of a Commons committee on youth, his suggestion was reported all across Canada. Had he said this during a busy day in the Commons, he'd be lucky to get any attention at all.

Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien, who recently visited Siberia, held his second news conference since returning to Canada and he appeared amazed when some 35 reporters crowded into his office. Stories like this are generally non-events, but Mr. Chretien couldn't have done much better with a moon walk.

Prime Minister Trudeau's cabinet appointments last week of course, was a massive event for reporters. Not since he shattered the summer with a 90-minute general press conference —his first in Ottawa in 19 months—had there been so much excitement.

Another big event will the return from China of Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield. But once these highlights had passed, it was back to the changing of the guard.

New Democratic Leader David Lewis really brought the situation into focus when he attracted 30 reporters to a press conference to talk about China —one of the countries he hasn't visited—and his party's stand on China's admission to the UN—a stand that has been consistent for 20 years.

Even if John Diefenbaker called a news conference to announce he planned to vote Conservative in the next election he would likely have a sellout audience.

On particularly bad days even press gallery mail is read avidly. A New York public relations man, who knows some of the doldrum days, sent the exciting word that one of the world's greatest experts on hot dogs would soon be visiting Ottawa.

Then there was the letter from someone in Kamloops that the federal government shouldn't give any grant to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

But nothing is read with more intensity than a press release, which might just possibly contain the daily nugget. And, like the New York hot-dog man, the Russians seem aware of the situation.

A massive cable has arrived from Moscow with word that the Communist Central Committee and Council of Ministers have examined with relief the Soviet delegation attending the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance in Bucharest last month.

Apparently it was a first-class meeting.

Turbo-Prop Is Pilot's Dream Job

Richard Needham in
The Globe and Mail

Captain Jack Desmarais of Air Canada writes me from Etobicoke: "This year (last chance) I am flying the greatest prop airplane ever built, the Vanguard. I know a lot of passengers don't like it but it's the ultimate pilot's airplane. Perhaps they don't realize it but the pig - looking 'Metal-guard' is the safest, most rugged, most easily - manoeuvrable aircraft there is for its size. There are only 15 crews left now in Toronto and it's like a little club. Seniority being what it is, most of us on VG are sacrificing a better schedule in order to fly this incomparable aircraft."

"Oh yeah? Well MY congregation can lick YOUR congregation!"

Nixon May Have to Ditch Taiwan

Peking Will Take Over China UN Representation

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

After years of mutual recrimination, the West and China are edging closer to one another.

But in recent days the "imperialist" side has been making most of the conciliatory gestures while some sobering statements have come from Peking.

China's own offensive of friendliness reached a climax with the burst of "ping-pong" diplomacy which took athletes from the United States ,Canada and Britain to Peking for the warmest display of Maoist hospitality since before the frigid period of China's cultural revolution.

Canada played a leading role in trying to improve Western relations with China . The exchange of ambassadors as well as the big wheat deals between the two countries won global attention.

China long involved in a food with the Soviet Union over primacy in the Communist world, made conciliatory gestures towards a wide range of Western countries. Peking capped all this by accepting the idea of a visit by President Nixon, an event which was seen as heralding the ultimate establishment of normal diplomatic ties between the two long-time antagonists.

Announcement of the projected trip came as a political boon to the American chief executive.

It appeared that the American-Chinese thaw was a step towards possible peace in Indochina, an advantage for Nixon because of widespread war weariness in the U.S.

Now comes Washington's announcement that it will support Chinese entry into the United Nations this fall, but will continue to oppose expulsion of Taiwan from the world 'organization.

This may produce new difficulties in view of the opposition of both the Communist and Nationalist Chinese regimes to the concept of dual representation .

But European observers suggest that, one way or another, Peking eventually will end up with the Security Council seat currently occupied in the name of all China by Taiwan. They interpret the latest U.S. moves as simply a matter of accepting the inevitability of Peking UN membership and also as part of the price Nixon is having to pay for his politically profitable Peking trip.

Since the dramatic disclosure of the forthcoming Nixon trip, the Chinese leaders in Peking have given no evidence of easing their hard line on several crucial aspects of world politics.

They have rejected a Soviet proposal for a five-power conference aimed at negotiating a ban on nuclear arms.

Moreover ,they have insisted on withdrawal of U.S. forces not only from Indochina but also from South Korea, Japan and other parts of Southeast Asia.

Thus, while a number of spectacular developments have raised hopes of future friendship between China and the U.S., there also are solid reasons for ruling out anything but guarded optimism about the possibility that this happy state of affairs will in fact come about.

Kingston Tries For Sailing Olympics

Kingston Whig-Standard

In a recent editorial The Ottawa Journal voiced its support for Kingston's efforts to become the sailing centre for the 1976 Olympic Games and suggested that this campaign will have support from all Eastern Ontario.

"Apart from the economic benefits the event would bring to this region, there is an intangible 'national' advantage in Ontario having a part of the Montreal Olympics." The Journal observes. "Kingston is the closest major Lake-front community; closer than Acapulco was to Mexico City and almost next door compared with Kiel which will be used next year for the sailing events of the Munich Olympics."

The Journal goes on to say that "Too often in the past worthwhile projects sought by Ontario communities have been undermined by jealous or indifferent neighbors, or by a reluctance to ask for support. Kingston has demonstrated, by the success of the Canadian Olympic sailing trials there over the past few summers, and by the interest and efforts of its citizens, that it wants and can stage this event."

The editorial concludes with the suggestion that "Kingston should lose no time enlisting the backing of neighbors with Ontario - Carleton leading the way."

We are certain that Mayor Valerie Swain and all who are working on the sailing project will welcome the comments and support of The Ottawa Journal. It is to be hoped that the campaign will indeed have support from all Eastern Ontario. Certainly, the goal is not something with potential advantages for this city alone.

Public and the Mail Service

How U.K. and France Dealt with Militant Unions

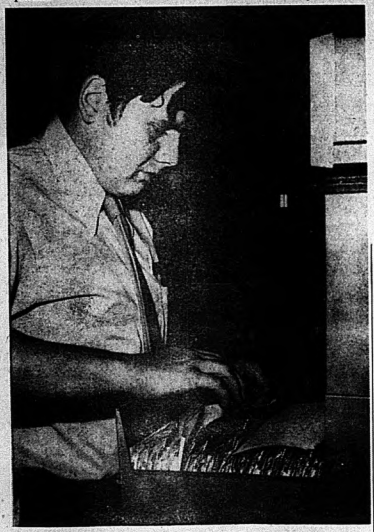
Winnipeg Free Press

The postal union is girding for new industrial action around Christmas. This is the latest invention of public service unions — to hit the public where it really hurts, at the same time pretending that the unions are dealing with hard - faced bosses, rather than the millions of overburdened taxpayers.

We already have a highly expensive mail. On the other hand, it is also highly unreliable, "assured mail delivery" notwithstanding. So if the mail union becomes a "militant industrial union," as its president, James McCaul, promises, the public may have every reason to consider whether the post office should be run, not as a public service, but as a tough, profit - making industry. After all, it's our money — everybody's money, including that of the militant union members.

In Paris, where most of the prestige theatres are government - owned and operated, and their personnel are civil service employees, the militant technicians' union at the Opera was demanding more and more. Although the Opera was already deeply in the red and had to be heavily subsidized by the taxpayer. So the government closed down the Opera and for over a year Paris has remained without one. It was sad, but the public hardly noticed. However the huge staff did, since the government dismissed them all.

Now the French ministry of culture has appointed a German administrator of the opera, and is rehiring staff on a completely new basis. A contract was prepared by the ministry, and it includes a no-strike clause. Each employee has to sign it individually. If enough sign up, there will be an opera. If not, too bad.



There is another example, from Britain. There too the workers in the state - owned power stations struck around Christmas, to hit the public. And the public hit back. Police had to guard the union bosses' houses, and union members found they could buy no groceries, stores and pubs would not serve them, people would not talk to them. The strike was called off.

Militancy in service to the public may easily arouse counter - militancy, either in a government that is the public's representative, or among the public at large. Perhaps the mailmen, after having listened to Sidd Finsky from the United States, may find it useful to invite some of the union members from Britain and France.

'Would You Please'

Danny Wagar, student summer dispatcher in the Belleville Police Department control room, has a refreshing addition to average police instructions. Her use of the word "please" is a change from the usual curt dispatches.

Up-to-date Files Necessary

Colin Lyons, third member of a civilian dispatching team hired for the first time this year by the Belleville Police Department, returns up-to-date files to control room records.

Loyalist Students Do Police Work

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

If all goes well, Belleville's police could have most of their dispatching and meet-the-public work done by a small core of civilian employees, marking a change which many forces across the country are putting into operation.

Manning the squad car radio system and operating telephones in the central control room at the Campbell Street police station is a job which could be taken over by civilians, thereby allowing regular police officers to return to police duties.

As a matter of fact, such a pilot project has been operating this summer with a trio of Loyalist College law and security management students.

Chief Douglas Crosbie explained the project was instigated this year to assess civilian dispatching, help provide student employment, give the students exposure to police work and with a 10 percent reduction in police staff due to summer vacations, the extra men usually regulated to dispatching duties during the winter months, are back on the beat.

The chance to work with active policemen has proved invaluable to the students, most of whom want to get into active security work or police departments.

It's a lot different from law stated and that practiced," commented Daryl Wagar, who works a day shift from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

"It's more interesting to see how it works than out of a book."

During their first college year, Miss Wagar, her fellow student dispatchers Colin Lyon and George Farrara, study such topics as security management, the Canadian Criminal Code, the Ontario Highway Traffic Act, liquor control laws and various statutes.

None of the summer employees are overly interested in full-time jobs as dispatchers but as Colin Lyon puts it, "I'd take it before regular security work."

George Farrara also wants to get into regular police work but Miss Wagar has not committed herself.

"I really want to finish my education and do more things," she said, turning to the radio dispatch unit to issue instructions for a patrolman to proceed on a routine investigation.

How do the officers react to the trio?

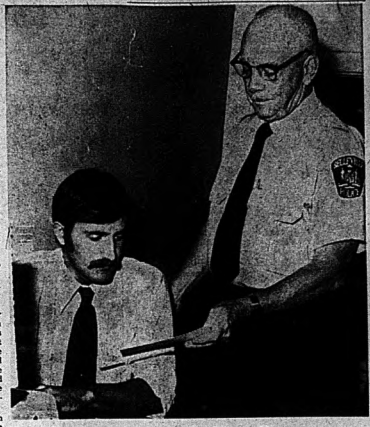
If Chief Crosbie's plans for a full - time civilian dispatch unit comes to pass, he hopes for class - time instruction at the college. However, the three Loyalist students feel they have gained invaluable knowledge working first-hand with the officers who were manning the control room before they came.

Although police forces such as one in British Columbia have hired law students for regular police duties, Belleville is not in a position to consider such action at this time.



However, Chief Crosbie does not rule out possibilities. "You have to try these things," he said.

"We're extremely pleased with the results and I will be reporting to the board of commissioners of police for the city on future employment."

A refreshing touch has been added to the usual cursory instructions issued over the police band, an addition greatly to appreciated by the officers.

Chief Crosbie recounted the first time he heard Miss Wagar issue instructions.

"It sounds kind of nice to hear Daryl dispatch: instead of just instructing, she asked "would you please." The boys got a real kick out of it."

Cross-country Police Contacts

Loyalist law and security student George Farrara operates one of the city police telecommunication units with information provided by veteran Constable John Parker. Three students have been working in the control dispatching room, relaying calls to patrolmen, answering the telephone, operating the telex machine and handling certain public and complaint receptions.

BELLEVILLE JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES REFUSE PUBLIC DISCUSSION

For several months the Belleville Jehovah's Witnesses have been challenged to a public discussion of their beliefs with someone from the Church of Christ. The Church of Christ is a non-denominational group which meets in the Engineer's Hall, Pine St., Belleville, (see times of services on Church ad page).

The "Witnesses" believe they have the truth of God and are willing to say so in print and in private discussion, but when challenged to discuss their beliefs publicly, they flatly refuse, giving all types of excuses. This reminds me of the elephant who proclaimed that he was the greatest and then ran for his life when challenged by a mouse.

Why have the Witnesses" continually refused to debate? I can give only one answer: They are afraid their error may be exposed by the truth. After all, the only thing that suffers from examination is error. If they have the truth, why do they not follow the example of those in the Bible who taught the truth, Christ, Stephen, the apostles all debated their beliefs publicly. (Jn. 8:1-58; Acts 6:8-10; Acts 9:22; Acts 18:28.)

I hope they will change their minds and meet us in a public examination of their beliefs, because I know there are many others like myself who are disgusted with their continual boasting that they are the greatest.

JOHN WALLACE,
Evangelist with the Church of Christ.

Men Called From Tweed to Thunder Bay Fires

THUNDER BAY (CP) — More than 400 men were hauling three major forest fires that were out of control Sunday and sweeping the rock and sand hills in an area about 80 miles north of here.

Ed Diamond, one of the department of lands and forests fire co-ordinators for the Thunder Bay district, said men and equipment from as far away as Tweed in southern Ontario had been recruited.

"We've got crack fire-fighting crews from across the province," he said. "The fires are not getting any worse but they are not getting any better either."

The major fire—6,200 acres—was at Whistle Lake where 288 men were working. There were 100 men at a fire at Hollinshead Lake and another 62 at Muskrat Lake.

Mr. Diamond said no towns or settlements were threatened but Highway 800 to Armstrong had been closed. Only other access to the community of 500 is the Canadian National Railways.

Two fires are located in the Lake Nipigon watershed, famous for its moose herds.

The fire hazard throughout Northwestern Ontario is extreme and travel in forests has been restricted.

A total of 36 fires were burning in the province, with only the fires in Thunder Bay out of control.

There were nine fires in the Sudbury district, seven in Tweed, four each in Kenora and Swastika, two in Stone Lookout, Fort Frances and Kemptville and one each in the districts of Geraldton, White River and Sudbury.

Man Who Recalls Orphanage Stages 'Street Kids' Party

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Businessman Donald Fairborn, 49, who remembers his own unhappy childhood in a Toronto orphanage, threw a party for 100 "street kids" Saturday at a park area at Grand Bend.

Mr. Fairborn rented buses, bought food and arranged for two policemen to come along "so the kids could get to know them as friends" and headed off to the Lake Huron resort area, 35 miles northwest of here.

He was a little disappointed with the turnout. About 200 children showed up, in response to his invitation on a local radio station.

"I wanted 1,000," said Mr. Fairborn, who plans another similar outing next year.

Mr. Fairborn, who has no children of his own, estimated he spent $1,500 for the outing. "But the money's not important. I wanted to give these kids a day they'd never forget."

He said his action was prompted by recent drug problems, apparent poor relations between youth and police officers and his memories of knotting sheets together to "escape" from an orphanage in Toronto.

Garbagemen Back at Work

OTTAWA (CP) — The 92 men who collect the capital's garbage went back to work today, ending a 10-day strike marked by violence on the picket line.

The men won a 50-cent-an-hour increase over the 30 months of the new contract along with fringe benefits.

Loaders received $3.01 an hour before the new contract. Drivers were paid $3.19.

When violence broke out last week, provincial mediators Victor Scott and Terry Mancini were called in.

After round-the-clock talks, they got both sides to agree to a settlement. The strikers, members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, were called together Sunday to ratify the settlement.

Eleven Arrested For Fight

BRANTFORD (CP) — Eleven persons were arrested early Sunday in the second night of disturbances outside a hotel in downtown Brantford.

A crowd estimated by police at between 600 and 800 persons filled the street in front of the hotel as fighting erupted among a small group.

About 30 policemen stopped the disturbance in about 20 minutes.

Donna M. MacLeod, 18, was admitted to hospital with facial injuries. She was charged with possessing as offensive weapon, a broken glass.

Other charges laid following the disturbance include creating a disturbance, impeding other persons and assaulting a police officer.

A similar incident occurred Friday night with about 400 persons confronting police. Nine were charged.

The street has been the scene of similar brawling and disturbance on weekends for several weeks.

Young Folk Not Hired To Inform

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor General Jean-Pierre Goyer says the RCMP "wouldn't have a young person informer, as an informer, on any payroll."

Police accept information from young people, but parents are informed if such informers offer information more than once.

"This is the policy—this is the practice," Mr. Goyer told a panel on the CTV program Question Period, shown Sunday.

He was asked to comment on July reports that documents taken from an unguarded RCMP station at Long Sault, Ont., showed that mounties paid teenages $50 a month to work as informers.

"That is a pure assumption because I didn't see any documents to prove that it was the case."

Although the RCMP pay people for information they "wouldn't have a young person informer, as an informer, on any payroll."

Asked if undercover agents are being used to infiltrate groups of young people using drugs and to arrest them later Mr. Goyer replied:

"If we wait until the time that a pusher will come and disclose his activities to the police we won't be very successful. We use all legal means to direct our investigations and to have undercover agents, I think is normal practice."

Mr. Goyer said he didn't think police should conduct "fishing activities" as university campuses but said they investigate campuses if they are duped about criminal or subversive activities on them.

Girl, Ten Is Mother

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Doctors reported Sunday that a 10-year-old girl gave birth to a six-pound, eight-ounce boy and that both were in good condition.

The Caesarean delivery was performed Saturday at the municipal hospital at Pilar, a town 25 miles north of Buenos Aires.

She is not the youngest mother of record. A five-year-old had a baby in Lima, Peru, in 1939.

Vancouver Stages 'Patch-up Party' Instead of Riot Mayor Predicted

VANCOUVER (CP) — The riot Mayor Tom Campbell predicted for Gastown never happened.

Instead, between 15,000 and 30,000 long-hairs, middle-aged citizens in party dresses and business suits and old skid road habitues danced in the streets Saturday night in a gigantic "pish-hop" party to defuse tension generated by the previous weekend's bloody clashes.

Where 79 persons were arrested Aug. 6 in a clash with police, people of all ages laughed, talked and danced Saturday night to rock music. Others took part in a gospel song-fest.

"What happens next is up to Mayor Campbell," said Gastown businessman Ed Hicks.

"Let's keep our fingers crossed that he does a bit more thinking before he opens his mouth again."

Mr. Campbell told a CBC television interviewer last Tuesday: "Anyone who goes to Gastown next Saturday will be in the centre of a riot. Gastown right now is a hotspot and anyone who goes to Gastown, they're looking for a riot."

The only trouble Saturday night was trying to move in the three-block area closed off to traffic for the party.

Thousands jammed the sidewalks and streets, munching 10,000 free hot dogs, 2½ tons of watermelon, 30,000 soft drinks, 3,000 doughnuts and 200 bushels of popcorn. Aldermen helped to hand out the free food and it was gone in 1½ hours.

The Gastown merchants, caught in the middle of last week's feud between police and youths who frequent pubs in the area, shelled out an estimated $5,000 for the gala affair.

Aldermen Ed Sweeney, Art Phillips, Harry Rankin, Walter Hardwick, Ernie Broome and Hugh Bird and Police Commissioner Tom Brown had dinner with several merchants prior to the party.

Mayor Campbell was absent, saying his presence would only complicate matters.

A senior police officer said a minimum force was deployed to keep an eye on the party. They reported no arrests and no violence.

The affair took place with the blessings of city hall and during the night, many of the so-called street people went up and shook hands with off-duty policemen in attendance.

One long-haired youth shouted: "Three cheers for the Vancouver police."

Strike-bound Plant Closed

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Auto Specialties Ltd. closed its strike-bound Canadian plant Saturday, leaving 230 workers without jobs.

Company president Bert Foote, who first announced the closing at a conciliation hearing Thursday, blamed the company's precarious financial condition for the decision to close.

The Canadian plant was one of four owned by the parent company, Auto Specialties Ltd. of St. Joseph, Mich. The other three are located in the United States.

Mr. Foote cited the cost of complying with a government order to install air pollution-control equipment, the federal government's rejection of a request for a $475,000 loan, and wage demands by Local 195 of the United Auto Workers in explaining the closing.

The workers had been on strike since July 5 after the company failed to put a monetary package on the bargaining table.

Company negotiators told the union they wanted a freeze in wages and fringe benefits for one year because of the adverse economic condition of the company.

Sam Dowell, Local 195 plant chairman, said he suspected the company is giving up its Windsor operations in order to transfer them to one or more of its U.S. plants.

Mr. Dowell said he was skeptical about the company being in financial straits because it was maintaining a full production schedule.

He said the company notified the union it would not pay 18 months' vacation pay it owes its employees because it plans to declare a bankruptcy.

He said Robert St. Pierre, president of the local, Thursday sent a telegram to M. E. Howard, director of the Employment Standards Branch of the Ontario Department of Labor, asking for his intervention so that the workers will collect their vacation pay and other money owing them.

WEDDING

HUNT — BARTIN

St. Carthagh's Roman Catholic Church was the setting for the recent marriage of Linda May Hartin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Hartin and of John Maurice Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose J. Hunt. Rev. Father Charles Baker conducted the ceremony while Mrs. Marian Foster, organist and Mrs. Gwen Kingston, soloist provided music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown with a chantilly lace bodice and full length sleeves. The skirt was enhanced with two strips of cut-out lace appliqued down the front with delicate pink ribbon. The detachable train entwined with fine strips of lace and pink ribbon flowed from the waistline which was accented by a large organza self - bow at the back. Her three tier nylon illusion scalloped veil in pink and white was caught up by a head piece of rosette strips and centre pearls forming a juliet cap effect. Her bouquet was of pink roses, daisies, baby's breath and ribbon.

The maid of honor Miss Donna Sills wore a floor length gown of embossed nylon and pink tinted daisies in her hair. She carried a bouquet of matching daisies.

The bridesmaids were Elizabeth and Mary Jane Hunt, sisters of the bridegroom. Both were dressed similarly to the maid of honor but Elizabeth was in mauve with mauve tinted daisies in her hair while Mary Jane was in sky blue with blue tinted daisies in her hair. Both carried bouquets to match the flowers in their hair.

The best man was Francis LaJoie while the ushers were William Hartin and Aaron Hunt.

The reception was held at the Land O'Lakes Curling Club. The bride's mother wore an A-line pink crimplene dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink baby 'mums.

The bridegroom's mother wore an A-line mint green linen weave dress with a wide brimmed lacy autumn gold hat with champagne accessories and a corsage of green baby 'mums.

For traveling the bride donned a figured "jersey mini dress with white accessories. The newly married couple will take up residence in RR 3, Tweed.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Prior to her marriage Mrs James Dafoe (nee Johanna Baker) was honored at showers given by Mrs. Flo Vick of Toronto, Mrs. H. Edmonston of Toronto and Mrs. Emma Armstrong of Belleville. A rehearsal party was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother.

* * *

Mrs. Thomas Laycock has returned home after a month's visit with her sister Mrs. John Honeycutt, and other relatives in Seattle and Burlington, Wash.

* * *

Prior to her recent wedding Mrs. John Hunt (nee Linda Hartin) was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Donna Sills with Elizabeth and Mary Jane Hunt as co-hostesses; and at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Gwen Kingston with Mrs. Evelyn Leal and Mrs. Anne Rowe as co-hostesses.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES DAFOE

Dafoe – Baker

The wedding ceremony was solemnized recently in College Hill United Church of Belleville when Johanna Maria Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker of New Canaan, Connecticut, was united in marriage to James Arthur Dafoe, son of Mrs. Ida Dafoe, Belleville and the late Ray Dafoe. The union was solemnized by the Rev. F. Edmondson, and Miss Linda Dafoe played the organ during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white dress with long sleeves and a hooded coat of white lace. She carried a Bible crested with yellow roses.

Maid of honor Miss Ina Mary Baker was dressed in dotted Swiss cotton, mauve in color, and trimmed in white and purple. Bridesmaids Miss June Sperakos, Miss Cheryl Armstrong and Miss Pamela Baker wore dresses the same as the maid of honor. Each of the bride's attendants carried a basket of 'mums.

The best man was Robert Edmondson and the ushers were Graydon Flindall, Bill Edmondson and Charles Baker, Jr.

For the wedding reception, the bride's mother wore a dress of pale pink crepe with a lace coat and white accessories. She wore a corsage of white 'mums. The bridegroom's mother assisting her was attired in a pale mauve crimplene ensemble with white accessories. She wore a corsage of pink 'mums.

The wedding trip was for three weeks duration in Holland, Germany and England and the bride travelled in crimplene hot pants, cream and wine in color.

Upon return they will live in Toronto.

Italian Women's Lib Having A Hard Time

ROME (Reuter) — women's liberation movement —Movimento par la Liberazione della Donna—has split and split again into four recognizable movements, ranging in philosophy from moderate to extremist, from radical to Marxist.

Women's liberation is having a hard time in Italy.

Not only is it having to battle the church, social tradition and the Italian male, but it also finds trouble maintaining a united front.

In the short space of one year, the original Italian women's liberation movement —Movimento per la Liberazione della Donna—has split and split again into four recognizable movements, ranging in philosophy from moderate to extremist, from radical to Marxista.

The Roman Catholic church is openly against the movement. The Vatican weekly l'Osservatore Romano said recently that woman was losing her maternal instinct. It maintained her role was to inspire kindness and human virtue.

The traditions of Italy do not help either. The woman is generally expected to divide her time between kitchen, church and her children—and otherwise remain silent.

Many married Italian women who would like to take on a job often cannot work up enough courage to do so, since their husbands would object violently to their wives, whom they often consider part of their belongings, being in the company of other men.

The law is tough on women, too. A woman can be sent to jail for not performing her marital duties—including refusing sexual intercourse—for having or seeking an abortion and, until recently, for adultery.

The law allows a man to do almost what he likes with his family. Legal rights over children belong to him. He can open his wife's mail and he has the last word on almost every issue from moving house to his children's education.

Some see hope in a draft law currently under study by a parliamentary commission. This would give men and women equal rights within marriage. But even this is likely to contain a provision that the husband has the last word on decisions affecting the life and death of children.

Faced with this situation, Italian women's liberation movements sometimes appear unsure about where to start.

The main movement, the relatively moderate Movimento per la Liberazione della Donna (MLD) apart from demanding equal pay for equal work—rarely the case in Italy—has decided to make abortion its main target.

Abortion is illegal in Italy, but every year an estimated one million to three million women undergo operations, and 20,000 to 25,000 die as a result of bungling, at an average daily death rate of over 50 women.

The MLD is seeking 50,000 signatures needed to present a bill in Parliament aimed at unfettered and state controlled abortion.

The most extreme group, the Rivolta Femminile (Feminine Revolt), refuses to have anything to do with men and is accused by detractors of being basically lesbian.

Of the remaining groups, the leftist Collettivo di Lotta Femminista (Feminist Struggle Collective), is angling its campaign at advertising, which it charges makes women enslaved sexual stereotypes—and the Fronte Italiano per la Liberazione della Donna (Italian Womens Liberation Front), is a Marxist movement.

Ann Landers

Shades of Hitler Seen In Reader's Philosophy

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Whenever I hear about a teen-ager committing suicide or blowing his mind with drugs I say to myself, "This is nature's law — and it's a good one. The survival of the fittest. This person has proved he was not fit to live."

Whether the inability to survive is due to weakness of character or a physical deficiency does not matter. The fact that a person is unable to make a place for himself in the world is born out by his desire to leave it. And so far as I am concerned, the world is better off if he leaves. We do not need any more weaklings, misfits or mental and physical defectives adding to the confusion and pollution of an already overcrowded world.

ANN LANDERS

One of the reasons the drug problem is so difficult to eradicate is that the screwballs who are hooked get other malcontents involved. If they all did away with themselves the world would be a healthier and happier place. Print this letter if you dare. I'm betting you won't. — MIKE R.

DEAR M.R.: I'm sorry you didn't send your name and address. I'd like to nominate you for the Humanitarian Award of 1984. Your notion that only the strong are fit to live is nauseating. If these weaklings whom you obviously despise don't kill themselves, how about herding them into gas ovens? History records another dingbat who had ideas similar to yours. His name was Adolf Hitler.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a member of the most beleaguered, battle-weary, rag-tag army in the United States — the parent of a teen-ager. I need a simple answer to a simple question: Here it is: What do you think of smoking rooms in high school for students?

This subject has caused several heated discussions among our friends and family. I would appreciate it if you would express your views. Please tell us if you are for or against them and why. — THE WALKING WOUNDED .

* * *

DEAR WOUNDED: I am against them. Providing a place for smoking implies not only approval but encouragement. The notion that the kids are going to smoke anyway, so we might as well let them smoke in school, is total capitulation. Carry that kind of reasoning one step further, one might argue in favor of providing the students with sleeping rooms as well. High school administrators cannot force students to stop smoking but in my opinion they should not encourage smoking by giving the students a special room to do it in.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's great uncle passed away at the age of 81 several weeks ago. He was a wonderful person and everyone in the family loved him dearly.

The family wants to honor Uncle Berthold by having his portrait done in oils by an outstanding artist who has agreed to work from a collection of photographs. We will then present the painting to the University where he served as a trustee for many years.

We have run into a problem that has created a great deal of dissension among the relatives. Uncle Berthold had one eyelid that drooped noticeably. He also had a large blood blister on his lip. Some of the relatives feel that it would be in poor taste to have these physically unattractive abnormalities show up in the portrait. The artist thinks otherwise. What is your opinion? — MUDDLED IN THE MIDDLE.

DEAR MUD: A portrait should represent the subject. To ask an artist to perform cosmetic surgery on Uncle Bert obviously offends his sense of artistic values. I say Uncle Bert should be painted as he was.— droopy eyelid, blood blister and all.

Club Activities

MADOC 4-H CALF CLUB

MADOC — The fourth meeting of the Madoc 4-H Calf Club was held at the farm of Mr. Don Wannamaker, RR 1, Madoc, recently.

At this meeting, the Stirling Community Club members were guests of the Madoc Club for a hayride and a weiner roast.

There were two special guests present — both were urban - rural exchange students, who made many new friends. There were also other visitors present from Toronto, Kingston, Belleville, Peterborough and Detroit. President, Gail Brownson, opened the meeting and the secretary, Elaine Wannamaker, read the minutes of the previous meeting and these were approved.

The president turned the meeting over to Club Leader, David Foley. He asked the combined Stirling and Madoc Clubs to judge a class of four cattle, belonging to the beef herd of Don Wannamaker.

Don Wannamaker and Dooz McCoy supplied the tractor and wagon for the ensuing hay ride. They toured the O'Hara Mill Conservation area.

After the hay ride, the members went to the farm of Gordon McCoy, where they enjoyed a weiner and marshmallow roast, with Mrs. McCoy, Mrs. Wannamaker, Mrs. Kerby and Mrs. Morton acting as hostesses.

Bill Cooke of the Stirling Club thanked the ladies for the delicious weiner roast and the Madoc Club for their enjoyable evening.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at the farm of Mr. Fred Stein on August 25.

Successful Living

One's Health Reflected in Hair Condition

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My hair is limp and thinning, and has a stickiness that shampoos can't remove.

I have tried oil and hot towels before I shampoo but this is no good because it requires too much shampoo to remove the oil. Cream dressings seem to make my hair fall out.

I am in my middle fifties and have been dieting for 15 years. Our doctor advised me to cut the fat off meat and use no fried foods, which I am doing. I play out easily and have insomnia. — Limp Hair.

Dear Hair: My beauty consultant says your general health is reflected in your hair condition. She also says the stickiness and stringiness are actually an excess of oil — which agrees with your doctor's idea that there has been too much fat in your diet.

Diagnosing at long distance is not good sense, but if your hair is too oily it needs frequent shampoos and no weave set, no spray, no rinse of any kind. Try a shampoo every four days, using two sudsings and two thorough rinsings; and take a good look at Canada's Food Guide, to see whether your diet is adequate.

Dear Doris: In the spring I was in a car accident and spent several months in the hospital with a broken back. This has left me with a lot of spare time on my hands and I've done a-lot of thinking. I have decided there is only one thing I would like to do but I know my parents wouldn't approve of it. I would like to think about it and decide whether or not I can without my parents getting involved.

I would like to go to Africa or some place like that. I love animals. My newest pet is a Great Dane, but you can't keep the kind of animals that I would like to work with, and this isn't exactly the continent where you run across lions, elephants and wild animals.

I'm interested in working as an assistant to a game warden or something like that to preserve species which are becoming extinct, but I would like to go to Africa because of the types of animals there and because the climate there would suit me perfectly. — Lion Tamer.

Dear Lion Tamer: Well, why not? Write to the consultes of the countries which interest you, such as Kenya, where there are famous game preserves. Write to the manager of the Lion Safari and Game Preserve at Rockton, Ontario.

I am sending you another name — that of a world traveller and famous collector of animals for zoos, who lives on the Jersey Islands.

You will have to equip yourself with the right kind of education and training, and your first employment will doubtless have to be here at home, until you become an expert. Animals need people who love them — even wild ones.

* * *

Dear Doris: Could you send me a diet that would take off my weight? I have arthritis and 210 pounds are hard to carry, along with a spare tire.

I'm 50, years old, five-foot-three, so I am much overweight. — Just Wondering.

Dear Wondering: My 10-cent Simple Reducing Diet is on its way to you. Arthritis is a painful malady, and the overweight makes it twice as bad.

You ought to weigh around 140 pounds, so get busy —

Bunny's Hawaiian Chicken for 5

By MARY MOORE

Will said "Phone Bunny and ask her for that chicken dish she served to us last night. It was a honey." So long as obedient sister I did and Bunny graciously related the whole operation.

She called it Hawaiian Chicken so I headed a Canadian chicken and made it.

BUNNY'S HAWAIIAN CHICKEN (serves about 5)

8 chicken breasts (or equivalent weight in chicken legs)
1 tbsp. butter
One 10-oz. can crushed pineapple
½ cup corn syrup
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. spice (see below)

In large shallow baking dish barely melt the butter in preheated oven at 350 deg. Fahr. Brush butter to coat bottom of dish and put the chicken breasts, skin side down, in one layer. Cover with foil snugly and bake ¼ hr.

Meanwhile mix together 2 tbsps. lemon juice
1 tbsp. soy sauce
1 tbsp. corn starch
1 tsp. ginger
crushed pineapple and juice, corn syrup, lemon juice, soy sauce, corn starch, ginger and salt in pot.

When chicken has baked ¼ hr. remove from oven, remove foil, lift out chicken pieces to large kitchen plate and tip pan juices into sauce ingredients in pot. Return chicken breasts, skin side up, to baking dish. Cook sauce, stirring until it thickens a little and is just boiling. Pour evenly all over chicken. Recover with foil snugly and bake ¼ hr. longer at 325 deg. Fahr. Serve on fluffy boiled rice.

A lovely popular chicken dish for you to serve to your family and friends.

Experts' Views Differ Widely On Effects of Nixon's Moves

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Predictions varied Sunday on new economic measures announced by United States President Richard Nixon will affect Canada.

President Nixon, in a radio-television broadcast, announced Sunday night a freeze on all prices, wages and rents in the U.S. for at least 90 days. He also revoked the American pledge to convert dollars into gold, said the U.S. will negotiate a change in currency values against the dollar and slapped a 10-per-cent tax on imports.

Robert MacIntosh, deputy chief general manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, said Nixon is putting a gun to the head of the rest of the world "by saying I'm putting an import tax of 10 per cent and I'm going to keep this gun to your head until you fellows decide to value your currency in an appropriate way against ours."

Mr. MacIntosh, discussing the announcement during a panel on the CBC TV program Summer Weekend, said that this was a "nuclear warfare" approach to the problem and that the position of Canada's exports would be much more difficult as far as the U.S. was concerned.

It would tend to worsen the country's balance of trade with the U.S. and weaken the Canadian dollar.

However, James Norton, an economist at Brock University in St. Catharines, Ont., and another member of the panel, did not agree the surcharge would be a problem for Canada.

He said that U.S.-Canada trade consists of "administrative trade" between companies which really has little to do with price.

Finance Minister Edgar Benson and other officials in Ottawa were not available for comment Sunday night but Jn Vancouver Arthur Laing, federal public works minister, described the surcharge as a "rough action" that will hit Canadian trade.

"It will smack us," Mr. Laing said. "But I hope there's no retaliation by us or anyone else."

George Hees, Conservative party spokesman on trade, said the 10-per-cent surcharge will have a serious and immediate effect on all Canadian exports to the U.S., and also seriously affect employment in Canada.

Mr. Hees said in an interview in Ottawa that Canada must be prepared to follow the lead of the U.S. and impose mandatory controls on wages and prices if necessary.

He said the present Canadian voluntary system has failed and Canada must be prepared to impose the controls to control inflation.

Mr. Hees said Prime Minister Trudeau, who is vacationing in Europe, should take "the first available plane home," meet with his cabinet and make changes to meet the new American policy.

Gerald Hobbs, vice-president of Cominco Mining Ltd., said in Vancouver the surcharge "could be very serious to suppliers of all commodities to the U.S. because, in effect, it provides a 10-per-cent subsidy for domestic products."

But T. Norbert Beaupre, president of Domtar, Ltd., said the Canadian pulp and paper industry may stand to benefit from the surcharge.

In an interview in Montreal, Mr. Beaupre said it was his understanding the 10-per-cent surcharge would go to the supplier countries.

He said, however, that any benefits the industry may receive would have to be weighed against the ability of the U.S. dollar to retain its current value.

Ian Barclay, president of B.C. Forest Products Ltd., said U.S. suppliers of lumber and newsprint cannot satisfy domestic demand.

"It would surprise me if a surcharge is being imposed on items in which the U.S. is not self-supporting," he said.

'One Step Short of Suspension of Imports'

Japanese Seem Most Alarmed Of Trading Partners of U.S.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

President Nixon's moves cutting the U.S. dollar loose from the historic $35-an-ounce gold price brought quick reaction in European money centres today.

While some British newspapers labelled the Nixon moves a "virtual devaluation," foreign exchange dealers in London said the Bank of England has withdrawn authority to deal in foreign currencies for one day.

Switzerland also closed its foreign exchange markets temporarily.

In Tokyo, Japanese officials said President Nixon's new import tax will be a heavy blow to Japan's export trade.

Noboru Takeshita, chief cabinet secretary, told a news conference today the government hopes the 10-per-cent surtax will be lifted as soon as possible.

He said the government has no plan to revalue the yen upward, and the Bank of Japan will buy U.S. dollars in case there is excessive selling on the Tokyo foreign exchange market.

Other Japanese officials and business leaders predicted that the emergency economic measures Nixon announced Sunday night would seriously affect U.S.-Japanese trade, which in 1969 totalled $4.9 billion in exports to the United States and $3.5 billion in goods shipped the other way.

An official at the semi-official Japan External Trade Organization said the import surtax is "one step short of a total suspension of imports on the part of the U.S."

A finance ministry official said Nixon's action could have a deflationary effect on the Japanese economy, which has been sluggish for some time. The willingness of Japanese businessmen to invest in new plants and equipment may be seriously curtailed, he added.

Shinjo Kurebayashi of the Fuji Bank termed the surtax a "partial revaluation of the yen" and said pressure for a full upward revaluation of the Japanese currency is likely to increase.

Japanese financial and banking leaders said the U.S. economy must be at its worst ever and the new policy will no doubt cause a serious impact on the international monetary situation.

Prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange dropped sharply on a broad front, and dealers on the Tokyo foreign exchange market estimated that the Bank of Japan bought more than $300 million this morning from commercial banks unloading their U.S. dollar balances. The central bank was the only buyer for U.S. dollars, buying at an interbank rate of 357.37 yen.

In Singapore, some American banks suspended transactions of Asian dollars pending instructions from their home offices. But later the Malaysia-Singapore Association of Banks decided to continue trading in U.S. dollars. However, it urged member banks to be cautious.

In London, The Daily Mail bannered: "Dollar Is Devalued." The Guardian's splash was headed: "Nixon Signals Agreement to Devalue Dollar."

Anthony Thomas, United States economics correspondent of The Times, wrote from Washington that Nixon's measures "in effect result in the devaluation of the dollar against other currencies."

He said the president's televised announcement "qualifies as the most important economic address made by an American president since the war."

Thomas added: "For political reasons, Nixon is loathe to use the word devaluation but this statement makes it clear that the United States is hoping that other currencies will float in advance of a revaluation against the dollar."

Daily Mail correspondent Andrew McEwen said the president's "shock action was almost totally unpredicted in America —although European bankers have said since the present international money crisis started the dollar devaluation was almost inevitable."

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"Candlelight?...What is it this time—leftovers, hash, or a misprint in the recipe?"

Princess Is 21

THURSO, Scotland (AP) — Princess Anne became 21 Sunday.

The blonde princess arrived in this remote highlands port for a quiet birthday party with the Royal Family.

Anne stepped ashore here from the Britannia Sunday and was greeted with a chorus of Happy Birthday from a crowd of Highlanders. She wore a navy blue blazer, tartan plaid skirt, blue knee length socks and a scarf.

Cutting Link Between Gold and U.S. Dollar Seen as Likely Forcing Other Currencies Up

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — President Nixon's powerful new initiatives to shield the U.S. dollar from speculative assault has slammed the international monetary ball into the European and Japanese courts.

By temporarily severing the 37-year link between gold and the U.S. dollar, he probably will succeed in forcing some major world currencies to float upwards in the short run and to be pegged permanently higher in the longer run, economic observers said.

The news that United States is negotiating a realignment of currency values is bound to aggravate current speculation in foreign exchange markets.

But central banks will be increasingly reluctant to hold dollars in the market now that President Nixon has bolted the doors of Fort Knox, Ky., where the U.S. gold stock is held.

Thus Paul A. Volcker, U.S. treasury undersecretary for monetary affairs, is armed with heavy negotiating artillery for international currency talks in London, where he was scheduled to arrive today.

If the American move results in a general flotation of major currencies, the world monetary system will be unhinged from a fixed parity system for the first time since the 1944 Bretton Woods Agreement that set up the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

The Canadian dollar has been floating unilaterally since June 1, 1970, and the German and Dutch currencies have been floating since May 10.

The official monetary price of gold was fixed at $35 an ounce by the Gold Act of 1934, when the United States promised to redeem dollars held abroad for bullion at that rate. This promise was formalized in the Bretton Woods Agreement, and now has been revoked for the first time.

While the over-all U.S. monetary reserves, which include the artificial Special Drawing Rights, foreign currencies and IMF assets, have sunk to a low of $12.4 billion, the official U.S. dollar holdings of foreign central banks soared to more than $30 billion.

Thus the claims on the American gold stock now are nearly treble the reserves available to them.

The United States ran a balance of payments deficit of close to $10 billion last year and current estimates are that the shortfall exceeded $12 billion in first half of this year.

In this latter period, the balance of trade fell into a net deficit for the first time since 1893. This was partly due to the fact that the U.S. dollar is overvalued against other major currencies—thus prejudicing the competitiveness of American goods on world markets.

President Nixon took a further initiative to correct the trade imbalance by slapping a 10-per-cent import surcharge on all goods entering the country—except for a $100 allowance granted to returning tourists.

Latest Move in Series of Crises

By Reuters

President Nixon's dramatic financial measures to support the U.S. dollar come as the latest moves in a series of crises which have shaken the Western financial community during the last few years.

The recent spate of financial crises started in November 1967, when after a long struggle to maintain the parity of sterling, Britain devalued by 14.3 per cent to a rate of $2.40 U.S. to the pound. Within three days 15 other countries also devalued.

Gold bullion prices soared with the lack of confidence in paper money in early 1968, and in March of that year central bankers, meeting in Washington, set up a two-tier gold market system.

The seven leading Western central banks undertook not to deal with the free market and to stick to the official $35 an ounce price for gold dealing among themselves.

In August, 1969, France devalued the franc by 11.11 per cent. The new exchange rate was in the region of 5.53 francs to the U.S. dollar compared with the previous parity of 4.93.

West Germany revalued the mark in October, 1969, by 9.29 per cent, changing the parity against the U.S. dollar to 366 marks from four.

Despite the mark revaluation, the West German currency continued to harden and in May this year was allowed to float on exchange markets where its current parity is around 2.86 to the U.S. dollar.

Hees Demands Canada Follow Lead of U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada must be prepared to follow the lead of the United States and impose mandatory controls on wages and prices, if necessary, a leading Conservative party spokesman said Sunday night.

George Hees, his party's spokesman on trade, was commenting on a statement by President Nixon who called for a 90-day freeze on wages, prices and rents in the U.S.

The U.S. freeze would be voluntary but Nixon promised government action if this route failed.

Mr. Hees said the present Canadian voluntary system has failed and added that business and labor are laughing at the government.

Canada too must be prepared to impose control in wages and prices to fight inflation, Mr. Hees said.

Mr. Hees said the Canadian controls should be aimed at keeping price rises to 3% per cent annually and the unemployment rate within three per cent.

Because the U.S. is Canada's most important customer, the Nixon announcement could have a great effect on Canadian exports.

"We have to react to import tax and we have to react also to the wage-price freeze that creates severe problems for us as we don't have the constitutional machinery to respond to that sort of a freeze."

"We simply can't stand still without retaliating in kind to the U.S. and, of course, the same will apply to other countries and this is . . . the danger of opening this kind of warfare. You never know where it is going to end."

U.S. Policy Called Desperation Move

TORONTO (CP) — New economic measures announced by President Nixon had the appearance of desperation rather than forethought and planning, Robert MacIntosh, deputy chief general-manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia said Sunday.

"What he is doing is putting a gun to the head of the rest of the world," said Mr. MacIntosh.

Mr. MacIntosh was one of a panel on the CBC television program Sunday Weekend discussing the announcement by President Nixon.

Text of Highlights In Nixon's Address

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are textual highlights of President Nixon's address on the U.S. economy Sunday night:

Prosperity without war requires action on three fronts: We must create more and better jobs; we must stop the rise in the cost of living; we must protect the dollar from the attacks of international money speculators.

We are going to take that action. Not timidly, not half-heartedly, not in piecemeal fashion.

The time has come for a new economic policy for the United States: its targets are unemployment, inflation and international speculation.

I shall ask the Congress when it reconvenes after its summer recess to consider as its first priority the enactment of the job development act of 1971.

I propose to provide the strongest short-term incentive in our history to invest in new machinery and equipment that will create new jobs for Americans:

A 10-per-cent Job Development Credit for one year effective as of today, with a five-per-cent credit after Aug. 15, 1972.

I propose to repeal the seven-per-cent excise tax on automobiles, effective today. This will mean a reduction in price of about $200 per car. I shall insist that the American auto industry pass this tax reduction on to its nearly eight million customers who are buying automobiles this year.

I propose to speed up the personal income tax exemptions scheduled for Jan. 1, 1973, to Jan. 1, 1972—so that taxpayers can deduct an extra $50 for each exemption one year earlier than planned.

Looking to the future, I have directed the secretary of the treasury to recommend to the Congress in January new tax proposals for stimulating research and development of new industries and new technologies to help provide the 20 million new jobs that America needs for the young people who will be coming into the job market in the next decade.

To offset the loss of revenue from these tax cuts which directly stimulate new jobs, I have ordered a $4.7 billion cut in federal spending.

To check the rise in the cost of government, I have ordered postponement of pay raises and a five-per-cent cut in government employment.

I have ordered a 10-per-cent cut in foreign economic aid.

I will ask Congress to amend my proposals to postpone the implementation of revenue sharing for three months and welfare reform for one year.

I am today ordering a freeze on all prices and wages throughout the United States, for a period of ninety days. In addition, I call upon corporations to extend that wage-price freeze to all dividends.

I have today appointed a cost of living council within the government. I have directed this council to work with leaders of labor and business to set up the proper mechanism for achieving continued price and wage stability after the 90-day freeze is over.

I have directed Secretary Connally to suspend temporarily the convertibility of the dollar into gold or other reserve assets, except in amounts and conditions determined to be in the interest of monetary stability and in the best interests of the United States.

As a temporary measure, I am today imposing an additional tax of 10 per cent on goods imported into the United States.

Canadians Just Thinking Bronze

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

Outside of bunking in a room with 14 other athletes, walking around under the ever-watchful eyes of gun-toting security guards, and steering clear of athletic village happenings ranging from a kidnapping through a suicide, Price Morris had a whale of a time at the sixth Pan-American Games.

His four bronze medals in the super-heavyweight category of the Cali Games' weightlifting competition represented more than one man's contribution to the 81 medals won by Canadians.

But as much as any of Canada's 312 competitors, Morris had the satisfaction of jockeying for his medal-winning performance, the knowledge that precise planning meant the difference between bringing home the tin and not.

PRICE MORRIS

"I was weighing around 245," said the four-time Canadian 242-pound limit champion" when Wes Woo (Canadian weightlifting coach) and I found out that Joe Dube (the United States mammoth who won the gold medal in the '67 Winnipeg Pan-Am Games) wouldn't be competing. He got one of those viruses that was going around down there and lost about 20 pounds."

"We were watching what other lifters were doing and Wes and I decided that I should move up into the super-heavy class. I still wanted to lift 243 but now I'm glad I changed my mind. I broke a Canadian record (Doug Hepburn's 1,040-pound three-lift total by 22½ pounds) and, I would have finished fifth if I'd stayed in the 242-pound class."

Morris is about as trim as a five-foot-eighter can be at 242 pounds, which gives him the appearance of the proverbial brick privy. But his last min ute class-jump gave away at least 80 pounds to U.S. winner Ken Petera and another 20 to runner-up Fernand Bernal of Cuba.

Not that the 29-year-old who has lifted for Belleville's Apollo Barbell Club for the past 16 years had any delusions about winning.

Thinking Wrong Color

"Canadians are getting so many bronze medals because the Canadian public is thinking in terms of bronze medals. You've got to have the backing. There I am thinking about the tryouts for next year's Olympics in Munich and I haven't got this trip paid for yet."

A lineman for Trenton's Public Utilities Commission, who lives in a converted schoolhouse with wife Louise and ten-month-old daughter Jacqueline, Morris literally can't afford to be a champion, which he has been in Canada four times.

His plane fare and lodgings are graciously looked after by the country he represents, but his employers say they can't afford to give him any more absence without pay. "Why do you think countries like Cuba get so worked up about their athletes defecting?" he queries. "They've got so much money tied up in training them — ten or fifteen thousand dollars a year."

He acknowledges he should be training more than his three short weekly sessions (some he met in Colombia were six-night-a-week trainees) but it's an effort just to drive the 12 miles into coach Ken Carr-Braint's Boswell St. garage-clubhouse for those all-too-brief workouts.

"And look at the Americans," his face reddens a trifle from the frustration of 16 years of being an underprivileged Canadian athlete. "They have training camps for three weeks before these games."

Still Strongest Canadian

"We're getting better — there are grants and things. But Canadians are still just not as proud of their athletes as they should be."

Although he shuns the title, Morris is Canada's strongest man. He was the first Canadian to hoist 400 pounds overhead, and his 411-pound clean-and-jerk at the Ontario senior championships in Belleville in April was the most ever lifted by a Canadian, unless you can believe those tales about flapjack-full lumberjacks lugging around chunks of giant jackpine.

At Cali, he came within a whisker of extending his record to 418, which might have meant the difference between a silver and bronze medal, considering the manoeuvering involved in weightlifters' announcements of their next attempts.

Close-to-the-line bodyweight cost Morris a silver medal at last July's Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh, when he took a bronze because he was at the maximum 242-pound limit while compiling the same 1,035-pound total as ten-pound lighter Englishman Dave Hancock.

But his four-medal experience in Cali convinced Morris of the advisability of fence-sitting the two-class weight limit, carefully eyeing his competition in both events.

Despite his recent most successful venture at representing his country for the fifth time, Price Morris is about to lose the family limelight, at least temporarily.

Weighing in at 22 pounds, daughter Jacqueline is entered in next weekend's 50th annual Frankford Fair baby contest.

The day may yet come when the Price Morrises of Canadian amateur sport dip their first child's shoes in gold, not bronze. .

Off on Greens

Betty Ingram's greens play was not at her best, but her other golf clubs gave the perennial Bay of Quinte Country Club champion a 79 and her fourth Mead-Johnson field day win Saturday. Attending the pin for Mrs. Ingram on the 18th green is field low net winner Lynn Knudsen, who carded a 68 after shooting a 103, her best-ever round on the lengthy Quinte layout.

Nothing New About 79

A 79 was about what you'd expect from perennial Bay of Quinte Country Club women's champion Betty Ingram in winning the Mead Johnson Tournament on her home course Saturday.

But low net winner Lynn Knudsen had to fire a 103, 11 strokes better than her best previous effort on the lengthy (6,132 yards from the women's tees) layout to card a field low net 68.

Mrs. Ingram, club champion the past 12 years, handily took low gross honors in the field of 105 women with a five-shot margin over runner-up Clan Elliott, despite some loose green play.

"I must have three-putted four greens out there. But I had two birdies—on number 7 (a 309-yard par four) and number 13 (for the women, a 503-yard par-five)."

"I was on 13 in two and actually rimmed the cup but took a bird," said Mrs. Ingram, once a four-time winner of the Mead Johnson event.

Low net winner Lynn Knudsen was probably more enthusiastic about the still respectable 103 that helped give her low net honors.

"The best I've ever shot here before today was 114 — that's why my handicap is 35," she enthused. "And I broke 50 for the first time — I had a 49 on the women's par - 36) front nine."

Saturday's event also counted as the first of three medal rounds for the Quinte Club's women's championships. Mrs. Ingram's closest rival emerged as Fran Bannon, third low gross with an 86.

Mrs. Bannon's net 69 earned her first net low net honors. Dolly Diamond put together a nifty 90 to take second flight low gross honors, while another host club shooter, Pam Carruthers, carded a 71 for low net.

Best Ball 81

It's not who has the best golf ball but who fills the best golf ball in a two - ball tournament and Harold Werkhoven and Doug Kingman proved they can hit the best balls on the Belleville Golf and Country Club course.

The pair shot an 81 to capture the Men's Two - ball tournament Sunday - eight strokes ahead of their nearest competitors Dave Galloway and Ross Foreman.

Marilyn Bennett and Bruce Keegan shared top honors in the mixed two - ball competition with E. Foreman and John Boyce, both with 95. Doreen Carlisle and Dave Moran fired 99 for the 18 hole play.

Sailors Buffeted All Way

Only half the 20 craft that started the 110 - mile tack around Prince Edward County made it to Belleville's Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, braving 12 - foot waves and 45 mile-an-hour winds in what sailors politely term "a navigator's race."

Winner of the Wickerson Trophy was the R.C.Y.C. Alberg 37 Silver Fox owned by Dr. Edward Simmons, who left Presqu'ile Point with the fleet's handicapped boats at 11 a.m. Saturday morning, and arrived in the Belleville harbor at 8.44 a.m. Sunday, a good five hours longer than the usual winning time.

Grant Rathbun's corvette Varuna came in second at 11.01 to win the Belle Trophy. Bill Finkle's six-metre Jungo was the only boat in its class to finish.

This was to be the first year boats under 28 feet were permitted to enter the marathon, but none of them benefited from the ruling.

Even with a two - hour head start, none of the four-under - size entries finished their quest for the Division 2 Dr. Craig Trophy.

Some of the visitors from the ten district clubs got into the third flight act, with Whitevale's Joan Bishop turning in a low gross 93, with Heather Miller of Pine Ridge winning low net.

Printers Win Opener With Only One Hit

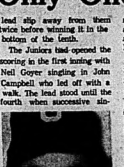
If the Commercial Softball League's top teams — Point Anne and Rollins — were expecting anything less than total war in their semi - final play-off series with Howard and Roberts and the Ellis Juniors, they'll be thinking twice after the league postseason activities began Sunday.

Pennant - winning Rollins Construction ran into a blank wall in form of Bob 'Shut' Ethier of Howard and Roberts Printing who struck out 12 Constructionmen batters en route to a 1-0 Printers win.

The first game of the night saw Point Anne battle through 10 innings with the Juniors before finally enlarging 5-4 victors.

Howard and Roberts upset the Constructionmen with only one hit as Rollins' hurler Wayne McConnell shot down nine Printer batters on third strikes. Rod Heber led off the top of the fifth with a triple to left-centre field and then raced home on Larry Potter's fielders choice. It was the only hit of the game for the winners and the only time a runner got past second base.

Rollins' managed only two hits the entire game, a first-inning single by Carl Boonhower and a fifth-inning triple by Cliff Scott. Ethier worked his way out of trouble in both cases by striking out the side.



Both Ethier and McConnell walked three batters in the pitchers duel. It was the first loss in 12 Commercial League starts for McConnell.

Next game in the best of seven semi-final series will be Tuesday night at 7 p.m.

Point Anne had a temporary case of batterfingers in their opening play - off game with the Juniors letting the lead slip away from them twice before winning it in the bottom of the tenth.

The Juniors tied opposed the scoring in the first inning with Neil Goyer singling in John Campbell who led off with a walk. The lead stood until the fourth when successive singles by Doug Olsen, Rick Rosebush and Larry Fraser scored two runs and gave the Pointers the lead. The Juniors quickly retarned the favor, scoring one run in the fifth on singles by Dave Lott and Ted Waite.

Singles by Eric Maher and Vern Whalen opened the Centennemen's half of the sixth and Rosebush's clutch double scored two runs for another Point Anne lead.

The Juniors forced the game into extra innings when Pete Stafikovich led off the seventh with a single, raced home on a wrong field double by pinchhitter Glenn Carleton, who in turn scored on John Campbell's single.

The winning run came in the tenth on Larry Fraser's single, a stolen base and Pointer pitcher Jamie Hunter's single.

Hunter earned the win allowing 13 hits, while fanning five. Rick Rosebush had a double and single, with Maher, Fraser and Hunter each adding two singles.

Ted Waite was tagged with the loss giving up 12 hits and striking out 10. Neil Goyer batted three for five for the Juniors cranking a triple and two singles. Carleton had a double and single and Campbell and Lott had two singles each.

Tuesday night at 8:15 p.m. the same two teams book up in their second game of the series.

SACO Squirts Ignore Odds

The odds were against the Belleville SACO Squirts over the weekend but somebody forgot to tell them!

The locals weren't phased a bit by the 90-mile trip to Lindsay where they had to play a double-header or by a rain delay during the first game as they whipped the host clubs 16-6 and 8-2 to eliminate Lindsay in two straight games.

Danny Vance put on quite a display of his talents over the two games, smashing two triples, a double and two singles in the first game and a home run and single in the second game. He was also on the mound for the second half of the double header giving up seven hits and striking out 14.

The double win gave Belleville the zone four quarter-finals and advances them into the semi-finals against Napanee.

Quebec's Jocelyn Bourassa Completes Happy Golfing Holiday

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Jocelyn Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., act herself three goals for her three weeks' vacation this summer: The Quebec Open, the Ontario Open, and the Canadian women's golf championships.

Saturday, she made it a clean sweep by beating Marlene Streit of Pontiac, Ont., by one stroke on the final hole of the final round of the 72-hole, four-day national tournament at Capilano Golf and Country Club. About 1,000 fans turned out in a fine drizzle for the finish.

Miss Bourassa shot a three-under-par 71 to Mrs. Streit's 72 for the winning 295 total. Only three others of the 120 top golfers in the tournament managed to break par, all with 73.

Miss Bourassa, 24, shot two birdies on the front nine for a two-under-par 35 and added two more on the back side. She then went over par on the 17th with a bunker shot and a missed putt.

Mrs. Streit had parred the front nine and went two under with two birdies on the back for 35.

Miss Bourassa said she made her "biggest golf decision ever" as she approached the 18th green.

"I knew if I played it safe, I would probably tie, so I took the chance of the trap or the green. I didn't want to go for a play-off because of the pressure."

Her decision paid off with a low three-wood shot that bounced from about 45 yards straight onto the green. She then two-putted for a birdie and the tournament.

She took 33 putts Saturday, the most she had all week, but hit more greens than in previous rounds.

Mrs. Streit came close to a hole-in-one on the 14th with a drive which hit the pin. It spun away about five feet and then she missed the putt, taking a bogey.

Asked if she felt that was where she lost the game, Mrs. Streit replied: "I didn't lose it on the 14th, she won it on the 18th."

Jo Ann Washam of Auburn, Wash., shot a one-under-par 73 Saturday to place third in the tournament with 302. She had 39 on the front nine then shot two birdies and an eagle on the back for a "great round."

Cherun Gerber of South Africa placed fourth with a final round 77 for 304. Lie Daniel of Toronto and Marilyn Palmer of Vancouver were next, both with 308, followed by Betty Cole of Edmonton and defending champion Gail Moore of Vancouver with 309.

Miss Bourassa, best at her job today with the YWCA, says she has one more goal in golfing this year—a Canadian victory for her team in the Commonwealth Games in New Zealand this September. Miss Palmer, Mrs. Moore and Gayle Borthwick of Misajuga, Ont., are the other Commonwealth team members.

Wave Makes Splash

TORONTO (CP) — Super Wave set a track record for aged pacers in the $18,000 Beaches Stakes at Greenwood Raceway Saturday, by pacing the mile in 1:58 3-5.

It was Super Wave's second consecutive win in thes stakes race and his seventh victory in 18 starts this season. The 5 year old's earnings now stand at $112,698.

Super Wave, owned by Dr. George Boyce of London, Ont., and driven by Jack Kopas, cut one fifth of a second off the record set by Canny Choice, a horse that beat Super Wave a week ago.

Lynden Bye Bye won the $9,200 final for the standardbred futurity for 2 year old pacers. The colt paced the mile in 2:04 2-5 and paid $4.60, $3.70 and $2.60.

The daily double of Kinnel Lodge in the first race and Fred Frost in the second, returned $242.90 and the exactor of Lynden Bye Bye and Armbro Mohawk in the sixth was worth $85.10.

OTTAWA (CP) — Western Ontario's Bill Habkirk swept both invitation races at Connaught Park on the weekend.

Habkirk guided Derby Jerry to a rain swept victory in the Invitation Pace Saturday and brought Freeway Scott to win by a neck in the Invitation Trot Sunday.

Amateur Winner Got Confident

OAKFIELD, N.S. (CP) — Confidence on the golf course has been a problem for Dick Siderowf for the last few years.

"I really wanted to win this one badly to get my confidence back," the 34-year-old Easton, Conn., golfer said Saturday after he defeated Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff for the Canadian amateur golf championship.

"I haven't played well in a couple of tries," he said after sinking a 20-foot putt for the victory.

Siderowf had a two-over-par 75 for the final round. He had earlier rounds of 76, 71 and 74 for 296.

Roxburgh, playing with borrowed clubs, finished the round with a 72. He had earlier rounds of 74, 77 and 70. The 19-year-old West Coast golfer lost his clubs on the way from Vancouver.

Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., former Canadian and United States amateur champion, made a strong drive on the final round and finished in third place, two strokes off the pace.

The 32-year-old Cowan set a competitive course record over the 6,781-yard Oakfield layout, carding a six-under 67. The previous record of 68 was set by professional Lawrence (Butch) O'Hearn of Dartmouth, N.S., in 1969.

Michael Sanger of Greenwich, Conn.; Siderowf's playing partner in the last round, finished in fourth place with a 296.

John Sale of Bangor, Me., had a 297 while three golfers finished five strokes off the pace at 298.

Gary Hamilton of Bolton, Ont., was the only other golfer to shoot under 70 during the tournament. He finished with a four-under 69 Saturday and a 299 for the tournament.

Steve Bamatyre of Winnipeg and Philip McClure of Nashville ,Ont., the first golfers to set out on the Oakfield course Saturday, set what Royal Canadian Golf Association officials said was a record for the fastest round played in the annual competition. They completed the 18 holes in two hours, two minutes.

Twice within two years Siderowf tied for second place in the Canadian Amateur, a 72-hole, four-day test.

He had a chance to wrap up the title Saturday, needing only a par on the par-four 18th—final hole of regulation play.

He was on the green in two. His first putt—a long effort—went by the cup, and he had a three-footer remaining for his par. He charged the putt "but didn't hit it solid." It took a third putt to complete the round.

On the playoff hole, a par five, Siderowf ran into trouble with his second shot, going into a sandtrap at the front of the green. Roxburgh was on in three, about 20 feet from the cup.

"I didn't hit a good trap shot," Siderowf said. But the ball rolled to within 20 feet of the cup, and he made no mistake in dropping it for the win.

Girl Gives Stockton Break

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Dave Stockton hit a young girl with an errant shot and gained a new admirer Sunday on route to a $33,000 victory in the $165,000 Massachusetts Golf Classic.

"I lucked out," Stockton said Sunday after his one-stroke victory over Ray Floyd in a pressure-packed finish at Pleasant Valley Country Club. "I got a very good break and it may have been the turning point."

After taking the lead with a 14-foot birdie putt on the 60th hole, Stockton hit a five-iron shot which appeared headed for a hazard off the second green.

The ball struck a girl, though, and dropped on the fringe, enabling Stockton to hold his par.

Stockton ended with a sizzling 66 and a total of 13-under-par 275, breaking Pleasant Valley's tournament record of 276 set by Arnold Palmer in 1968.

He had earlier rounds of 69, 71, 71 as he pushed his career earnings over $425,000.

Floyd, who started the final round one stroke behind 54-hole leader Lou Graham and one ahead of Stockton in a traffic jam, came close to forcing a playoff.

On the final hole, he came out of sand only to have the ball trickle past the cup on an eagle-three effort.

Floyd, winless on the tour since he captured the PGA championship in 1969, earned $18,810.

Funseth had a 69 for 278 after a 66 finish worth $11,715, while Crampton took a one-over-par six on the final hole and settled for fourth and $7,755.

Tied for fifth, good for $5,467 each, were Charles Coody, Lionel Hebert, Mike Reasor, Mike Hill and Ronero Blancas. Graham slipped to a closing 75 and a share of a five-way tie at 282.

"The girl, about 10 years old, wasn't hurt," he said. "I holed out and gave her the ball. She followed me around the rest of the way. I saw her several times after that."

Chemist Finds Right Formula

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP) — A British rifleman from Byfleet, Surrey outshot 300 competitors to take the top award in Dominion of Canada Rifle Association competition Saturday, winning the Governor-General's Prize for the second time.

"It isn't an award you usually win twice," said chemist Phil Harrison, 24, after scoring 289 of a possible 300 points to take the prize. He won it first in 1968.

A 12-member Canadian tem won the Commonwealth match, shot at 900 and 100 yards.

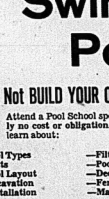
Experts Picked Peewee Lacrosse Winners

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — The team the experts said would win the Canadian National peewee lacrosse tournament did just that Sunday.

Long Branch Monarchs from Ontario, co-favorites with Oshawa prior to the four-day event, defeated South Burnaby, B.C., 11-7 before 1,500 fans for the title.

Leading the way for the winners was Chris Perroff with five goals. Paul Lucas scored three times for Long Branch with single goals going to Keith Bernier, Randy DuPre and Rick Williams.



Stewart Loses Battle, Wins War

ZELTWEG, Austria (AP) — Jo Siffert won the battle but Jackie Stewart won the war.

The battle was the Grand Prix of Austria in which Siffert, who started from the pole position in a BRM, led all the way and covered the 198½ miles in 1 hour, 30 minutes, 2803 seconds.

The war was the world driving championship, which Stewart clinched even though his Ford-Tyrrell did not finish Sunday's race.

Stewart came into the race with 51 points based on five triumphs and one second-place finish. Jacky Ickx of Belgium is the runner-up, and even if he wins the three remaining races, he would finish with 46.

JACKIE STEWART

It is the second world crown for Stewart, 32, who also took the coveted title in 1969. The Scot has amassed 17 Grand Prix victories since 1965.

In the Austrian Grand Prix, Stewart left the track when his car lost a rear wheel late in the race. He was running second at the time. Brazil's Emerson Fittipaldi, in a Lotus, finished second to Siffert, 4.12 seconds back.

Tim Schenken of Austra, in a Brabham, was third, another 15.5 seconds back. Reine Wisell of Sweden finished fourth and Graham Hill of Great Britain placed fifth, both in Lotuses.

A 49-yard single gave Sarnia Lakers a tie and a 36-yard touchdown pass gave Oakville Colts a win in Saturday action in the Ontario Junior Football Conference.

Sarnia tied Hamilton Hurricanes 10-10 on the long single by Ken McDonald while Oakville beat Peterborough Petes 27-20 on the fourth-quarter touchdown pass from Randy Shermanta to Harry McWhirter.

In Peterborough, McWhirter had two majors for Oakville. He also caught a pass for a one-point convert.

Shermanta and Guy Smith scored the other Colts' touchdowns. Mark Austin and Shermanta each kicked one convert.

Peterborough got touchdowns from Charley Henderson, Paul Weisberg and Roger Clark. Quarterback Tom Evans kicked one convert and added a 16-yard single on a wide field goal attempt.

Overwhelms Okker

Winner's Serve His Best Ace

TORONTO (CP) — John Newcombe of Australia stood behind his big serve Sunday to overwhelm Tom Okker of The Netherlands 7-6, 3-6, 6-2, 7-6 and win the men's singles crown at the Canadian Open tennis championships.

Normally not a big advantage on clay, the powerful Aussie's cannonballs kept Okker off balance while his serving game grew stronger as the match progressed.

Newcombe scored service aces in each of the sets decided by the best-of-12 tie-breaker. In the fifth game of the final set, Newcombe blasted three consecutive aces past Okker, one of the fastest players on the tour.

The victory was worth $10,000 for Newcombe and increased his earnings to $79,661. Okker, playing in his third final in four weeks, received $5,000 to push his winnings to $84,451.

The tie-breaker is almost sudden death and it can go either way," Okker said after his defeat. "This time it went his way twice."

Okker said he was disappointed with his serving game and double faulted four times in losing the second set.

"I didn't serve well today," he said. "I didn't put in too many first serves."

The top-seeded Newcombe had Okker break his service five times during the match, mainly because of backhand errors.

"It was funny," he said later. "My backhand passing shots were good but it was the unforced errors I was making."

Newcombe said he paced himself during the best-of-five set final which lasted nearly three hours.

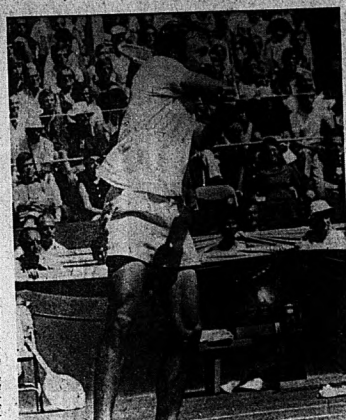
"You have to save yourself for the end," he said. "You can't run like a madman in the first set. I was serving better in the fourth set than at any other time in the match."

Evonne Goolagong of Australia almost played a "walkboat"—the term her coach Vic Edwards uses for falling asleep on the court—before she triumphed 1-6, 6-3, 6-2 over Virginia Wade of England.

Miss Wade was playing with a muscle pull in her left shoulder which prevented her from hitting the ball high on her serve.

As a result, Miss Goolagong broke Miss Wade's service eight straight times in the second and third sets to reach tonight's final against Francoise Durr of France.

The steady Miss Durr upset second-seeded Rosemary Casals of San Francisco in a semi-final played Saturday 6-0, 2-6, 6-2. Miss Durr was deadly with her placements and passing shots when Miss Casals attempted to exploit her backhand.



The winner of the women's tournament receives $4,000 and the loser $2,000.

The men's doubles final will feature the two-seeded twosome of Okker and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., against the fifth-seeded duo of Arthur Ashe of Los Angeles and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif.

Okker and Riessen had little trouble in beating Bob Lutz of Los Angeles and Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico 6-1, 6-0 while Ashe and Ralston were extended 7-6, 7-5 by Andres Gimeno of Spain and Roger Taylor of England.

Newcombe reached the final with a 7-6, 6-3 victory Saturday over Ken Rosewall of Australia. Newcombe said he " lost a bit of concentration" in the first set when he lost the first four games then came back to take the next five.

He was also helped by his strong service in that match while Rosewall's service game faltered.

Alou Lowers Boom on Former Mates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Little Matty Alou blasted a three-run homer Sunday to cap a five-run eighth inning rally and give St. Louis Cardinals a 6-4 victory over his former Pittsburgh Pirates team-mates.

The win pulled St. Louis to within four games of the slumping first-place Pirates in the National League East Division.

The victory gave the Cards a sweep of the four-game series and moved them closer to first place than they have been since June 15.

Alou, one of three brothers in the major leagues—the others are first baseman-outfielder Felipe with New York Yankees and outfielder Jesus with Houston—came to the Cards on Jan. 29, 1971 in a trade.

The drive was Alou's fourth hit of the game and fourth home of the season and was the first homer off Miller in 72 2-3 innings this season.

Before the Cards' winning uprising, the Pirates had built a 4-1 lead, with the help of Willie Stargell's 40th and 41st homers, accounting for three runs.

Gibson Plants Gem On Powerhouse Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Gibson figured a no-hitter might elude him during his illustrious pitching career because of his style.

"You know, I'm always getting the ball high," he said.

"I never figured I'd ever pitch one," said the 35-year-old St. Louis Cardinal fireballer, who carved out an 11-0 mark in masterpiece over slumping Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday night.

"The beautiful thing was the timing," said Gibson Sunday.

"It came when we needed another win."

"It was a classic," said Pirate manager Danny Murtaugh.

"It reminded me of the first game of the World Series against Detroit Tigers in 1968 when he pitched so well," said Cards manager Red Schoendienst.

In that game, Gibson, twice a Cy Young award winner, struck out 17 Tigers.

Gibson won his 200th career victory with a 7-2 triumph over San Francisco Giants Aug. 4.

The Cards had planned to honor Gibson for his 200 career victories later in St. Louis.

"Now it will be a double celebration," said a club spokesman.

There was no immediate word whether the Cards plan to give him a bonus, but Gibson said it would be welcome despite his $150,000-a-year salary.

Gibson said he began thinking no-hitter in the first inning against the Pirates.

"Nobody talked about it. But to say or not to say anything is not going to make any difference," he said.

Gibson, 11-10 had never pitched a no-hitter, not even in college.

Only two balls hit by the Pirates gave him any concern at all during the 10-strikeout performance.

Dave Cash hit a high bounder to third in the eighth but Joe Torre threw him out.

In the seventh, catcher Milt May hit a deep fly to left centre but Jose Cruz caught up with it after a long run.

Gibson's no-hitter was the first in Pittsburgh since Nick Maddox of the Pirates baffled Brooklyn Dodgers at old Exposition Park on Sept. 20, 1907.

Gibson was backed by a 16-hit barrage against four Pirate pitchers. The Cards scored five runs in the first inning, including a three-run homer by Joe Hague.

Blue Day in New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was Blue Sunday in New York and just another black day for Jim Perry in Minneapolis.

Vida Blue, leading candidate for the Cy Young Award as the American league's best pitcher, responded to a Blue Day crowd at Yankee Stadium by leading Oakland Athletics to a 4-1 victory over New York Yankees.

While Blue continued an amazing success story with his 22nd victory, Detroit Tigers stopped Minnesota Twins 7-5 and pinned the eighth straight loss on Perry, last year's Cy Young winner.

In the other American League games, Kansas City Royals tripped Boston Red Sox 5-1, Chicago White Sox turned back Baltimore Orioles 2-1; California Angels defeated Washington Senators 4-3 in 10 innings and Milwaukee Brewers bounced Cleveland Indians 4-2.

In games played Saturday Oakland edged New York 1-0, Minnesota defeated Detroit 9-4, Kansas City outclassed Boston 6-1, Washington blanked California 2-0, Milwaukee beat Cleveland 5-3 and Chicago shut out Baltimore 2-0.

A crowd of 45,343 turned up at Yankee Stadium as New York honored Oakland's fabulous southpaw with a special day.

They saw Blue battle the Yankees with both his arm and bat. He knocked in the first Oakland run with a squeeze-bunt single in the second inning, then survived a four-run New York seventh, before bunting for another hit and eventually scoring the winning run in a four-run Oakland eighth.

VIDA BLUE

"I've always had a hard time hitting Perry," said Detroit's Gates Brown, who reversed his form and cuffed Perry for a triple and homer, driving in four runs.

Perry, who joined the pitching elite last season with a 24-12 won-lost record and led Minnesota to a Western Division title, falled for the 10th straight time to win his 12th game this year. The loss was his 14th. His last victory was June 30, 10-4 over Oakland.

Brown was pressed into action after centre fielder Mickey Stanley suffered a slight concussion in an outfield collision with Dick McAuliffe.

Paul Schaal drove in all of Kansas City's runs with a single, triple and three-run homer as the Royals continued a spell with their ninth straight triumph over Boston and 10th over two seasons. It was Kansas City's eighth victory in nine games.

Steve Huntz delivered a tie-breaking single with two out in the sixth inning, lifting Wilbur Wood and Chicago over Baltimore.

Jay Johnstone opened the decisive sixth with a double and was sacrificed to third. Bill Melton bounced out and Rick Reichardt walked before Huntz singled off loser Pat Dobson, and helped Wood to his 15th victory.

Sandy Alomar led off the 10th inning with a single and eventually scored the winning run on a pinch hitter Billy Cowan's force-play bouncer to help California break a four game losing streak.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Pitching great Satchel Paige says he'll reveal how old he really is Oct. 3 at an appreciation dinner in Kansas City.

Paige, who many baseball experts consider the greatest righthander in the history of the game, was inducted into the Hall of Game in Cooperstown, N.Y., last Monday, and honored at the National Baseball Congress tournament Friday in Wichita, Kan.

St. Catharines' Crews Coast to Henley Win

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Crews from the St. Catharines Rowing Club won only two races Sunday in the closing program of the 89th Royal Canadian Henley Regatta, but it didn't matter.

The teams had done their work, handily winning their 11th consecutive points crown at the four-day Canadian rowing championships.

Sunday was a smooth-stroking day, added the senior 145-pound eight and senior 145-pound four to 10 victories rowed during the other three days, running their point-total to 838, a comfortable 181-point lead over Toronto Argonauts, winners of three events on the wind-up card.

Argos took the senior 135-pound four to close in on St. Catharines. It left Argos with 335 points, 193 ahead of Buffalo West Sides, who were 26 in front of the New York Athletic Club, Detroit wound up fifth in the 45-club standings with 113 points.

New Haven, who completed a sweep of open heavyweight events with the championship eight for the Ned Hanlan Memorial Trophy, also added the senior four. Saturday, they copped the senior coxless four.

Made up of university oarsmen involved in the United States Olympic rowing development program, the big New Haven eight had pretty much its own way in the closing race.

The championship single, premier sculling event on the four-day Henley program, went to Rich Strehlke, a 24-year-old United States Army private from Philadelphia.

Eastern Ontario clubs copped two other finals, the senior 155-pound eight going to Brockville and the senior 145-pound coxless four to Ottawa. Both boats splashed home through the rough water with plenty of room to spare.

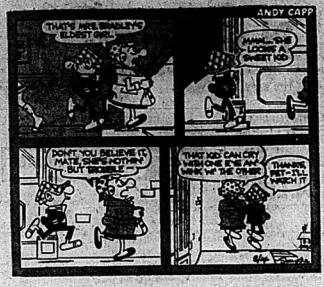
Rain Breaks Race Promises



BRIGHTON — When the Brighton Speedway promises 12 stock car races that's exactly what you get — unless you get six or maybe even 207.

Saturday night's 12 race program was cut short after only six when a sudden downpour wiped out the remaining card. The seven races that were scrapped will be held before next Saturday's scheduled 13 races making it a long night of stock car thrills.

The most excitement of Saturday's shortened agenda came when Stirling's Jim Edgar spun out on the back stretch and mapped off a light pole causing a lengthy delay until the lights were put back into working order.

Starting time for next week's lengthened card will be 7 p.m. with all drivers asked to register prior to 6:30.

Revson Number One?

TORONTO (CP) — There have been several indications lately that New Zealander Denis Hulme is being replaced as the No. 1 driver on the Team McLaren in the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series for big-bore sports-racing cars.

Stepping into the lime-light is eligible bachelor, Peter Revson of New York.

Since the death of New Zealander Bruce McLaren, the team and company have come more and more under the domination of Teddy Meyer, an American who would dearly love to see a fellow-countryman in the top slot.

Hulme has won only one event in the 1971 Can-Am series, taking the opener at Mosport, Ont., in June. Since then, he was second to Jackie Stewart at Mont Tremblant, Que., and second to Revson at both Road Atlanta in Georgia and Watkins Glen, N.Y.

At the latter race R was noted that the formerly gregarious Hulme was little in evidence at the pre-race social activities and in fact would not come to the winners' circle for his interview.

Revson won the pole position at Indianapolis for the 500 this year and says himself that it seems that he can do nothing wrong.

It is some considerable time since an American placed high in international competition. Only one, Phil Hill of California has won a world championship. He took the title in 1961.

Hulme had developed a reputation as an "iron-man" in racing especially after his drives in the 1970 Can-Am while still suffering from burns suffered at Indianapolis.

Yet this year at Mont Tremblant he was sick at the end of the race, having found the heat bothersome. He is also reluctant to get behind the wheel of the "Revson Killer". One crash recently crushed the steering at 7.65. Restricted to persons 18 years of age and over.

Rollins' Tougher On Road

Doug Rollins' Shell powered found the going rougher at home rather than away in their sons for series with Ottawa, but it all led to the same conclusion.

Victors 14-5 in Ottawa, the local squad needed eight innings to dispose of Ottawa 6-5, at the Alemite and take the best of three series in two straight games.

Rob Richardson was the hero of the game pounding an extra - inning home run to break a 5-5 tie and win the game for Belleville.

Tom Sharland started for Belleville giving way to Rob Chase in the sixth. Each pitcher fanned four. Scott Sisson hit a triple and two singles and Martin Lowry a double and two singles to lead the home team at the plate.

Burnett went the distance for Ottawa, stroking two singles in his own lost cause.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Gold issues advances strongly as prices on the Toronto stock market climbed higher in active mid-morning trading today.

On index, industrials were up .15 to 176.05, golds 5.12 to 194.80 and western oils 3.01 to 236.46. Base metals dropped .76 to 86.75.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 577,000 shares, compared with 378,000 the same time Friday.

The sharp advance in gold prices reflected an announcement by the U.S. that it would no longer support the $35.00 an ounce price for gold established in 1934.

Declines outnumbered advances 135 to 96, with 131 issues unchanged.

Strongest sectors were food processing, industrial mining, oil refining and general manufacturing. Six of the industrial index's 17 sub-groups edged higher.

Beverage, paper and forest, merchandising and steel issues posted moderate declines.

Bow Valley was up 1¼ to 29¾, Inco 1¼ to 33¾, Texas Gulf Sulphur 1¼ to 81¾, Tara ¼ to 31¼ and Asamera 1¼ to 13½.

International Utilities climbed 1¼ to 40¼. Canadian Homestead ¼ to 11¼, Occidental Petroleum ¼ to 31¾ and Shell Canada Limited ¼ to 27¾.

Bell dropped ¾ to 45¼, MacMillan Bloedel ¼ to 23¾, Abitibi ¼ to 27 and McIntyre 1¼ to 55½.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were steady on a moderate demand for a supply of slaughter cattle lacking top quality and finish at the Ontario public stockyards today.

Veal calf prices were lower while hog prices were higher. There were no early sales of sheep and lambs due to a special afternoon sale.

Slaughter cattle 774; Choice steers 34-35; good 32.50-33.50; medium 29-32; common 25-28; choice heifers 30.50-31.50; good 28-30; medium 26.50-28.50; common 24-26; good cows 22-23; medium 21-22; canners and cutters 17-21; good heavy bologna bulls 27-27.50; common and medium 26-26.50.

Replacement cattle 256; Good light stockers and feeders 33-37; good heavy steerkeep feeders 32-35; common and medium stockers and feeders 28-32.

Calves 256; Choice vealers 37-41; good 33-36; medium 27-32; common 24-26; boners 21-23.

Hogs 1,000; Base price 26.50-26.80, currently at Toronto 26.80; stags and boars 10.75; heavy sows 17.50.

Sheep and lambs 489; No prices established.

Halloway Gets Dickens

A combination of good hitting and great pitching is an unbeatable diet and if you don't believe it ask anybody in Halloway's entry in the Thurlow - Sidney Softball League.

Halloway ran headlong into a red hot Dickens' Restaurant Sunday and were singed 15-1.

The winners pounded out 17 hits and scored in every inning in the third inning to whip Halloway, Bowry and Wilman each had three hits for Dickens including home runs. Stan Dafoe added three safeties with Laing, Ellis, Sappell and Johnston having two hits apiece.

Norm Lockhart fired one-hit ball for Dickens. He fanned eight.

Denyes lasted two and a third innings for Halloway giving up all 15 runs on the same number of hits. McConnell finished the game blanking the winners for two innings. McConnell was the only one to hit safely off Lockhart.

A five - run explosion in the sixth inning vaulted Dickin's Restaurant into an 8-6 victory over Crookston and into second place in the final league standings.

The game left Dickens one point leaders over Crookston for second place, with playoffs beginning this week.

Ralph Sine and Norm Lockhart both saw time on the mound' round with Sine throwing for four innings and Lockhart for two. Sine gave up all six runs on three hits and four walks. He fanned three; Lockhart gave up only one hit and struck out three. Errol Johnston's three run homer in the sixth capped off the winners rally. Bob Ellis and Bill Genereaux each had two safeties for Dickens.

Gord Spencer went the route for Crookston allowing nine hits and fanning six. Haggerty had two hits for the losers with Sills and Harris adding one hit each.

More People Riding Horses Today Than Did During The Time of Wyatt Earp !

Maybe it is the increased leisure time people have, or the urge to get away from cramped up the country, people are riding horses for pleasure and recreation; but it is a fact that more people are riding horses today than did during the time of Wyatt Earp and the old west.

Many farms are being bought and sold through the Classified columns of this newspaper, and many of these farms have horses.

If you are interested in buying or selling a horse, or in boarding your horse, you'll want to read and use the Classified Columns. Be sure to look for and to find what you want in the Classified Columns.

More People Riding Horses Today Than Did During The Time of Wyatt Earp !

Maybe it is the increased leisure time people have, or the urge to get away from cramped up the country, people are riding horses for pleasure and recreation; but it is a fact that more people are riding horses today than did during the time of Wyatt Earp and the old west.

Many farms are being bought and sold through the Classified columns of this newspaper, and many of these farms have horses.

If you are interested in buying or selling a horse, or in boarding your horse, you'll want to read and use the Classified Columns. Be sure to look for and to find what you want in the Classified Columns.

'Cool Room' Freezes Reporters Until Golfers Receive

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Sports Editor

A person could develop a frustration complex in this business.

It isn't tough enough to cover a sports event these days—now they've come up with something called the "cool room."

The situation arose at the Champions International golf tournament in Houston where the press was barred from the locker room. This meant that the pampered darlings of the fairway would be able to vanish into the night without explaining what went wrong out there.

The compromise was to allow the sports writers in, but to set aside a sulking area —called the "cool room"—to allow the athletes to simmer down and compose their excuses.

And while you can sympathize with the athletes, they have enough dodges at their disposal now to elude the questioners.

Football players, for instance, usually linger in the shower and that was fine until the advent of the pen that writes under water. The player must defeat not the writers caught on to the fact that it's a good idea to wear a dripdry suit in the dressing-room interviews.

Then there was the case of swimmer Elaine Tanner at the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg in 1967.

She dodged the news hounds effectively by diving into the practice pool.

It was different the following year at the Olympic Games in Mexico. There, she had no place to hide.

The Olympic system is to escort the gold, silver and bronze medal winners to an interview room. Elaine, the favorite in one event, took a bronze medal.

She took one look at the assembled reporters and fled in panic and tears.

Many of the interviewers felt sympathy with the teenager who felt she had let Canada down by making only the third-best showing among the world's best.

Others wrote that it was a bush-league performance.

Elaine, the next day, called a press conference through the Canadian delegation and won over the toughest of her detractors.

When a professional hockey team loses badly, the system is to lock the dressing-room door "for 15 minutes to let the guys cool out," we're told.

At one track and field meet in Canada a couple of years ago, reporters were banned from the infield on the pretext that there was danger out there from flying discuses, put shots and javelins.

An interview area was set aside and boy oboys were called in as couriers—"tell them who you want to talk to and the boys will go and get them."

The problem was, none of them there was the time the women's professional golf tour played Toronto. They closed that event from sin, but, in a blow for women's liberation, one news agency had assigned a female writer —much to the chagrin of the males who had to wait outside.

Bud Grant, when coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League, was known to some as a "tough interview."

But when "old iron eyes" moved to a higher job with Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League, and tried to institute press conferences, it "just didn't work.

Bud ruled that reporters must speak only to him and not to his assistants or trainers. They must go through him to talk to the players. And would the reporters please wear lapel buttons with their names and affiliations so he would know at all times to whom he was speaking?

They would not. And today, without the restrictions, Bud is one of the more equable interviews around.

But the most maddening phrase to a sports writer is "don't bother the athletes."

Rightly or wrongly, some writers feel that it's upon their efforts—almost as much as on athlete's native talent—that the athletes can command today's high salaries.

Some to think of it—maybe there should be a "cool room" for the writers.

Minor Baseball All-stars Endure Dismal Weekend

Belleville's minor baseball fortunes fared none too well over the weekend as one team was liminated from any fur-ther Ontario Baseball Association playdowns and two face the prospect of elimination next week.

The Brakemen and Conductors peewees dropped two games over the weekend to Kingston 15-4 and 2-1 and were knocked out of any further competition in the play-offs.

Kingston managed their 15 runs on only five hits Saturday. Peter Hall and Chris Routley pitched for Belleville striking out 12. Howie Coons had a double and single for the losers.

Jeff Burnett picked up the win fanning 11. Pat Baldwin smashed a triple to lead Kingston at the plate.

The game Sunday was closer but with the same final results as Belleville was eliminated. Les Murray hurled the win for Kingston fanning six. Mike Scrivens had a homer and two doubles for the winners.

Bill Whalen took the loss for Belleville striking out 14, Routley with a double was the only one to get an extra base hit.

The peewees will not be lacking for further baseball as they open their EOBA league championship series soon and will be on hand for the Peewee Tournament at the CNE.

The Belleville Lions midgets will be hard pressed to stave off elimination in their series with Kingston after dropping their opening game 4-3 and 13-3.

Dale Bamber, Allan Wood, John Masterson and Ron McTaggart all saw mound duty for Belleville in an attempt to halt Kingston's 18-hit attack. The trio fanned 13. Allan Wood had a triple and single to pace the losers at bat.

Dale Orr and Art Woodhouse picked up the wins for Kingston, fanning eight," Jerry Angel was far from that as far as Belleville was concerned, smashing a home run for the winners, Randy Burnett had triple and three singles.

Towers Food City tykes finished one series and began another one the weekend as they took both ends of the totem pole.

Belleville eliminated Peterborough 17-3 in their third and deciding game Saturday but were felled 11-4 in their opening game with Kingston Sunday.

Ken Revoy picked up the win over Peterborough firing one-hit ball. He struck out nine and walked the same number. Doug Grant was the only one to reach Revoy for Peterborough.

Bruce Bell with three singles and Mark Crawford with two doubles paced Belleville's 11 hit attack.

It was a different story Sunday as the locals could only manage four hits on all singles. Revoy was the pitching genius again for Belleville giving up eight hits and fanning nine.

Kingston Track Has Own Jonesville

KINGSTON (Special) — It may not be the same as Jonesville in Modrell's Jarry Park but Norm Jones must be considering forming his own gang down in Kingston as he sped to back-to-back victories in Sunday's harness racing card at Frontenac Downs.

The driver reined Glory Patch to victory in the first and then Mr. Whiskey in the second before 2,207 paying customers.

Another double winner of sorts was Yankee Joe who scored his second straight win of a featured race, running 2:09 to lead the pack.

Ronnie Jim ran the fastest race of the night in 2:08 4-5. The horse owned by Mark MacDonald of Gananoque combined with Ace's Choice to return a whopping $136.20 in the exactor payoff.

Next harness racing at the local track will be Wednesday night under the lights starting at 7:45.

Block That Ball!

Simon Bennett isn't kneeling down to be knighted or to look for a contact lens but is instead doing a good job of blocking a ground ball and making sure it doesn't get past him. The shortstop for the Belleville Conductors and Brakemen Peewees was preparing for a second game with Kingston in the O.B.A. playdowns, but Belleville dropped a 3-1 decision and was eliminated from any further playoff actions.

Harness Spirits Kept High, Dry

The cold, wet weather didn't dampen the spirits of Belleville's loyal harness racing fans or their collective wallets either. In the weekly Saturday night card.

Over 1,000 fans were on hand for the abbreviated nine race card and pushed $22,843 through the pari-mutuel betting wickets. This total was reduced by over $2,000 which was returned on Tar Magic and Little Baffy who broke before the start of their respective races.

Local oval rookie driver David Irwin drove his own horse, Lindy Lou, to a victory in the fifth race. It was the 18-year-olds first win in three starts.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Checkup Is Needed If Feeling Alters

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I've changed. I do not mean I'm in the menopause as I'm only 32. What I mean is that I do not feel like the "me" I used to be.

I was always called easy going and was without a nerve in my body. Now I'm just the opposite. I feel as though my teeth are always on edge — and I'm ready to bite someone's head off for no reason at all.

To top it off I can't sleep well, my heart pounds, my fingers tremble and I've been losing weight. I haven't been to the doctor yet, but I'm going soon. Meanwhile, sedatives have not helped.— Mrs. L.

• • •

COMMENT: I hope that "soon" means within the week. As you're not better, I think you will agree you have put it off long enough. Many patients I have seen have wondered what made them feel as they did — "different." When this happens, I believe that a complete physical and emotional inventory is important.

For example, in your case, I would surely want to check your thyroid gland in addition to everything else. When any patient begins to complain of unremitting nervousness, edginess, loss of weight and awareness of heart palpitations, I always suspect the thyroid.

Is it overactive? That question must be answered. Mind you, people can have symptoms like yours and simply be anxious and nervous without any organic basis. But better make sure.

When a thyroid is definitely toxic and overactive, symptoms are unmistakable: nervousness, finger tremor, muscle weakness, diarrhea, loss of weight (in spite of hearty appetite) heart palpitations, etc. It is the borderline case that is often overlooked.

Therefore, I think your doctor will be taking protein-bound iodine tests, basal rate, abolism examinations, radioactive iodine uptake tests, etc., to make sure you do not have hyperthyroidism.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: A friend of ours wrote that a child has been born in his family with a condition he calls the "Down's Syndrome." He and his wife are terribly disheartened. Will you explain? — Mrs. H.

COMMENT: This term is being used more frequently to describe the condition commonly known as mongoloid child. You can therefore understand why your friends are so upset. The condition is due to the presence of an extra chromosome.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have heard so much about allergy to penicillin. What are the symptoms? — Mrs. H.

COMMENT: Reacting to penicillin occur in about 5 per cent of adults and 10 per cent of people in lower in children. Briefly, the reactions can be divided into three categories as follows:

Immediate — Usually occurs within 20 minutes after drug administration. Patient may have flushing, generalized itching or urticaria (eruption of skin patches that itch). Or, more seriously, the anaphylactic (decrease instead of increase in immunity) type of reaction: swelling of the larynx (casting off air) bronchial spasm; fall in blood pressure, or shock.

Accelerated: Begins about one-half to 48 hours later. This may resemble the immediate reaction, but is usually less severe. There may be fever.

Delayed: This develops days or weeks later. The patient may complain of urticaria, or joint swelling.

(Note: I won't go into prevention or treatment of penicillin reactions here.)

For Mr. T.: Although I believe in moderate exercise as against the inmoderate variety, I am not an advocate of regular exercise merely to prevent heart attacks.

In spite of what you hear and read, it has not been "definitely established" that such regular exercise — by itself — will reduce the incidence or severity of coronary disease.

Folk Entering Premises Come in Three Classes

Last week's column dealing with liability for negligent acts mentioned briefly that people have a legal responsibility to keep their property in good repair. The reason is, of course, so that other people will be protected from physical injury while on the premises.

This column will discuss the question in greater detail because it is something that everyone is involved with every day in going about his usual routine.

The responsibility of the owner or occupier of premises towards the people entering the building varies with the situation and depends on the legal class in which the people happen to fall.

People entering some one else's premises are legally divided into three classes: invitee, licencee and trespasser.

An invite is someone who is expressly or impliedly invited to enter the premises in regard to a matter that is of common interest to both parties: for example, a customer entering a bank or a plumber entering your house when he is called in to fix your sink.

There is a legal duty to protect an invitee from any unusual danger which the owner or occupant is aware of or should be aware, provided that the invitee also uses reasonable care for his own safety.

For instance a bank has been held liable to a customer who slipped and fell on a wet, slippery bank floor. The Supreme Court of Canada ruled that the Condition of the floor was an unusual danger of which the bank knew, or ought to have known, and of which the customer could not reasonably be expected to know.

On the other hand, if the bank had posted signs warning the customers about the floor, the decision of the court would probably have been quite different.

A licencee is someone who has what amounts to gratuitous permission to enter the premises rather than being an invitee. Ordinarily, a licencee would be someone entering the premises for his own benefit rather than for the common benefit of himself and the owner or occupier. I.l.e a manager who comes to your house and asks to use the telephone because his car has broken down.

In such a case there is a duty to protect the licencee from any known danger that is unknown to the licencee and which he cannot see.

If the danger is one of which the owner or occupier was not aware or one that is visible to the licencee, the owner or occupier is not legally responsible if the licencee suffers injury.

In the case of a trespasser, the duty of the owner or occupier is minimal. His duty extends only to the point that he cannot set a trap for the purpose of causing injury to the trespasser. Other than that, a trespasser enters premises at his own risk.

That's the law!

Sydney J. Harris Says

Betting Is Not Immoral

Three of the greatest ideas of the last century are accidentally responsible for three of the greatest misconceptions of the ordinary man. Society seems inevitably to vulgarize and misinterpret what its geniuses discover.

These three are — Darwin's theory of "survival of the fittest"; Einstein's concept of "relativity"; and Freud's notion of "repression." Every literate person has heard of these, and uses these phrases in daily conversation; but not one in a thousand could accurately tell you what the originators meant by them.

This would not be harmful, except that in our ignorance we twist these phrases to mean something quite different, or even contrary, to their original scientific meanings. We pervert them in order to bolster up our own ideas of the universe, society or human nature.

We use Darwin's "survival of the fittest" to justify survival of the strongest or most aggressive or most selfish, when he didn't mean that at all. He meant survival of those species and individuals who were best adapted to changing conditions, not those killed the most.

We use Einstein's concept of "relativity" in time and space to suggest that "everything is relative" in morals and ethics and social behavior and standards of judgment — which would have horrified and outraged Einstein, as a man who believed in universal standards. But because Einstein's theory of physical things are "relative" to the observer, this does not imply that there is no "better" or "worse" in human conduct.

And we have wrenched Freud's idea of "repression" totally out of its clinical context, and use it as a cheap pretext for sexual promiscuity that he never condoned and often inveighed against.

"Getting rid of repressions," to Freud, had nothing to do with throwing overboard one's sexual code, or acting out one's fantasies regardless of the social conventions or consequences. It meant, rather, returning to that early point in time when painful or ugly memories were repressed in the unconscious, digging them out, and holding them up to the light of presentday reality — where they can be seen to be spooks and goblins, and lose their power to control our adult behavior. Simply that, and nothing more.

But we take and twist the great ideas, without bothering to study them, and then cite these "authorities" as sanction for our ignorance and selfish philosophies. This is the main reason Pope warned us that a little learning is a dangerous thing.

Wildcat Strikes Will End

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The United Auto Workers union announced Sunday there will be no further wildcat work stoppages at the Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. plant in St. Thomas.

Bert Rovers union local president, made the announcement after a meeting Sunday with 1,500 of the plant's 2,700 union workers.

Company and union officials are to meet today to discuss problems which have resulted in the production line being shut down five times since Tuesday.

The trouble began with the suspension and subsequent dismissal of a union official involved in a flat fight. Some key workers have failed to report for work.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For August 17

Your birthday today: Finds you in resistance-free, establishing natural growth efforts in normal directions. Limitations are largely external, economic. Concentrate on study, prayer, meditation and the serenity you may achieve soon. Today's natives are amiable, easy going people of good taste with a tendency to be casual about financial concerns.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Your guidelines, unclear yesterday still hold. Only now you have to avoid overloading your schedules.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Scores naturally tend to level now; those who've been shut out get in, those spoiled by being in too long are reduced or turned out.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Be sociable without becoming a pest. Distribute your attentions in gentle good humor.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Haste is downright destructive now. Think, check conditions, discipline your restless mood, particularly if driving or handling heavy equipment.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Much is achieved by simply getting down to business and keeping up a steady effort. Seek a complete switch, another place, another viewpoint.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Put your pride aside and seek really competent advice now, especially on legal questions. It is an excellent day for medical check-ups.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): An invitation comes your way and very likely you can take full advantage of it. Some people have to know quickly for best results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Crisis is a normal state of your affairs at present. Act directly without hesitation. Once you've reflected and given intuition a good chance to come through.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Being stopped or rejected hurts the pride but provides priceless learning. Thus you can see how to avoid worse a little further along the way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): You have extra opportunity to explain your projects and get support organized. Put in a full day: leave no available contact unworked.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): The last minute will be soon enough to accept bids for your time and attention: once you promise, it's difficult to back out.

PISCES (Feb. 19—Mar. 20): You may rearrange your finances today with good results, but do not assume this should be the final settlement. Further change later is almost certainly needed.

Rural Nostalgic Values Said Emphasized in Park Planning

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Parks administrators were told Saturday they are failing to serve the needs of a large segment of the population in a cosmopolitan society because they are emphasizing rural nostalgic values in park planning.

Dr. A. J. O. Farina, a professor of social work at the University of Toronto, told the Ontario Parks Association convention there is a significant lag between the values of people running the parks and the people using them.

/Provincial parks have served middle-class people who can afford to travel, but not people who live downtown in a small room, on a dingy street, with no car and no yard, he said.

Dr. Farina said values associated with rural nostalgia have caused high-intensity use parks to be frowned upon and small parks to be considered less important than large parks.

"Yet, to my mind, the most significant park development in Ontario in the past 30 years is Nathan Phillips Square (in front of Toronto's city hall)," he said.

Dr. Farina said attendance would be higher at the square than at Algonquin Park, and age distribution more representative than at provincial parks.

He pointed to other developments such as Ontario Place on Toronto's waterfront and the Sparks Street Mall in Ottawa as parks manifesting the most advanced designs.

People running parks, he said, are mostly rurally-oriented with a nostalgic and selective recollection of the pastoral life.

But the people using the parks are products of a mobile generation, or transients, who are not looking for permanence or stability.

School To Cut Jobless Opposed

WATERLOO (CP) — The chairman of the Ontario commission on post-secondary education criticized Prime Minister Trudeau Saturday for saying that keeping people in schools longer would be one solution to unemployment.

Mr. Trudeau said last month in Niagara Falls that if students were kept in schools until age 20 or 21, it would help ease unemployment.

Dr. Douglas Wright of Toronto told a conference on the role of universities in community affairs that Mr. Trudeau's suggestion "would be destructive."

He said education then would be "not for the sake of learning, but for the sake of custody."

The conference at Waterloo Lutheran University was organized by the university's student council and attended by students from nine Ontario universities as well as social and community workers from Kitchener and Waterloo.

Dr. Wright also said public funds that went into education during the 1960s now are going into such areas as environment and urban development.

Consumers Back Probe Of Doctors

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The president of the Ontario chapter of the Consumers' Association of Canada announced support Sunday for a proposed Ontario investigation into doctors' incomes from a government medical insurance plan.

Mary Fisher of London said the 29,000-member organization wants members of a health services review board, proposed recently by Health Minister A. B. R. Lawrence, to include members other than doctors.

Mrs. Fisher said in a new release:

"Since the introduction in Ontario of the medical insurance program by the government, costs of medical care have been escalating rapidly.

"Many factors enter into this, but there are strong indications that undue increases in the incomes of some doctors is one that should be examined.

"This rise in income is a predictable result of the introduction of medicare anywhere, since there is an increase in the number of patients, and a decrease in the number of those unable or unwilling to pay.

"However, the part of the increase due to other factors, such as billing for work not performed, billing for unnecessary visits and procedures by some doctors must come under close scrutiny."

Mrs. Fisher said the CAC does not want the government to dictate policy in areas of medical judgement but "where huge sums of money are being paid out, of the public purse, CAC feels it is the duty of the government to ensure that the funds are properly spent."

MPP Asks Odorous Plant Shut

OIL SPRINGS, Ont. (CP) — Lorne Henderson, Conservative member of the legislature for Lambton, said Sunday he has asked George Kerr, minister of resources and energy management, to close a chemical plant at Sombra, Ont.

Mr. Henderson said there have been complaints of odors during the five years since Chinook Chemical Co. Ltd. began operations near Sombra, 18 miles south of Sarnia.

In an interview from his home here, Mr. Henderson said he asked Mr. Kerr for "immediate action" in a letter last week.

Oil Springs is 20 miles southeast of Sarnia.

Hearing Too Late

Apartments To Get Permit

Sewer Held Adequate

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The Ontario Municipal Board hearing into the request of East Hill residents for re-zoning of their area will go ahead on August 31, but it will be too late to block construction of a 67-unit apartment structure at 217 Bridge Street East.

Despite the plea of one councillor who argued that the move would only add more red tape, city council yesterday voted to refer the residential chapter report of city planner Bert Kenny and an accompanying rezoning bylaw to the planning board for consideration.

Alderman E. A. Orr — a member of the planning body, said the planning board was already aware of the contents of the report and asked that the rezoning bylaw be approved by council.

After a lengthy discussion council voted 6-4 to send the report and rezoning bylaw to the planning board.

Approving Mayor J. R. Scott's recommendation to send the report and bylaw to the planning board were Mayor Scott and Aldermen Ben Corkis, Jack Ireland, Gerald Joyce, Arthur Keegan and Paul Russell.

Castings opposing votes were Aldermen Enos David, E. A.

Army Worm Fight Over

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A glimmer of hope appeared across the Prairies Monday as agriculture officials said the invasion of billions of Bertha army worms in the rapeseed crop had reached its peak.

But the battle against the worm, which has stripped thousands of acres in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta, continued as farmers with late-emerging infestations begged for aircraft to spray their fields.

Reaction to Nixon's Policy

U.S. Business Happy But Labor Annoyed

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon begins a cross country selling trip for his sweeping new economic policy today while the first effects of the policy —including a great deal of confusion— were being felt.

Business leaders were generally pleased with the Nixon program. Labor union officials, on the other hand, were unhappy. Many were confused about the ramifications of the plan.

Officials of the United Auto Workers Union in Detroit said they did not know what effect the new policy would have on current negotiations between the UAW and the aircraft industry. Also unknown were the effects on strikes now going on in several industries over higher wages.

News Briefs

HONG KONG (Reuter) — A ferryboat capsized in typhoon lashed waves near here today and between 70 and 80 seamen were feared drowned. Only four survivors were found after 100 mile an hour winds from Typhoon Rose over-turned the Hong Kong Portuguese Macao ferry, Fat Shan, off Hong Kong's Lantao Island.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Mainly sunny skies are expected today in southern and central section of Ontario with high temperatures of 75 to 80. Cloudy skies with showers and thunderstorms will become a bit more widespread Wednesday although south western Ontario will again be sunny and warm with high temperatures in the 80 to 85 degree range.

Britain Seeks Conferences On U.S. Economic Policies

LONDON (CP) — The British government is seeking two international meetings in an effort to stave off world wide protectionist retaliation against President Nixon's emergency programs to strengthen the United States trading and financial position abroad.

Prime Minister Edward Heath and his cabinet met in special session Monday night, and informants reported the Conservative government would seek:

1. A meeting of the Group of 10 leading industrial nations — the United States, Britain, Canada, West Germany, Italy, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Sweden and Japan—to discuss revision of the 27 year old international monetary system based on fixed exchange rates with the dollar.

2. A meeting with finance ministers of Britain's prospective partners in the European Market—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The Common Market's monetary committee met today in Brussels to study Nixon's new monetary policies.

While not ruling out a unilateral revaluation of the pound sterling — whose devaluation in 1967 put the U.S. dollar on the front line of international speculation — the British government was said to feel world wide co-ordination is essential to build a new, less vulnerable economic order.

The problem other major industrial nations face is what to do with their own currencies and how to react to the 10 per cent additional tax Nixon put on most manufactured imports.

By allowing the U.S. dollar to float in relation to other currencies in the world money markets and by imposing the import surtax Nixon has made it more expensive for Americans to buy foreign made goods while making American goods cheaper for foreigners.

Washed Out

Residents of Dartmouth, N.S., gathered to watch flood waters eroding a city street. The water, which spilled over a dam on a city lake, eventually cut a gaping breach in the roadway. All the World's A Fair

It's a fair day today, and what better way to celebrate it than to have an exhibition. And typical of the smiling faces that will flood the fairgrounds this week is this one of six-year-old Paul LaMorre of Belleville, obviously enjoying one of the 22 midway rides on site, as the 150th Quinte Exhibition opens for a five-day stay.

Sharp Seeks Exemption From Surtax for Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Mitchell Sharp, for nearly 25 years a hard bargainer for Canada in international trade, is launching another campaign.

It is to get the United States to exempt Canada from Washington's new import duties.

He says its won't be easy. Having announced the move, the Nixon administration isn't likely to make an exception without a fight.

Mr. Sharp, now external affairs minister and acting prime minister in the holiday absence of Prime Minister Trudeau, announced Monday after a three-hour cabinet meeting that the government will send a delegation to Washington this week to seek the exemption.

Composition of the cabinet-level mission has not been decided, but observers believed it would likely be led by Mr. Sharp, aided by Finance Minister E. J. Benson who is being called back from a Holland holiday.

The problem is President Nixon's announcement Sunday that the U.S. will raise duties by up to 10 per cent on a wide range of imports. About one-quarter of Canada's annual world sales of more than $10 billion would be affected.

Mr. Sharp noted that the import surcharges are being applied by Washington to encourage other countries to lower discriminatory trade barriers and bring their currencies into better exchange valuations with the U.S. dollar. He said Canada is clearly not guilty on either count.

Moreover, he said, Canada can argue that U.S. limitations on Canadian purchases can have an adverse effect on the U.S. itself. As two of the world's biggest trading partners, Canada needs to sell to the U.S. in order to buy more American goods.

Bite Is Deep

Levy Not Just Tax On Tax

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. officials have clarified how Nixon's new 10 per cent surcharge on imports will work.

The charge, up to 10 per cent, will be added to the duty now paid on goods. Thus, if an item is worth $100 and the present duty is $10, the additional duty would be $10 — making a total duty of $20.

Initial reports said that the surcharge was a tax on a tax; that if the duty on an item was $20 the surcharge would be another $2.

The surcharge will only apply to goods already subject to duty.

Rebel Ulster Regime Formed

BELFAST (CP) — The outlawed Irish Republican Army has announced the creation of a rebel underground government in Northern Ireland.

IRA leaders told reporters Monday that six "cabinet ministers" had been selected to form an executive and the first session would be held in two weeks.

They said there was a "parliament" of 40 members and the rebel government would seek diplomatic recognition around the world.

Finances would be provided by Irish exiles, the IRA said.

This defiant gesture against the established government in the troubled country came as the British Army announced that more than 80 IRA officers were arrested since measures making it possible internment without trial was introduced a week ago.

The IRA also announced an intensified campaign of violence was being prepared against the British Army, police and government buildings.

A series of bomb blasts and a brief spasm of shooting during the night shattered the uneasy peace that has held away since the weekend.

Roman Catholics, Socialists and other civil rights militants opposed to the Protestant-based Northern Ireland government substituted a Gandhi-like civil disobedience campaign Monday for the guns, bombs and rocks which have ravaged Ulster for two years.

Ten thousand supporters went on strike, closing most public services. Stores shut down, buses halted and postal deliveries collapsed.

Government sources admitted today they were worried by the development. They feared the possible effects on the riot-stricK economy of people refusing to pay bills and taxes.

Apartments Save Taxpayers Little

TORONTO (CP) — High-density land development has little impact on the home-owner's tax bill, says a study commissioned by the Toronto borough of York.

The study, commissioned last February following a dispute about high-density development in the area, was released Monday.

After considering seven key development sites in the borough, one built, one under construction and five proposed, the study says if the best development decisions were made in each location "the average taxpayer would have saved only $3.76."

The borough now has a large concentration of single-family dwellings, the highest taxes in Metropolitan Toronto and below-average per-capital income.

The study says if apartments had been built on all seven sites, savings to the average taxpayer would be $2.12.

The $25,000 study was done by Price Waterhouse Associates, management consultants, and Marshall, Macklin, Monaghan Ltd., Engineers.

Wall Street Quiet Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market quieted down today after Monday's explosive rally and record trading in reaction to President Nixon's moves to bolster the economy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dipped 0.08 of a point to 888.87 in the first half hour of trading. It had soared 32.93 points Monday in its biggest one-day advance.

Hurricane on Tour

Weary Beth Visits Newfies

HALIFAX (CP) — A much-weakened hurricane Beth was bringing rain at times heavy and winds of 20 to 35 knots to southern Newfoundland early today while repair work continued in flood-torn sections of Nova Scotia.

The late summer storm, with its heavy rains in Nova Scotia, left miles of damaged highway and property damage that could cost millions to repair or replace.

In nearby Dartmouth—one of the worst hit areas of the province—sandbagging operations continued through the night in efforts to curb the rapid flow of water pouring from a series of lakes.

A Canadian forces plane transported some 6,000 sand bags from the Canadian forces base at Gagetown, N.B., early today for use in Dartmouth.

A gaping hole in a Dartmouth street was blocked by truck-loads of gravel and rock fill, cutting down on the water flow.

Monday night the rapid flow of water created a small river running through the downtown area into Halifax harbor.

In the Annapolis Valley, highway connections were torn, bridges buckled and culverts cracked from rising waters and along the eastern New Brunswick coast, heavy seas churned up by the storm's winds smashed thousands of lobster traps.

Maybe A Little Rain Would Help the Gate

". . . along with the sunshine, there's gotta be a little rain sometime."

Perhaps Everett Gowsell is not an ardent country and western music fan, but the genial director of this year's Quinte Exhibition may be humming those words from the recent Lynn Anderson hit record during the run of the festivities this week. And rain could benefit the attendance, according to Mr. Gowsell.

"You know, during the very hot weather, the farmers would most probably stay home and tend their crops, and the city folks would perhaps take off for the country and the lake, and if that should happen, attendance could fall off. So, a little rain might just benefit us after all," he explains.

The Quinte Exhibition, ranked sixth in importance and size among the more than 200 fairs and exhibitions held throughout Ontario each year is hoping to top last year's attendance mark of 80,000.

And besides counting on the weatherman, the organizers, the Belleville Agricultural Society, have contracted for the largest midway to be staged in the Quinte area.

The five-day event will institute a new admission policy charging an all - inclusive price at the admission gate. Unlike former years when separate tickets were sold for admission and for grandstand shows and special exhibits, the price of the entrance ticket will permit fair-goers to enjoy all the sights and sounds without digging into their pockets for extra money.

This year, adult visitors will pay a daily price of $1.50, while students (showing ID cards) will be charged $1.

Elementary school students will be admitted free until 6 p.m. each day, and after will pay 50 cents.

The exhibition will display 22 midway attractions, 12 of them designed for youngsters.

Over 300 animals will be on exhibit this year, covering the full range of farm livestock.

Also included in the exhibition this summer will be a square dancing, variety shows, displays of antique vehicles, horse shows and the parade that will be staged tonight running from Bleecker avenue park playground, along Bridge Street to the exhibition grounds.

And don't forget the fireworks display scheduled for tomorrow night at 10:30 p.m.

But, as far as the organizers are concerned, this year's festivities are a fond memory now. They're working at this moment on next year's show and the following one.

"The amount of work needed to run such a show is a 12-month job. Booking riders, shows, personalities, housing, checking livestock registration papers . . . oh, there's so much to do," Mr. Gowsell stated.

"If you think this year's 150th show is good, wait until next year."

Obituaries and Funerals

GERALD (Bud) ARCHER

Gerald (Bud) Archer died in Belleville General Hospital Aug. 16, 1971, in his 54th year.

Born in Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Archer, he was a retired crane operator with the bridge and building department of the CN.

Mr. Archer was a veteran of World War II, having enlisted in Belleville in 1939 and served in Italy, France, England and Germany before being discharged in 1945.

He is survived by three brothers: Herbert of Belleville, and Clayton and Wilbur both of Hamilton, and two sisters, Mrs. Isabel Hubbard of Belleville and Mrs. Mary McCluskey of Los Angeles. He was predeceased by another brother, James.

The funeral will be held in the chapel of John R. Bush Funeral Home, Aug. 20 at 11 a.m., with interment in Belleville Cemetery.

Bearers were Douglas Campbell, Claire Knight, Harold Hagerman, James Hoard, Stanley Williams and Robert Hoard.

City Pays Bill

The two injunction applications brought by East Hill residents in an attempt to block construction of water tower number 3 will cost the city a total of $924.25.

The amount covers costs involved in the original injunction action sought by Dr. Jack Marshall which was withdrawn and the later injunction application by William Spinelli which was granted with costs assessed against the city.

The Spinelli injunction application was granted on the grounds that the city's building bylaw was defective.

City council yesterday approved payment of the court action costs.

Thin Thief Takes Look And Leaves

Police have arrested two Belleville youths and a juvenile who led officers a merry chase between Belleville and Rossmore during the early hours this morning.

Names of the two 17-year-old youths and the 15-year-old juvenile have not been released.

At 2:14 a.m. today, officers observed the trio travelling along Bridge Street at Coleman and observed two bicycles earlier reported stolen.

Apprehended, the juvenile confessed to theft of one bicycle in the city, a second in Rossmore, which was later abandoned, and a third in the city.

All have been charged with theft.

Police have reported a total of 245 bicycles stolen in the city during July and Toronto police recently admitted well over 1,000 had been stolen during the same month. A wave of such thefts have been sweeping the province, with trucks sometimes moving into neighborhoods and cleaning out bicycles for sale in other municipalities.

C of C to Sponsor Target Shoot

PICTON (Staff) — Members of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce yesterday agreed to promote a black powder shoot sponsored by the Prince Edward Rod and Gun Club.

A newspaper advertisement not to exceed $15 in cost, will be inserted in the local paper to boost a one day "shoot - out" for some of Ontario's Daniel Boones.

Competitors from Ottawa, Toronto and Brockville will meet here in mid - September for the event featuring antique firearms.

Sheldon Whittaker, a spokesman for the rod and gun club, said members hope eventually to sponsor a black powder shoot comparable to the three - day international competitions held at Brockville.

Kids' Day Today

It's Kid's Day today for opening of Quinte Exhibition, and these three youngsters were among early fair-goers yesterday, waiting patiently for workmen to put finishing touches on one of the 22 rides in midway. Oh, how the hours dragged for them!

Rotary Speaker Says Fairs Should Expand

Fairs such as the Quinte Exhibition could anticipate a population explosion almost as large as that of the post-war period and should update their facilities accordingly.

That was the theme of E. A. Starr, Director of the Agricultural and Horticultural Associates branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food, in an address to Belleville Rotary Club yesterday.

Mr. Starr thought perhaps a site covering 100 acres would suffice for such facilities as a horse racing track, accommodation for animals, a midway and above all parking. He said people resented having to park several blocks or up to a mile away from the grounds.

Mr. Starr, who saw service with the RCAF at Mountview during the last war, said he had seen a tremendous change and development since he was last here. However he did not think we had seen anything yet so far as provincial growth was concerned.

Rural and urban populations, he said, were closer today than ever before, but he noted that we were two or three generations from the day when young people had uncles and grandparents on a farm with whom they could spend vacations. People liked animals, particularly horses, and the only place they could see them today was at the local fair.

In some cases, however, fairs were not providing the attractions they should. For instance, prizewinning animals in the fat stock classes had indeed accepted the recommendation of staff members, city solicitor J. R. Reynolds, City Solicitor John C. Miller and Director of Planning Eric Kemp that the question of the residential chapter of the city's official plan and the proposed dairy cattle were acknowledged as the world's best, and were top dollar earners, it would be a great mistake to overlook the show ring.

Mr. Starr said there were some 240 agricultural societies and while there was some rivalry for the position, he believed Belleville ranked sixth, behind the CNE, Western (London), Ottawa, Norfolk County (Simcoe) and Peterborough.

Quinte Exhibition officials and 4-H calf club boys and girls who will be competing this week were guests at the lunch. Mr. Starr praised Rotary's sponsorship of the latter clubs.

Lightning Bolt Eases Traffic

PICTON (Staff) — Picton merchants apparently have discovered a lightning swift solution to summer traffic problems on Main Street.

The electrical storm just month blacked out the red and green signal lights at the intersection of Main and Ross Streets leaving only an amber caution light. Consequently traffic seems to be "speeded up a little," according to Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce president Bernard Hepburn.

Mr. Hepburn, commenting on the substitution of an amber light, noted it was "quite a good idea." He was informed by a chamber director that the idea actually had been a bolt from the blue, not an intentional innovation.

Gordon Lloyd, past president of the chamber, observed the "walk" and "don't walk" signals at the Ross Street crossing should be covered since pedestrians might grow confused by their black-out.

It was noted a marked increase in the intersection, now controlled by an amber light is not a crosswalk and pedestrians should exercise caution. Mr. Hepburn suggested a crosswalk could be introduced and the traffic lights moved to the intersection of Paul and Main Streets.

Tenders Approved By City Council

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company has been awarded the contract for the reconstruction of approximately one - quarter mile of Dundas Street East, in the vicinity of the hospital.

The amount of the tender, the lowest of five bids received, is for $215,570.15 compared with the Lightfoot Construction Co. Ltd. tender for $222,473.25.

Council yesterday also awarded the 1971 tree trimming contracts to Flanagan Tree Service of Grand Valley, Ont. at $15,995, part of which will be recovered from the public utilities commission and Bell Telephone.

Assistant city engineer Joe Angelo said the Flanagan tender was $2,500 below engineering department cost estimates.

Alderman Gerald Joyce suggested that in future years the tree trimming contract be broken down into areas, to allow smaller contractors the opportunity of bidding.

He said the entire tree trimming project had been too large to be handled by some local contractors who otherwise might have tendered.

Another contract approved was to J. D. Coad Construction of Trenton for reinforcement of floors and roof trusses at the city hall. The amount of the contract is for $13,616.

Apartments

Orr, Jean Smith and Donald Soutter.

At the same time, however, council cleared the way for issuance of a permit to construct the proposed new 67-unit apartment structure at 317 Bridge Street, the former residence of Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson.

Council approved the application of the Toronto development firm after a sanitary sewer to hook into the sewer on Bleecker Avenue.

A report from City Engineer Wilbur Purcell indicated that the Bleecker Ave. sewer was adequate to handle the flow from the proposed apartment building.

A representative of the Toronto developer said later the building permit application would be made this week.

The building permit for the proposed Bridge Street apartment has been held up for at least two months until the city building inspector was satisfied of adequate sewer service.

Also in an attempt to block the apartment construction East Hill residents have sought court injunctions, one of which was granted on the basis of the city's building bylaw being defective.

Council, however, hurriedly passed a new building bylaw and with the report yesterday that the Bleecker Ave. sewer was adequate has now approved the street occupation permit for construction of the Bridge Street connecting link.

Ratepayer opposition to what has been termed "indiscriminate" building of apartments in "B" zoned areas of the city has mounted rapidly in recent months.

Heeding the request of West Hill residents for rezoning of the Sinclair Street area to block apartments, council approved spot rezoning only to have objections raised at the last minute, thus necessitating Municipal Board action.

Then East Hill residents requested rezoning of their area but in view of the growing opposition to apartments council decided to take no action and instead directed the city to speed up over-all city rezoning.

East Hill residents continued their opposition, however, and made application to the Municipal Board for an amendment to the zoning bylaw.

The application for a hearing was heard last week by OMB chairman J. A. Kennedy who set a date of Aug. 31 if the city did not pass the proposed amendments at council's last night's council meeting.

Mr. Kennedy said if a decision was not reached by the board hearing on Aug. 31, then the bylaw would be left with the usual way of advertising, receiving objections, and a board hearing if there were objections.

Yesterday, however, council did not pass the proposed bylaw amendments but instead accepted the recommendation of staff members, city solicitor J. R. Reynolds, City Solicitor John C. Miller and Director of Planning Eric Kemp that the question of the residential chapter of the city's official plan and the proposed dairy cattle were acknowledged as the world's best, and were top dollar earners, it would be a great mistake to overlook the show ring.

Mr. Starr said there were some 240 agricultural societies and while there was some rivalry for the position, he believed Belleville ranked sixth, behind the CNE, Western (London), Ottawa, Norfolk County (Simcoe) and Peterborough.

Alderman Joyce said however that the proposed bylaw still had deficiencies and should go to the planning board.

The fact that Mr. Kennedy had ordered a hearing if council did not pass the bylaw did not worry the alderman.

"The matter may be speeded up by letting Mr. Kennedy have his hearing," Ald. Corke said.

Also speaking in favor of referring the bylaw to the planning board were Alderwomen Paul Russell, Gerald Joyce and Jack Ireland.

Alderman Joyce said it would be foolhardy for council to do anything not first approved by the OMB.

Mayor Scott noted the problem created through rezoning for the new Quinte Mall which saw two OMB hearings before the issue was settled.

He said council didn't want to go through another such action.

The proposed amendment for the city's zoning bylaw 6495 takes multiple family dwellings out of much of the presently zoned "B" district of the old part of the city and would change them to low coverage and parking requirements in areas where multiple family dwelling would be permitted.

IN MEMORIAM

JOHNSTON — In loving memory of our dear sister, Lena Johnston, who passed away Aug. 17, 1970.
As time unfolds another year,
Memories keep you ever dear,
Silent thoughts of times together,
Unspoken words of love untold for-ever.
Ever remembered by her sisters Jessie and Jennie and their husbands.

CASSIDY — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who passed away Aug. 17, 1960.
He was a flower too sweet for earth,
Best here but for a little while,
God needed him He gave him both
And took him with a smile.
Always loved by his mother and dad, Eugene and Jean Cassidy and Sharon Clarke.

CASSIDY — In loving memory of my dear grandson who passed away on August 17, 1960, Eugene Cassidy.
He has gone to be an angel
Within our Father's care,
And though an hour little bet now patter along,
The beautiful street up there.
Loving memories sadly missed by grandmother Ruby Thompson.

RUSSNELL — In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. Ruby Russnell, who passed away August 17, 1970.
Sadly missed by her daughters and sons-in-law.
For the days we do not think of you,
For the days we do,
If it'll this world were ours for days,
We'd have you too.
Sadly missed by daughter Ruth, sons-in-law Howard and Russell, nurses and staff at the Belleville General Hospital for their kind attention while Hugh was a patient, Hugh Wilson.

CARDS OF THANKS

Hugh Wilson and family of Ellesmere Road, Toronto, wish to convey their sincere thanks for all the many acts of kindness and personal calls, and floral tributes received. Also for all their neighbors and friends who assisted in any way during the illness of Hugh, to Rev. Thomas Hall, Rev. Ken Hall and Howell, nurses and staff at the Belleville General Hospital, Belleville General Hospital for their kind attention while Hugh was a patient, Hugh Wilson.

Birds for Show Stephen's Hobby

Like father, like son?

Or is the phrase, birds of a feather flock together more appropriate?

For most 13-year-old boys, sports form a major part of their lives, but for young Stephen Deak of Belleville, the unique rigors of raising show birds provide the substitution for his apparent lack of interest in sports.

Inheriting the unusual pastime four years ago from his father, John, Stephen has entered a number of birds for the second consecutive year in the Quinte Exhibition. Although last year he failed to gain any mention from the judges, he feels strongly that his birds will catch the second glance this week.

Claiming a collection of some three dozen birds, young Stephen states that caring for them occupies most of his spare time.

"It takes only 100 pounds of feed costing $5.70 to feed them for over a month, but these birds require great care. My dad helps me a lot, and, you know, it's great fun, too," Stephen points out.

The Deak corral consists of 16 to 18 Rollers, 10 to 12 English Trumpets, eight Pouters and four Helmets.

At times, his friend Darren Tripp, 11, helps the grade nine Moira Secondary School student with the chores.

Since he began his hobby, only one incident has marred his happiness, and that was when a feathered friend decided at his inappropriate moment to fly the coop to go to that Big Golden Henhouse in the Sky.

"It was a sunny day, and there I was ready to send Hopper, a pigeon on a flying trip. When I said go, and pushed the bird up into the air it just hovered slightly and flipped down into my hands again. It just died right there," Stephen remembers sadly.

If Stephen hopes to capture any honors this year, he will need to outlast some eight or nine other entrants.

"Don't worry, I think I'll get something this year," he promises.

Big Reward Offered for Flag

A Redneersville Rd. man is striking a blow against vandalism in his neighborhood with a big reward for a stolen flag. Brig. J. E. Genet, who lives three miles from the Bay Bridge on the Redneersville Rd. is offering a reward of $100, four times its worth, for information concerning the Union Jack taken from his flag pole sometime last week.

Brig. Genet, now retired, has flown a Union Jack on a flag pole on the north side of the road from here from his home for more than 20 years. "We were very proud of it," said Mrs. Genet of the three-by-six - foot Union Jack.

When it disappeared last Tuesday night, the Genets decided to offer a large reward for information "although we don't expect to recover the flag itself," said Mrs. Genet.

"We hope that the $100 reward may induce someone to report who the vandals are," she said.

Neighbors along the road have suffered from damaged property, most probably the work of idle young people in the vicinity. Mrs. Genet said she heard reports of boat covers being slashed and horses let loose.

The Genets have another flag on order, "but from now on we'll take it in every night," said Mrs. Genet.

The Final Touch

A workman slams the final section into place on one of the 22 midway attractions that form part of this year's Quinte Exhibition opening today for a five-day run. The popular annual event will icelebrate its 150th anniversary and organizers hope for a record attendance of 100,000.

St. John Ambulance On the Job at Fair

It's opening day of the Quinte Exhibition, and you and your family are bouncing from ride to ride, from hot dog stand to poultry exhibit, evidently enjoying the sights and sounds of the site.

Your young daughter, more exuberant than ever, dashes from thrill to new thrill . . . then suddenly, collapses to the ground crying with pain, calling for your help.

Do you panic? And who is there to help you?

An accident like this may or may not happen to you or your family, but the assurance is there that should it ever occur, the ever - present and ever - ready St. John Ambulance corps will be administering first aid quickly and efficiently.

The local brigade is hardly ever noticed in good times, but the fact that they are there should give each of the expected tens of thousands attending the exhibition this year a comfortable feeling.

A solely volunteer group that does not receive any fee for their work, the St. John Ambulance corpsmen and corpswomen are especially trained in the procedures associated with first aid.

Each member of the society needs to pass a written exam each year to qualify for assignments. Whenever people gather, whether it's for a sporting event, a public meeting of major proportions, a children's theatre or a playground event, if they are asked, they will be there.

Supported by the United Appeal, the society is skilled to handle most first aid problems, and if one should require additional or more extensive care, an ambulance is ready to transport an injured person to the hospital within minutes.

At the exhibition this week, there are always two corpsmembers on duty at all times.

One of them, Kathleen Cornock, is serving her eighth year and pursues the work.

"Each member can volunteer for any number of hours they can serve, and there is no requirement to be available for a minimum of hours," she emphasized.

Mrs. Curnock is also skilled in radio operation and can expertly handle communications and the walkie-talkie.

All St. John Ambulance people on the site this week will be constantly patrolling the area, ready to spring into action when called, usually on the public address system dotting the site.

"The only regret I have is that we can't seem to get young people involved in our program. We had a recent campaign to recruit young members, but apparently they just don't seem interested. But, we have very few drop-outs, and that's good," she stated.

Enjoy the exhibition this week, and enjoy that comfortable feeling knowing first aid is ever present should an accident occur to either you or your family.

Quinte Mall Theft Scene

City police this morning report the hungries hit the new Quinte Mall yesterday and walked off with $60 in meats from a car parked on the lot.

This first theft at the new mall totalled 25 pounds of bacon and 25 pounds of cooked ham.

A second theft from an automobile took place at the CN parking lot on Station Street.

A wrist watch, several cassette tapes and a $2 bill: total value $82, was stolen.

Picton Ratepayers Seek Injunction Over School

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — A group of Picton ratepayers will seek an Ontario Supreme Court injunction to halt demolition of Mary Street School until a referendum concerning it is held.

Town councillors accepted a demolition tender from Hines Wrecking during a special meeting August 9 when they voted to construct a new municipal building at the former school site.

A citizens' committee chaired by Picton merchant Colin Carver failed in its bid to persuade council to obtain a costing for renovation of the school as lockup and town office facilities. It was stressed this figure, if obtained, could be compared with the $68,450 cost figure for a new municipal building.

Workmen had begun demolition of the school yesterday when town clerk Andrew Jarvis received a letter from solicitor Thomas Forbes, warning of ratepayers' plans to seek an injunction unless demolition is postponed until a referendum is held.

Copies of this letter were forwarded to Mayor Margaret Ackerman and members of council and demolition of the school was halted at the town clerk's request.

Mr. Jarvis said yesterday the letter stated that because a lance of a demolition tender represents part of an over-all scheme for construction of police and administration offices which requires funds not provided in this year's estimated budget.

Electoral assent for the expenditure was sought under section 286 of the Municipal Act. Mr. Forbes letter noted that his clients suggest the question of the Mary Street School site and of police and administration facilities is "an essential and important issue, the decision on which will bind the Picton ratepayers for years after the tenures of office of Your Worship and the members of council have terminated."

It was stated council should not proceed with demolition of the school until the "entire question" is referred to the electorate "either for approval of incurment of debt or by means of a bylaw to submit to the electorate pursuant to subsection 52 of the Municipal Act."

Mr. Forbes continued, "I am instructed by my clients to launch a motion before the Supreme Court of Ontario to quash the bylaw referrable to the demolition of Mary Street School if such is not referred to the electors for assent.

"Further, I am to commence such action in the Ontario Supreme court to obtain an injunction to restrain any action of demolition of Mary Street School should such go ahead prior to the electoral assent to the issue."

Mr. Jarvis observed a referendum can be held at any time and would cost about $1,500.

Mayor Ackerman remarked last night she was not surprised by the ratepayers' action to prevent immediate demolition of the school. She observed any further delay in obtaining lockup facilities for the town will be because of the citizens' committee's efforts.

"I still feel that council has made the right decision," declared the mayor, speaking of plans for new town offices and a lockup.

She discussed funds for the project and explained a 30-year debenture could be obtained at a cost of $10,000 including principal and interest and be paid back in 10 years.'

The mayor added it would have been impossible to budget for lockup facilities without knowledge of the cost.

She explained the town always maintains reserve funds for contingencies, such as emergency repairs to a street. The planning and development committee's budget contains $2,000 for use if necessary.

Mayor Ackerman added only $1,950 must be spent for demolition of the school.

She strongly supported council's decision and its intention to "stick by it" in the face of opposition. The mayor did not feel taxpayers should be asked to pay for any further plans for lockup and town office facilities.

High-level Bridge Is Turned Down

Quinte area motorists will have to contend for a while longer with bridge opening problems on their way between Belleville and Prince Edward county.

This is indicated in a communication received from Charles MacNaughton, minister of Transport and Communications who has told city council that a survey taken during peak traffic flows has indicated there is no significant interruption in traffic due to bridge openings.

Complaints by motorists of long delays when the swing bridge was opened to allow boat traffic to pass prompted a request last year to the highways department for the new high level bridge.

The highways department hedged but promised a survey would be taken to study traffic delays at the bridge.

As a result of the survey, a maximum bridge opening time of 10 minutes and 16 seconds was recorded on July 4 with a backup of 50 northbound vehicles and 56 southbound cars.

The maximum number of vehicles stopped was on July 4 with the bridge opening at that time was for only 8 minutes and 9 seconds.

The bay bridge does not open for boat traffic when boats arrive, but must wait for the opening schedule on the hour and half hour when boats are waiting.

Mr. MacNaughton said deck replacement of the two adjacent bridges is programed for the near future and it anticipated the work will be carried out next year.

Post Office Plan Said in Trouble

TRENTON — Although not officially scrapped, prospects for a successful completion of Trenton's post office development project look more and more remote.

David Linden, the Montreal developer of the mid - town mall, said in an interview Monday prices being asked for the required properties are prohibitive.

Land parcels in the east and west of the federal land on Dundas West must be assembled.

"We are prepared to pay in excess of appraised values but not what they (the landowners) are asking," Mr. Linden said.

Mr. Linden and councillor Ted Parker, who devoted much effort to the project, indicate that it is premature to say negotiations for realization of the scheme have broken down.

"We are still open to discussion and we would still like to do the scheme . . . . hopefully the owners will see reason," said Mr. Linden, conceding there is at least a temporary impasse.

In last December's town elections, Trenton voters approved the expenditure of $25,000 for the purchase of office space in the development, but no agreement has been reached to provide new municipal offices.

Negotiations by Mr. Linden to bring about the necessary assembly of land around the old post office site have gone on since that date without agreement being reached.

"It would be a tremendous loss to Trenton if this did not go through," commented the developer.

Car, Cruiser In Collision

PICTON (Staff) — A constable from the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police escaped injury early this morning when the cruiser he was driving collided with a car on the Scoharie Road.

Constable Robert Michael Mathews, 24, of Prince Edward Heights, collided with a vehicle driven by Duncan Mackenzie, 24, of Wellington. Mr. MacKenzie also was unhurt. Cpl. R. Graham of Picton OPP is investigating.

Her time is precious. Her timepiece must be trustworthy.

Fiscal Surgery

We shall leave the detailed analyses of President Nixon's new economic measures to the financial pundits and the economists, in the sure knowledge that they will vary with each analysis.

It is virtually an axiom of the economic scene that no two economists will agree on the state of the economy, on the cures for inflation, or even if inflation exists any more.

It is not so long ago that Prime Minister Trudeau was saying that inflation was licked, but we are not so sure of that. For one thing the cost of living index in Canada is reported up again and there is nothing to indicate that we are not still living, according to one-time Bank of Canada Governor James Coyne's classic dictum, "grandly beyond our means." And what about those ads proclaiming that the price of cars will be increased shortly by four per cent?

It is always easy in the face of economic surgery, such as Mr. Nixon's, to predict what will occur, for as sure as fate, whenever events do take their course, circumstances will have changed so much that the original forecast has long since been forgotten. That is how governments manage to stay in power, unless they are so incompetent, or the economy is so ill, that a change of administration is inevitable.

Prime Minister Trudeau meanwhile likely would have wished Mr. Nixon had been more considerate than to have waited until he was safely ensconced in his Yugoslavian hideout to announce measures affecting us all. But it is unlikely Mr. Trudeau will decide his presence is necessary to any Canadian financial readjustment. Even at the behest of his old rival, Prince Edward-Hastings MP and former Conservative Trade Minister George Hees. If there is a telephone handy to his place in the sun in Yugoslavia, and one never can tell in such Ruritanian havens, Mr. Trudeau may well deem such a link sufficient. A panicky rush back to where the action is (or more probably is not) would not be in the Trudeau tradition (barring some national emergency like the FLQ crisis), and in any event would only play into Opposition hands.

When Mr. Trudeau does come back he may be able to tell us what the Yugoslavs did in reaction to the moves, perhaps even the Russians, for we never do get to learn what reverberations there are with the rouble when the dollar is in doubt.

TV Politics

Notice the trend of the CBC, as well as United States television programming on Northern Ireland: - almost invariably it is anti-British. There have been interviews with IRA fugitive Joseph Cahill, with Bernadette Devlin, who wants all-Ireland "people's republic," and with sundry other Catholic bystanders all spitting varying degrees of venom at Ulster Protestants and British alike.

The TV newsmen on the spot ask leading questions. As Miss Devlin being asked, "How long do you give Stormont (the Belfast location of Northern Ireland's government?) And "what will replace it? Miss Devlin's answer to the latter question, with a knowing smirk on her face, was: "A people's government."

Once again, it must be realized that what is seen on television deals only with incidents in certain segments of the slum ghettoes of Belfast and Londonderry. Life in the other parts of the cities and in much of Northern Ireland as a whole, though naturally tense, is a vastly different story.

Malta's Future

Imagine Malta a base for the powerful Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean. Imagine the George Cross island which held steadfast against the Stuka dive bombers and submarine attacks on its supply lines going the way of some of our Commonwealth members in Africa. That is what we are being led to believe by the attitude of the island's Prime Minister, Mr. Mintoff.

A leftist, Mintoff is bidding for a much higher rental from Britain for continued use of the island's naval facilities. Any default by Britain in this regard, says Mintoff, could mean Malta will negotiate with the Soviet Union instead.

Britain has its troubles these days. There is Northern Ireland. Now Malta threatens in this more subtle and indirect way, in effect with blackmail. Perish the thought, but what if the Scottish and Welsh nationalists should now decide to blow with something more than just hot air.

Commons Must Decide

Speaker Lamoureux Is Tops But His Status Is at Issue

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Sometime before — and well before — the next election, the Government faces a decision of prime importance to Parliament.

With the election already publicly scheduled, barring unforeseen political accidents, by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau for spring or fall, it would seem to leave plenty of thinking time for the administration.

But in another three to four weeks, the Commons and the Government get caught up again in a high-pressure, pre-election grind of decision-making on various White Papers, assorted special studies, royal and decidedly un-royal commission reports, and most of all, legislation.

So this decision of prime parliamentary importance could get lost in the frantic pushing around of political paper.

It has to do with Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux, his future, and long - term parliamentary prospects for continued immensely amiable low-key, enormously knowledgeable and altogether acceptable — by all politically conflicting parties — common-sense conduct of the business of the House of Commons.

Your business, in fact.

There have been eight Commons Speakers in the last 30 odd years, and Lucien Lamoureux is, by far and away, the best of them.

In a league of excellence all by himself.

The way the situation shapes up for the next pre-election run of this Twenty-Eighth Parliament, there is reason to suspect that Lucien Lamoureux would like to carry on in the new, Twenty-Ninth Parliament, as what has become the "Continuing Speaker."

That is, of course, if his Eastern Ontario constituency of Stormont - Dundas , centred around the Seaway City of Cornwall, re-elects him as it has the last four times the country has gone to the national polls.

But there is a catch.

The Government has yet to renegotiate an all-party agreement, that assuming his re-election — with no actual "real" opposition in the riding — Lucien Lamoureux shall continue in the chair of the Commons.

Meanwhile, apparently tired of waiting, and just possibly acting to prod the Government into some decision-making, Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield says his party will run a candidate in opposition to Lucien Lamoureux in Stormont-Dundas.

The Conservatives did not oppose him last time, but the New Democrats did put up what had to be only a "token" candidate. "Token," because not one New Democratic MP came into the riding to help him.

So this time the Tories say they are going to run, although it still may be not for real.

No sweat for Mr. Speaker. The riding has gone Conservative only three times in the last 14 elections. And the NDP never has made it.

On that basis, the problem of Mr. Speaker looks simple of solution.

Collectively, the Commons could reach another all-party understanding to go again for a "Continuing Speaker", except that this time around, it could and should be an open-ended agreement holding good indefinitely.

Except that the Government appears hung up on indecision, with a majority of parliamentarians wanting a "Continuing Speaker" and a small minority led by Stanley Knowles, arguing for a "Permanent Speaker."

Still no real rumble, since the New Democrats themselves have cut any Eastern Ontario election foe.

Except, again, that the good grey Stanley Knowles, by long years of experience and devotion to parliamentary duty, has become resident Commons expert on the rules of the House.

And an expert so respected that Lucien Lamoureux often listens to him and not infrequently sees eye-to-procedural-eye with him.

Stanley Knowles, a power unto himself in parliamentary things procedural, wants a "Permanent Speaker," appointed, in effect, if in theory elected by the Commons as "resident MP for the riding of Parliament Hill."

Lucien Lamoureux and a majority of parliamentarians see this as a device to make "another civil servant"—high-ranking, of course, on a par with departmental deputies or higher — of Mr. Speaker. Just one more bureaucrat.

And now officially appointed how would Parliament rid itself of a Mr. Speaker, who suddenly, under the political pressures of the Commons, broke down?

There have been eight Speakers since 1940, all notable for one distinguished; two, Ross Macdonald, now Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, and Roland Michener, now Governor General, well-remembered; one, Rene Beaudoin, the very model of the best possible man until he cracked and shattered in the parliamentary blowup over the pipeline; and Lucien Lamoureux, exclusive in his unparalleled excellence.

A "Continuing Speaker," the way Lucien Lamoureux sees him, would remain simply that — as long as his constituency and the Commons had confidence that was being the best possible parliamentary job. But it will need a Government decision and an all-party agreement. Soon.

Council, Apartments, and O.M.B. Ruling

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

One year ago I moved my family away from the "rat-race" of a giant, impersonal metropolis to settle permanently in Belleville "The Friendly City".

The serenity of the area, the stately and historic homes, the parks, schools and other features caused us to search for a home on Bridge Street in the beautiful East Hill area.

Now we are to find ourselves neighbors to some 75 families in an apartment house on the next block. At one point we were asked to sign a petition of fellow home owners protesting this development. One of our neighbors asked in a letter to The Intelligencer why the City Council did not choose to restrict this area to single family dwellings (in the light of the mentioned protest) thereby acknowledging the will of scores of ratepayers. A recent advisory from the Ontario Municipal Board indicates such action by Council would be permitted, even encouraged.

Directly to the issue, therefore, I ask two questions — Why has council apparently ignored the petitioners' will and why have they not acted in the manner suggested by the Ontario Municipal Board?

...How safe is your child's school?

A 17 - year - old boy in a suburban Toronto municipality recently got a shock that threw him several feet into the air. He had linked two different amplifiers and two possibly faulty wires together.

Three thousand miles away, another teenager, a member of a school visual group in a west coast high school, received recurrent shocks from the projector he ran. His father, a sales manager for a manufacturer of audio equipment for use in schools, checked the equipment and grounded it. Later, the board of education's electrical department replaced the three - prong plug the father had installed with the old two-prong plug.

Both these cases could have led to much more serious accidents — with thousands of dollars in taxpayers' money at stake in insurance as well as human misery.

In both cases, the equipment was not CSA certified for use in institutions.

CSA has standards with special requirements for equipment used in institutions and commercial and industrial establishments when large numbers of people may have access to the equipment and it is used extensively.

Specifications written by school purchasing agents should spell out the requirements. Equipment must be CSA certified for use in institutions. For safety's sake in your child's school, ask the principal if this procedure is being followed.

St. John Ambulance Costs At Rock Festival Not Met By U.C.S. Contributions

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Within a couple of months, Belleville residents will be asked again to support our United Appeal Campaign. Again, St. John Ambulance is one of those agencies totally dependent on citizen support it would be well to unequivocally inform our people that none of their hard-earned money, donated to United Appeal, was used by St. John to provide service at the Ajaxet Music Rock Arts Festival. At no time have I had a request or correspondence from the sponsors of that event.

St. John Ambulance Brigade members served there at the request of Deputy Sheriff St. John Headquarters in colaboration with Emergency Health Services.

The First Aid Post treated those casualities for which we are trained. All other costs, including some which came to us initially, were cared for by Dr. McNally's medical team. The cost of all supplies which St. John used will be paid for by E.H.S. and mileages paid initially by Ontario St. John Ambulance.

Obviously that money has to come from somewhere. What is not recoverable from the sponsors will come from you and I, the provincial taxpayer. It did not come from your United Community Services contributions.

Oregon Eyes Californian Immigrants

The Portland Oregonian

That poll in California that showed 29 per cent of the people there would like to move to another state, with Oregon as No. 1 preference, is truly frightening.

Twenty - nine per cent of the approximately 20 million people who live in California comes to a staggering total of these actually would move away, despite their aversion to the pollution, crime - - crowding and other drawbacks to living in the Golden State.

It isn't easy to pull up stakes when jobs, schools and other considerations tend to keep families in their accustomed places.

Also, the urge to depart often is seasonal, as when long months of rain cause Oregonians to yearn for a drier, warmer existence in Hawaii, Arizona or southern California.

Yet it is disconcerting to have a horde of potential invaders gathering on the state's border. If only two million Californians decided to move to Oregon, it would double our population.

The Willamette Valley, where most of the usual emigrants settle might become as smoggy and crowded as Southern California. Fortunately, for now, the valley's smog is thicker than that of Los Angeles.

Governor Tom McCall up to now has always smiled when he welcomed visitors but pleaded with them not to settle here. Maybe he should wipe the smile off his face, in view of the alarming poll.

Auto Cases Heard In Court

A 20-year-old RR5, Trenton youth was fines $125 and $2.50 court costs and had his licence suspended for six months following his conviction on a charge of careless driving in provincial court Monday.

The police summary entered by Crown Attorney John Pringle reported that Richard Bell was travelling north on County Road 5, and was attempting to turn onto the Glen Miller Road when his car skidded a total of 190½ feet before coming to a stop.

Damage to the car was estimated at $800; the driver was treated for cuts and bruises and released from hospital.

A second Trenton driver, Mrs. Rosie Marie Ibbotson of 68 Gould Street, paid a fine of $175 plus $3.50 court costs before coming to trial on a charge of careless driving.

A Deseronto man whom police described as 'belligerent, swearing and causing a disturbance by smashing his fist on a window on Main Street," Deseronto, Aug. 4, was fined a total of $20 and $3 court costs when he was found guilty of being drunk in a public place. He pleaded not guilty on the grounds that his name had been spelled incorrectly. However, Judge T. Y. Wills would not accept his reason for dismissal and asked the Crown to reapply the charge. "You realize it doesn't mean anything in law," said the Judge.

Four Toronto youths were remanded for trial Sept. 13 on charges of break, enter and theft. Ronald Phillip Payne, 17; Albert Joseph Penny, 16; Eugene Francis White, 17 and Donald Thomas Cormier, 17, were charged in connection with a June break-in at a Glenn Ross home. The four have applied for legal aid.

Horse Stable Burns

Six horses died last night when the show stables of Mr. and Mrs Joseph Webb, Picton, were destroyed by fire of undetermined origin. Valuable harness and equipment were also lost in the blaze.

Six Show Horses Die In Picton Flash Fire

PICTON (Staff) — Six show horses perished last night in a barn fire that wiped out the Ramlih Arabian Stables of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Webb, Picton.

The blaze of undetermined cause, broke out shortly after six p.m. last night in the Bridge Street barn leased by the Webb family from the Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority.

The Picton fire department responded to the alarm with two trucks but could do nothing to save the building which burned in a matter of moments.

Although several persons were on the scene moments after smoke and flames first were spotted in the barn, it was impossible to rescue any of the horses trapped in the inferno.

A pony mare owned by Susan Taylor, Picton, and kept at Ramlih Arabian Stables was the sole survivor of the fire. Miss Taylor lost a saddle horse in the blaze, however.

A standardbred horse owned by Father W. Hamilton, Picton, was led to safety from a small adjoining stable.

Jerry Bond, a Bridge Street resident who lives only a short distance from Ramlih Stables, said he had fed the horse owned by Father Hamilton approximately half an hour before the fire broke out. He did not notice any smoke or flames as he left the barn adjacent to the Webb stable.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb are active promoters of the Arabian horse in the Quinte area and Mr. Webb recently was instrumental in the organization of the Prince Edward Hack and Hunt Club.

Family Travels Exhibition Circuit And Enjoys Every Minute of It

By JIM WILLARD
Staff Reporter

For Marilyn Kalesnikoff it's the spirit of the Big Top, the smell of caramel-topped popcorn, the bustle of crowds as they search for new thrills, the excitement of new adventures and the enthusiasm for travel that bring her and her family back to Belleville each year for the Quinte Exhibition.

The 35-year-old wife of an owner of two refreshment stands has been enjoying the life of the carnival for three summer months for the past 15 years, and enjoys every moment of it.

"Oh, yes, sure it's the thrill of working in these carnivals and exhibitions through out Ontario. It's certainly not for the money. Many of these people working here this week could earn more money working at something else, but they don't," Mrs. Kalesnikoff stated as she helped prepare one of the booths yesterday for today's opening.

"It takes a lot of physical work to travel the circuit, but I think that free people working in the exhibition would care to leave it. Sure, it's hard work, but they like it," she added.

Although the investment needed runs into the thousands of dollars each year, the Kalesnikoffs, from Hamilton, feel that it's worth the effort.

"Just to see these people come out and enjoy themselves, that gives me the enthusiasm to return each year," she emphasized.

They obtain their stock in each local community where they set up their concessions, and in this way, like the other concessions on the site, local merchants certainly benefit

Docks Sought at Park

PICTON (Staff) — Directors of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce have voted to contact Clarke Rollins, MPP, Hastings, to request docking facilities at Adolphus town Park.

It was observed Mr. Rollins, chairman of the Ontario-St. Lawrence Parks Commission, could perhaps assist in securing the needed boat docking facilities in the Ontario - St. Lawrence Parks systems only park lacking a public wharf. Piers already are partially constructed.

Henry Leavens, chairman of the Prince Edward Conservation Authority, added members of his organization are negotiating to purchase "a couple of properties" where boating facilities could be located. He was, however, unable to reveal the location of these land parcels.

This information will be included in a letter to Mr. Rollins as well as the suggestion that the federal government extend its boating facilities from the Thousand Islands to the Bay of Quinte.

Although the exhibition needs the money, Mrs. Kalesnikoff stated, added members of his organization are negotiating to purchase "a couple of properties" where boating facilities could be located. He was, however, unable to reveal the location of these land parcels.

This information will be included in a letter to Mr. Rollins as well as the suggestion that the federal government extend its boating facilities from the Thousand Islands to the Bay of Quinte.

"Well," she laughs heartily, "I got married to a carny. My husband, since he was a teenager, has been involved in the concession business, and I joined in too."

The oldest boy, 15-year-old Greg, is in his second year of travelling the circuit with his parents and helping to run one of the booths.

Donna, the oldest daughter at 13, also helps out in one of the booths, but the two youngest, Nancy, 12, and Rhonda, nine, although with the group, do not work, but simply enjoy the sights of the rides, games and exhibits.

The Kalesnikoffs employ six full-time people on the circuit, and also hire three or four young girls in each community they visit to help serve the customers.

"The concession business like most businesses, does suffer or benefit from economy. If economy is good in a town, then people will spend money and we earn our living. But, in some towns, a lot of people are laid off, and it's hard for them to go to the exhibition when it arrives in their community and spend the money. In those towns, we lose money. But, as I say, we're not necessarily in for the money," she pointed out.

Then, she laughs her hearty laugh, and returns to her family to give whatever help she can give, whether it may be as cashier, cook or chief bottle-washer.

It's evident she enjoys it.

Record Number of Entries at Annual Baby Show

Quinte area Beau Brummells and Beauty Queens of tomorrow tried show business for the first time in the annual baby judging contest held in the lounge of the curling club at exhibition park Monday afternoon.

It was a new experience for the record entry 113 boys and girls, some were laughing, some were crying while others remained silent and watched the action. The activities commenced at 1 p.m.

From the entries, the judges selected Christopher Babcock a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Babcock of RR5, Belleville as the 1971 grand champion. He will receive his award on the platform in front of the grandstand when the exhibition opens officially this afternoon. In qualifying for the title he won the 7-12 month class for boys.

The runner up and judged the champion girl entry was Sheri MacDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacDonald of 285 Dundas Street, W. Trenton. She topped the 7-12 month class for girls.

Parents appeared fresh and eager as they arrived to enter their offspring but at the end the livelier toddlers were the ones who looked fit and ready for more of the same treatment.

Always a favorite with proud parents the baby show is a promotion of the women's division of the Belleville Agricultural Society. It started in 1968 and has been growing in popularity ever since.

The committee in charge of the show this year included Mrs. Douglas Rollins (chairman), Mrs. Eda Denyes, Mrs. Harry Rollins and Mrs. Ron Hamilton.

The judges were Mrs. Anita Storms, Mrs. Doreen Hackett, Mrs. Doris Neal and Mrs. Verna Holgate.

The final results of the judging were as follows: Girls, 3-6 months class, 1. Cathy Carter daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Carter, RR4, Belleville; 2. Lianne McKeown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McKeown, Springbrook; 3. Wendy Whitehead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Whitehead, RR 1, Carrying Place. Girls, 7-12 months class, 1. Sheri MacDonald daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacDonald, 285 Dundas Street, Trenton; 2. Tina Maracle daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Maracle, Shannonville; 3. Kelly Dauter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Dauter, 18 North Park Gardens, Belleville. Girls 13 - 18 months class, 1. Sally Jo Knight daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claire Knight, RR 3, Stirbelleville; 3. Wendy Eley daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Eley, 646 Sidney St., Belleville.

Boys, 3-6 months class, 1. Robert Hitchon son of Mr. and Mrs. David Hitchon, 51 Charlotte Street, Belleville; 2. Mark Harvey son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Harvey, RR 4, Belleville; 3. Kirk Flindall son of Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Flindall, 40 North Front Street, Belleville. Boys, 7-12 months class, 1. Christopher Babcock son of Mr. and Mrs. William Babcock, RR5, Belleville; 2. Shayne Davidson son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davidson, RR1, Corbyville; 3. Steven Cronin son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Cronin, Elmwood Drive, Belleville. Boys, 13-18 months class, 1. Rahul Mishra son of Mr. and Mrs. Somesh Mishra, 41 Campbell Street, Trenton; 2. Stefon Percy son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Percy 142 Bridge Street E., Belleville; 3. David Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Smith, 42 Maple Street, Belleville.

Girls, (twins) 13-18 months class, 1. Julie and Jennifer Armstrong daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Armstrong, 278 Victoria Avenue, Belleville. (Twins) 13 - 18 months class, 1. Mark and Michelle Bondy son and daughter of Mr and Mrs. N. Bondy, 34 Bridge Street W., Belleville.

Line Up of Beauties for Show

Becoming more popular each year the Quinte Exhibition's annual baby show on Monday afternoon attracted a record entry with children from the city and centres in the area vying for an affirmative nod from the judges. Winner of the 1971 grand championship, Christopher Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Babcock of RR 5 Belleville will receive his award at the official opening this afternoon.

Rights of Abortion Stressed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven women's groups and several well-known women have asked the Supreme Court to protect "the right of reproduction autonomy" by permitting medical abortions everywhere in the United States.

In a friend-of-court brief in cases from Georgia and Texas, the organizations and 47 women, including anthropologist Margret Mead, said they were not advocating abortion as a necessarily desirable solution to personal or social problems.

"We do contend, however," they said through a lawyer, "that each woman has the right to make the decision for herself unimpeded by restrictive laws" except for those regulating the practice of medicine.

Later this year the court will hear arguments on the Georgia and Texas cases whose central issue is whether states may continue to say which abortions are legal and which are not. Before that, however, the court must decide if it has jurisdiction to rule.

The brief said fundamental rights of women are in conflict with the laws of nearly all states. By restricting the circumstances for a lawful abortion, the brief said, women are deprived of dignity and equality and compelled to produce "vast numbers of unwanted children."

Additionally, the brief argued, legalizing medical abortions would save lives since illegal abortions generally are performed in unsafe facilities. About 5,000 women die each year from criminal abortions, at the rate of 100 deaths for each 1,000 abortions.

Torn Between Husband And Motherless Family

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 21-year-old girl who needs your help desperately. My husband is in Vietnam. He must serve six months more over there. This separation has been very difficult for both of us. Tom and I were married only 28 days when he got his orders.

Here's the problem. Tom is the oldest in the family. My brothers are 16, 14, 6 and 4. Mom is dying of cancer. She wants me to stay with Dad and take care of the kids after she is gone. She says I am the only person who can care for them properly. Last night she said, "I will rest in peace knowing the little ones will have you to raise them."

ANN LANDERS

I want desperately to be with Tom. He will have another year to serve after he gets back from Vietnam. We have no idea where he will be stationed. I am tortured with indecision. Tom says he'll understand if I want to stay with Dad and the kids.

I know they need me, but so does my husband. And I need him. I've even suggested taking the two little ones with me but Dad wouldn't hear of it.

I am not thinking clearly these days and I need your help. Please. — DIVIDED LOYALTIES

* * *

DEAR D.L.: Stay with the kids until Tom is out of the service. Your youngest brother will be in school full time by then and your Dad can hire someone to come in afternoons, prepare supper and do the laundry. This solution will allow you to leave your family with a clear conscience. You will have given your Dad and the children one year out of your life and no young woman should feel guilty for not giving more. I concede it's a great sacrifice but one you will not regret having made.

* * *

DEAR ANN: The woman next door is ruining my health. Her husband has been in South America on business for three months. About four nights a week she entertains a man I know. My bedroom faces this woman's living room and she and that guy dance until 2 and 3 in the morning. Every night I swear I won't look because I have to get up at 6:00 a.m. But I can't resist the temptation and I am beat the next day. Please print this letter so I can send it anonymously to the husband in South America. Maybe if he knew what was going on he'd come home and I could get my rest. — PERFECT VISION.

* * *

DEAR PERFECT: Your vision might be perfect but you've got nose trouble. Draw your blinds and get some sleep before you collapse.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a practical suggestion for that lady who was insulted because the hostess of the card party (in whose home she played three evenings a week) had a habit of handing her a package of garbage when she left and asked her to drop it in the container when she passed the alley.

Since the girls do not play for money, only for fun, why not make the garbage the booby prize? The person with the low score has to drop in on the way home. This would be not only an incentive but it would make that certain woman feel like less of a garbage collector. — MR. FROM PLUMFIELD.

* * *

DEAR PLUM: Thanks for the suggestion. And now about your language, Lovey. "Garbage Collector" went out with buggy whips and corset stays. Today the title is "Sanitation Engineer."

Things Go from Bad to Worse in His Business

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My husband took over a family business two years ago and I have watched things go from bad to worse.

For the past six months I have been working, and trying to pay off some heavy debts, but things stay about the same. When I bought three of the children new winter coats in February (when they were greatly reduced) he objected strenuously and I guess I'll never hear the end of it.

He makes me feel guilty when I even buy essentials. It doesn't matter what I do, I feel guilty and discouraged.

He talks about selling out and getting a job and I am in full agreement but even this is not easy with the employment situation as it is. I wish he had done it years ago. — Completely Ill.

Dear Ill: If the business is going more and more into the red, why is the selling out part talk? Wouldn't even unemployment be better than piling up more debt? At least then he would be free to devote full time to finding the job he so badly needs.

There's help for people like you. Social workers are past masters at money planning and can help you get organized to whittle down those debts. Don't, for goodness sakes, feel guilty and don't give up hope. Give your husband the moral support and self - confidence he needs to find himself a job; and take over the family finances yourself.

* * *

Dear Doris: Friends of ours are planning their daughter's wedding. Would it be proper for the bride's father to wear a tuxedo when the groom's father will not?

The male attendants are all wearing tuxedos. — Friends of the Bride.

Dear Friends: Fathers of bride and groom dress as the groom does. Likewise all male attendants and ushers.

If the groom's father wants to stand out like a sore thumb, that's his business.

* * *

Dear Doris: This certainly is 24 and I'm 16. Everyone says I have a crush on him.

Now, I've got a crazy mixed-up sensation in the pit of my stomach and bottom of my heart. I think I'm really going crazy. Most of the time I can't stop thinking of him; and sometimes I find fault with him. But no sooner do I see him, than his faults fly out the window and I get all dizzied up. What's know he's coming over I get so nervous my hands turn like ice and my knees shake.

Can you please tell me what's wrong wih me?

Another thing, when he talks to someone (a girl) younger or a little older, I get jealous or something cause I always feel like crying. Am I — Cracking Up?

Dear Cracking Up: Well, you might say you are having a first class teen-age infatuation — a state of mind and body only remotely connected with love, although highly romantic!

I'd like the situation better if your "grand amour" were closer to your own age. A man of 24 knows so much about how to drive a pretty young girl out of her senses!

Cold hands, shaky knees and butterflies in the stomach are recognizable symptoms of your disease. The cure is to start focusing on boys your own age.

Matrimonial Squares Are Family Favorite

By MARY MOORE

Mothers of large families will smile at my astonishment.

I am at Marianne's home and I made a 13 x 9" pan of Matrimonial Squares which came out of the oven at 12:20 p.m. By 12:30 p.m. ¼ of the panful had been cut and eaten hot. By 11 p.m. all were gone. Gary said he could have eaten the whole panful by himself.

The Bottomless Pitts make me realize that thousands of mothers in Canada are waging this kind of losing battle with youthful appetites so it encourages me to keep on and on and on supplying goodies for you and yours.

MATRIMONIAL SQUARES
(13 x 9")

Filling:
1 lb. chopped, pitted dates
1 cup water
1½ cups water
1 tbsp. lemon juice
Dough: ...
¾ cup margarine
1 cup light brown sugar
1¼ cups stirred but unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1½ cups quick-cooking rolled oats

Make the Filling first: In a heavy saucepan combine the four filling ingredients and gently cook, stirring frequently, until it begins to thicken. Cool.

To make the Dough measure into bester bowl the margarine and brown sugar and cream until pale and light. Add all remaining dough ingredients and stir with strong spoon until thoroughly blended. Butter a 13 x 9" pan and tip half of the dough mixture into it. Patiently pat it and push with your moistened palms to make a smooth ¼" thick base. Cover evenly with cooled date filling. (I used a rubber spatula to this.) By hand, sprinkle remaining dough over evenly and gently pat to smoothly cover date filling. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 25 min. until tinged with gold. Cool in pan and cut into 1¼" squares.

Given a chance these will keep if arranged in layers with wax paper between in covered cookie tin.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

RIVER VALLEY WI

RIVER VALLEY — Nineteen members and four visitors enjoyed a tour of the Ameliasburg Museum arranged by the Institute.

The museum building was a former United Church erected in 1858 as a Methodist Church. It contained a wealth of antique articles. The adjoining log house showed a complete kitchen and dining area, parlor and bedroom with furnishings of 100 years ago. A "machinery building in the background held a restored blacksmith shop and a large collection of farm machinery and tools. There were many fenced in enclosures which held animals, pheasants, peacock and guinea hens.

A short meeting was held at the park nearby beside Roblin Lake. Reports were given and plans made to convene at the centre and make the individual gifts for the Link Institute in England.

Mrs. Roy Bush gave a paper on the subject "Keep an Open Mind. There is Always Something to Learn".

Refreshments were provided by Mary Hoard, Margaret Bush, Catharine Donohoe and Essie Tucker.

Mrs. Jack Bush expressed thanks to all who had contributed to the successful event.

Madoc Couple Mark 50 Years of Marriage

MADOC — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bateman of Madoc celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently when they were at home to friends and neighbors at their home, 113 St. Lawrence Street.

Mr. Bateman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Major Bateman and is married to the former Flossie Hyland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hyland, RR 4, Napanee. Their wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents and was officiated by Rev. J. H. Latimer, the Methodist minister. The bridegroom was born and raised at Eldorado. Mr. Bateman was a school teacher and taught near Tamworth, Camden East and Marmora, where she met her husband, who was a successful farmer on the Bateman homestead. They farmed there until March of 1970, when they took up residence in Madoc upon retiring.

The happy union produced one son, Burrell, and six grandchildren, Lloyd, Doreen, Brenda, Kathy, Dale and Lorraine.

The bride's attendant of 50 years ago, Mrs. Luella Kirkpatrick of Rosebush, Michigan, her brother, Carman Hyland of Napanee, also the only brother of the bridegroom, Herb Bateman of Mount Albert were all present for this occasion.

Over 100 cards of congratulations, as well as numerous floral arrangements and lovely gifts were received. Over 200 relatives, friends and neighbors called at their home to extend congratulations. Clarke T. Rollins, MPP, called and presented a framed plaque to the couple on behalf of Honorable William Davis, Prime Minister of Ontario.

Other guests attending from outside of Madoc were from Venfield, N. Y.; Rockdesh, Michigan; Scarborough; Kars, Hagersville; Peterborough, Malton; Newmarket; Hepworth; Deseronto; Napanee; Campbellford; Camden East; Stirling and Tweed.

Lafleur Among Six Newcomers to Sign with Canadiens

MONTREAL (CP) — Six young players, including the top two choices in last June's amateur draft, have come to terms with the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens.

Sam Pollock, general manager of the National Hockey League club announced Monday that forwards Guy Lafleur, Chuck Arnason, and Murray Wilson, defencemen Bob Murray and Larry Robinson and goalie Michel Deguise had signed with the club.

Both Lafleur, a 120-goal scorer with Quebec Remparts of the Quebec Junior A Hockey League, and Arnason, a 79-goal man with Flin Flon Bombers of the Western Canada Hockey League, agreed to two-year pacts.

Lafleur and Gerry Patterson, who helped negotiate the deal, expressed satisfaction with the contract.

"It was a two-year deal and it was very satisfactory," said Patterson, who is also an advisor to Jean Beliveau, who retired as Canadiens' captain earlier this summer.

Arnason negotiated his two-year pact with the help of Bob Woolf, the Boston lawyer, who helped Chuck Lefley and Ray Martyniuk come to terms with the Canadiens last year. Martyniuk and Lefley were Montreal's two top picks in the 1970 amateur draft.

"I'm satisfied with the deal," said Arnason. "My first thought when I was drafted by Canadiens last summer was that I was going to spend a long time in the minors.

"But it's like any other club, if you play well, you will make it."

Wilson was a key man in the strong finish of Ottawa 67s in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior-A series. He is rated as a hard worker by Montreal chief scout Claude Ruel.

Robinson, who stands six feet two inches, was drafted from Kitchener Rangers of the OHA.

Deguise was the top goalie in the Quebec Junior A Hockey League and was a key man in Quebec's win over Edmonton Oil Kings in last spring's Memorial Cup final.

Murray played in the OHA with Peterborough Petes and then went down to Michigan Tech University where he was an All-American last season.

The Canadiens also announced that Bob Wiltkens will take over as the club's physiotherapist replacing Yvon Belanger who has moved to Vancouver.

Williams has been head trainer at the University of Rhode Island.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three 20-year-old players from Montreal Junior Canadiens of the Ontario Hockey Association have signed with Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League, Canuck general manager Bud Poile announced Monday.

The three are Jocelyn Guevremont, Robert Lalonde and Richard Lemieux.

They were the Canucks' first three choices in the amateur draft and will try out at the Canucks' camp in Calgary beginning Sept. 13.

Bombers Can't Break McMahon Turf Jinx

CALGARY (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers failed Monday night to exercise the jinx that has plagued them since the 1963 Western Football Conference playoffs.

The hapless Bombers bowed 30-12 in the conference-leading Calgary Stampeders, the eighth defeat in succession for the lionel Winnipeg Club on McMahon Stadium turf.

It, wasn't for want of trying but a powerful Calgary defence held no trouble containing the Winnipeg offence, directed by Benji Dial who was filling in for injured quarterback Don Jonas.

Calgary quarterback Jerry Keeling connected on 13 of 31 pass attempts and, the victory before 22,405 spectators gave Calgary a six-point margin over the rest of the westWinnipeg, Saskatchewan Roughriders, Edmonton Eskimos, and British Columbia Lions.

There will be a team alone in second place Wednesday night, however, after Edmonton plays B.C. at Vancouver.

Three of Keeling's passes were good for touchdowns, including a 35-yard rocket to Jesse Mims which erased a 3-0 deficit early in the first quarter.

Also good for six points was a seven-yard pass to Gerry Shaw at 12:53 of the second quarter followed by a 25-yarder to end Herm Harrison about 90 seconds later.

Frank Andruski, on a 31-yard pass interception midway ttrough the third quarter, and fullback Hugh Mellon on a three-yard run, got the other Calgary touchdowns.

The Stampeders were ahead 7-5 at the end of the first quarter, added 21 unanswered points in the second and then scored Winnipeg 8-7 in the third. There was no scoring in the fourth.

Larry Robinson hammered four converts through the uprights and Bill Dan Burkloo added two singles, one from 54 yards, to round out the Stampeders tally.

Winnipeg got its only touchdown late in the third quarter when Dial tabbed Bob Lemon from 18 yards out. Jonas, nursing a shoulder injury picked up in Regina last Friday, converted the touchdown and kicked a 50-yard field goal.

Miss Goolagong Upset by Backhander

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TORONTO (CP) — Francoise Durr, exploiting her backhand, upset top-seeded Evonne Goolagong Monday night in the women's singles final at the $70,000 Canadian Open tennis championship.

Miss Durr put her steady game together to win the title 6-4, 6-2 and $4,000 in prize money. Miss Goolagong will have an extra $2,000 in her pocket when she reaches Australia Sunday.

Miss Goolagong, on the road since March, has been aching to return home.

"I was practically there tonight," she said after her match. "Even after Wimbledon, I wanted to rush home and see everybody.

"I'm not surprised at my play tonight. After Wimbledon, I couldn't hit a ball over the net for three weeks. I was expecting it. Most of all I was just glad to be going home now."

Miss Durr, the 25-year-old French champion, challenged Miss Goolagong's concentration from the start by playing to her backhand, the 20-year-old Wimbledon queen's best shot.

Miss Goolagong started strongly by taking the first two games of the opening set but the steady ground strokes of Miss Durr, who had lost to her three times this year, began to take their toll.

She broke Miss Goolagong's service in the fifth, and ninth games to take the opening set and held her own serve in the second set to take the match.

"Evonne seemed to be playing in slow motion," Miss Durr said. "I guess she is looking forward to going home. I could see her backhand was not going too well and that is her strongest shot. She was not really accurate."

Miss Durr had decided before the match that she was going to "try a new thing" and slow down the pace.

"She likes a fast ball," she said. "She made a lot more mistakes this time."

Miss Goolagong didn't start hitting the ball hard until the last two games of the final set, which Miss Durr ended with a winner on her backhand.

Vic Edwards, Miss Goolagong's coach, summed up the match this way: "She didn't attack enough and Frankie played very well."

Edwards added: "Evonne's mind was in Australia."

Miss Durr almost didn't come to Toronto to compete until she heard last Tuesday, was cooler than Indianapolis, Ind., where another tournament was scheduled last week. "And I don't like the heat. How lucky can you get?"

Miss Goolagong showed signs of indifferent play Sunday when she lost the first set of her semi-final against Virginia Wade of England before she triumphed 1-6, 6-3, 6-2.

The fourth-seeded Miss Durr entered the final Saturday when she upset second-seeded Rosemary Casals of San Francisco 6-0, 2-6, 6-2.

In the men's doubles final, the top-seeded duo of Tom Okker of The Netherlands and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., defeated Arthur Ashe of Los Angeles and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., 6-3, 6-3, 6-1.

It was Okker's second payday in a row after he picked up $5,000 for losing the men's singles final Sunday to John Newcombe of Australia.

The eight-day tournament richest ever held in Canada attracted about 33,000 fans.

You're miles ahead with Firestone Riding System Service

$3.95 Disc brakes/ tandem bars extra.

FOUR FRONT END SERVICES

"Right now, $34.95 can make a fantastic difference to your car. And save you money, too."

LIMITED TIME OFFER

1 Front wheel ALIGNMENT

"This can be a big money-saver. The wheel alignment could actually save you the price of a new set of tires. Because if your front wheels are out of true, the tread will soon be scuffed off your tires.

"And, of course, a wheel alignment will also improve the handling and ride of your car.

"What percentage of cars need a wheel alignment? 100% of all cars on the road need a periodic alignment"

2 Install new Monro-Matic front SHOCK ABSORBERS

"Everybody knows that new shock absorbers will do a lot to restore that showroom ride. But new shocks will do a lot more than that. They help to hold your car safely on the road. Improve handling. And protect tires and other Riding System components from damage caused by pounding vibration.

"How can you tell if you need new shock absorbers? Bring your car in and we'll tell you for sure."

3 Front Wheel BALANCE

"Here's another money saver. Because if your wheels are out of balance, your tires are out of luck. Wobbling, bouncing wheels butcher tires to cost you big money. We dynamically and statically balance your wheels to protect you from wobble and bounce."

4 Front wheel BEARING RE-PACK

"When was the last time you had the front wheel bearings checked? Out of sight can be out of mind. And that can lead to problems. We remove the bearings, clean off the caked grease and inspect for signs of wear. Then we re-pack the bearings with top quality grease. This could save you from replacing the bearings to save you more money."

Coffey Second To Catch 600

TORONTO (CP) — Tommy Joe Coffey is far down the list of Eastern Football Conference pass receivers this season with only five receptions.

But the five pushed his career total to 600 to make-him only the second player in professional football history to reach that plateau, according to statistics released by the Canadian Football League this week.

The leading pass receiver is Raymond Berry, who retired in 1967 from Baltimore Colts of the National Football League after catching 631 passes for 9,275 yards.

Coffey gained 8,516 yards for 866 points with his 600 receptions. All three marks are CFL records.

Wayne Giardino of Ottawa Rough Riders leads the conference in pass receiving this season with 11 receptions for 60 yards. Montreal Alouette Bruce Van Ness is next with 10 catches for 122 yards.

Toronto Argonaut rookie Leon McQuay, with five touchdowns for 30 points, leads the conference in that department.

Coffey and Ottawa's Gerry Organ are next with 19 points each. Coffey also leads the conference in field goals, kicking three for an average of 39 yards. Organ booted three but averaged 18.7 yards.

TORONTO (CP) — Greg Fulton, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Football League, said Monday that the CFL regards John Carlos, discussing a contract with Montreal Alouettes, as an import.

"It's up to someone to prove he isn't," said Fulton. "We can't regard him as a non-import unless we have the proof."

Carlos, a sprinter, became known in 1968 when he flashed the black power salute on the United States victory podium during the Olympics at Mexico.

Leo Cahill, head coach of Toronto Argonauts who once had Carlos under contract, can't understand how anyone can believe Carlos rates as a non-import. Although Carlos never played high school or college football, he signed profession ally and trained with Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

MONTREAL (CP) — Don Collison pitched a no-hit, no-run game and scored the winning run in the bottom of the last inning as Ontario defeated Quebec 1-0 in the Canadian Little League championships Monday.

Ontario is represented by a team from Brockville while the Quebec champions are from the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville area in the Eastern Townships.

The Canadian champion will advance to the Little League world series in Williamsport, Pa.

Skelly Skillful

The Falcons swooped to a 5-2 victory over the Station Square Canucks befiind the three goal performance of Ray Skelly in Monday night's Belleville Minor Soccer action.

Bob Thomson fired the other two goals for the winners with Bob Crawford and Gary Doyle answering for the Canucks.

This Place Like Home

Trenton found the neutral grounds more like home Monday night as they stopped Campbellford 6-4 in the first game of a two-of-three Juvenile semi-final series.

John Desormeaux fired two goals for the winners in the game played at the Richard Ellis Arena while John Gravelle, Ron Cole, Greg Scarlett and Rick McFarlane rounded out the winners scoring.

Doug Stillman with two and Brian Condon and Eric Bennett with one each were the Campbellford scorers. Next game of the series will be played Thursday at 8 p.m. in Campbellford.

Industrial Playoffs

Favorites Play True to Form

It was two-to-one for the favorites in Monday night's Industrial Softball League quarterfinal series as Union Carbide and Mead Johnson raff true to form in picking up wins and moving into the semi-finals while the Firemen were hosed down by the Morch Mariners in an upset.

Union Carbide wasted little time in asserting the kind of pressure which brought them the league pennant as they eliminated the Intelligencer with an 11-1 whipping of the Printers.

Junior Day fired his second consecutive win, giving up five hits while fanning five and walking one. Cliff Hineman batted in three runs for the Bakelites with a single and double while Jack Lucas wielded a potent bat in hitting a triple and three singles.

Ron Culloden started the Intell, lasting two innings and giving up five runs before Union team scored in their big second frame. John Edwards batted in one run while allowing four runs and seven hits over the remaining five innings. Bill Hoard and Ed Emerson each had two singles for the Intell with Edwards hitting a double for the loser's only extra base hit.

Mead Johnson rode the strong arm of Sonny Bilo to a 9-1 win over the Unemployment Insurance Commission and into the semi-finals.

Bilo fired a five-hitter and blazed third strikes past 12 batters. He also smashed a triple and single to help his own cause. Ken Lessels drove in four Mead runs with his three singles while Tim Connell had a single and double.

Bernie Coughlin went the route for the losers, giving up 12 hits and fanning three. Brian Chase with a double and Pete Cassidy with two singles were the best batsmen UIC could muster.

Three big runs in the fifth - inning spelled defeat for the Firemen as Morch's eliminated the Smokies with a 6-2 third game win.

Wilson Bolpit threw a three - hitter as the Firemen striking out two and walking the same number. Glen Reynolds was the big gun for Morch's hitting with two run single. Bolpit had a double with Ray Marsh and Glen Barberstock adding a single each.

Perry Soule was tagged with the loss for the Firemen.

League semi - finals commence Wednesday when Union Carbide play Morch's. Mead Johnson battle the CN Firemen on Thursday in the other half of the playoffs.

Little Innings Win

Latta found that four little innings were better than one big inning in Monday night's fifth game of their South Hastings Baseball semi-finals.

Latta scored two runs in the second and fifth and one in the third and sixth to counter-balance a five run second inning for Read en route to a 6-5 win and a three - two lead in the best of seven series.

Glen McMeechan was the hero for Latta, doubling in the sixth inning to drive in the winning run. Keith Dickey had a double with Bob Smith, Mike Mayhew, Damon Richardson and Dave Chapman adding singles to the winners cause.

John Masterson and Bob Smith shared the pitching chores combining for three killings while allowing only seven hits and two walks.

Frank Farrell and Harold Pascoe were on the Read mound sharing six hits and fanning three. Pete Enright had a double and, single, Pascoe and Pat O'Connell had two singles each and Coffey a single for the losers.

Next game in the best-of-seven series will be Wednesday night in Read.

Uppers Bite In

The top teams got hot Monday night to walk away with convincing opening game wins in the Belleville Minor Lacrosse bantam play - offs.

Roger Chapman pumped in four goals to lead Simpsons Sears to an 8-3 whipping of Bob's Sports. Don Bruce and Fred Manning fired two goals apiece for the winners.

Brent Wellesley with two and Brian Hamilton with one were the Bob's scorers.

Five different players got in to the act in Towers Ford City's 7-1 mauling of Bud Gill Appliances. Hyderman and Male each had two goals for the winners with Lowe, Murphy and Colden adding singles.

Rob Richardson was the only Bud Gill player to break Towers' defences.

Meanwhile in the peewee semi - finals Daley Queen belted the Y's Men Club 7-3 and the Police balled the RCAF T-Birds 3-1.

Jeff Runciman with three and Robbie Cousins with two paced the Queens to victory, while Greg Ripley, Larry Inwood and Randy Hutchinson were the Police marksmen.

Tony Parks and Brian Cronkright fired Plane's 19-5 win over Richard Ellis, striking out 17. Jonathon Dent and James Forester fanned 15 in taking the loss.

In a tyke playoff game, Hopkin's Wreckers were out hit ten to five but still came up with a 10-8 win over Harvey's.

The C.N. Yardmen peewees started their best-of-three series with Farrell Motors off on the right track by stopping the Motors 10-8.

Peter Hall and Dennis Green hurled the win striking out 14 and walking two. Hall also pounded out a homer, triple and single for the winners. Clyde Routley and Joe Molaski took the loss for Farrell's.

Drives in Four

Stargell Finds Range

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie Stargell felt the vibrations—and Houston Astros got the shock.

Stargell, the major league leader in home runs with 41 and in runs batted in with 108, cracked three singles and a double and drove in four runs Monday night, pacing Pittsburgh Pirates to an 8-3 victory over the Astros.

Jenkins, the winningest pitcher in the National League, slowed closer to his fifth consecutive 20-game season, hurling a two-hitter for his 19th victory as Chicago Cubs blanked Atlanta Braves 3-0—with the help of a two-run double by the big right-hander.

The powerful 6-4½, 215-pound Stargell had been in a recent slump, going 18 days without a homer, before crashing two against St. Louis Sunday. He then felt he had shaken his slump.

"I could feel it when I picked up a bat," he said. "My strength was coming back. Somehow when I do that a message goes to my brain and tells me if I'm ready to hit or not."

The Pirates broke open the game with four runs in he fifth when Cash walked, Davalillo smashed his second triple, Al Oliver walked, Stargell doubled

Fenway Fence Finally Friendly

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Conigliaro whipped a three-run homer in the bottom of the 10th inning Monday night, moving Boston Red Sox to a see-saw 6-5 victory over California.

The homer, Conigliaro's ninth of the season, sailed over Fenway Park's friendly left field screen, which hadn't been so friendly for the Red Sox had dropped seven straight—all of them at home.

The Sox had rallied for three runs in the seventh inning on homers by George Scott and Joe Lahoud to wipe out a 1-0 California lead. But the Angels bounced right back for four in the eighth after an error by Luis Aparicio opened the doors.

That made it 5-3 California going into the ninth but Rico Petrocelli and Scott opened with singles and Conigliaro zipped a 3-2 pitch for his game-winning homer.

"That just might be the hardest ball I ever hit," decided the outfielder, who celebrated his 26th birthday Sunday.

It was Conigliaro's first home run since June 9 and first game-winning hit since April 12.

Three-hitters Highlight Opening Wins

A pair of three - hitters sparked Cabelevue and Plane's Concrete to first game wins in Belleville Minor Baseball tadpole playoffs Monday night as the favorites came through.

Lorne Andrews and Mike Leger picked up the Cabelevue 15-5 win over Wannamaker's Esso. The pair fanned 19 and walked four. Leger pounded a homer, triple and single with Andrews add-

The City Women's Softball League pennant winners opened their semi - final play-off series with the Dairy Queen Monday night with a 7-6 squeaker.

Nora Barberstock and Donna Brant hurled the win allowing seven hits and fanning four. Sharlene Quinn smashed a double and two home runs to lead Wesse's at the plate, Lillian Barberstock had a double and single and Leah Harper two singles.

Mari-anne Sills gave up 11 hits in taking the loss. She fanned four and walked six. Cathy Brown punched a homer and two singles for the losers.

Ernie Tuck Squirts Change Favorites

Two finals were played in Monday night's Belleville Minor Softball squirt play-offs with one going according to plan while the other one went against all expectations.

East Hill pennant winners, Stephen-Licence remained on the winning trail stopping Wray's Furniture 8-3. Doug Campbell and Pat Willman had a home run for the winners while Andy Plane pounded a four - bagger in a losing effort.

A pitchers' duel highlighted the first game of the West Hill finals as Ernie Tuck Appliances blanked pennant-winning Doug Jones' Jewellers 4-0. Tim Soule fired no - hit ball for five innings and wound up with a one hit, 18 strikout win for Tuck's. He also cranked a home run to win his own ball game.

Danny Vance struck out 13 batters for Doug Jones.

The Kinsmen teams started off the city tyke play - offs on a winning note as the Bobcats tok Gib Wake Trailers 20-12 in the West Hill and the Hawks stopped A and W Drive - in 12-9 in the East Hill finals.

Dan Rose struck out 14 and belted a home run in the Bobcats win. Scott Price, Steve Taylor and John Munkittrick each had homers in a losing effort.

Bayview in Mood

Bayview Orchards got into the mood for the forthcoming Prince Edward North Shore Softball League play-offs by knocking Foleys 8-5, Monday night in the final regular season game of the year.

The runaway pennant winners open their best of seven semi-finals with Hillier Wednesday night.

A six-run explosion in the fifth inning gave the winners a commanding 6-0 lead which proved to be insurmountable. Randy Dempsey had two hits and Jim Redner a home run to pace the winners at the plate.

Steve Doxtator gave up nine hits on the Bayview mound while fanning three and walking two.

Dan Nash, Bob Manlken and Roy Doxtator each had two safeties for Foleys.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Good heavens, we've been robbed!"

Doctor's Can't Match Welby's Bedside Style

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marcus Welby, M.D., is running into the same complaints that used to bug Dr. Casey and Kildare.

"I find that doctors complain some about the series," reported Robert Young, who plays the title role in ABC's popular medical series. "It seems that their patients tell them that they aren't as compassionate as Welby—who makes night calls at 1 a.m. and often spends whole days or nights at the bedside of a sick person."

He said he felt he was in no position to take a stand on the subject or even to have an opinion.

"I am no more familiar with the medical profession and its problems than I was before the series started three seasons ago. But if I answer complaints by saying that I feel the doctors of this country are doing a fantastic job, it would sound like a whitewash.

"The truth is, of course, that we can show in a series only a fragment of life. In television, we are telling a story, a dramatic story. We realize that in real life it would not be possible for a busy doctor with many patients to stay with one of them all day or all night."

Each series segment tells a story that involves two or three persons—usually a patient and his family. Dr. Welby is usually very much in evidence.

"If he isn't there, the viewer is not involved, and if the viewer doesn't care, all is lost," the actor explained. "Welby's concentration on one patient at a time is simply a bit of dramatic licence."

Young, a film star before his first hit TV series, Father Knows Best, is enjoying at 63 his second big success.

Movie Magnate Dies

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Spyros P. Skouras, 76, one of the last of Hollywood's old-style movie magnates, died at his home Monday night of a heart attack.

The son of a sheepherder, the Greek immigrant parlayed a nickelodeon theatre into the presidency of the 20th Century-Fox.

After retiring as honorary board chairman of Fox in 1969, Skouras devoted himself to his shipping interests as chairman of the Prudential-Grace Lines.

Skouras was born in Skourochorion, Greece, in 1893. The shepherd boy studied for the priesthood, but he and his brothers, Charles and George, were eager to seek their fortunes in America.

Charles, the oldest brother, came to the United States in 1907 and brought his brothers over in 1910. The three lived in St. Louis, where young Spyros worked as a hotel busboy.

In 1914, the brothers bought a bounce, Australia, medical conference.

financial trouble. They prospered and built a string of 27 theatres in St. Louis, Kansas City and Indianapolis.

After Warner Brothers bought the chain, the brothers went their separate ways in the film industry. In 1932, Spyros took over the Fox Metropolitan Theatres in New York.

He moved up to the presidency of the parent company in 1942 for a 20-year reign as chief of the studio, commanding a salary of $250,000 a year.

Skouras was particularly proud of having produced the first Cinemascope movie, The Robe, in 1952.

He resigned as president in 1962.

The other Skouras brothers died several years ago.

More People Riding Horses
Than Did During
The Time of Wyatt Earp !
Maybe it is the increased leisure time we have these days, maybe it's the high cost of living, maybe it's the natural result of ecological trends, whatever it is, more and more people are riding horseback today than ever before in the history of man.
And more horses are being bought and sold than ever before. Perhaps some of our newspaper ads can help you.
If you are interested in buying or selling a horse, or in boarding your horse at a stable where it will be cared for and exercised regularly. The market place is the place your ad is best seen and not far classified.

Money-changers Only Trying To Protect Firms' Reserves

LONDON (AP) — Only in movies and the imagination can you find a back-street money changers with enough cash to manipulate currency exchanges and undermine the strength of the U.S. dollar.

In European financial centres you will find highly-paid financial executives for multi-national companies. Their job is to protect their companies' financial reserves by keeping them in a strong currency.

The buying and selling this requires is what President Nixon called "an all-out war on the American dollar." For the executives involved, it's not war or even speculation. It's making sure no one pulls the rug from under their company's bank accounts.

Kurt Hansen, chairman of West Germany's giant Bayer Chemical Corp., said that if Bayer failed to "play the money market, "my shareholders would hang me."

Many other big companies — trading firms, automobile manufacturers, oil companies — feel the same way. They hold enormous cash reserves and would be hard-put to explain to shareholders why the reserves didn't grow, or why they suddenly sank 10 per cent one night when some currency was devalued.

So they trade legally. They buy and sell currencies in chunks of millions of dollars.

Some $50 billion is constantly on the move among Europe's financial capitals.

About $40 billion is in Eurodollars, the name given to U.S. dollars held in European bank accounts.

If a French cheese distributor sells $500,000 worth of Camembert to U.S. stores, for example, the dollars he is paid contribute to the $500,000 to the Eurodollar market.

It was the continued repetition of such sales—and the consequent accumulation of dollars in Europe—that led many money managers to feel a glut on the dollar market last spring. As the supply grew, the demand fell.

Some of the financial executives began selling their dollars to buy French francs or German marks. To do so, they had only to telephone their bankers. The bank sent an order to its correspondent bank in another country, an account was credited or debited, and the deal was closed.

These shifts, counted in millions of dollars, raised the pressure on the United States to devalue its dollar—to make it less valuable in relation to the other currencies and thus more in line with the demand and supply experienced by the financial executives.

Red China Tries to Make It Easy for U.S. to Cut Taiwan Tie

By ROLAND DALLAS

HONG KONG (Reuter) — China has apparently adopted a careful strategy aimed at enabling the United States to disengage itself from the Nationalist government on Taiwan, say usually reliable sources in Hong Kong.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai has said that if Taiwan came under the sovereignty of Peking, its people would be rewarded. He has also praised Nationalist leader Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek as a man who can stand up to American pressure and who has a sense of national respect.

And American writer Edgar Snow, who earlier this year published an interview with Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung foreshadowing the visit of President Nixon to Peking, recently suggested that contacts may have taken place between the Chinese Communists and Nationalists.

China has been coupling these conciliatory gestures with a steady pressure on Washington to withdraw support from the Nationalists to gain instead a working relationship with Peking.

Chou has rejected a two-China policy at the United Nations, as proposed by U.S. State Secretary William P. Rogers, and says China would not join the world body if Taiwan was still there. He says China must settle the Taiwan issue as an internal matter.

This means the U.S. must withdraw its troops from Taiwan and end its token patrol of the Taiwan Strait.

U.S. businessmen in Hong Kong who ask the China Travel Service here for visas are told they will not get them while there are U.S. troops on Chinese soil—an allusion to Taiwan.

Diplomatic observers here believe Chou's careful strategy is aimed at presenting to world opinion the Chinese position that Taiwan is an internal issue and will be resolved by the Chinese people themselves without bloodshed or hardship.

The first step in Chou's public approaches to Washington about Taiwan came in June in an interview with Seymour Topping of the New York Times.

Chou suggested then that if the Peking government assumed control over Taiwan, officials would receive the same salaries but would not have to pay income tax.

Then in an interview with James Reston of the Times, Chou said he was well acquainted with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The generalissimo could stand up to American pressure and had a sense of national respect, unlike some of the people around him, as the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency could testify, Chou said.

This was aken here as indicating Chou believes Chiang continues to endorse the position that the mainland and Taiwan are indivisibly part of one China while some of his aides may tend towards separatism.

Chou coupled his conciliatory words about Chiang with harsh criticism of Japan, which he said "wants to control Taiwan in her hands."

This was taken here as an indication that Chou might be anxious to reach an accommodation with the 83-year-old Chiang before he is succeeded by younger men.

Economic Committee Meets

The cabinet's economic policy committee was called into special session Monday in Ottawa to study the effects of President Nixon's new economic policies on Canada. Among those in attendance were (left to right) John Young, chairman of the prices and incomes commission, Trade Minister Jean-Luz Pepin, acting prime minister Mitchell Sharp and Louis Rasminsky, Governor of the Bank of Canada. Retaliation by Canada Is Seen Possible Result of U.S. Move

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Retaliation by the Canadian government was predicted Monday as one possible result of economic controls instituted in the United States.

Jean-Louis Gervais, president of the Canadian Importers Association, advised members Monday to move quickly in clearing goods now in the process of being moved through customs.

He said it is possible that as a result of a 10-per-cent surcharge on imports on many items by the U.S., some retaliatory surcharges may be imposed by Canada on U.S. imports.

Other predictions of possible results of the economic controls announced Sunday night by President Richard Nixon included higher unemployment and an effective freeze on Canadian prices.

Estimates were that more than one-quarter of Canada's exports to the U.S. will be hit by the surcharge. This may make many Canadian companies less competitive and jobs in Canada may be at stake.

Initial reaction from businessmen was that manufacturing companies and international traders would suffer. Automobile companies were the notable exceptions among manufacturers.

Officials in the resource industries were still attempting Monday to assess how specific products would be affected.

President Nixon also announced wage-price-rent controls in the U.S. for 90 days. He said his government will suspend temporarily the purchase of gold at $35 an ounce and called for talks to change the alignment of world currency values.

J. C. Whitelaw, executive vice-president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said more than 13 billion worth of Canadian exports—out of a total of $11 billion annually—will be directly affected by the surcharge. About 70 per cent of total Canadian trade is with the United States.

He said the situation would be aggravated if the value of the Canadian dollar increases in relation to the U.S. dollar.

The dollar gained about one-third of a cent in trading on Canadian markets Monday to close at 99.25 cents U.S.

Mr. Whitelaw said production costs in the U.S. now may fall below Canadian levels.

This, combined with the higher productivity of U.S. industry, could retard expansion of industrial production in Canada and thus restrict employment opportunities here," he said.

"In the short run, the U.S. wage-price freeze imposes a lid on Canadian prices—but not on Canadian wages. Our manufacturers cannot raise their prices while those of U.S. competitors are frozen."

Pat Reynolds, president of Bethlehem Copper Corp. of Vancouver, said the U.S. wage-price freeze might nudge the Canadian government in the same direction.

"As far as controls are concerned, this had to come," he said. "The U.S. government realizes something our government doesn't—that it is business that creates jobs."

J. D. Moore, general manager of the Canadian Export Association, said he believes there will be three basic exemptions to the 10-per-cent surcharge: Goods not previously subject to duty; automobile parts moving under the Canada-U.S. automotive agreement, and goods not subject to U.S. import quotas, such as oil and dairy products.

The major product groups which are "really going to suffer," he said, are aviation products, lumber, computer components and communications and transport equipment.

Robert D. Richmond, president of Douglas Aircraft of Canada Ltd., Toronto, said the company may have to do some "severe belt-tightening" as a result of the 10-per-cent surcharge.

Douglas Aircraft has a $500-million contract to build DC-9 and DC-10 wings for its parent company, McDonnell Douglas Corp. of St. Louis.

Under the contract, says Mr. Richmond, Douglas Aircraft would have to pay the surcharge.

"Taking 10 per cent out is a tough business."

Thor E. Stephenson, president of United Aircraft of Canada Ltd., Montreal, says a large amount of its exports would become dutiable and would be thrown into a less-competitive position.

"If the new 10-per-cent duty is to last for only 90 days, we can live with it, but we do not yet know if we can absorb it internally."

Gerelen Draeseke, president of the Council of Forest Industries of British Columbia, said more than half of all forest products shipped to the U.S. would be hit with the 10-per-cent surcharge.

"The surtax has serious implications. . . . And of course there is the added concern of the exchange rate of the U.S. dollar.

Included in President Nixon's economic controls package was a proposal that the U.S. Congress repeal the excise tax on automobiles, which averages about $200 a car.

"Anything that increases sales in the U.S. makes us optimistic," a spokesman for General Motors of Canada Ltd. said.

A spokesman for Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. said a substantial increase in employment was not likely if demand in the U.S. increased, because Ford could not add extra shifts. Any increase in production would come mainly from overtime.

A Chrysler Canada Ltd. spokesman said the company "is not have "idle capacity."

Canada exported about $1.75 billion worth of cars, trucks and automotive parts to the U.S. during the first five months of this year and imported about $1.65 billion worth during the same period.

James Dykes, general manager of the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, said increased production of cars in Canada "is a likely result in an integrated scheme such as ours."

Such benefits, however, might be eroded if the U.S. dollar declines markedly in relation to the Canadian dollar.

Robert Varah, director of commercial development for Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. of Hamilton, said the company expects immediate effects from the economic controls "to be minimal," mainly because the auto pact is unaffected.

C. Carson Weeks, vice-president of marketing for Algoma Steel Corp. of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., said he had not yet been able to get a clear definition of the intended effect of the import surcharges, despite discussion with several customs brokers.

Gerald Hobbs, vice-president of Comineo Ltd. of Montreal, said "we'll have to look at the situation metal by metal and see what the U.S. domestic and potential production is.

"It could be very serious to supplies of all commodities to the United States because, in effect, it provides a 10-per-cent subsidy for domestic products."

Grossman Wants Ottawa To Seek Tax Exemption

TORONTO (CP) — Allan Grossman, Ontario minister of trade and development, said Monday that his department will ask Ottawa to urge the United States government to exempt Canadian imports from a 10-per cent surcharge announced Sunday by U.S. President Richard Nixon.

He said officials from his department will meet with federal government officials in Ottawa today to discuss action to limit the impact which the new U.S. economic policies will have on Canada, and specifically, Ontario.

He said 1.3 billion of Ontario exports to the U.S. will be subject to the surcharge.

The new economic policies will have a serious impact on the Ontario economy, he said, but the full impact cannot be assessed until it is known exactly what exports will be exempted from the surcharge. Mr. Nixon said that raw materials, as well as autos and auto parts will be exempted.

Davis Orders Report

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (CP)— Premier William Davis has asked the provincial department of treasury and economics for a report on the probable impact on Ontario of President Richard Nixon's announcement Sunday that the United States will place a 10 per cent additional tax on imports.

Ontario Tobacco Harvest Underway

By JOHN WILDGUST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ontario's tobacco harvest is in full swing this month, and although fewer jobs are available due to reduced acreage, the problems of over- or under-employment seem to have been solved this year.

Tony Murphy, manager of the Canadian Manpower office at Tillsonburg in the heart of southwestern Ontario's tobacco land, said "there's a very agreeable supply and demand" on the labor scene this year.

An estimated 28,000 persons will be employed in the harvest this year, compared with 30,000 who found work in the fields last year.

The work is easier this year, said Mr. Murphy, because of expanded use of a machine called the tobacco primer aid. It allows pickers, or "primers" as they are known in the industry, to ride through the fields, plucking the leaves as they ripen at the bottom of the plant.

Previously, priming was a backbreaking job of walking, bending to pick and toting the green leaves under one arm.

"Well over 50 per cent of he labor required will be area people," said Mr. Murphy. Other workers have come in response to advertisements in Quebec, the Maritimes and Northern Ontario.

Last year there was a surplus of workers for harvesting jobs which pay $16 to $20, including room and board, for a 7-a.m.- to-4-p.m. working day.

About one-third of the workers last year were students who earned about $6 million and Mr. Murphy said the ratio of students to other laborers would be about the same this season.

L. S. Vickery, director of the federal government tobacco research station at Delhi, said overproduction in the last three years was responsible for the reduced acreage this year.

The Ontario Flue Cured Tobacco Growers' Marketing Board, which decides the acreage to be planted, said completion of the harvest will be about a week later than in 1970. It began in the first week of August this year and will be completed by mid or late September.

Dry weather contributed to the lateness of the crop this year, said Mr. Vickery, and some farmers have irrigated their land four or five times.

But he said there was no reason to expect yields lower than last year's record 2,150 pounds an acre.

"If the weather is with us, there should be a pretty good crop again."

A marketing board official said this year's crop is likely to be 175 million or 180 million pounds, compared with the 200-million-pound crop of 1970.

A computer will establish the delivery schedule this year for the first time, eliminating the traditional rush by farmers to bring their crop to the fall auction.

Cedar Trees Attacked By Microscopic Larva

TORONTO (CP) — The cedar leaf miner, a microscopic larva which feeds on cedar trees and can eventually destroy them, is flourishing in parts of southern Ontario.

R. B. Turner, supervisor of pest control for the department of lands and forests, said Monday major infestation is reported in an area stretching from Kingston to the Quebec border.

"There are other isolated areas in the south but they are not as severe," he said.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am 26, have one child. It was easy to get pregnant the first time — by that I mean once we decided to have a baby, that was it.

But four years have now passed and I don't seem to be able to get pregnant again. During the past three years I have been having increasingly intense pain during my menstrual periods. My doctor suspects that I have what he calls endometriosis.

He advises that I take hormones for awhile to control it. Then, later on, I may be able to become pregnant again. I will appreciate a few of your thoughts about endometriosis. Thank you. — Mrs. K.

• • •

COMMENT: Let's try not to get too technical in explaining this. Normally, the covering of the inside of the uterus (endometrium) is shed every month during menstruation. Then a new lining begins to form to prepare for possible pregnancy the following month.

In some rare instance small parts of the endometrium pass up the Fallopian tubes and are deposited in the cavity of the abdomen. Here they may become attached to an ovary, the bladder, the bowel wall or to the peritoneum. Each time menstruation occurs these bits of tissue behave like the endometrium in the uterus.

And the symptoms they produce depend upon the areas where they have become imbedded. For example, one patient may have bladder symptoms; another, trouble with her bowels. Peritoneal irritation may cause dull pain. In some cases, the pain becomes so bad it emulates an emergency like acute appendicitis.

Fortunately, most cases of menstrual pain (dysmenorrhea) are not due to endometriosis. However, when it is present, a trial with hormones — as your doctor suggested — is often effective treatment; operation is not always essential. When the hormones are discontinued, pregnancy may follow later.

For Mrs. E.: You are correct. Eggs, well refrigerated, can be stored for at least two weeks. Preferably, however, they should be used within a week if you prefer top flavor. If the eggs have been hard-boiled; it is best not to leave them uneaten in the refrigerator for longer than a few days.

For Mrs. J.: It is true many cases of histoplasmosis are undiscovered until routine X rays of the lungs have been taken. The usual source of the disease is a fungus — sometimes found in dusty environments, usually at work, or as a mold in the soil.

Occasionally, it mimics tuberculosis, when the patient coughs up blood, has fever and a chronic cough. Nevertheless, it is not ordinarily contagious.

Therefore, I see little reason to fear an occasional visit to your grandchildren because X rays show you have it. To put your mind at ease, why not ask your doctor?

For Miss M.: Here's a tip the next time you step on a stingray while cavorting in the ocean. It may save you from much pain.

As first aid treatment, remove all the particles around the wound and in the wound by irrigating with salt water. Then immerse the foot for 30 to 60 minutes in a bucket of water as hot as you can bear. This may prevent the spread of the poison pain which usually occurs within an hour or two of the sting and lasts from 24 to 48 hours. It may also prevent weakness, faintness and vomiting. Meanwhile have arrangements made for a visit to a doctor's office or to a hospital emergency room.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Aug. 18

Your birthday today: The year ahead finds you in the same general areas where things break. Use every minute of spare time to check out experimental developments — search for greater efficiency. When you get into clear sailing there will be no time for such detailed studies. Today's natives tend to deal in large ventures and are extremely prudent until they suddenly reverse themselves briefly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Business-like pragmatism is the key to progress in today's heavy going. Quietly discard whatever no longer works.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Associates choose up fresh sides over issues never before raised. Some change their attitude toward you.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Payoff on long-standing matters is apt to come abruptly. Claim credit for your earlier endeavors. Refinance your outlays.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Patience and determined effort are needed to get better conditions established for your earnings and their effective application.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): You have to mediate discrepancies between different aims. Something of the situation brings home a lesson for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Picking an argument easily comes as a byproduct of continuing frustration with your own limitations — which will remain after you've quarreled and made peace again. Why argue?

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 2): Gifts as tokens of love and esteem are never out of season. This is a prime time to express yourself thus.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Insight leaps ahead of logic. Act on it, particularly when following up yesterday's general commotion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Compensation for yesterday's hindrance comes as compliments, flattery — to be taken no more seriously, rather much less so.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Before you realize it, several activities are going on at once. You needn't expect to get much done on anything.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20—Feb. 18): Today's operations provide a basis for future plans. Many questions are suddenly answered if you pose them correctly.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): A streak of lively prosperity promises excitement and what is generally called "luck" for you today.

CRTC Plans Hearings On Canadian Content

OTTAWA (CP) — A proposed revision—and softening—of Canadian-content regulations for private television broadcasters will be the subject of public hearings to open in Toronto Sept. 21, the Canadian Radio-Television Commission announced Monday.

The revisions, outlined in April by commission chairman Pierre Juneau, are intended to modify the impact on private broadcasters of Canadian-content rules to come into effect Oct. 1.

The new regulations would still require that, as of Oct. 1, 50 per cent of programming must be made in Canada. The Canadian-content minimum would rise to 60 per cent Oct. 1, 1972.

Proposed amendments to the regulations, however, would give broadcasters much greater freedom in working the Canadian content into their schedules and would also, in effect, permit more use of U.S. programming than originally planned.

Broadcasters would be permitted to meet their Canadian-content requirements on a yearly basis rather than every three months—an opportunity to beef up credit early in the year with extensive football and hockey coverage.

Another move would increase the allowance for U.S. programming to 45 per cent rather than 35 per cent, with the quota dropping to 30 per cent after Oct. 1, 1972.

Restrictions on prime-time scheduling of foreign programs would also be relaxed. U.S.-made programs would be permitted to take up 45 per cent of the time between 6 p.m. and midnight rather than 40 per cent of the time between 6:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m.

Broadcasters would also be given greater flexibility in the timing of commercials. The limit of five commercial breaks each hour would be removed and program promotion would not be included as advertising.

A change described by a CRTC official as a move to encourage longer news programs would permit a commercial break in the middle of news programs of 20 minutes in length.

The proposed amendments also add older to the list of alcoholic beverages for which a province may ban advertising.

Great Lakes Parley Held

Stronger Joint Control of Pollution Urged

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (CP) — Increased co-operation between states and provinces in the control of all kinds of pollution, and a strengthened International Joint Commission were proposed Monday to the second Great Lakes Environmental Conference.

Although most of the emphasis was on pollution of the Great Lakes themselves, Ontario Premier William Davis suggested that attention also be paid to the pollution carried in the air above the lakes.

He proposed that air pollution control agencies in Michigan and Ontario get together to draw up a program for control of air emissions that cross international boundaries in the Detroit-Windsor and Sarnia-Port Huron areas.

The Ontario resolution to be considered today is one of about a dozen aimed at expressing provincial and state opinions to Ottawa and Washington before the federal governments sign an international pact this fall to clean up the Great Lakes.

Davis said the resolution would "show everyone that we are not so preoccupied with the pollution of the Great Lakes water that we are blind to the pollution of the air."

Premier Davis joined the governors of Michigan, Wisconsin Ohio, and Minnesota, and representatives of Quebec, Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania and Indiana for the two-day talks.

The Wisconsin delegation, led by Governor Patrick Lucey, decided late Monday night to ask that Lake Michigan be included in any anti-pollution agreement between the United States and Canada.

Michigan Governor William Milliken said Tuesday he could see "no reason why not," although Lake Michigan has been regarded as an American rather than a joint responsibility because it is located entirely in the U.S.

Four resolutions, advanced by an ad hoc committee chaired by George Kerr, Ontario's minister of the environment, asked the federal governments to strengthen the role of the International Joint Commission.

"While we strongly endorse the signing of the pollution-control agreement by our two national governments, we believe we can most effectively control pollution by co-operating closely at the state-provincial level and by ensuring that state and provincial concerns are dealt with through an IJC water-quality control board," said Governor Milliken.

The states and provinces want the IJC to co-ordinate water control activities, recommend legislation, make public reports and point out industrial polluters to the appropriate water control agencies. They suggest it be given adequate independent research staff.

They support the suggestion that the IJC begin studying the upper Great Lakes—Huron and Superior—as well.

Other resolutions urge all levels of government to expand shore-land planning control and to bring in stringent legislation to control waste from ships and boats.

A resolution from Illinois asks the national governments to provide more money for municipalities to construct sewage-treatment plants and sewers.

Last Friday Canada and Ontario agreed to ensure that Ontario municipalities spend $200 million on these projects by 1976.

Alex Davidson, assistant deputy minister of the federal environment department, told delegates the agreement was signed "on the assumption that Canada and the U.S. would give a full financial commitment" in the international pact this fall.

So far there has been no public indication of what the U.S. federal government plans to spend. It has been estimated the U.S. will need to spend $2 billion on the cleanup.

Maritime Co-operation Planned

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Steps to foster closer co-operation among the three Maritime provinces were announced here Monday but the provincial premiers said they were not yet ready to decide on political union.

Announcements of joint undertakings, including several in the area of industrial development, came at the close of a two-day meeting of the Council of Maritime Premiers.

Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick said after the meeting he was optimistic and believed real advantages could be gained from a political union. But he said more information would be needed before any decision could be reached.

Premiers Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia and Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island said closer co-operation in the region might be "an end in itself." Neither had been convinced that political union was necessary at this time.

Judge Quashes Duke Charge

Breathalyzer Not Valid Unless Sample Is Given

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court judge quashed a charge of impaired driving Monday, ruling that charges based on breath analysis tests violate the Canadian Bill of Rights.

Mr. Justice Patrick Galligan quashed the charge against Oakville businessman George Clinton Duke.

The judge said Duke was given no opportunity to "test or challenge a machine" because Oakville police could not provide him with a sample of his breath for his defence in court.

Duke's lawyer, Harvey Dexter, said the decision "means the breathalyzer is finished in Ontario."

Deputy Attorney General Randall Dick said in an interview Monday the Crown will appeal the ruling to the Ontario Court of Appeals.

"This legislation is still the law of the land and it will still govern the situation. But the matter will be appealed and I think that is all I have to say on it." Mr. Dick said.

But Deputy Police Chief John Murray said the issue had been settled in November, 1969, when the Supreme Court of Canada ruled that the section of the law dealing with the provision of samples to the person charged had never been proclaimed, and therefore could not be used as a defence.

However, in his 12-page written decision, Mr. Justice Galligan said: "I have come to the conclusion that the specific issue before me was not decided by the Supreme Court of Canada and that I must therefore consider it.

"It is beyond me to understand how a person accused of an offence of having an accumulation of alcohol in his blood in excess of a given portion would be in a position to test, challenge or deny the calculation of the breathalyzer unless he had a sample of the material put into the breathalyzer to have it tested by an expert of his own choice. . . ."

Duke, owner of a company that manufactures lawn equipment, was charged with impaired driving March 11. His lawyer argued in a motion to Ontario Supreme Court that he had been denied a right to a full defence because police were unable to give him a sample of his breath for independent analysis.

Mr. Justice Galligan said both police and Crown prosecutors had acknowledged it was impossible to provide Duke with a sample of his breath.

The original legislation regarding breath analysis tests contained a clause which said the accused should be provided with a sample of his breath for independent analysis.

The clause was dropped from the legislation proclaimed in amendments to the Criminal Code because no one had come up with a practical container to hold a breath sample.

Mr. Justice Galligan's judgment was the second Ontario Supreme Court decision in a week to challenge the validity of breath analysis evidence.

Last Monday, Mr. Justice Edson Haines ruled that a driver has the right to refuse to blow into the breath machine without first consulting his lawyer.

Ontario Attorney-General Allan Lawrence has announced he will appeal the Haines decision to the Ontario Court of Appeal. He was not available for comment on the Galligan decision.

Man and Wife Alone On Jumbo Jet Flight

TORONTO (CP) — Harold Craig and his wife had their choice of 358 seats aboard a Toronto-to-London flight Sunday.

They were the only passengers on the BOAC 747 jumbo jet aircraft.

The couple had booked on the first - class section of a flight Saturday, but technical trouble delayed the aircraft and passengers were transferred to another flight.

A BOAC spokesman in Toronto said Mr. and Mrs. Craig decided to wait and try the first class service.

"As it turned out," the spokesman said, "they were the only passengers — he was and they had the whole flight to themselves."

The couple was served by 15 stewards and stewardesses who were on board. Their bill was the normal first-class fare of $495.60 each.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Success Spoils Resorts

"We need more tourists up here," said the local merchant, "but if we get too many the place will be ruined."

He was stating the paradox that perplexes all the loveworld. Most of them get the bulk of their income from tourism; but then the very popularity of the place creates the charm and solitude that made it attractive to begin with.

How do we solve this problem?—It's very much like a new restaurant that starts up with good food, moderate prices, a quiet atmosphere. The word spreads, soon here is a long line, the prices go up, the atmosphere changes and all you have is another hectic restaurant.

There ought to be some way to achieve a delicate and long-lasting balance between the economic needs of a resort community and its ecological integrity. If too few people come, the area suffers financially; if too many come, the area suffers environmentally.

You can't set an arbitrary figure; you can't have a quota at the county line; you can't say we'll only let a million people in this summer, or we won't permit any more motels or resorts to be built. Only a nation is permitted to have a strict immigration policy.

Yet, year by year, section by section, our expanding population and our rise into affluence have inundated almost all the lovely spots that used to offer charm, seclusion and modest prices. It used to be possible to find them 75 miles from the city; now one must go four times as far, and still with no assurance of the same tranquility.

What is happening in the U.S. is happening all over the world. I spent a winter in Acapulco, in 1940, when the road down there hadn't been completed and there was only one hostel on the beach. You wouldn't believe what I paid for a house with two servants. And I wouldn't have believed then what could have happened to the place in a few decades.

Much the same is true in Europe; there are still some beautiful and inexpensive places, but they are going fast. The more they succeed, the more they fail for there is a built-in contradiction in such popularity, as absurd as calling a convention of hermits.

Everybody certainly deserves a langorous vacation, but the more people who can afford one, the less langorous and more expensive it becomes. In the same way, when everybody can drive a car, the car becomes more of a nuisance than a luxury. How to solve this jarring paradox may well be one of the main problems facing technology in the affluent society we look forward to with hope and anxiety.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and in each important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is now in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a frequent cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Bata To Pioneer Newest Selling Trends

A bold new concept in store design combined with the very latest footwear retailing techniques will make Bata's newest store at Quinte Mall a national leader.

Bata has over 4,500 stores in many countries in the world, but they have chosen Belleville as an opportunity to introduce the latest concept in store design . . . after two previous successful attempts in Toronto (Yorkdale and Sherway Gardens).

The Quinte Mall store is wide open! Open front, permitting maximum close examination of all shoes on display - Bright colors set off the smart, functional furnishings, and the whole store is supported by effective and well balanced lighting - the results of a lengthy study by leading European and American experts in store design.

The "straight lines" effective shows off a large display of shoes, thus complementing the retailing approach, in footwear, of "pre - selection" — Bata customers can easily reach for, feel and examine the styles which appeal to them.

However, expert attention, advice, and service will always be close at hand from the Manager and his trained sales personnel, in order to ensure complete satisfaction with every purchase made from Bata's newest store at Quinte Mall.

The Bata collection for Back to School and the Fall is outstanding and counts many exclusivities.

Children's safari boots, men's and boys' suede and leather casuals, ladies "trotters" from Canada and Europe, sophisticated "mini - mode" shoes for girls, dress boots for men and boys are the highlights of Bata's collection for the opening, and are sold at a very reasonable price.

Cambridge Leaseholds Fifth Centre

The T. Eaton Co. Limited and Steinberg's Limited will join with Cambridge Leaseholds Limited in the development of a two-level 500,000 sq. ft. regional shopping centre on the west side of Ottawa. It will be known as BAYSHORE Shopping Centre.

Located at the intersection of the Queensway and Highways 7 and 15, the huge enclosed mall centre will be readily accessible to the entire Ottawa-Hull trading area.

To open in 1973, the centre will contain a major Eaton's department store of approximately 150,000 sq. ft. It will also feature a Steinberg's Miracle Mart department store along with a Steinberg's Supermarket and 100 additional stores and services, all fronting on a two-level climate-controlled mall. The 3,000-car parking facility will include covered parking for more than 1,000 cars.

Elk's Men's & Boys' Wear To Enter Market

The company's slogan "elk's suits you best for less" has been a byword for many families for the past 45 years. Mr. Sam Eklind, President, opened his first store, 45 years ago and his only employee was his wife Sarah. Today, Mr. Eklind has over 225 employees, 37 stores with the addition of Quinte, and is serving 4th generation customers. Mr. Eklind has retained an active interest in the business, but leaves much of the legwork to his son Manny, who in turn has surrounded himself with progressive action - minded executives. All stores contain an in - depth stock of Men's Wear and their new concept of a shop within a shop for young men has been a tremendous success. Of course, Elk's also carry an excellent selection of Boys' Wear (8-16 years).

Tiffany's Comes To Belleville

Tiffany's Bakeries is a new concept in shopping for baked goods. In the warm glow of Tiffany Lamps, you are invited to shop in immaculate surroundings that brings you back to the leisurliness of another era. You can watch Tiffany's bakers roll their dough prepare, bake and finish the tempting treats that are delivered to you hot and straight from the oven. Whatever your choice at Tiffany's, however, we guarantee you'll find the quality high, taste delicious, and freshness, not more than a few hours from the oven. We invite you to enjoy Breakfast at Tiffany's during our Grand Opening Celebration.

Emporium Comes To Belleville

An exciting new concept in Hallmark Card shops will open at the new Quinte Mall in Belleville. The Emporium will feature the complete Hallmark line of cards, wraps, stationery and candles coupled with a complete selection of the best - selling pocket books, magazines and newspapers.

The assortment will be further augmented by a wide selection of cigarettes, cigars, pipes, pipe tobaccos, snacks, packaged candies and tobacco accessories, so displayed to offer the fastest of self service at competitive prices.

The Emporium, which has been custom designed by Hallmark of Canada, will be carpeted in rich purple and hot pink with complementary vibrant wallpaper on the walls. All fixtures will feature a hot orange color accented with - flamed oak gables.

Reitman's Opens Third Store

In August the third Reitman's store in Belleville will officially open its doors to shoppers at the all new Quinte Mall. The opening of this new store will bring the total number of stores in the coast - to - coast Reitman's chain to 253.

With a complete range of women's and girls' merchandise from dresses, sportswear, and coats to lingerie, loungewear and accessories, the fashion oriented Canadian family can continue to look to Reitman's for quality goods on a cost conscious budget.

To keep abreast of current trends Reitman's buyers shop the fashion markets of of Canada, the United States, Europe and the Far East. Resident New York and European buying offices are maintained to keep a close watch on new innovations in fabrics and styles.

Emphasis is placed on customer service and comfort at Reitman's. Wide aisles, air conditioning, and modern methods of merchandise display are integral pars of the store's attractive decor.

Since its establishment, over 40 years ago, Reitman's has made it possible for the fashion conscious family to dress well economically. This aim plus the respected guarantee of "Satisfaction or Money Refunded", has been greatly responsible for Reitman's leadership in the world of fashion.

SHOPPERS DRUG MART

We're The One That Saves You Money

A Division of Koffler Stores Limited

390 N. FRONT ST.

QUINTE MALL

Shoppers Drug Mart

One of the largest of Koffler Stores' Shoppers Drug Marts will be constructed in the Quinte Mall. Representing the company's first outlet in the Belleville area (its first store between Oshawa and Kingston) the 11,000 square foot pharmacy is scheduled for opening in August 1971. At the present time there are 80 stores operating under the Shoppers Drug Mart banner in Ontario, New Brunswick and Winnipeg, Manitoba, with two others scheduled to open by the end of March. The completion of the acquisition of Cunningham Drug Stores Ltd., will add another 88 retail drug stores to the chain.

The Shoppers Drug Mart concept of merchandising represents an innovation in the organizing and financing of drug store retailing. The concept evolved out of research, testing and experience and although relatively simple in its application, it has proved most effective - namely, to apply mass merchandising techniques to drug retailing, to protect the independence of each pharmacist - associate and to acheive the lowest possible prices for consumers.

Quinte Mall's Shoppers Drug Mart will incorporate the same mass merchandising techniques as all Shoppers Drug Marts:

- mass centralized purchasing at substantial savings to the store owner — savings which are passed on to the customer.
- well-designed store layouts having brightly lighted wide aisles, with easy - to - find, attractively displayed merchandise.
- efficient traffic patterns within the store designed to allow the shopper to complete her shopping in a minimum amount of time.
- ample checkout counters with their resultant fast service.
- self -service allowing for faster, easier shopping, and reduced overhead for the store.
- absence of expensive customer services such as prescription deliveries and charge accounts.
- wide consumer identification through TV advertising, door - to - door distribution of advertising flyers illuminated store signs and uniform store layouts.

This unique approach to pharmacy sales, with its savings to customers, is what allows Shoppers Drug Marts to pledge "the lowest price possible" while maintaining the highest quality of goods and services.

Approximately 15,000 items will be carried by Shoppers Drug Mart, including proprietary (non - prescription) drugs, greeting cards, photography equipment, magazines, sundries, prescription drugs, cosmetics, toiletries, tobacco, convalescent aids and professional supplies. The average Shoppers Drug Mart outlet dispenses over 40,000 prescriptions per year, with all dry ingredient prescription being dispensed in Palm - N. + Turn safety container.

The Quinte Mall site is indicative of Shoppers Drug Marts' policy of locating primarily in major shopping centres.

As a member of the health team in the Belleville area, Shoppers Drug Mart will provide customers with the lowest prices possible on drugs and medicines while maintaining both the quality of the product and integrity of the pharmacist. The management team of Koffler Stores Limited look forward to participating in Quinte Mall and to serving its customers with dedication.

Coles -- The Book People

COLES - The book people! is an all Canadian company founded in 1934 in Toronto. It has grown in 36 years to be the largest retail bookstore chain in North America with stores spread out right across Canada.

The original emphasis was on school and university textbooks but during the second world war the company diversified into every type of book published.

With the advent of the "paperback revolution" during the 1950's COLES was one of the pioneers in the introduction and distribution of the low priced paper bound book and today probably 60 percent of all books sold by COLES are paperbacks!

One of the widest known paperback series in Canada are published by COLES themselves. This series called COLES 'NOTES', in striking yellow and black covers are used by nearly 500,000 Canadian high school and university students every year. In addition they are sold in over 70 countries around the world. At the present time COLES have 42 stores, however, the store in Quinte Mall will be their first in the Belleville area.

COLES stores are bright and modern but have that old fashioned, friendly "browse around" feeling that makes shopping fun. In addition to a huge selection of Books, they carry Office and School Stationery, Art Supplies, Color Prints, Posters and Stamps for collectors, etc., etc., . . . in fact over 8000 different items.

A Mecca For Listening Pleasure

Shoppers Record and Tape Mart "Taped" into the Belleville Market

Shoppers Record and Tape Mart, a unique concept in the merchandising of records and tapes, opened their first store in 1969 on Avenue Road in Toronto. The addition of the Quinte Mall store will bring the total number of shops in their chain to eight.

It is Company policy to offer the lowest prices on records and tapes. They advertise heavily on radio and in the newspapers, and cater to all age groups and music tastes.

Unlike most record stores who advertise their specials at discount prices, but do not back these up with sufficient quantities, Shoppers Record and Tape Mart supplies rainchecks on any advertised items should they happen to run out of stock.

The traffic generated by their heavy advertising and low discount prices will make Shoppers Record and Tape Mart a valuable asset to Quinte Mall.

Laura Secord

The Laura Secord Candy Shop located in Belleville's new Quinte Mall will be the company's first in this area. Like all Laura Secord Stores, it is designed to allow discriminating Candy Buyers to choose their own assortment of highest quality candy products.

Since its establishment in 1913, the Company has opened more than 200 of the familiar black and white decorated shops across Canada, plus a select number of agencies selling packaged chocolates.

Over the years Laura Secord has earned the reputation for making and selling highest quality confections produced in small batches to maintain a peak of freshness.

Sneaky Pete Saloon To Add Western Touch

Sneaky Pete, a new concept in dining pleasure, will open their fourth, fifth and sixth restaurants in Belleville's new Quinte Mall.

The theme of each of the restaurants will be Western Saloon style in keeping with the fun-loving symbol of the old prospector — Sneaky Pete.

A fast service Saloon bar featuring specialty sandwiches, hamburgs and hot dogs with seating in the rear will be complemented by a 170 seat full service Saloon featuring western burgers, pizza and that favorite summer beverage. For the children and the young at heart a soft ice cream parlor with a place to rest and enjoy your cone will also be available.

With the continued increase in population on the north shore of Lake Ontario, and the strong development of the Belleville area in particular, Total Food Systems and Sneaky Pete look forward to many years of sustained business growth.

Ottawa, Washington, Pollution Fight Urged

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (CP) — Ontario and Quebec and States officials attending the second Great Lakes Environmental Conference, have called on Ottawa and Washington for an international agreement to rid the Great Lakes of pollution.

The bulk of 15 resolutions passed Tuesday appeal to the federal governments, with only a few calling for action at the state and provincial levels.

The conference, attended by Premier William Davis of Ontario, four state governors and representatives from Quebec and four other states, has no legal power to see that its wishes are carried out.

However, it will transmit the resolutions to the federal levels at present writing an agreement that Prime Minister Trudeau and President Nixon are to sign late this fall.

The conference, which ended Tuesday, asked their federal governments to:

—Strengthen the role of the International Joint Commission by giving it power to report on offending polluters, set a single water quality control board, recommend legislation to the appropriate governments and monitor the effectiveness of government pollution control programs;

—Pour money into sewage treatment facilities for municipalities;

—Bring in legislation to compel ships to carry holding tanks for their sewage or treat such waste on board when suitable technology is developed;

—Provide funds for lamprey eel control and research.

Britain Favors Floating European Currencies, Yen

LONDON (CP) — Britain is reported by informants today as prepared to support any European move to float their currencies temporarily but would also like to see this move co-ordinated with Japan to prevent an unfair imbalance in world trade.

The informants said that Anthony Barber, chancellor of the exchequer, has urged Canadian Finance Minister Edgar Benson to convene a meeting of the Group of Ten, the 10 top industrial countries including Japan, urgently.

The members of the group in addition to Canada and Britain are: The United States, Japan, West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Sweden.

Finance and foreign ministers of the six Common Market countries will meet at Brussels Thursday and it appeared they may agree on a joint floating of their currencies as a temporary measure. Informants said Britain would be prepared to go along with such a decision.

The result would likely be an upward swing in the price of the British pound and most European currencies in relation to the American dollar. Britain would hope that the swing would be controlled to allow only a minimum rise since any increase would mean an increase in the price of British exports.

With exporters already facing the additional American import levy of 10 per cent, any increase in the price of the exporters' currencies would mean an additional price handicap in the American market.

But Japan is still insisting she will not devalue the yen, with the central bank buying huge quantities of surplus American dollars to maintain the existing rate.

If European currencies go up and the Japanese currency remain unchanged, the concern in Europe is that Japanese exporters would have an unfair edge in competitive world markets.

With Japan's favorable balance in U.S. Japanese trade the principal target of Nixon's new programs, British trade experts expressed fear that the Japanese would try to flood Europe with the cheap goods they can't sell to the United States.

GM and Ford Reduce Prices

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

General Motors and Ford Tuesday, rolled back their 1972 price increases in Canada but were vague about how long the bargains will last.

There was no word from American or Chrysler, neither of which had announced 1972 prices yet in any case.

Following the lead of United States companies complying with President Richard Nixon's freeze on prices, Ford and GM announced that their new-model cars and trucks will sell temporarily at 1971 price levels.

A spokesman for General Motors of Canada Ltd. said in Oshawa, Ont., that the company would rescind its retail price increases until further notice. The increases, announced Aug. 15, averaged $144 or 3.6 per cent over 1971 prices.

The rollback at GM would reduce this year's price of a Chevrolet Camaro $156 and of a Pontiac Firebird $175.

Later, in Oakville, Ont., the chairman of Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. announced that dealers will accept orders for 1972 models at 1971 prices "until the present situation has been clarified." Karl Scott said he had no idea how long the new price policy will remain in effect.

Purchasers of 1972 Pintos, which have been on sale for about 10 days, will get rebates of the $150 price increase which now has been cancelled.

Ford has announced price increases averaging 4.9 per cent on its 1972 models.

The Ford and GM parent companies in the U.S. already had rolled back their price increases. They announced Monday they would hold prices at 1971 levels for 90 days to comply with the wage-and-price controls announced Sunday by President Nixon in an effort to stop speculation against the U.S. dollar.

DETROIT (AP) — Although most auto-makers have agreed to roll back announced price increases in the face of President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze, the haggling of the auto marketplace may result in higher prices to the U.S. consumer.

"We'll be discounting the 1971

Congress Will Back Program

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon appears likely to get essentially the economic legislation he has asked from the Democratic-controlled Congress, although pressure is forecast for more tax relief for individuals.

The White House declared itself pleased with the tone of a 2¼-hour discussion Tuesday that brought together the president, some of his top advisers, and key members of Congress.

British Troops Accused Of Torturing Prisoners

BELFAST (CP) — Northern Ireland's prime minister, Brian Faulkner, flies to London today for talks with the British government after an official vote of confidence from his own party for his handling of the Ulster crisis.

His meeting with British government leaders is scheduled for Thursday at Chequers, official country residence of Prime Minister Edward Heath, northwest of London.

One of the main issues on the agenda will almost certainly be an appraisal of the official policy of interning suspected terrorists in Northern Ireland without trial.

An Irish civil rights organization levelled charges of brutality by British troops while rebel forces concentrated their fight against Protestant rule on hit-and-run bombing raids and a chain of armed robberies.

A leading London Irish organization pledge it will bring the British capital "to a halt" next month with a demonstration of protest against the army "turning Belfast into another My Lai."

Dermot Kelly, chairman of the Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association London branch, said a marathon march was planned for the end of Sep-

Meeting Is Set For Thursday

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal cabinet met today to form a delegation which will go to Washington Thursday to seek an exemption for Canada from the United States import surcharges.

Acting Prime Minister Mitchell Sharp told reporters that the U.S. government has agreed to meet a Canadian delegation at 2 p.m. EDT Thursday. The U.S. delegation meeting the Canadians will be headed by Secretary of the Treasury John Connally.

Finance Minister E. J. Benson, who officials say will likely go to Washington with the Canadian delegation, returned to Ottawa at 3:15 a.m. today after cutting short a European holiday.

Mr. Benson side-stepped questions about how tough the Canadian stand would be in protesting the surcharges. Asked whether Canada would retaliate with tariffs against American goods, he said: "It's not a threatening matter at all."

"I think it is to the benefit of the United States that the huge Canadian market remain available."

Earlier, during an airport interview following his arrival back in Ottawa, the finance minister said that Canada wouldn't just be "making a plea" to Washington. Canada would approach Washington as an equal in North American trade.

"The United States action . . . really cannot work to the benefit of the United States so far as Canada is concerned," Mr. Benson said. "It may well undermine their ability to increase their exports to Canada.

"You don't make a plea for these things. We are a strong, independent country, and we will deal with the United States as an equal.

"Quite apart from pleading, we will point out to them that this might very well undermine what the Americans are trying to do, to become more competitive."

Mr. Benson said it was naturally a great concern that one-quarter of Canada's exports to the United States—about $8 billion out of total sales running to about $12 billion—could be hit by extra duties as high as 10 per cent.

"But I don't think the whole of the Canadian economy is going to be upset.

"It's hard to measure the effect on unemployment, but this does affect one-quarter of our

Quinte Mall Opens for Business

With a snip of the scissors, Mayor J. Russell Scott this morning severed the last barrier to the opening of Quinte Mall on North Front St., and 10,000 surged into the main concourse as the red and white ribbon parted. With the mayor on the platform were (left to right) Charles Tabachnick, president of Cambridge Leaseholds Ltd., owners of the building, Dr. Scott, J. C. Barrow, chairman of the board of Simpsons-Sears, Mel Dobrin, president of Steinbergs Ltd. and David Blandford, Mall manager.

Two Applications Made for City TV Station

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Two applications for a television broadcasting licence to operate in Belleville have been submitted to the Canadian Radio Television Commission which will hold hearings in Toronto on Sept. 21.

The two applications are among a basketful of bids for the right to operate stations in various centres in the province.

Included among the applications is a request by Ottawa-Cornwall Broadcasting Ltd. to establish a transmitter at Deseronto, 20 miles east of Belleville, to rebroadcast programs of CJOH, Ottawa.

The two applicants for the Belleville licence are a group of Belleville residents headed by Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott. The other applicant is listed a L. M. Nichols, whose address was not stated.

The deadline for applications for the Belleville station was May 17.

Mayor Scott said today that his association with the Belleville group seeking the TV license was mainly the result of his interest in having a television station in the Quinte area.

"Belleville needs a television station of its own — not just another outlet from Kingston," he said.

Also, he said a television station would provide jobs for Belleville residents and at the same time an education al advantage.

The 11-man Belleville group is comprised of seven local businessmen and four outside technical people.

Mayor Scott said if his group was given the licence, the TV station would be built in the city just south of Highway 401. The broadcast tower would be in Prince Edward County.

Asked what area the proposed station would be expected to cover, Mayor Scott said this "would be whatever area was granted by the commission."

Hopefully, however, the station would have a range extending to Peterborough and Kingston.

If approved, the station could be operating as early as next spring, the mayor said.

The application of the Belleville group was submitted to the commission last March, at which time one of the group members, local lawyer Douglas Boyle said the request would be for Channel six, now held by CBLT-TV in Toronto.

In October, 1968, the CRTC said channel six in Toronto should move in channel five so that channel six could be used more effectively in Belleville and southwestern Ontario.

The application of the Belleville group is for a private station with CTV network affiliation.

Council House Gets Support

The city of Belleville will contribute toward the rebuilding of Mohawk Band council house on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve.

Council voted $200 toward the fund at its Monday meeting.

The Mohawk Council House was destroyed by fire early in July and a fund raising campaign has been commenced to help rebuild the structure.

Cornerstone Laid

Donald Williams, chairman of Hastings county board of education yesterday laid the cornerstone for Bayside Secondary School, slated to open in January, 1972. He was assisted by masonry foreman Joe Delcasse. Irving Boigon, architect from the firm of Boigon and Heinonen, designers of the building, is in the background, together with board members, administrators, representatives of the teaching staff and members of municipal governments from the area served by the school.

Liberals Prepare For Battle

Confident that Premier William Davis will call an election shortly, leading local Liberals gathered at the former "Winston Clothes" premises next to the Gilbert Hotel during the noon hour to officially open committee rooms for the local election campaign.

On hand for the proceedings were Liberal riding president Joel Starer and declared candidates Dr. Terry Watts and Gerald Weaver.

Liberals will select a riding standard bearer on Aug. 5 at Centennial Secondary School in Belleville.

Gerald Weaver, Trenton land magnate and retired auto dealer is the current favorite in the contest for the riding nomination.

Other declared candidates are Dr. Watts, Ontario Hydro man Bill Menzies and Belleville Alderman Arthur Keegan.

sales to our biggest customer, and unemployment is already too high in this country. But they have more unemployment —and more inflation—and they are trying to stop it."

Mr. Benson said he is still worried about the high value of the Canadian dollar in international exchange markets. It has risen since Sunday's announcement, but Mr. Benson believed the U.S. action will "tend to stabilize" the Canadian dollar.

Asked whether he took American dollar travellers' cheques to Europe last weekend for his planned 10-day holiday, Mr. Benson said: "I took Canadian. I always take Canadian. They're good dollars."

He said he will not now be able to resume his holiday. He has a speaking engagement in Toronto on Thursday next week, and then has to prepare for the resumption of the parliamentary session Sept. 7, when his tax bill will be the first item of business in the Commons.

tember to begin in Glasgow and converge on London through Midlands cities like Liverpool. It would take three weeks and climax in a mass gathering in Trafalgar Square, he said.

Kelly produced at a news conference a 150-item document alleging that British troops tortured prisoners held under Northern Ireland's emergency internment laws for suspected terrorists.

Men had been forced to walk on broken glass, had been beaten on the soles of their feet; had been thrust blindfolded from helicopters hovering several feet above the ground for refusing to answer questions, the document claimed.

Kelly said: "We have very substantial evidence to prove anything that we have said. He said he had delivered the document to Geoffrey Johnson-Smith, a junior minister at the defence ministry.

Local Flyer to Participate

Belleville pilot, Captain F. J. Adams will fly this Canadian Forces' Tracker aircraft at the September 2, 40th anniversary air show at CFB Trenton. The Trenton air show will start at 3.30 p.m. Another, the Canadian International Air Show at the Canadian National Exhibition, will be staged on each of four days, September 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Exhibition Attendance Record Set

A new attendance record for opening day of Quinte Exhibition was set Tuesday when 22,500 children and adults streamed through the four admission gates from 9 a.m. until late in the evening. The increase on the day amounted to 3,400.

The attendance for the corresponding date in 1970 was 19,100 according to records kept by the exhibition manager E. C. Gowsell.

The exhibition program started with the traditional Kiddies Day the official opening at 3 p.m. and the usual parade through the city to exhibition park in the evening.

Quinte Exhibition is celebrating its 150th anniversary with a number of new presentations and most of the old popular ones.

Location Increases Attendance

Decision on the part of fair board directors to relocate the sheep and swine show at the Quinte Exhibition has met with instant appreciation on the part of fair-goers.

This year at the 150th anniversary of the fair, the sheep and swine exhibit has been located in an addition to the open cattle shed near the bowling green and, yesterday, on the second day of the fair was well frequented.

"More patrons have visited the sheep and swine today today than in the past five years at the previous location," said the attendant at the pens.

"People just wouldn't walk to the far end of the track to see the exhibit in previous years."

In contrast to other years at the fair, the sheep and swine exhibit at the fair is non-competitive.

One sheep exhibitor, Lloyd Ayre of Brenmarsh Farms of Consecon breeds of sheep on show, while several Quinte area hog raisers have come hinged onto the swine show, featuring six different breeds.

"People appreciate the exhibit," said the fair attendant.

One young lad gazing in open mouthed wonder at the big Hampshire boar in the pens, was heard saying "gosh, I never saw a pig as big as that before."

Another Meeting Tomorrow

PICTON (Staff) — Town clerk Andrew Jarvis yesterday stated council will hold a special meeting Thursday at 3 p.m. in Shire Hall to discuss the deferred demolition of Mary Street School.

It is expected councillors will consider a bylaw to enter an agreement with Howe Wrecking, Bloomfield.

Tomorrow's meeting will mark town council's third session this month. A regular meeting was held August 3, followed by a special meeting August 9 to examine the proposed use of lockup cells at Loch Sloy Holdings.

At this session councillors accepted a demolition tender for Mary Street School and agreed to endorse plans for a new lockup where the offing facilities was $68,450. Council at its last meeting, requested the addition of a police lunchroom and storage lockers in the new plans and is awaiting a revised cost figure.

235 Years Fair Service Honored

Quinte Exhibition president Jack R. Bush, (left) expresses appreciation to four life members of the fair board for their combined 235 years. Helping to cut an anniversary cake at official opening of the fair Tuesday were Fred Denyes, "Willie" Reid, Mrs. J. R. Garbutt and Mrs. Ben Bleecker.

Royal Navy Inspired Business

Last August, Scott Anderson constructed a two-storey concrete brick factory in Carrying Place in a planned expansion of his furniture upholstering and refinishing business, and the Royal Navy contributed a large assist in the venture.

"About 14 years ago, I came home to Scotland after a three-year tour with the Royal Navy in the Mediterranean Sea and the Red Sea, and I realized upon my return that Scotland was really a very small part of the world," Mr. Anderson explained.

"Also, at that time, the boom of emigration to Canada was at a high level, and because of that, I'm here today exhibiting my business which has been very successful at the Quinte Exhibition this week.

Born in Glasgow, he quit school at the age of 14 to work with his father in the family retail poultry shop.

"It was the natural thing to do. Everybody in the neighborhood quit school early to work with their uncles, fathers or relatives. Education at that time was not really stressed," he explained.

He worked in the shop for five years before joining the navy to avoid conscription.

"That was perhaps one of the best breaks of my life."

But Canada, at first, was not the land of golden opportunities. Mr. Anderson walked many miles of city streets in search of a livelihood and after a brief stint as a door-to-door canvasser with a gas appliance company, entered the Canadian air force based at Trenton.

With his discharge came the first chance at a trade. The big break came with his hiring by a Mr. Klingson in the same business he is in today.

"The first few years were tough years, learning a new and highly - skilled trade while raising a family. Then, after about five years, I moved to Toronto for a short time, working in a large factory where I perfected my skills," he stated.

It was in Toronto that he picked up most of the present equipment he uses today and utilized the profits from the sale of his house there to launch his new company.

"People don't realize how highly involved the business of upholstering and refinishing furniture is. It includes the complete stripping of pieces, repairs using new pieces whenever possible, staining, sealing and the top work.

"I employ two full - time employees and my wife, Mary and I work long hours to assure the operation runs smoothly. But, it's a success today. And look at the quality of work we do.

"You know, it's hard to hire skilled workmen, talented fishers, especially since most young people today don't go in for the trades, but go on to college and get their diplomas, only to go on the unemployment rolls. The trades today are crying for skilled workmen, but where are they?" he laments.

The cost of each job done is based on 50 per cent labor costs, and the company can usually guarantee the return of refinished furniture within 10 days.

Also, the shop stocks a large selection of antiques and contemporary furniture.

"In this business, you have to educate the people. Most don't know the skills involved. They simply think it's just a sanding and staining job," Mr. Anderson points out.

"But, I'm pretty happy being here, and the Quinte Exhibition has been a great help to me in exposing my products. This is my second year here, and I intend to stay," he concluded.

And all because of the Royal Navy.

New Drop-in Centre Backed by Alderman

A new youth drop-in centre for Belleville is in the planning stage — this time with the backing of the Recreation-Arena Committee and the professional assistance of a Toronto youth worker.

But Hastings county board of education won't give either moral or financial support until it gets a legal opinion on the permissibility of its involvement.

Trustees agreed yesterday at a special board meeting that participation in organization and operation of a drop-in centre was "outside the normal, accepted field" of board activities.

The request for the board's support came in a letter from Ald. Donald M. Soutter, chairman of the city's Recreation-Arena Committee.

He said that Grant Lowery, director of 12 Madison, a successful youth drop-in centre in Toronto, had agreed to spend 10 days in Belleville to compile a procedural brief on how to set up and operate a centre here.

The report will spell out in detail requirements in facilities, program, staff and resource personnel and it will be the first proposal, to my knowledge, which would allow us to assign names and individuals to specific roles," said Ald. Soutter's letter.

Ald Soutter said that he, as chairman of the Recreation-Arena Committee, was asking city council for $1,000 to finance the first stages of the project. He asked the board of education to consider matching council's contribution, "as the young people we would be dealing with cross the boundaries of both recreational and educational limits".

The chairman said the $2,000 budget would be a realistic figure "to enable us to get such a program off the ground", Of this amount, $500 would go to Mr. Lowery for his 10-day study in the city.

"When the preliminary proposal is completed, it is our intention to call a meeting of all interested parties at which time the mechanics of such a proposal would be spelled out in specifics," the letter to the board said.

Motorcyclist Killed

PICTON (Staff) — A Prince Edward County youth was killed early last night when the motorcycle on which he was riding collided with a car on Fish Lake Road near Demorestville.

Dead is 17-year-old Allan Ray Carter, RR 3; Demorestville.

Driver of the small car that collided with the bike was Elizabeth Ann Keogh, 19, RR 2, Demorestville.

Allan Carter was taken to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival. following the accident which occurred shortly after 6 p.m.

Constable M. Chalmers of the Picton detachment, OPP, is investigating the incident.

Long-time Members Open Quinte Exhibition

Four life members of the Belleville Agricultural Society representing 235 years' service to the organization yesterday assisted at the official opening of the Quinte Exhibition — this year observing its 150th anniversary.

Taking part in the mid-afternoon ceremonies in front of the grandstand were fair president Jack R. Bush and life-time society member Fred Denyes, "Willie" Reid, Mrs. James R. Garbutt and Mrs. Ben Bleecker.

Fair vice-president Phil Flagler and Alderman Arthur Keegan, representing the city of Belleville, also participated.

The four life members combined to cut the ribbon on the exhibition anniversary cake and were presented with engraved medallions as a remembrance of the occasion.

Mrs. Garbutt, at 89, has possibly the longest association with local fairs of the four taking part in yesterday's anniversary ceremonies.

She remembers taking part in the forerunner of the Quinte Exhibition when it was held at Thrashers Corners in Thurlow township, north of the city.

Mrs. Garbutt says she remembers showing carriage teams at Thrashers Corners. She continued showing when the fair was moved to Belleville shortly after the turn of the century.

Mr. Denyes has also been associated with the Belleville Fair since its move to the city from Thrasher's Corners.

Mr. Reid headed the horse committee at Belleville Fair for 43 years and was to a great extent responsible for creating the present interest of exhibitors.

Mrs. Bleecker has been a member of local agricultural society since 1925 and is former president of the women's division of the fair.

Her husband, the late Ben Bleecker, served as fair president, and also as the society's secretary and treasurer.

Fair President Bush expressed his appreciation to the life members for their long service to the Belleville fair and invited them to a fair board reception to be held in the evening.

Defendant Claims Car Was on Own

One of the most bizarre stories to be entered in provincial criminal court was recounted yesterday by a man who was pleading not guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

City police Constables Gary Owens and Robert Cooper told the court they discovered a car sitting in the intersection of West Moira and Sidney Streets at approximately 1.55 a.m. July 9.

Down the street, at 152 West Moira three cars parked in a driveway showed evidence of having been struck. Investigation revealed a total of $800 damage to cars owned by Bruce Simon, George Benn and Mrs. Donna Benn, all of 152 West Moira.

Arrested and charged with impaired driving, having more than the legal limit of alcohol, and careless driving, was Kenneth Kelly of 88 Lewis Street.

Constable Cooper testified Kelly told he thought he hit a pole, was thrown out of the vehicle, and dragged 3-10 of a mile to Sidney and West Moira Street".

He also told the court the pants were torn out of his pants".

Kelly, when put on the stand by defence counsel Robert Temple, told the court he had consumed eight drafts of beer that evening and had started home. While driving along Moira Street, he said "a car had come out of Fenton Street, swerved to the left hand side of the road."

"I swerved, and the door flew open. I was dragged, hanging onto the wheel," he testified.

After that, the Lewis Street man said, he could remember nothing until he was standing by his car at Sidney Street. However, he did say he had walked the few steps to his home and had consumed part of a bottle of rye whisky.

A West Moira Street resident testified he saw the Kelly car leaving the scene by accident shortly after he "heard a crash".

Police matched wood chips on the Kelly car with a tree stump at the scene of the accident. Constable Sam Morgan stated the breathalyzer test revealed readings of .20 and .21 alcohol content.

Concerning the defendant's story of his car careening down the street by itself, acting Crown Attorney Peter Girard said the evidence was conflicting.

Also, he said consumption of the whisky was the "usual standard. Having a drink after an accident and returning to the scene."

Provincial Court Judge T. V. Wills set the case over until Thursday for judgment.

A young Belleville youth, who may well have been attempting to set up his own baseball team of his own, pleaded guilty in provincial court yesterday to a charge of break, enter and theft at Sir John A. Macdonald School on Harder Drive, June 15 and 16.

The case of Ronald Irvine Park, 18, of 20 Charlotte Street was put over until Sept. 2 while a pre-sentence report is being studied.

He pleaded guilty to theft of four small and one large cassette recorders, a record player, a junction box, one patch cord, one set of earphones, six softballs, two bats, one catcher's pad, one catcher's mask and three gloves.

Of the total $429 theft, all but $55 worth has been recovered.

A Firm Hand

Some years ago — it seems a long time now — the Government made a stab at cutting costs, including a decision not to replace people retiring from the Civil Service. This policy, well-meaning as it was, never really succeded in stemming the tide of rising costs and inflation.

Successive reports by the Auditor-General have shown the extent of governmental extravagance, but to no avail. Money is still poured out for this and that administrative whimsy, including such dubious initiatives as the Opportunities for Youth program.

We wonder would Ottawa have the self-discipline to order a cut such as President Nixon's $4.7 billion in federal spending and make it stick. It is true this cut is to offset loss of revenue from tax cuts designed to stimulate industry and create new jobs, but it does indicate what can be done to curb extravagance.

Notice too the President's frequent use of the term, "I have ordered" in relation to spending cuts, curbing of government employment, foreign aid policy and wage control.

There should be similar certainty in the handling of public monies in this country, but unfortunately this is not always the case; the evidence of waste and extravagance has been everywhere apparent in recent years.

Quinte Mall

It is open today — the Quinte Mall with its food market, cinemas and no fewer than 36 other fine stores and services.

Belleville takes another big stride forward with this great North Front Street complex. A whole new area of shopping convenience, of job availability and of general interest to the community and its hinterland are now in being.

The Quinte Mall represents the developer's and the city's confidence in this community. It stems from the growth of recent years and is a precursor of increase to come.

The opening of the mall is being marked not only here, but it will surely be noted around the province too. It will be as much a means for visitors from outside as for citizens here. It will stimulate interest in the fine establishments already in existence here. More than ever Belleville now will have something for everyone. We wish the mall and the entire commercial community well in the days ahead.

Intrepid Yachtsmen

The round-the-county yacht race in Prince Edward was a spirited affair this year with some attendant anxiety when one yacht was the subject of a search by aircraft and coast guard craft. Boat and crew however were found unscathed and we are left to ponder the climatic winds which are so much a factor in these events.

The Great Lakes, so calm in periods of fine weather, are something else again when the elements show a hostile front. When that happens then these waterways may be as savage in their effects as Cape Horn, angry enough to daunt perhaps even a Chichester.

Still, it is not often that a yachtsman has to grapple with such vigorous opposition and races such as the Prince Edward event are held in many parts of the world. There was the one in Britain which Prime Minister Heath won the other day, there have been trans-Atlantic affairs contested by the likes of Sir Francis (Chichester) while "down under" there are the long-distance races between mainland Australia and Tasmania and between New Zealand and the French island of New Caledonia.

Man and the elements find themselves as one in this intrepid sport, sometimes too in extremity that is when a man may come to really know himself and discover the inner significance of his being.

S In Trouble

Americans finding themselves in Europe with a once proud currency reduced almost to the point of non-acceptance are tasting the bitter fruits of the old axiom that all men and all countries are not necessarily equal. Equal in prestige and economic importance, that is.

There was a note of resignation in NBC newscaster John Chancellor's voice the other day when he observed: "It seems a far cry from the days when we spent $17 billion to rebuild Europe."

Well J. C., don't take all the credit. Sure, U.S. dollars helped, but they were not solely responsible for Europe's recuperation. Much of the credit must go to the Europeans themselves for rising up from the ashes and achieving the economic stability they enjoy today.

Congress and Nixon at Odds on Domestic Legislation

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Congress has quit for a month-long vacation after exchanging parting shots with the White House, each accusing the other of foot-dragging on vital legislation.

President Nixon, through two aides, complained about Congress' leisurely pace and his administration's "feeling of urgency" about such stalled domestic legislation as welfare reform, revenue sharing and national health insurance.

He could make a good case. In the seven months since Nixon called for "a new American revolution" through such legislation, the Congress has not passed a single such bill — with the possible exception of the Emergency Employment Act to provide public service jobs in the face of growing unemployment.

Instead, the legislators labored on legislation of their own inspiration, contending it was more vital than the proposals set out by the White House.

In reply to White House attempts to pin the do-nothing label on Congress, House Speaker Carl Albert replied:

"A party which cannot manage the nation's economy better than this has no cause to carp at a Democratic Congress which has done what it can to surmount administration lethargy."

Of course, it is traditional for progress to be slower when one party controls the Congress and the other forms the administration.

Thus it was good politics for Republican Nixon to criticize a Congress in which Democrats control the Senate by 55 to 45 seats and the House of Representatives by 255 to 180 seats.

But he made his feelings known only through the two deputies, raising speculation that he would save an eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation for the 1972 election year.

An additional annoyance to Nixon was the fact that much of the legislation Congress did pass served to add to government spending, sometimes giving the president more money than he sought or wanted. Ten of 14 appropriation bills went through, increasing the budget by $2.3 billion after the government ended the fiscal year last month, with a $23 billion deficit, second largest since the Second World War.

One of the cornerstones of Nixon's new revolution was a scheme to share vast sums of federal revenue with state and local governments. But Congress resents the idea of expanding its unpopular role as tax collector and then turning the money over to the states on a no-strings basis. So the plan is bogged down and unlikely to emerge in anything like the form Nixon urged.

Another Nixon idea that is stalled is his welfare reform plan to guarantee every poor family of four an annual income of at least $2,400—a strong plank he was counting on for his campaign platform.

On the other hand, Congress extended the law empowering the president to control wages and prices as an anti-inflation move—a device Nixon has been dead set against from the start of his term in office.

It also passed a bill authorizing $2 billion to help build public works already planned. Nixon vetoed it as ineffective, but later signed a watered-down version.

To add to the controversy, congressional leaders are talking of adjournment by Oct. 15, which means Nixon's goal is an impossible goal in view of a work load which includes the lengthy annual debate on the defence department budget.

It all has the makings of a good political issue in next year's presidential election unless relations between Capitol Hill and the White House—unusually cool in recent months—shows a sharp improvement after Congress' vacation.

"We'd better not get involved—he might be a plainclothes policeman going about his work!"

The Cloak of Anonymity

St Catharines Standard

It's too bad that some people find it necessary — for reasons which they don't always explain — to hide behind a cloak of anonymity when they express some views in letters to the editor.

It's our own view than an unsigned letter, or one signed with a nom de plume, carried considerably less weight and credence than a letter whose writer properly identifies himself to the public. But The Standard allows its letter writers to remain anonymous if they so wish — because over the years we've discovered that some people have no choice but to remain anonymous.

Thursday's paper carried two letters that were rather typical of the problem faced by some citizens when they take pen to hand.

One letter recalled what happened when a citizen suggested, for instance, that Port Dalhousie changes its name, and when he added his name and address to his letter. Call his suggestion foolish or what you will — but surely it does not deserve obscene telephone calls after midnight. That's what the man got.

Then, there was the letter from a labour union representative who took to task the anonymous writer of what appears to have been an anti-union letter. The labor representative's letter ended with these words: "I will discuss it with you publicly or privately, at any time, at any place, under any circumstances. In fact, I might even take you out into the woodshed if you only had the guts to identify yourself."

Isn't this — the threat of violence or harassment for expressing one's views — exactly the very thing that keeps so many people from speaking out openly? And did the union rep. who suggested "woodshed action" really help the cause of understanding?

As a matter of principle, we dislike unsigned letters and certainly don't encourage their use. But, much as we hate to admit it, every now and then there's an incident that proves that some people are wise to request that we do not publish their names. And these incidents are particularly regrettable in a land that prides itself on personal freedom.

Air Crashes Are So Final

London Free Press

The meticulous safety programs which can be devised are still susceptible to error and systems failures. It is not right that the aircraft industry and the airlines themselves should have so long ignored this essential element of safe air travel.

It may be a detachable cabin which can be dropped safely by parachute, the way astronauts are returned from orbit, or some other device, but if man can design a craft to go to the moon, he can design safety into airlines.

If the airliner payload is reduced 25 per cent, no matter; anyone can pay a little more air fare for a chance to survive a collision.

Some day there will be an airliner equivalent of the safety belt — new features which came in the 19th and 20th centuries, for the most part brought about by government regulations because the shipowners of the day weren't prepared to increase their cost enough to provide minimum safety.

Similar regulations for second chances for airline passengers are now required from governments.

Vancouver Scene

The Riot in Gastown

Ottawa Journal

Rioting is a serious offence, be the offenders hoodlums, Maoists, hippies or, for that matter, policemen.

From this distance we can pass no judgment on which parties were at fault in Vancouver's Gastown riot. But for reasons which concern Canadians everywhere, we think the RC government should agree to Vancouver City Council's request for an independent inquiry into police behavior. The Police Commission, after a preliminary investigation, decided no less cleared its officers, also agreed that an independent inquiry would be necessary.

The riot's occasion was a street demonstration by youths against a forceful police crackdown on narcotic peddling in the area. The demonstrators say they were holding a peaceful concert. Mayor Tom Campbell says they were "a bunch of thugs."

But an alderman eyewitness calls it simply a "police riot." Gastown merchants showed their feelings in raising $3.000 for bail money for rioters. A young son of a Thunder Bay newspaper editor is in hospital with a broken leg which he says resulted from a wanton beating by riot police, some distance from the fracas.

Only an independent inquiry could ascertain whether the allegations of brutality are true, and recommend remedial action; or prove the charges untrue, and restore public confidence in the police.

More than the rights or wrongs of the riot are at issue. Involved here are (a) the prestige of police everywhere; (b) the choice of methods for coping with the street politics of our age; (c) preventing the escalation of violence in these confrontations which has happened in other countries.

It mustn't happen here.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Aug. 18, 1971 . . .

Canadian signalfers arriving in The Congo were clubbed and spat upon 11 years ago today—in 1960—by Congolese soldiers said to have mistaken them for Belgians. The Canadian government sent a sharp protest, and UN troops in The Congo were given permission to fire if necessary upon attackers.

1963—James J. Meredith became the first Negro graduate from the University of Missouri.

1950—Fleeing a North Korean attack, the South Korean government moved to Pusan from Taegu.

1947—Ulysses Lauzon, Mickey McDonald and Nick Minarelli escaped from Kingston Penitentiary.

1947—A naval torpedo factory blew up at Cadiz, Spain, killing 188 and injuring 4,000.

1944—Maj. David V. Currie, of the 29th Armored Regiment, was awarded the Victoria Cross for action in the Falaise Pocket in Normandy.

1942—Gen. Bernard Law Montgomery was named commander of the British 8th Army in Egypt during the Second World War.

1939—Germany seized Slovakia.

1938—Prime Minister Mackenzie King and President Roosevelt opened the Thousand Islands International Bridge.

Supermarket Advertising And Prices at Odds According to Shopper

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

I only to protest the advertising in a local food store and on the radio. I am tired of seeing their huge "Maxi Discount" signs when week after week, their prices are creeping up.

When the big food stores lowered their prices, some months ago, this was one store which stated its prices would stay down. Well, here are a few examples of prices in their stores this week as compared with some months ago.

	THEN	NOW
Van Camps Pork and Beans 10-oz.	5 for 29c	5 for 79c
Twigby Cookies	39c	39c
Dickey Toilet Tissue—2 rolls	29c	33c
Whistle Cat Food	1½c	2 for 29c
Viva Paper Towels	2 for 33c	2 for 57c
Heinz Tomato Soup	13c	2 for 43c
Kleenex — Chubby size	29c	31c
Libby's Catsup	19c	29c
Kellogg's Request Pack Cereal	39c	45c
Salco Tuna Flakes	37c	45c
Johnson's Baby Powder Large	79c	89c
Vachon Raspberry Jam 24-oz.	49c	69c

They have a good selection of fruit and vegetables, but those prices on the whole are ridiculously high. The same can be said of their meats, good, but out of the reach of many pocketbooks.

When I mentioned to a cashier that the prices were going up, she said, "We aren't supposed to notice". When I complained about the prices to the manager, his answer was, "All the food stores are like that." Well, if they do have to raise the prices, they don't have to put up all those Maxi-Discount signs, which to me is false advertising.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1971

Study Reveals College-Trained Nurses Equally Competent

MONTREAL (CP) — Fears that the quality of nursing in Canada may drop with a shift of training programs to junior colleges from hospital schools have been proven groundless, says a five-year study sponsored by the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario.

The study, which compared graduates of two hospital schools and one independent program with those of the six-semester nursing course at Toronto's Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, concluded that college-trained nurses are equally competent and have increased potential for professional growth and development.

Dr. Moyra Allen, associate professor at McGill University's School for Graduate Nurses and co-author with Mary Reidy of the report, said in an interview that nursing directors cited enthusiasm, flexibility, responsibility and articulateness as special qualities of Ryerson grads.

Supervisors in charge of Ryerson nurses said they grasped principles easily, accepted criticism well and were more willing than hospital graduates to use nursing directors as resource people and sounding boards.

On the negative side, the college-trained nurses were found to be disorganized, lacking in self-confidence and liable to do too much on their own.

However, as Dr. Allen said, hospitals traditionally have equated starched efficiency and "working in a straight line" with top nursing care. Such attitudes would have to change to cope with new-style nurses who are more likely to be analytical and imaginative than well-organized.

Dr. Allen and Mrs. Reidy, who is a researcher and lecturer at McGill, carried out the study to follow girls from their first year of training to their entrenchment in the labor force.

They discovered that many Ryerson students were supporting themselves and studying nursing without the moral backing of their families.

They sensed more interested in the types of nursing where education and preventive techniques are critical, such as psychiatric and public health nursing.

Hospital students looked to more traditional settings with extended patient contact.

Ryerson students considered nursing a life-long profession, while hospital trainees said they planned to work only part time after marriage.

The Allen-Reidy report described Ryerson girls as "nursing recruits of a very special mark."

The report indicated that Ryerson staff fostered a problem-solving approach. More emphasis was placed on handling individual patients and, as a result, nursing supervisors noted that Ryerson nurses were strong within the realm of interpersonal relationships.

Hospital school faculties, on the other hand, were anxious that nurses have a lot of knowledge and be able to apply it in stereotyped situations.

It was significant, Dr. Allen said, that nursing directors assumed Ryerson graduates needed more hospital experience and recommended they be placed in general duty areas.

But fewer than half ended up in general duty areas and none were given special orientation or instruction, yet all turned in satisfactory performances.

The general complaint that Ryerson nurses lacked confidence at the outset was echoed by the graduates themselves. But they said they still considered themselves better able to participate in conversation with superiors than hospital graduates.

Dr. Allen said she hopes the findings of the report will quash worries about the quality of nursing graduates from public colleges.

Quebec and Saskatchewan are at present the only provinces training all their nurses in college settings, but the switch from hospital programs is definitely the trend today.

Perhaps new colleges will avoid Ryerson's great emphasis on moulding their nurses "to fit in" with the system, Dr. Allen said.

"Nurses eat, sleep and work in hospitals and become very oriented to the workings of the institution and its hierarchy.

"What we want to do is produce people who don't fit comfortably into the system."

Couple Mark 50th Wedding Anniversary

Gilead Community Hall, Corbyville, was the setting for the 50th wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Haynes.

Friends, relatives and neighbors gathered from various points such as Rochester, N.Y., Nova Scotia, Toronto, Cobourg, Stirling, Foxboro, Trenton, Belleville, Corbyville to congratulate the couple.

The best man, Mr. Harry McDonell and the bridesmaid, Mrs. Verna Eddy were present as they were 50 years ago. Also in attendance were the couple's two children Carl and Irene with their families. There are six grandchildren and one great grand child and all were present to witness this event.

The couple's nephew, Edward Haynes, of Rochester, N.Y., was toastmaster, and toasts were given to the happy couple by their grandson, Richard Sheffield, and their nephew, Allan McDonell, Stirling.

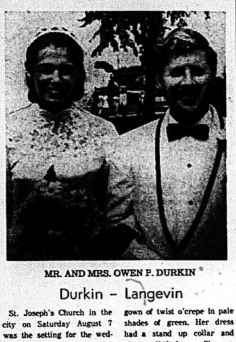
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haynes were recipients of many beautiful gifts, including a money tree. They received a plaque and a letter from Premier W. Davis and presented by Clarke Rollins, MPP. They also received a telegram from Prime Minister Trudeau.

At the close of the day's happenings a humorous mock wedding was performed by various relatives of the family.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. H. John McCormick, R.R. 1 Trenton announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter Janet Marie, to Mr. Robert Stephen Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, 46 Prince of Wales Drive, Belleville. The wedding will take place on September 18, 1971 at 3 p.m. at Holy Angels Church, Brighton.



* * *

Several social events were given in honor of Mrs. Jacques Meyer (nee Gail Cox) prior to her marriage. Mrs. Eileen Lyons and Mrs. Barbara Goulding hosted miscellaneous showers for the bride and the bride's mother Mrs. Robert Cox and sisters Mrs. Arlene Campbell and Miss Christine Cox entertained at a buffet luncheon.

MRS. ROGER COCKING, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Irvine of Ottawa received her bachelor of arts degree at the spring convocation of Brock University, St. Catherines. Mrs. Cocking is the former Keltie Rose Irvine and attended the Belleville Collegiate Institute.

WEDDINGS

MR. AND MRS. OWEN P. DURKIN

Durkin – Langevin

St. Joseph's Church in the city on Saturday August 7 was the setting for the wedding when Catherine Maire Langevin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Langevin, RR 6 Belleville, was united in marriage to Owen Patrick Durkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Durkin, RR 1 Shannonville.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Father C. H. Gaesly and the wedding music was provided by organist Sister Mary Avila and soloist Robert Park.

The bride given in marriage by her father was dressed in a gown sculptured in a corded faille. The bodice had a sheer cut - out with an overlay of scalloped chantilly lace and a stand up collar of matching lace. The long bishop style sleeves were appliqued with lace. The chapel length train attached to the back of the shoulder line flowed out in billows. The bridal headpiece featured the new cap look with daisies with seed pearl centres falling from it in strands. A three tiered scalloped nylon illusion shoulder length veil held it in place. She carried a bouquet of tinted blue and green carnations with fern and baby's breath.

Maid of honor, Miss Patricia Durkin, sister of the bridegroom wore a floor length gown of twist o'crepe in pale shades of green. Her dress had a stand up collar and short puffed sleeves. She carried a bouquet of daisy 'mums and fern.

Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the maid of honor excepting the color of their outfits was a shade of pale blue, were Miss Mary Jean Langevin, sister of the bride and Miss Joan Durkin, sister of the bridegroom.

The best man was Edward Durkin brother of the bridegroom and the ushers were Ross Durkin, another brother of the bridegroom and Peter Langevin, brother of the bride.

Receiving the guests at the reception was the bride's mother wearing a pale blue polyester crepe A-line dress with contrasting blue coat and white accessories. She wore a corsage of white baby carnations.

Assisting was the bridegroom's mother attired in a white and mauve mini-pleatee shift dress with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white baby carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls the bride travelled in a pale yellow dress with flared skirt and white accessories. She wore a corsage of white baby carnations.

The couple will live at RR 1 Shannonville on return.

Meyer – Cox

The wedding took place in Holy Rosary Church in Toronto on Saturday, August 7 when Gail Frances Cox daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cox of Belleville was united in marriage to Jacques Christopher Meyer son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Meyer of Somerset East, Republic of South Africa. Officiating at the ceremony was Father T. B. Mailloux and the wedding music was played by organist Ted Snyder.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a floor length dress of pale ice blue Swiss cotton sheer in A-line empire style with a Babushka headdress. She carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses mingled with cornflowers, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids Miss Christine Cox, sister of the bride and Miss Lily Meyer, cousin of the bridegroom, wore dresses similar to the maid of honor but in dark blue crepe. The flower girl Miss Susan Campbell, a niece of the bride, was dressed in a floor length outfit of deep rose crepe with a pale rose bodice. All the attendants carried nosegays of sweetheart roses, carnations and daisies.

Best man was Phillip Harrison and the ushers were Martin Lucas, Colin Campbell and Tony Flynn.

At the wedding breakfast at the Royal Canadian Engineers' Sergeants mess at the Fort York Armory, the guests were received by the bride's mother wearing a floor length A-line style moss green crepe dress with Mandarin collar and beige accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

For travelling on the wedding trip to South Africa and Rhodesia to visit the bridegroom's family at Christmas, the bride chose a navy and white shift dress with navy accessories.

The couple will live in Toronto on return.

Ann Landers

Two Glasses of Wine Are Too Much for Her

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife insists she has no drinking problem because she does not touch beer or whisky — only wine. This woman has not made any sense after 6:30 p.m. for the last five years. The nonsense and mushy language starts after her second glass of wine with dinner. She gets so high on 3 ounces she might be sneaking a few in before I get home.

Her strongest argument is that she grew up with wine (French family) and the real drunks are Americans who do not know how to handle alcohol. She also points out that there is no skid row in Paris, as in Chicago, New York and San Francisco.

I'd like to hear what you have to say-although my wife does not care for your views on this subject because she says you are a well-known dry and a little nutty on the subject. — TANGLED BY THE VINE.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR TANG: One of the greatest myths of all times is that people who "grow up with wine" know how to handle it.

Alcoholism is France's Number One health menace. Those beautiful vines that produce over 50 million dollars a year in revenue have also produced other problems — financial, moral and physical.

Here are some statistics: The average Frenchman drinks more than any other citizen of any other country — about 65 gallons of wine a year. (Cirrhosis of the liver kills more than 22,000 Frenchman a year, ten times the death rate for citizens in the United States.) One-third of all traffic accidents and two-thirds of all industrial accidents in France are caused by drinking. Alcoholics account for more than 30 per cent of all non-surgical hospitalization in La Belle France.

So the next time someone tells you people who grow up with wine know how to handle it and never get drunk, I hope you will set them straight. Continuously drinking of alcohol, whether it's fine wine or rot-gut gin, take's its toll — and the effects are the same for the cultonel's lady or Judy O'Grady. They are, as the poem goes, sisters under the skin.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I recently learned that a friend of mine is taking gold shots for arthritis. She is a college graduate, middle-aged, and reasonably bright. Is this procedure considered ethical or is the doctor a quack? The shots cost close to $40 each and if my friend is being hoodwinked I'd like to tip her off and report the doctor to the local medical society. I have never heard of gold shots and they sound phony to me. The woman does not know I am writing, therefore I will not sign my name, but believe me, I am — WORRIED SICK.

* * *

DEAR WORRIED: My consultants tell me that gold injections are a recognized form of treatment for rheumatoid arthritis. Although there might be a difference in opinion regarding the effectiveness of these shots, it is routinely used by highly respected physicians. (P.S. to all you rheumatics out there: Please don't write and ask me who in your area gives gold shots. Call your county medical society; I am not recommending this treatment nor am I equipped to recommend doctors who give it.)

Fiance Tries to Shift Blame for His Neglect

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: About 10 years ago I fell in love with a man who also said that I was the right one for him. I didn't hear from him for a while so I wrote and asked him if he had another girl. I told him to write if he cared to.

Then he told me I had hurt his feelings by asking him that. I asked him to forgive me. But he went and found himself another girl anyway.

Do you think he really loved me? Many times people have hurt my feelings, but when they asked me to forgive them I did. But this man I care for holds a grudge.

I am middle-aged and still single. Where do I go now and what do I do? I can't seem to find a decent man. — I Feel Terrible.

Dear Terrible: Not for one minute do I go for that hurt-feelings bit. He is trying to blame you for his neglect. If he loved you, he would have been more than gracious about such an apology.

Do what the other career girls do: keep in the swim, keep yourself active and interested, either by doing volunteer work or taking night courses or joining a hobby club. And keep what's past in the past.

* * *

Dear Doris: I am a widow with a young son, and while he pay our way, I'm still interested, either by doing volunteer work or taking night courses or joining a hobby club. And keep what's past in the past.

Dear Uncertain: Take a gift. Nothing extravagant, but thoughtful and in good taste. If she likes to read, a good book; a record album for her stereo; an exquisite cup and saucer; or a bottle of her favorite perfume. Since they are good friends of yours, you may know some specific thing which your hostess would appreciate.

Better accept and express pleasure in your trip to the art centre. If you stop for refreshments, or pay a visit to another showplace, let that be your treat.

You will get your own back sometime. How long before they will be paying you a visit?

* * *

Confidential to Thirteen: Perhaps G's brother is "not ravenously desirable nor ridiculously attractive" as you say, but if you like him that's good enough for me. C is your chum. Why would she be anything but delighted to have you invite him to a dance?

But is this one of those dances where the girl waits to be asked? If so, you might get C herself to put a bee in her brother's bonnet. Just say casually, "Do you think there's a chance that D might ask me to the dance?"

* * *

(Ask Doris about your difficulty. She will discuss it or send you Jo a source of help.)

Former Tweed Resident 100 Years Old

TWEED — Mrs. Hannah Catherine Doupe celebrated her 100th birthday recently. Her only son Jacob Edmund Doupe, and his wife, from Fort Lauderdale, Florida, arrived with Mrs. Doupe's grandchildren and great-grandchildren for a happy family reunion and a special birthday dinner at the Cosmopolitan Restaurant on No. 2 Highway east of Napanee. They were joined by other family members, including Mrs. Doupe's sister, Mrs. Ella Hannah, of Reidville. A brother, Edmund Doupe, lives in Toronto.

Mrs. Doupe's celebration started on Friday when she was honored at an afternoon party by fellow residents and the staff at Hillcrest Nursing Home, Napanee and by many friends and former neighbors.

The birthday cake, ice cream and tea were served by nurses at the home. Mrs. Doupe was the recipient of many bouquets, gifts and cards from well-wishers.

Telegrams of congratulations to Mrs. Doupe came from Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and from Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield. She received a letter of good wishes from Ontario Premier William Davis, and Member of Parliament Douglas Alkenbrack came at noon to offer his best wishes and to have lunch with the honored lady. From Buckingham Palace came good wishes from the Queen. On Monday, Norris Whitney, MLA for Prince Edward - Lennox visited Mrs. Doupe to present her with a plaque from the Ontario Government.

Mrs. Doupe received her education at Croydon Public School and at Newburgh Academy. She was a teacher at Hughes School near Croydon for four years, and later taught at Reidville, at Pinegrove School near Marlbank, and at Roblin School. In 1892 she married William Amos Doupe and the couple lived at his parents' farm in Camden.

After her husband's untimely death in October, 1896, Mrs. Doupe returned to her parents' home with her small son, and resumed teaching when he went to school.

Many people in that area remember Mrs. Doupe during her 20 years as a saleslady in Robinson's Department Store on Main Street, Napanee, and later when it became an Eaton's Store.

Mrs. Doupe lived in Enterprise before going to Hillcrest Nursing Home in March 1970. She is a member of Grace United Church in Napanee.

"Mrs. Doupe is our oldest member," smiled Rev. Guy Case.

Church Holds Successful Auction Sale

MARMORA — Everything from a boat to books helped to make money at the auction sale held in conjunction with a smorgasbord at St. Andrew's United Church on Friday evening, Aug. 13.

Commencing at five o'clock, a delicious array of salads, cold meats, vegetables and fruit for dessert was thoroughly enjoyed by a good crowd, most of whom stayed to pick up some bargains at the auction sale which started at six o'clock.

With Sid Demorest and Ralph Neal as auctioneers, the sale of old and new, useful and decorative articles which had been donated by the congregation went quickly to the highest bidder.

Members of the Deloro unit of the UCW were responsible for a table of bake goods and home grown vegetables.

The event was a joint effort by the members of the congregation under the chair-

Kitchen Tested Recipes

An Entirely Different Dessert

By MARY MOORE

For such a spectacular and entirely different dessert I found this jellied ring surprisingly easy.

The major advantage of these jellies is that they can be made in advance by hostesses expecting guests. I think that accounts for some of their popularity.

It turned out to be fairly expensive but its beauty is worth the money.

FRUIT FILLED JELLIED GRAPE RING (Serves 8)

2 cups grape juice
2 pkgs. (3oz. each) lemon-flavored jelly powder (or 1 six-oz. pkg.)
¼ cup fresh lime or lemon juice
2 cups cut and seeded green grapes
2 cups watermelon balls (or 1 can pears — see below)
½ cup red wine (optional)
Dairy sour cream

In a med. saucepan heat the grape juice. Remove from heat and stir in jelly powder until dissolved. Stir in lemon or lime juice. Chill until it begins to set. Stir in prepared grapes and turn into a 6 or 8 cup ring mould and chill until firm. When serving time arrives dip bottom of mould in hot water and count to six, then cover with large fancy serving plate and carefully turn over and cut.

Now you have a choice of two (or more) fillings for the centre: 1) Marinate the watermelon balls in the red wine for ½ hr. Drain. Fill centre of mould with these pretty pink balls and use a few groups of curve to garnish edges. Or 2) Cut canned pear halves into eighths and fill centre of mould with them and garnish edges with them too. To serve cut into eight serving size wedges and top each with a dollop of fresh dairy sour cream.

New, beautiful and delicious.

Young People's Team Runs Art Workshop

TWEED — With the co-operation of the Association of Art Galleries of Ontario, communities across the province will have the opportunity to meet teams of young artists and see them at work. The artists will travel in vans bringing their own material tools and equipment. The artists of the team will work in different media and will demonstrate, explain and discuss their projects.

Art Trek is one of the Department of Education's Youth and Recreation Branch, Summer Programs.

There are three teams of young artists touring the province and running workshops in painting, batik and lino-printing. Art Trek is mainly for the teenage community, but any interested persons willing to take an active part in the workshop are welcome. There are no costs involved.

The team to visit Tweed will be Glen Elliot, 25, and Jodi Franklin, 19. Glen is a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan Fine Arts program in 1966. He had his first one - man show in Toronto in 1968. Glen has just returned from a tour of Europe and Asia. Jodi is a student of the New School of Art in Toronto. She has experience in drawing, painting, silk screening, batik, clay and lino worked on set design with the Show Festival.

The workshop will be held August 21 and 22 (Saturday and Sunday) at S. H. Counor Junior School, Tweed, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon; 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Since there is a limited number these two artists can handle, the workshop will be run on "First come, first serve" basis. Interested people should leave their names with Brenda Desharie, phone 478 2825.

Women's Division Depicts 150 Years

Celebrating the 150 anniversary of the Quinte Exhibition, the Womens' Building has something new to offer to fair goers; new exhibits include antique competition for the district Women's Institutes and a show of handicraft from Hastings Manor plus an anniversary cake contest in the food division. On the left, Mrs. Allan Dafoe, director of the Ladies Sewing division hangs winning items of the winter wear. Mrs. Isabell Dowdell shows the 150th anniversary cake display to Mrs. Eilleen Leeman, who judged the antique dinner settings. On the right Mrs. Maude Harrison adds a hand made purse to the attractive and abundant entry from Hastings Manor.

Memorial Service Held at Mount Pleasant Church

RAWDON — A memorial service was held at the Mount Pleasant United Church to honor the pioneers who are laid to rest in the church cemetery and Hubble Hill pioneer UEL Cemetery which is situated across the road from the church.

There were 175 people in attendance for this special centennial service and came from as far away as Bathurst, New Brunswick as well as from Picton, Oshawa, Peterborough and Belleville, Marmora, Campbellford and various places in the surrounding area.

Rev. W. C. Cox presided for the memorial service and Rev. Gordon Whitehorne of Seymour gave the special message which centred around the theme "Fellowship with loved ones who are now departed.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave the dedication message after she placed a container of white mums on the communion table. She said the flowers were in memory of all those pioneers who built their homes in the wilderness and later established Hubble Hill Episcopal Methodist Church in 1871. She also paid tribute to all who have served this church and community in later years. Mrs. MacMullen closed her message with an appropriate poem entitled "The Pioneers".

The Campbellford Salvation Army Band provided music for the hymns.

A letter of greeting was read from a former pastor Rev. W. G. Fletcher of Havelock, who was unable to attend.

Refreshments were served cafeteria style in the church hall and the long table was centred with the decorated anniversary cake and the centennial group was in charge.

Previous to the service loved ones had laid floral arrangements in memory of the deceased.

4-H CLUB

MADOC — The fourth meeting of the Madoc 4-H Club was held at the farm of Don Wannamaker RR 1, Madoc, recently.

At this meeting the Madoc Club invited the Stirling Community Club for a hayride and a weiner roast. There were two urban rural exchanges in the club in which new friends were made. There were also young people from Toronto, Kingston, Belleville, Peterbrough and Detroit.

The meeting opened with the president Gail Brownson saying the 4-H pledge. Secretary Elaine Wannamaker read the minutes of the last meeting. Gail Brownson turned the meeting over to the leader, David Foley, he asked the Stirling and Madoc Clubs to judge a class of four beef cattle belonging to Don Wannamaker, Don Wannamaker and Doug McCoy supplied the tractor and wagon.

All returned to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McCoy's farm where they enjoyed a weiner and marshmallow roast with hostesses Mrs. McCoy, Mrs. Wannamaker, Mrs. Kerby and Mrs. Minton. Bill Cooke of the Stirling Club thanked the women for the weiner roast and thanked the Madoc Club for their hospitality.

It was decided to hold the next meeting of the Madoc Calf Club at the farm of Fred Stein on August 25.

Baby Wins Second Place

Interest in the Baby Show at Quinte Exhibition this year continues to generate conversation among the proud parents who entered children for judging. Deciding winners in the various classes was again a difficult chore as total entries exceeded any previous show since 1968, when the first contest was held. From the beautiful girl contestants in the 13-18-month class, Tracie Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bradley of 12 Mikel Avenue, Belleville, was selected as winner of second place honors.

Price Curbs Should Stay

TOWNSEND, Vt. (AP) — Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith says a continuing restraint on wages and prices is an absolute necessity for a long-term success in the U.S. fight for a stable economy.

"As long as one has strong unions and strong corporations, one is going to have competition between the unions and corporations that can shove up the prices. So, there is going to be a continuing need for some kind of wage-price restraint," he said.

"Those who think otherwise are fooling themselves," the Canadian-born Galbraith said in an interview Tuesday.

Ambassador to India during the Kennedy administration and head of the Wage-Price Control Board during the early years of the Second World War, Galbraith made the comments at his summer farm in southern Vermont. He was born near St. Thomas, Ont.

He said President Nixon's decision announced Sunday to freeze prices and wages for 90 days was not a major reversal of the country's economic policies as a whole. He characterized it as "a major reversal as far as the Nixon administration is concerned," viewed in the light of its public statements over the last 2½ years.

He said the United States has been edging toward some form of wage-price controls for 15 years.

"We've been approaching the whole subject of wage and price control somewhat the same fashion that a conservative clergyman approaches an erotic statue. He knows he must look at it, but he doesn't want anyone to see him do it."

Galbraith called the wage-price freeze a step forward. But the so-called job-expansion part of the Nixon economic message is a step backward.

"It involves, in the main, tax concessions for the well-to-do.

"The 10-per-cent excise tax levy is a step backward. There is a real danger this will reverse the long 25-year trend to lower tariffs, and set an example to other countries, whenever they are in trouble, to shove up their tariffs. As a very large trading nation ourselves, we have more to lose from setting this kind of example than we have to gain from it."

He said any post-freeze guidelines should include the understanding that further pay raises would be based on increases in productivity. And, he added, the controls should be continued only in those industries where strong unions deal with strong corporations, such as in the automotive, steel, nonferrous metals and public service areas.

Galbraith said that if the 90-day freeze gave way to a more permanent form of wage-price restraint, the average wage earner would gain because "pension funds and savings are better protected than they were before."

Fight On To Save Station

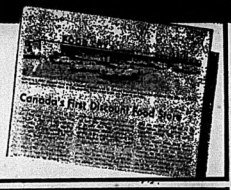
TORONTO (CP) — Union Station, a six-acre railway station in the core of the city, is the subject of a battle between a real estate development company owned by Canada's two major railways and a group of citizens in Toronto.

Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific want to demolish the terminal to include the site in an 18-acre redevelopment plan. The $1-billion project will be the largest in Toronto's history.

The Union Station Committee, formed in June, wants to see the terminal building preserved when redevelopment begins.

Douglas Richardson, a University of Toronto architectural historian and chairman of the committee told a news conference Tuesday his group thinks Union Station "is crucial to the quality of the downtown core."

"It is a touchstone to our social history and it is architecturally excellent."



The committee is supported by the Architectural Conservancy of Ontario and a Toronto citizen's organization.

In July of 1961 Canada's first discount food store opened on Lawrence East at Midland in Scarboro.
The concept was very simple,"an overall lower price line would bring in more customers. The prices would stay the same day-in, day-out. There would be no frills, gimmicks or games. Newer and less costly automated shelf loading was introduced. Computered order processing was utilized and everything was directed at cutting costs. The idea must have been a good one because, as you know, in the last 6 months more than one chain has adopted discount pricing. From this beginning 10 years ago, Food City has developed into a major retailer in Ontario.

First! with food discounting!

First with Compare-a-Unit Pricing!

In April of 1971,Food City introduced Compare-a-Unit Pricing, a new way of taking the guesswork out of food shopping once and for all. Compare-a-Unit Pricing meant no more mental figuring to determine the best buy every time you compare like products in various sizes. The Food City Compare-A-Unit Pricing ticket gives you instant price comparisons. The ticket shows you the cost per ounce, pound, quart, etc. The Food City electronic computer works for you, helping you get the ultimate value for your food dollar.
The idea must have been a good one because this month the Minister of Consumer Affairs urged all chains to institute unit pricing.

Food City introduced Freshness Code Dating so you would know just how fresh your meat purchase was. All store packaged meats such as beef, pork and veal are Freshness Code Dated. The date the meat is packaged in the store is printed clearly on the price label.

First with Freshness Code Dating!

First with nutritional awareness!

Recently Food City told the story of the four basic food groups so necessary to good nutrition. The most important duty for today's homemaker is to make sure that her family is eating a properly balanced diet. The four basic foods and their contribution to good health are just a part of a continuing series of practical information available to Food City customers.

First with glass & can re-cycling!

Food City joined hands with Canada Dry, Bulk-Lift Systems and the Jaycees in creating the "Hungry White Monsters." These monsters are actually containers for the collection of glass and tin cans for re-cycling. To date we have only two locations, both in Metropolitan Toronto. If we receive a positive response, white monsters will be established on more Food City parking lots. A clean environment is everybody's business. Join OPERATION RE-CYCLE.

First with 1971 Facts on phosphates!

Last year everyone was talking about phosphate content and problems of water pollution. The Government set minimal standards and deadlines for manufacturers to reduce these phosphate content. The latest information is posted in all Food City stores.

First with facts on food sizes!

There are many facts about grades, sizes of fruit, standards of quality, etc. that are known by the food industry, but not by the general public. Food City believes that an informed shopper is a smarter shopper. Watch Food City ads for more food facts you should know.

Major City At Cobourg Is Proposed

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Creation of two major cities east and north of Toronto, almost at stopping the city's urban sprawl, were proposed Tuesday by Ontario Treasurer Darcy McKeough.

Mr. McKeough said the two growth areas, in Simcoe County to the north and the Port Hope-Cobourg area to the east, would provide "viable alternatives to a Toronto location for certain kinds of economic activity."

Speaking to a meeting of municipal officials in this western suburb of Toronto, the treasurer said the government has decided to sponsor a team of municipal experts to study the proposals and advise the province. The study team in the northern growth area would include representatives of Barrie, Orillia, Midland and Collingwood, the area's four largest urban centres.

The municipal team, not yet selected, will be asked to advise the province on appropriate policies for development of the areas, their capacity to accommodate a rapid growth of population, and the kinds of industry and recreational activity required.

Mr. McKeough said the strategy is to promote two major growth areas within easy access of metropolitan Toronto, but outside normal commuting range.

The Simcoe study would include the impact such growth centres would have on the whole of northeastern Ontario, particularly North Bay and Sudbury.

The treasurer also reiterated the government's stand in favor of rapid transit lines instead of promoting expressways for automobiles.

Mr. McKeough said that the provincial and federal governments have not chosen a site for a second Toronto airport but that he hoped it could be built in a slow-growth area.

Mr. McKeough said any further urbanization in the Toronto region would be limited to the Lakeshore area, and to designated communities north of the parkway belt, which stretches across Metro, north of Hamilton and east of Bowmanville.

He said a new parkway belt will also be built along the Niagara escarpment, a unique geological formation that runs from the tip of the Bruce Peninsula to the Niagara River.

Population growth will also be controlled, he said. In South Peel, northwest of Toronto, the population allocation would be about one million; in the Woodbridge area, north of the city, it will be 20,000, and about 400,000 in the central York suburban area.

Mr. McKeough said he expects the study will be completed in about a year.

Text of his remarks were released in advance of delivery.

CNE Has Received Major Facelifting

TORONTO (CP) The Canadian National Exhibition is bigger and better than ever this year.

That's an annual claim made by CNE officials, but this time they have some grounds for making it.

The CNE, which opens Thursday and runs through Sept. 6, has undergone a $1,270,000 face-lifting in the last 12 months and it has a glamorous new neighbor.

Officials say the rejuvenated CNE coupled with its neighbor, the provincial government's $23-million Ontario Place, connected to the CNE by a bridge, are an answer to criticism that the CNE is old-fashioned and unimaginative.

Separate admission fees are in effect for the CNE and Ontario Place. CNE prices are $1.50 for adults, $1 for students and 50 cents for children.

Harold Tate, an assistant general manager of the CNE, says he expects attendance at the 93rd CNE will rise at least 10 per cent above last year's 3,171,000, mainly because of Ontario Place.

He says 13 per cent of visitors to last year's CNE came from the United States, and that percentage could rise this year. About $115,000 has been spent by the CNE on newspaper advertisements in the northern U.S.

Quebec has an official exhibit at the CNE for the first time — a $500,000 one showing some of the industry, trade and tourist highlights of the province.

Those people who remember when the CNE was "dry" now have a choice of six licensed liquor outlets. Ontario Place has another six.

No one will go hungry either. Ontario Place has 18 restaurants or snack bars while the CNE has 80.

The nightly grandstand show has a long list of stars, most of whom appear only one night. Comedian Jerry Lewis inaugurates the season Friday, with ticket prices ranging between $4

Catholic Schools Supported

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon, barnstorming the country on behalf of his new economic program, has sidetracked himself long enough to make a strong defence of Roman Catholic parochial schools.

Speaking Tuesday night at a dinner of the Knights of Columbus, an organization of Roman Catholic laymen, Nixon drew the warmest applause after pledging efforts to combat the closing of parochial schools, which he said are shutting down at the rate of one a day.

Appearing after New York's Terence Cardinal Cooke had called for greater federal aid for church-sponsored education, Nixon said:

"I want to associate myself with the remarks of his eminence," and prompted prolonged cheers by declaring that the causes of parochial school closings must be combated.

Five Enter Guilty Pleas

KINGSTON (CP) — Five Kingston Penitentiary prisoners pleaded guilty Tuesday to charges of forcible seizure of guards, held hostage during a four-day riot at the prison last April.

The charges were reduced from kidnapping.

To be sentenced Aug. 27 are Brian W. Dodge, 27, of Petrolia, Leo J. Barrieault, 34, of McAdam, N.B.; Allan LaFrenière, 25, of Toronto; Charles Saunders, 22, of Wallaceburg, and Robert J. Adams, 31, of Mount Clemens, Mich., and Sarnia.

A sixth convict, William James Knight, was discharged by provincial judge Donald Graham after an hour-long preliminary hearing. A charge of forcible seizure against him was dismissed because four guards called as witnesses were unable to identify him.

Knight, 27, of Dresden, Ont., wore a moustache and long hair in court. At previous court appearances his face was clean-shaven and his hair close-cropped.

Six guards were seized by convicts at the penitentiary when the riot broke out about 10:30 p.m. April 14 and were held in cells while the prisoners negotiated with prison authorities and a citizens' committee.

One of the guards, Terrance Decker, was released April 16 in what the rioters called a sign of good faith. The other five were released April 18 before the convicts ended the protest.

Knight and Saunders were two of the three spokesmen who negotiated on behalf of the prisoners during the four days that 500 convicts held the prison's cell blocks and recreation hall.

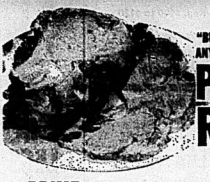
Mr. Decker, 27, told the court Knight and Saunders attacked him, but he was unable to pick out Knight in the courtroom.

A summary of events made by the Kingston police department and read into the court record by Crown Attorney John Sampson said some guards were hurt in the initial takeover, but after that they were well treated and fed.

The synopsis says that when about 78 prisoners were being moved from the recreation area back to their cells, Mr. Decker was seized by Knight and Saunders.

"Knight removed the keys from Decker's hand, injuring same," the summary continues. "Decker also received a blow to the right eye, causing hemorrage and bruises to the neck. Saunders maintained control of Decker by placing his knee on his throat.

"During this melee, Knight rushed into the dome area (an open area which surveys the cell blocks), grabbed the wooden key box and flashlight. . . . He then hollered at Dale, Bushnell and Vallieré to come down."



The reference was to guards Douglas Dale, Kerry Bushnell and George Vallieré, who with Edward Barrette and Donald Flynn were held hostage for the full four days.

"Knight and LaFrenière were wrestling with Dale, trying to get possession of seven keys he had for Range Two" the summary says. "Dale reached through the barrier gate leading to the keepers' hall and dropped them in between the barrier and wood door. Mr. Dale received a blow to the mouth, causing a split lip."

"The guards were transferred a number of times to different cells on the fourth range and under the circumstances were well treated and fed after the initial takeover."

Thirteen convicts, among them Dodge, will come to trial in mid-September on charges connected with the death of two convicts during the riot.

Stoco Lake Yields Mammoth Muskie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two fish which are not angled extensively in Ontario cropped up this week in reports from the department of lands and forests.

A 30-pound sturgeon, famous for its caviar, was caught by Lillian Therriault of Hearst while fishing with worms in the Kenogami River. It took her 40 minutes to land it.

The sturgeon, at one time one of Canada's chief exports of fresh water fish, has declined in numbers over the past 20 years.

Seldom fished by the sportsmen it has been the prime target of commercial fishermen, especially Indians in the province's far north.

Tweed—Twelve-pound pickerel caught in Norcan Lake in Dacre area. Lake trout good in Clear Lake. Bancroft division: Lake trout fair in Weslemkoor and Kamaniskeg lakes. Speckled trout good in small lakes and creeks and rainbows fair in North Vance and Graphite lakes. Pickerel good in Baptiste and Pandash lakes and bass good in Limerick and Baptise. Tweed division: Muskie good in Stoco Lake and pickerel good in Moira, Stoco and Crowe lakes. All trout poor and panfish excellent. Thirty-five pound muskie caught in Stoco on artificial bait.

Lindsay—Pickerel, bass and panfish good in Kawartha and Rice lakes, muskie fair. Pickerel good on worms in Trent River of Northumberland County. Bass good on frogs and panfish on worms and minnows. Speckled, brown and rainbow trout fair in Shelter Valley and Wilmot creeks of Durham County. Pickerel, bass and panfish good and trout poor in Haliburton County.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1971

by
Maurice Switzer
Sports Editor

And I always thought dogs were man's best friends!

Don't tell that to Quinte Exhibition general manager Everett Gowsell or any other of Tuesday's record Belleville Fair opening day crowd of 22,500 who had hoped to get their first look at a Canadian phenomenon — greyhound racing.

The events, scheduled for Tuesday and today's afternoon and evening demonstrations before the Fairgrounds grandstand audience, failed to pan out.

The journalist assigned to cover the canine caper searched high and low, but the best he could unearth was a pair of amorous Dalmations, a blue-blooded Heinz, and a jewel-collared Chihuahua.

Some stray kittens even showed up at the directors' opening reception, but there wasn't so much as a sniff of a greyhound.

Mr. Gowsell confirmed this morning that the only greyhound racing at the 1971 Quinte Exhibition would come if two buses tried to beat each other to a prime Fairgrounds parking spot.

"We're not exactly sure what happened to them," puzzled Gowsell. "They had several other fair dates across the province but we've heard they haven't shown up."

"We're lucky here. We just had them booked as a back-up attraction. In Kitchener (where the greyhounds were supposed to sport their speed at the end of the month) they have them booked as the fair's feature."

"Coursing", as the ancient sport of dog racing is known in Great Britain and Florida where it flourishes, got into a Toronto promoter's head last winter. One Michael Dix, on behalf of "The Canadian Coursing Group", was to bring about 35 hounds to Belleville, Kitchener, London, and Welland to demonstrate their speed in chasing the electrically-operated mechanical rabbit around a special lay-down quarter-mile track.

The emphasis is on the word "demonstrations", since for reasons only known to the federal Justice Department, pari-mutuel wagering is only legal on horses in this country. That is presumably so because people like Conn Smythe and E. P. Taylor can't win the Queen's Plate with dogs.

Queen's Plate for Dogs

Belleville was to be the first of four Ontario fair stops, followed by London, Welland and Kitchener, to be used as feelers. In the event of favourable crowd reaction, the promoters said they would then petition the government for a change in the Criminal Code.

There was also talk of establishing a regular dog racing circuit, with Belleville as a possible stop.

It could be a colossal case of wire-crossing, but the fact remains there are no greyhounds at the Quinte Exhibition, without so much as a word from the promoters about their lack of interest in showing up to collect an $800 fee for their performance.

All of which makes for an embarrassing situation for the Quinte Exhibition, and a black mark already on the record of what was to be a new crowd-pleasing sport in the province.

Perhaps the greyhound owners found more lucrative pastures elsewhere, and felt that, in small communities like Belleville, they were just barking up the wrong tree.

Seals Invite Locals

SHORT JABS — Former Junior B hockey locals Greg Barkley, John McConnell, and goalie Ron Jury have been invited to attend California Golden Seals' NHL training camp beginning Sept. 11 in Oshawa . . . Canadian Amateur Hockey Association vice-president Jack Devine has hinted that Peterborough Junior B Lions have a policy of not including more than two players above juvenile age on their team . . . If you think $5 is a lot to spend on a ticket to watch professional football in Canada, how would you like to pay the $8 stipend commanded by U.S. College teams like Notre Dame? With gate receipts like that, small wonder American athletic scholarships flow so freely! . . . Average attendance for Kingston's new Frontenac Downs Raceway is 2,800, boosted considerably by an opening day crowd over 4,000. But the average pari-mutuel handle is $37,414, not much greater than some of the betting totals posted at Belleville's much less glamorous Quinte Exhibition Raceway . . . Local boosters of Larry Mavety hope to give the husky defenceman a rousing send-off with a Sergeant's Mess stag Friday night at the Armories. An all-star with the Western Hockey League's Denver Spurs the past two winters, Mavety was sold and has been protected by Punch Imlach's Buffalo Sabres who are moving their training camp to St. Catharines from Peterborough this fall.

Minor Winners Most Convincing

The winners left little doubt as to the validity of their wins in Tuesday night Belleville Minor Baseball play - offs as the victors outscored their opposition 40-18 in the three games played.

In Yke game, Mulroney's Sunoco evened their best of three series with Uniroyal Centre by whipping the Tires 17-4.

Greg McEachern and Paul Marineau fired the win allowing six hits and fanning 13. Steve Gilbey smashed two home runs and a triple with McEachern adding a homer and three triples to the winners hitting attack.

Dave Bennett was the best batsman for Uniroyal hitting a double and single. He also shared the mound duties with Bruce Bell. The pair were touched for 16 hits while picking up 13 strikeouts.

Another tyke play-off series opened Tuesday night with Alhambra 399 pasting the CN Yardmen 12-2. Dale McTaggart and Ken Revoy fired three hit ball for the winners fanning 14 and walking seven. Mark Crawford had two homers and single and Revoy a homer and single.

In the first game of a peewee series Foster's Thurlow peewees stopped Pitzgibbon Construction 11-6. Brian Masterson, Randy Adams and Brad Sullivan combined for the three - hit win fanning 10 batters.

Halsey Granted Just Rewards

Harry Halsey of the Bay of Quinte Country Club finally got his just rewards for the kind of dedication that makes a man play golf at 7:30 in the morning.

Playing with brother Art Tuesday morning, Harry sank a hole - in - one on the 145-yard par - three sixth hole.

"It took a crazy hop past the trap," was the description of the nine - iron ace which helped Harry card a 76.

Simonds Hopes Switch Will Work in His Favor

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

Most athletes spend a lifetime in one aspect of a sport and nowhere is that more true than in track and field where months and years may be spent in preparation for one event. Such is not the case with Dave Dimonds a Grand BCI graduate who within the last few months switched from a mile-runner to one of a quarter that distance.

"This is my first year in the quarter mile and even though I've been running it for a few months now I'm still just learning how to run it," says Dave, "I like it more than the half mile but it calls for more speed work."

Even as a rookie at this distance Dave has accomplished considerable while testing out his new event. First in both the Bay of Quinte and the COSSA track meets, Dave moved right into the Canadian Track and Field Association summer meets with wins in both the Central Ontario meet and the Ontario Junior Championships. The juvenile competitor ran his best time of 50 seconds flat at the Junior Championships and along with his 50.6 time at the Eastern Canada Championships Dave will surely be a force to be reckoned with at this week's Canada Junior and Juvenile National Championships in Winnipeg.

Not new to the national scene, Dave who attended last year's Canadian Championships in Vancouver will be leaving Thursday for this weekend's events. He will join the other top five eastern Canadian's 400 - metre specialists in facing the best six of the west at the University of Manitoba's Pan-Am Stadium.

Dave is looking forward to finding out just how far he has come along in the relatively new 400 metres. "I'll probably have to run under 50 seconds to get a medal which is what I'm aiming at. I won in the east though, so if the west isn't too much tougher I should do all right. I haven't seen the results of the west so I can't tell what they will be like but I know Buckley of Toronto, who is the defending champion and Canadian Juvenile record holder at 48.8 will be there."

The 18 - year - old hasn't forgotten his old acquaintance, the half mile, which he has been running through high school. He placed fourth in the All - Ontario Championships while on the high school circuit plus fourth in both the Ontario Senior and Central Ontario Championships and sixth at the Eastern Canada meet. Dave will be running the 800 metres Sunday while running the 400 heats Saturday morning and the finals Saturday afternoon.

"Mentally I like running at least two events. They seem

LIKES

Elastic Legs

It's not exactly what you'd call stretching your coffee break but as far as Dave Simonds is concerned its the next best thing. Simonds knows that a pulled muscle is a runner's greatest nemesis so he makes sure he stretches his groin and leg muscles to tone them for his workout. Dave will be wearing the purple and gold of the Kinsmen Track Club this weekend when he runs in the Canadian Juvenile Championships in the 400 and 800 metres at Winnipeg.

Which Bird Wins?

The early bird catches the worm — or is it the late bird that catches the worm? Whatever the case both statements can be applied to Tuesday night's Commercial League Softball play-off doubleheader at the Alemite.

Rollins Construction pushed across four runs in the top of the first inning and then hung on to defeat Howard and Roberts Printing 4-1 to even that best - of - seven series at 1-1 while Point Anne waited until the eighth inning to score four runs and defeat the Ellis Juniors 7-3. The win gives the Pointers a 2-0 lead in their series.

Four successive singles by Steve Ling, Carl Boomhower, Paul Goodfellow and Wayne McTaggart led off the first inning for Rollins with all four players eventually scoring. Howard and Robert pitcher Bob Ehlrer bore down after that allowing only four more hits the rest of the way without getting in any more serious trouble.

The only time Rollins' hurler Scott Reid let up, the Printers scored with Larry Potter doubling and then racing home on Rod Ridley's rbi single. Other than that Reid was untouchable, picking up 10 strikeouts while issuing only one walk in his two-hit win.

* * *

Point Anne and the Juniors played pass-the-lead around for the second game in a row until the Cementmen's four-run eighth finally buried the Printers.

Two walks, a fielders choice, Rick Rosebush's two run single and two sacrifices allowed four runs to cross the plate for the Pointers in the eighth. The Juniors loaded the bases in the bottom of the eighth but failed to score any more runs.

Don Holoway picked up the win for Point Anne, allowing nine hits while fanning eight. Cook and Rosebush added another single to their first hits while Vern Whalen rounded out the Pointers' hitting with a single.

Ron Hill went the distance for the Juniors giving up eight hits and striking out three. Hill also had a double and single while at bat. Dwyer had two singles and Brian Garlepy, Glenn Carleton and John Sutherland adding singles.

Stadium Proposals Streaming Out of Toronto Region

TORONTO (CP) — Plans for a $45 million domed stadium in the Metropolitan Toronto borough of North York were unveiled Tuesday at a meeting of Metro's executive committee.

Plans include an all-purpose stadium with a seating capacity of up to 55,000, to be built on 55 acres of land which planners hope would be donated by the federal government, or sold by Ottawa at a nominal fee.

Ald. David Rotenberg, chairman of a special Metro committee, said in presenting the plan that the land is worth about $4 million. He said the project would be financed entirely from public funds.

He said that neither the federal nor provincial governments have committed themselves to become involved. The planning committee hopes for contributions of 50 per cent from Ottawa and 30 per cent from the province. Metro would pay the remainder.

Ald. Rotenberg presented figures showing that the stadium would show a profit of about $769,000 a year, not including mortgage costs.

There would be parking for 10,000 cars and expansion of present rapid transit facilities would provide direct public transit.

Artificial turf would be used and the field would be adjustable to handle track, soccer, major league baseball and football.

The stadium would include a national athletic centre—the first of its kind in Canada—to enable amateur athletes to train all year round.

Ald. Rotenberg said an Olympic-size swimming pool could be added later, using funds available from profits.

He said approval from the Ontario Municipal Board would not be necessary if Metro financed its share of the cost out of current funds.

Ald. Rotenberg also said Toronto could get major league baseball in 1972 if it spent $800,000 to $1 million to remodel the Canadian National Exhibition stadium on the city's lakefront.

He said the baseball team could operate temporarily for three years at the CNE until the domed stadium opened in 1975. He said several major league teams are interested in transferring their franchises to Toronto. He did not name the owners.

The plan was the fourth stadium proposal to be made for the Metro area in recent weeks.

Ald. Joseph Piccinnni has proposed a $50-million stadium and convention centre on a 12-acre downtown site. It would be part of the planned $1 billion Metro Centre project.

Mayor Desmond Newman of Whitby, northeast of Metro, has proposed a $70-million open-air stadium in his town. He said a committee of local businessmen planned to finance the project through a lottery.

After council approval, the planning committee would be authorized to negotiate with the federal and provincial governments.

The town council of Richmond Hill, north of here, is pushing a plan for a $50 million to $60 million stadium on a 640-acre site near several major highways.

Hunt Tired of Beans, Bench Bored with Boos

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ron Hunt, tired of being hit, and Johnny Bench, tired of being booed, swung back at the opposition Tuesday night.

Hunt, the pugnacious second baseman of Montreal Expos, was hit twice by pitches—the second setting off a brawl as the Expos pounded out an 11-0 decision over San Diego Padres.

Bench, the National League's most valuable player, home-run leader and runs-batted-in champion in 1970, quieted the boos at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium, slugging a two-runhomer in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Reds a 5-3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston Astros defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 6-5; Atlanta Braves edged Chicago Cubs 5-4; San Francisco Giants downed Philadelphia Phillies 5-1, Los Angeles Dodgers blanked New York 4-0.

Hunt recently broke the modern major league record for getting hit by the pitch the most times in one season, eclipsing the mark of 31 set by Louis Evans of St. Louis in 1910.

JOHNNY BENCH

Against the Padres Tuesday, he was hit for the 33rd time this season by a pitch from loser Steve Arlin in the third inning. Hunt was sicked by another Arlin delivery in the fifth inning —and that's when he began retaliating.

He ripped off the mask of San Diego catcher Bob Barton and landed a hard blow to the face. Then he took a smash to the head, before bashing Barton again as players from both benches poured on to the field.

When matters quietened down, Hunt was ejected by plate umpire Mel Steiner.

Barton and Arlin remained in the game. Arlin, however, wished he hadn't. He was tagged for a run-scoring single by Rusty Staub and a bases-loaded triple by Bob Bailey.

Bertch has been mired in a slump for most of the season—and the Cincinnati fans have been showering him with boos. He turned the boos to cheers with his game-winning shot against the Cards.

The Reds' catcher drilled a pitch from reliever Chuck Taylor over the left centre field wall, scoring Lee May, who had singled earlier in the ninth. It was Bench's 22rd homer of the season and gave him 51 runs batted in.

Cesar Cedeno's two-run single highlighted a five-run seventh-inning rally that enabled Houston to overcome Pittsburgh. Denis Menke and Jesus Alou also singled in runs during the uprising and Doug Rader knocked in the other run with a sacrifice fly.

Rookie Snaps String

A's Out of Gas On Record Road

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oakland Athletics, winners of 12 straight games on the road, four short of the American League mark set by Washington in 1912, had their string broken Tuesday night by a rookie pitcher.

The Athletics managed just one run against Bill Gogolewski, who pitched the Senators to an 8-1 victory over the Athletics, runaway leaders in the American League's West Division.

As a result, Oakland had to be content with a mere half-game pickup on second-place Kansas City Royals who dropped a doubleheader to the Yankees at New York, 2-0 and 8-5.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday, California Angels trimmed Boston Red Sox 4-3, Chicago White Sox swept a doubleheader with Detroit Tigers, winning the opener 6-5 and taking the nightcap 4-1, Cleveland Indians nipped Minnesota Twins 3-2 and Baltimore Orioles edged Milwaukee Brewers 3-2.

Don Mincher drove in four Washington runs with a homer and a single, and Frank Howard cracked his 31st homer of the season, leading the romp over Oakland.

Gogolewski scattered eight hits and contributed three hits for Washington as the Senators shelled Blue Oakland hurler.

Despite their problems with the Senators, the Athletics gained ground on the Yankees who whipped Kansas City twice.

In the second game, the Yankees exploded for five runs in the seventh inning on homers by Felipe Alou and Bobby Mercer to erase a 3-1 Royals' lead.

Vada Pinson drilled two long drives—one staying in the ballpark and the other going out—in Beth provided Cleveland with runs as the Indians shaded Minnesota. Pinson sent Tony Oliva to the fence for his sacrifice fly in the third inning and then tagged one over the wall to snap a tie in the eighth.

Jim Spencer drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double as California scored four times in the first inning against Boston. Then Andy Messersmith survived homers by Rico Petrocelli and Duane Josephson to pitch the Angels past the Red Sox.

Steve Hunt ripped two homers, including a three-run shot in the bottom of the eighth that gave Chicago its first-game victory over Detroit. Then Huntz doubled and scored what turned out to be the Sox' winning run in the nightcap. Walt Williams and Mike Andrews homered for the Sox in the second game.

Quarry Chosen

MEXICO CITY (Reuter) — Muhammad Ali, former world heavyweight boxing champion announced Tuesday he will fight Californian Jerry Quarry in the 108,000-seat Aztec Stadium here in October.

After fighting Quarry, the former champion said he will meet champion Joe Frazier in a return title bout. He said the fight will be in Los Angeles or perhaps Mexico, but he gave no further details.

Ali lost a 15-round decision to Frazier in March in his first attempt to regain the crown.

President's Knowledge Impressive

Nixon Claims Blue Underpaid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon met with Vida Blue at the White House Tuesday and promptly called the sensational left-handed pitcher of Oakland Athletics "the most underpaid player in baseball."

The 22-year-old Blue, manager Dick Williams, owner Charles O. Finley and the Oakland team paid a 15-minute call on the president and when impressed with his knowledge of baseball and the players.

"He's really a sports fan and he knows his baseball," said Williams.

The President had special comments for Blue, who has won 22 and lost four this season for the Athletics, runaway leaders of the American League West.

Team captain and shortstop Sal Bando asked Nixon if the president's new economic policies meant "that Mr. Finley doesn't have to give us a raise next year."

Nixon smiled and didn't answer. He merely turned to Blue and said:

"It means he can't give you any more gas for your car."

Blue makes $13,000 a year but after his early successes, Finley gave him a $10,000 Cadillac. Blue complained that the car was fine but "that thing is going to take more than I make in a year to drive, what with upkeep and gas."

So Finley forked over a credit card.

Nixon then told Blue: "You must be the most underpaid player in the game. Who is the lawyer for this club? I would hate to negotiate your contract next year."

One Hope Left

It has been a year of frustration, disappointment and a drought that has extended since august last year when he won his last tournament.

"I can't got any worse because I've hit the bottom.«If I knew my problems, I would try to solve it."

Cox, 31, whose only victory in 1970 was at the $5,000 Simon Fraser open in Price George, B.C., will have to come up with a brilliant performance when he tees off with an expected 105 players in the CPGA tournament.

The tournament, with defending champion Al Balding of Toronto leading the pack, will be played on the par-70, 6-450-yard Saskatoon Golf and Country Club course.

Also seeking a first-place prize of $5,000 from a purse of $25,000 are Ken Fulton of Montreal, Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., Adrien Bigras of Rosemere, Que., and Jack Bisseger of Montreal.

The four-day, 72-hole tournament ends Sunday.. For Cox, his hard-luck story only goes back to 1969. Tha year he was the top money winner on the Canadian professional tour as he finished first in the CPGA tournament with a 280 and took the Alberta, Saskatchewan and Atlantic opens.

His trouble started in the fall of 1969 when he lost his "approved tournament player" card, which allows Canadian and American professionals to compete on the U.S. tours.

"That's the biggest thing that has affected my game," said Cox, who also failed to pick it up again last year.

"With the short Canadian gold season, you have to take part in the U.S. tours throughout the fall and winter to keep your game up.

Going His Own Way

Symons Frustrated by Ground Game

TORONTO (CP) — Bill Symons, the major ground gainer for Toronto Argonauts in the last four years, is unhappy with his performance so far this season.

"It's frustrating, that's all," the powerful running back said of his contribution to Toronto's three victories this season as he prepared for Thursday night's Eastern Football Conference game against Ottawa Rough Riders.

"I've only carried 22 times in three games, about seven in each game," Symons said. "A back should carry 15 times at least."

But as an afterthought he added:

"... We are winning and I don't care if I only carry 22 times all year, as long as we keep on winning. But as I say, it is frustrating."

Symons gained 908 yards last season on 170 carries for a 5.3-yard average and scored six touchdowns. But this year he has been overshadowed by Leon McQuay, a rookie from Tampa University who has been getting most of the call-carrying assignments.

McQuay, leading scorer in the EFC with 30 points on five touchdowns, has gained 363 yards on 42 carries, compared to 94 yards on 22 carries for Symons.

However, Symons has nothing but admiration for McQuay.

"That McQuay is terrific," he said. "Naturally we use him a lot."

Leads WFC Scorers

Jonas Down, Not Out

TORONTO (CP) — Don Jonas may be down, but not out.

The Winnipeg Blue Bomber quarterback, nursing a shoulder injured in a game last week against Saskatchewan Roughriders, came off the bench Monday night to kick a field goal and a convert in the Bombers' 36-12 loss to Calgary Stampeders.

The four points padded Jonas' lead in the Western Football Conference scoring race to four points over Calgary's Larry Robinson. Jonas has 31 points.

Robinson, who also had a four-point night, converting four of the Stampeders' five touchdowns, moved into second place ahead of Saskatchewan fullback George Reed whose 24 points included a conference-leading four touchdowns.

In other WFC statistics released this week by the Canadian Football League that do not include Monday night's game:

—Reed, the 'Riders' workhorse, has a CFL career mark for most carries 1,998 and is taking a shot at two other league records:

—Bob LaRose, Winnipeg Blue Bomber end, has taken an early lead in the pass-catching department with teammate Jim Thorpe:

—Jonas is setting a hot pace among conference passers.

Reed has already cracked the 10,000-yard barrier, only the second CFL performer to reach that plateau, and is taking a long-range run at the 10,909 yards rolled up by Johnny Bright, former Calgary and Edmonton Eskimo star. Reed now has 10,140 yards.

The Saskatchewan fullback's 86 touchdowns since joining the club in 1963 have come 14 shots within five of the career total compiled by running back Dick Shatto in 12 seasons with Toronto Argonauts.

Jonas' versatility is registered in the Winnipeg offence. His point production—made up of one touchdown, 10 converts, four field goals and three singles—accounts for more than one-third of the Bombers' 102 points this season.

He has also passed for a conference-leading six touchdowns in Winnipeg's five games, completing 68 of 124 passes for 1,098 yards.

His closest rival, Ron Lancaster of Saskatchewan, has made good on 55 of 116 for 666 yards and only one touchdown.

LaRose, a six-foot-three, 215-pounder from the University of Western Ontario, is getting his first opportunity to perform offensively in his second year with the Bombers.

Though listed as a defensive back, he's been used almost exclusively as an offensive end and shares the WFC pass-catching lead of 18 with Thorpe, a flanker.

But LaRose has produced 345 yards, a conference first, to Thorpe's 323. Another Bomber, rookie running back Bob Kraemer, is next on the list with 15 receptions.

Bill Van Burkleo, acquired by Calgary from Ottawa Rough Riders early in the season, tops WFC punters with a 45.3-yard average.

Lions Pin Hopes On Kicker's Toe

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coach Eagle Keys is counting on a win for his British Columbia Lions in tonight's Western Football Conference game against Edmonton Eskimos, and the outcome could hinge on the toe of punter-turned-place kicker Ken Phillips.

A victory would put B.C. alone in second spot behind Calgary Stampeders, and the Lions would still have at least a game in hand over the other three WFC clubs.

Phillips established himself as a place kicker 18 days ago when he replaced Ted Gerela. He promptly kicked five field goals in five attempts as the Lions won their first game of the season, 29-16 over Winnipeg.

The question is whether Phillips can repeat his performance before a home crowd.

"It's always tougher at home," says Phillips, "and especially after what I did in Winnipeg.

"But I don't think I'll miss too many, I've got confidence from the 45-yard line in and anything over 50 yards is half luck anyway."

Phillips is a conventional place kicker, a left footer who hits the ball squarely on the toe.

B.C. lost to Edmonton 20-19 two weeks ago, but the Eskimos have made a lot of changes since then, most of them coming after Calgary crushed them 31-1 last week.

Larry Lawrence, with B.C. for a five-day trial before going to Edmonton, will back up starting quarterback Don Trull. Rusty Clark, the former backup man, is on a five-day trial.

Other changes include ex-Blue Bomber Charlie Bryant, replacing injured Jim Thomas at halfback, and Al Namanny, being reactivated to replace receiver Terry Swarn. Swarn has been placed on waivers subject to recall.

A GIRL GREW UP IN RUSSIA by Elisaveta Fen

Elisaveta Fen's father was a provincial governor in Czarist Russia and the family lived in a style similar to that of Edwardian England. The story starts with Elisaveta's first days at boarding school at age 11 and ends with the day she sets forth to meet "real life" at a university in St. Petersburg. A charming autobiography given added poignancy by the impending revolution.

LONGHOUSE IN SARAWAK by Mora Dickson

In 1949 John Wilson left Scotland for South-east Asia, to take up a post with the government of Sarawak. Later he went into the jungle to work with the Dayaks and there he instituted an experiment in education. His idea was that instead of imposing an orthodox system of teaching, rather the Dayak way of life should be preserved and the people taught to be responsible for their own affairs. This is a warmy human account of a primitive people.

ON THE SIDE OF THE APES by Emily Hahn

Emily Hahn, author and contributor to the "New Yorker" has kept many varieties of primates as household pets. She became interested in the way in which apes and monkeys are being used in research and out of that interest has come an unusual book. There are many biological and psychological similarities between man and the ape, with research being carried on into every facet of physiology and behavior. Miss Hahn evokes the sights and sounds of the breeding stations, the laboratories and even private homes where primates have been tutored and tested, studied and bred.

BORN BLACK by Gordon Parks

This very gifted Negro author, photographer and composer presents his view of the black revolution of the 1960s. Here are portraits of Stokely Carmichael, Muhammed Ali and Malcolm X, the Black Muslims and the Black Panthers. And throughout he reveals his own intense feelings over the problems of being born black.

PILGRIM SON by John Masters

In two previous volumes of autobiography, John Masters told how he became a professional officer of the old Indian Army and how he matured as an officer and as a human being in the flames of the Second World War. "Pilgrim Son" is the third in the sequence. It begins in August of 1945 as the sun is about to set on the British Empire and ends nine years later with author an American citizen and a successful novelist. His sense of humor, his warmth and his appreciation of America suffuse this account of the turning of a British soldier into an American writer.

CHALK DUST AND CHEWING GUM by Freda Bream

Mrs. Bream's return to teaching after 20 years was almost accidental, but she found herself in a city school with a class of low-ability children under her care. Her lazy unscrupulous and often dirty pupils emerge as lively, entertaining individuals and the problems and compensations of teaching are described with humor.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rennbough left late Friday for Window Rock, Arizona, where they will join their daughter, Carole, and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Rod Cole, in their work with the Navajo Indian people. They have crossed the continent well over 40 times.

On their return from a recent 28 day bus trip, to Fairbanks, Alaska, sponsored by the Franklin Spirit Coach Lines, during which they travelled over 10,000 miles, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. George Davidson, Mr. Amos Caverly and Mr. Jim Robertson of Marmora report that they enjoyed the trip but would not like to repeat it. The great distance between places and the terribly dusty roads were the main drawback. Accommodations were fine and the food good but expensive, reported Mr. McCoy. Franklin Smith drove the entire distance and was accompanied by Mrs. Smith and their two sons, Greg and Stephen.

Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Lunau have started to build a new home to replace the one lost when the former Zion schoolhouse burned down.

Questions And Answers

By The Ontario Motor League

QUESTION: We want to take our children on a nice, relaxing trip in New York State and maybe do some camping and fishing. Could you suggest a suitable route I am a member of the Motor League. — Mr. J. D. Belleville, Ontario.

ANSWER: Take Highway 401 to Kingston and the ferry to Wolfe Island. From the south side of Wolfe Island, the Cape Vincent Ferry takes you to the New York mainland. Take route 12E south to Watertown N. Y. — here your wife may like to do some shopping. From here take Route 3 east, which winds through the vast Adirondack Mountains to Tupper Lake where you can stop and swim, fish, (permit required) and rent boats at Blue Jay campsite on Big Tupper Lake. This is privately owned and reservations can be made. Other very good camp - sites are also available here. Turn south at Tupper Lake and take Route 30 for 35 miles to Long Lake and Blue Mountain Lake. A few miles to the south of here is the Adirondack Museum, open June 15 - Oct. 15, depicting man's life in the failed mountains. Then continue 40 miles on Route 30, to Speculator, where there are many good campsites, fishing, boating etc. South on Route 30 you will come to the Sacandaga Reservoir and Park. This is a lovely unspoiled area and not too crowded by tourists.

From here, turn east on Route 4 and Route 9N to Lake George, a beautiful jewel of a lake surrounded by mountains and one of New York's more popular resorts with many dude ranches. Take a cruise on Lake George. The Lake George Steamboat Co. offers daily trips at 10:30 a.m. round fare $4.50. The Miss Lake George Speedboat Co. offers 15 - mile island and shoreline cruises daily 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. — fare $1.50. Gaslight Village is ½ mile south on US 9. It features continuous Gay Nineties entertainment, including silent movies and Variety acts. Admission including all rides is 3.95 for adults and $2.50 for children. Storytown U.S.A. is on Route 9, four miles south of Lake George and offers more than 30 storybook settings with live characters and animals. - Fantasy Ride section has a wide variety of rides for the children. Ghost-town recreates a mining town highlighted by stage shows. Rides include an ore train passing an underground waterfall and a mine explosion — safaris through Jungle Land following trails through tropical under-growth. Admission including rides is $4.35 for adults and $2.95 for, children 3 - 11.

Take Route 9N from Lake George north to Ticonderoga — this scenic drive extends through lovely scenery along the shore of Lake George for 40 miles. Here is Fort Ticonderoga, a stone fortress and military museum with an extensive display of firearms of every description used during the French and Indian Revolutionary Wars. This should appeal to the men in the family. Open daily 9 a.m. until dusk. There are two good campsites here where you can rent boats and fish. Adults $1.50 and children $1.00 — under 12 free.

From here continue on Route 22 north to Westport, N.Y., Route 9N went to Keene, and north to Upper Jay. Here you have the Land of Make Believe — a colorful child-scale village of fairy - tale houses and an early western town. Admission for adults is $2.95 and $2.00 for children 5 - 16.

Whiteface Mountain is about 10 miles north on Route 86, where they have chair lifts to carry tourists to the summit of Whiteface Mountain — a height of 4,867 ft.

High Falls Gorge a few miles on Route 86, is a deep ravine cut into the base of Whiteface Mountain with spectacular waterfalls. Follow Route 86 to Lake Placid and Saranac Lake, both famous all - year resorts which offer every kind of sport imaginable. From here take Route 3 to Watertown, N.Y., by passing it on No. 342, then Interstate 81 to Ivy Lea Bridge, and No. 25 along the water to Gananoque, 401 home.

Youth Fares Bring Suit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 30-year-old lawyer and his 28-year-old wife filed suit in Federal District Court Tuesday seeking $50 million in damages from international airlines offering youth fares.

Dennis Elsman, who filed the class action suit for his wife, Sandra, and all persons over 26, alleges in the suit that the airlines are engaged in a conspiracy to deprive the plaintiffs of equal protection of the law and due process of law and unjustly interfere with their rights to travel freely by subjecting them unjustly to discriminatory fares.

Elsman said he decided to file the suit when he and his wife went to buy tickets for a trip to Rome. Regular high-season fare for a one-week trip tickets are $730, while youth fares, for persons 12 to 25, are $199 for the same seat.

Socred Doctor Resigns

VICTORIA (CP) — Dr. G. Scott Wallace, Social Credit member of the legislature, announced Tuesday night he has resigned from the party, but will continue to sit as an independent member for Oak Bay, the riding he has represented since 1969.

In his formal letter of resignation sent earlier Tuesday to Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Dr. Wallace said his main reason for leaving the party was that the government continued to ignore the role of the private member.

The recent order-in-council giving Health Minister Ralph Loffmark authority to decide which doctors should have hospital privileges was simply the "last straw," Dr. Wallace said in an interview.

He said he also felt the government was steadily becoming more authoritarian and less democratic.

"This time it happens to be just the doctors who are having their rights and freedoms infringed. But I firmly believe that in the light of this aging, dictatorial government other small segments of our population will be brought under government control as time goes by."

Doctors Told Price Of Liberty

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Tuesday doctors in the province have full freedom of action if they agree on a ceiling on the cost of medical care insurance.

Speaking at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon, the premier said the doctors would not discuss this with Provincial Secretary Wesley Black and Health Minister Ralph Loffmark and therefore an order-in-council was issued which empowers Mr. Loffmark to say in which hospital a doctor may practise.

He said it was a public order-in-council—not a secret one—open to the press and the public so they could see what the government was doing.

Mr. Bennett said when doctors understand the situation their approach will be different.

He said:

"We have no thought of telling a doctor where to practise. They flock into Vancouver, Victoria and Kelowna, but the people must have the right to say where the new ones should go on a per-capita basis."

The premier said:

"We can't live with costs that go right out the window. Our population is going up 2.9 per cent a year. The cost of medicare is going to go up that 2.9 per cent.

"Then, for improvement of medicine, perhaps another seven per cent or so, after taking care of the increase in population."

Quinte Mall Is Open

Shopping Spree in Full Flow

Belleville's biggest shopping spree surged into action at 9:30 this morning as 10,000 people poured through the doors of Quinte Mall in its first minutes of operation.

Every parking space around the mall was occupied and people were swarming in on foot and by bus to start the new commercial venture off with an attendance "that surpasses our expectations," according to general manager David Blandford.

And the people of Belleville and the Quinte district were given full credit for the existence of the mall, in ribbon-cutting speeches by officials.

"You, the citizens, led and carried on the fight to have the Ontario Municipal Board declare the mall necessary and possible," said Charles Tabachnick, president of Cambridge Leaseholds, owners and builders of the mall.

He also remarked on the strong civic backing the enterprise had received.

Mayor J. Russell Scott, who cut the ribbon to officially mark the opening, thanked "the people who signed the petition that made this possible".

He had a personal thank - you for the company that provided the funds.

"Thanks to the confidence of the Prudential Insurance Company, we all have a piece of the rock in our area," he said, referring to the mortgage money advanced by the company.

With Mr. Tabachnick and the mayor on the platform in front of the main entrance, were J. C. Barrow, chairman of the board of Simpsons - Sears, and Mel Dobrin, president of Steinbergs Ltd. Both made only brief addresses, saying that "cash registers are waiting to start ringing in there, and we know you're here to start them going".

And the crowd did just that. Although many were sightseers, a large number of the 10,000 people in the mall in the morning were there to shop.

City police were present to keep traffic flowing, and Inspector Ralph Blackford operated a look-out point on the roof of the Ontario Provincial Police buildings. By mid-morning traffic was backed up 1½ miles south on North Front St. but still moving slowly. Traffic from the north and from Highway 401 was moving normally into the mall area.

Transient Nights Lonely

VANCOUVER (CP) — A night in the life of a transient is a lonely experience.

It's 10:30 on a drizzly Vancouver night and you need a place to sleep.

You wander around downtown streets asking where to find a hostel. A tired, shaggy-looking fellow with a knapsack says he's been trying to find one for two hours.

Finally a young couple give directions to the Youth Referral Centre run by the city. Hitch-hiking is easy in Vancouver so it doesn't take long to get a lift to the centre.

It's a two-room trailer on a vacant lot in a quiet, run-down residential section. Outside are greeting signs in French and English. Inside are forms to fill out: height, weight, sex, complexion, hometown, education, future plans.

Travellers under 25 who have no money are sent to the trailer where young city employees give them a choice of several hostels or a private home. They get a welfare voucher for four nights' accommodation and two meals a day.

A scared-looking boy about 13 turns up and asks if he can go to a hostel. He's too young and one of the workers calls the Children's Aid.

A couple with a cat wander in. The guy, who is coughing and limping, says he has a broken toe and he thinks he has pneumonia. A centre worker offers to take him to a hospital. His girl-friend wants to stay with him but she's told she'll have to go to a women's hostel.

A tall, skinny youth with tangled, shoulder-length black hair who is waiting for a voucher talks non-stop about his latest trip. But no one is really listening to his monologue.

There are two hostels for women in Vancouver. One, Alex House, is across the street from the trailer. It's an old converted hospital that looks like a school.

Girls and their boy-friends sitting on the steps stare appraisingly as you approach with voucher clutched in hand.

You smile and no one smiles back.

Inside, hostel workers break off their conversation and acknowledge you with an expressionless look as you hand over your voucher.

"There's food in the kitchen if you're hungry and you can sleep in bed No. 10 upstairs," says one of the workers.

You're not hungry and you have the uncomfortable feeling that you're imposing, so you go upstairs.

Another girl walks into the room. You say "hi" and she stares blankly, then leaves. A clothes dryer keeps up a steady boom-boom-boom.

A few more girls drift into the room. They don't talk.

The bedroom is large and chilly with a wooden floor and about 35 heavy iron beds. The light is left on and people shuffle around until after midnight. Downstairs a radio blares full blast on a rock station.

A voice asks in desperation if someone will help untie her sleeping bag. You go over to help.

It seems you've just got to sleep when it's 7:30 a.m. and a hostel worker is walking through the room saying in a monotone: "Good morning, time to get up."

She returns a few minutes later to poke the slower risers and consult her list to see which ones have used up their four nights' accommodation.

The smell of burnt toast leads you to the kitchen downstairs. There's a garbage bag containing a dozen pieces of still-smoking, coal-black toast. The heat control on the toaster doesn't work.

A girl breaks several eggs into a frying pan and tortments them with a flipper. "I hope you guys can stand my cooking."

Four girls decide to leave without eating. Two are going to meet their boy-friends, another is hitch-hiking to Calgary. The fourth doesn't say.

Outside it's raining. There's not much to do but walk the streets until nightfall, when the hostel doors open again.

MOST ARE BROKE

"They're not travelling for the fun of it," Smith says. "If there were jobs, they'd take them."

The average age of persons applying for assistance is 18 or 19 and the average educational level is Grade 11. There are more than five times as many males as females.

Most don't plan to go back to school and they can't find work, Smith says. When asked what they're going to do, "they honestly don't know."

He says most of those who turn up at the centre aren't political and "they aren't hippies actively seeking a counter-culture—all the real hippies have gone off into the woods to set up communes."

Most of them don't follow the "love and peace philosophy" and they don't care much about each other.

"All they care about is where their next meal is coming from."

Fountain with Youth

A day in the park, under the sun and a little bit of fun are shared by models Dawn Smrke and Douglas Curran, who are wearing the latest in today's fashions. Known as unisex clothing, these styles can be worn by both male and female. Belleville's newest downtown shop, Belts and Bottoms, is the first shop in the city to cater entirely to such fashions.

Unisex Clothing Featured By Shop

Matching clothes for male and female are nothing new; in fact, at the dawning of time, there was very little difference in clothing or the lack of it.

Belts and Bottoms, latest tenant at 209 Front Street, has become downtown Belleville's first store devoted entirely to the sale of what is now known as unisex clothing; clothing of the same color combinations styled for both males and females.

With constant sound blaring from a loudspeaker mounted on the floor at the shop entrance, the new store is designed for the young and young at heart.

"We don't aim all of it at the young set," said Barry Height, a Leamington research analyst who sets up new stores in the chain of nisex shops.

"The store adds a little flair to the downtown section," he added.

Employing one full - time salesman and a par - time helper, the shop still needs a manager.

Asked why the chain didn't locate in the new mall, Mr. Height said "we could have had the mall, but it cost almost double the rent. Rent here is so much lower that we can save between 20 and 30 cents on every dollar."

And the shop which opened Friday, Aug. 13 has just stocked its shelves with more than $10,000 in clothing which ranges from rainbow colors to semi - conservative with-prices between $235 and $19.95.

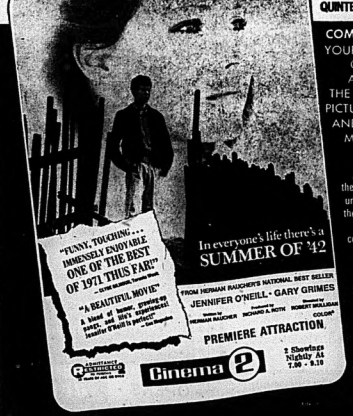
Youth Missing, Feared Drowned

OUTLET PARK (Staff) — Provincial Police aqua recovery teams have been searching the waters of Lake Ontario near here for a 20-year-old Belleville youth reported missing in his kayak nearly two weeks ago.

Gregory Boyle of 11 Fifth Street, left Belleville several weeks ago with Presqu'ile Park as his destination.

He was last reported seen Aug. 6.

Picton detachment, OPP have recovered his craft, washed up on the shores at Sand Banks Provincial Park near Lakeshore Lodge.



The Ontario Provincial Police rescue boat yesterday and today are searching the waters off Outlet Park in the belief that the youth's kayak may have become swamped in rough water.

Holloway Flag at Half-mast

Half of Tuesday night's Thurlow-Sidney Softball League semi-finals went according to plan but in the other half, pennant - winning Holloway was bounced by Crookston.

Two unearned runs in the seventh inning gave Crookston a 6-4 win over the favored Holloway squad. Larry Barnard and Gord Spencer saw action on the winners mound. They gave up seven hits while fanning eight and walking three. Dobson had two safeties for the winners.

Andy Faulkner went the route for Holloway giving up eight hits while striking out six. Gale Allen had two hits for the losers including a home run.

Dicken's Voyageurs took a one-game lead in their best-of-seven series with Glen Miller by virtue of a 3-1 win. Norm Lockhart picked up the win giving up only two hits while walking two and striking out nine. Stan Dafoe had two hits for the winners including a home run with Bob Ellis adding the only other hit.

Rick Peterson and Rick Hill, combined on the losers mound allowing three hits and fanning four. Wayne McGeachy and Gord Ridder had the only two safeties for Glen Miller.

Next game in both series will be this Thursday at Stirling commencing at 7 p.m.

Sport Briefs

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — James Edmund Mahon, 18, a right winger last season with Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, died Tuesday of asphyxiation after being electrocuted while

Police said Mahon, of nearby Maidstone Township, was electrocuted while working at his home on a water pump while it was turned on.

In 62 games with Peterborough last season, Mahon had 45 goals and 44 assists. He came to the Petes two years ago in a trade with Hamilton Red Wings.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati first baseman Lee May and manager Sparky Anderson, ejected from Sunday's game against Chicago, have been fined $100 and $50 respectively by the National League, the NL has announced Tuesday.

May and Anderson were kicked out of the game in the seventh inning for home plate umpire Dick Stello. May began arguing with Stello after being called out on a strike. Anderson was booted when he also put up a beef with Stello.

Girls Took Time

The victory may not have been as swift but it was just as effective when Turcotte Heating finally prevailed as champions of the Belleville Minor Girls' Softball junior league.

The Heaters batuled through three weeks of round robin playoff competition before taking the championship Tuesday night with a 27-26 win over Clayton's TV.

Both the Senior and Junior leagues will be out in full force this Saturday when the annual Field Day will be held at the Alemite.

Printers Prolong Life

One team prolonged their play-off life while another will be facing a long winter after Tuesday night's Belleville Minor Softball play-off action.

The Richard Ellis Printing peewees steamed Woodland Dry Cleaners 16-6 to even their series at one game apiece. Bill Forbes fanned 12 batters and cranked a homer to pace the Printers. Greg Godfrey had a homer, triple, and two singles, John Jiandoplexus a home run and a single and Chris Graham a triple, double and single all for the winners.

Dale Vance had a homer and double for Woodland.

William Belch and Son saw a grand slam homer from Perry Cornell of the ANAF Vets sink them 14-12 and eliminate them from the Peewee 'B' round robin play-off series.

Barbeau Pots Seven

Rick Barbeau shook his lacrosse stick and out rolled seven goals which was more than enough for the Queen's Motor Hotel.

The Hotelmen potted five more goals in bombing the 707 Jets 12-1 in the third of a trio of Belleville Minor Lacrosse play-off games. Chris Rutledge, and Steve Wilson added two goals apiece with Jim Charlebois scoring the odd marker. Brian McMahon tallied the only Jets goal.

In a midget contest the Belleville Auto Dealers nipped Marv's Exxo 5-3. Don Nuttall had four goals and John Lederer one for the winners. Audie Brant, Glen Sine and Steve Muldoon each potted one for Marv's.

In the first game of the night Bob's Sports navy blanked the Golden Mile 5-0. Brad Miller had the hat trick for Bob's with Gerry Hooley and Barry Wilson adding one goal each.

Likes Two Tries

to compliment each other and the 400 metres is phychologically more satisfying as you only have to run around the track once instead of twice," says Dave.

"The meet this weekend is what I've been working for all year, though. I usually work out about four times a week with calisthenics, jogging, plus some speed work like 200 metre overloads — six 220's under 30 seconds with ten minutes rest in between. The Kinsmen meets around the area have been helpful too because I had a chance to work on style."

Dave who will be attending Waterloo University in a Physical Education course this fall is looking forward to some good coaching and some highly competitive meets throughout Canada and the States. "I feel I have to be pushed because its just too easy to slack off when you work alone. I think the University coaches will supply that push."

Unlike many of our athletes Dave was fortunate in acquiring the needed fund for his trip to Winnipeg from the Kinsmen Club and Belleville Minor Sports Associations. "I'll be reimbursed up to $140 which I'm very thankful for. Special thanks to Mrs. Elsie Jokinen who pulled for me all the way."

Dept. of Agriculture and Food

CAN ARDA HELP YOU?

ARDA can pay cash — up to $750 per farm — to help you improve your agricultural resources. Up to $50.00 per acre for land better suited for other uses. ARDA gives special consideration to rural people who want to improve their farms and who wish to develop their own employment opportunities. Ask about ARDA's Rural Development Program. Special arrangements for older farmers who want to sell their farms entirely to other ARDA farmers.

A.R.D.A. is a Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food. For more information contact your County Agricultural Representative, Stirling, Brighton, Brighton or Bowmanville.

Organized Labor Braced for Showdown Meeting on Pay Freeze

WASHINGTON (CP) — West Coast longshoremen, who have tied up U.S. Pacific ports for seven weeks, will respond today to an appeal by the Nixon administration to end their strikes as part of the sacrifices necessary under new belt-tight ened economic policy. J. Courtis Counts, director of the federal Construction board, asked for an end to all strikes on a voluntary basis.

Counts said he had the legal authority to force workers back if necessary.

The West Coast longshoremen, represented by Harry Bridges's International Longman's Union, will hold a news conference at noon PDT to announce their plans. They are the largest union now on strike. Some 150,000 workers are striking throughout the United Sates.

Counts said the administration will not wait "too long" before it imposes legal orders on strikers. He said the same law the president invoked for the wage-price freeze could also be used to bar strikes.

The mediation board can impose a fine of up to $5,000 for each violation and seek injunctions against strikers.

"There is little reason for stoppages to be in effect when there is no wage increase to be implemented," Counts said.

Even before Counts made his announcement, Floyd Green, president of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, accused the president of "strike-breaking on an unprecedented scale."

"No other administration in history has ever demanded that every American on strike return to work on terms that drive them to strike in the first place."

"In effect," Smith said, "the nation's chief executive has become the nation's chief strike-breaker."

Organized labor, meanwhile, is bracing for a face-to-face showdown meeting with administration leaders Thursday.

Nixon tapped a top economic adviser, George Shultz, and Labor Secretary J.D. Hodgson to respond to questions and criticism of AFL-CIO President George Meany, who called the wage-price freeze a bonanza for businessmen that would make workers suffer.

Shultz director of the White House office of management and budget, and Hodgson are to meet with the AFL-CIO's 35-man executive council to answer questions about the freeze and strike moratorium.

Leaders of the 12.6-million-member AFL-CIO voiced a host of questions and criticisms in advance of the meeting.

"We want to know what happens to all these labor contracts in existence including the obligations of employers to pay more money under wage step-ups," said a spokesman for Meany.

Government sources said such wage increases, along with others, were included under Nixon's 90-day freeze.

"What about companies that have already raised prices based on what future costs will be, and now the costs will be held down because they won't have to pay wage increases, and at the same time there is no attempt to freeze profits and interest rates?" added the labor spokesman.

Labor leaders at the meeting also are expected to ask Shultz and Hodgson about the effect of freezing wages, but letting some food prices escape the price freeze.

Government officials confirmed Nixon's exemption of "raw agricultural commodities" probably will apply at the supermarket to such unprocessed items as eggs and fresh fruits and vegetables. They added that processed foods—such as meats, butter, bread, pasteurized milk and frozen foods—will be covered by the price freeze.

In New York, Communications Workers of America said it will not stop its strike against the telephone company.

"We are not going back to work," said Don Keenana, president of Local 1100 of the CWA, which has 38,500 persons on strike across New York state.

Dirty Air Is Costly

TORONTO (CP) — An unpublished study by York University economist estimates that air pollution will cost each Canadian city-dweller $115 a year by 1980.

The averages for Ontario and Toronto are higher; $137 and $200.

House painting and repair, laundry, corrosion of factory plant, animal and human health are among the losers.

Richard Zerbe, now an economist at the American Bar Foundation Centre in Chicago, prepared the study two years ago under a grant from the province. He says he feels the damage figures are conservative estimates and probably accurate within about 25 per cent.

Mr. Zerbe says that when he did the study, he was asked by the province not to talk to reporters about it and he feels that the government has attempted to play down the significance of the findings.

Shirley Sutherland Faces New Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal judge denied Tuesday defence motions to dismiss charges against Shirley Jean Sutherland, 36-year-old daughter of T.C. Douglas, former New Democratic Party leader.

Mrs. Sutherland, the wife of actor Donald Sutherland, is on trial with Donald Freed on three dismissed earlier, invalid laws regulating possession of hand grenades. The charges were dismissed earlier, but the dismissal was overturned on an appeal by the prosecutor.

The prosecution contends that Mrs. Sutherland, a mother of three, and Freed, 37, a west Los Angeles school teacher, planned to give the grenades to the Black Panthr party.

The defence asserts the grenades were planted by a police undercover agent.

U.S. District Judge Warren Ferguson ordered a hearing for Nov. 30 on whether the defendants can receive a fair trial. Defence lawyers contend that police officers heard tape recordings of conversations involving the defendants and a defence investigator.

Anzacs to Quit Vietnam by Christmas

CANBERRA (Reuter) — Prime Minister William McMahon announced today that most of Australia's troops would be withdrawn from Vietnam by Christmas.

At almost the same time, Prime Minister Sir Keith Holyoake announced in Wellington that all New Zealand combat troops in South Vietnam would be withdrawn "by about the end of this year."

Holyoake told Parliament that the decision had been taken after consultation with the government of South Vietnam, the United States and Australia.

In Canberra, McMahon told the House of Representatives that only some military training and advisory elements will be remaining in South Vietnam next year, "if they are wanted and if satisfactory arrangements can be made."

Australia has two battalions of troops, plus other army, navy and air force units in South Vietnam. Current strength is 6,000 strong, following a peak of 8,000 in 1968.

The Australian government first committed troops to South Vietnam on a large scale in 1965.

McMahon said the government also has approved an aid package for South Vietnam totalling $28 million to be spent during the next two years.

"The forces will begin withdrawing in the next few months, giving the Vietnamese time to adjust their force dispositions."

McMahon also announced a reduction in the period of the active draft for Australian men from two years to 18 months. The number of men called up each year would remain unchanged at 8,000.

Truman Says Gen. Marshall Agree McArthur Should Go

MacArthur was commander of United Nations troops in Korea.

Truman, in an interview in this month's Esquire magazine, said he had "called everybody together" at the peak of his dispute with MacArthur and told them:

"I'm going to fire that ... right now."

Interviewer Robert Alan Arthur quoted Truman as saying:

"Everyone agreed except George Marshall, who said it would hurt troop morale in Korea and we'd have trouble getting military appropriations through Congress."

The magazine quoted Truman as telling Marshall:

"George, you go back to the Pentagon and read the file of correspondence on MacArthur in the last two years. Then, be in my office at 9 tomorrow and if you tell me at that point not to fire him, I won't."

When Marshall returned, he told the president he had spent most of the night reading the file, Truman said.

Marshall was quoted as telling Truman:

"You should have fired that ... two years ago."

Truman said he fired MacArthur as supreme UN commander for two reasons.

First, he opposed MacArthur's view that the army of Nationalist China should be used in Korea. Truman said he believed MacArthur's policies in that area would have brought on a third world war.

Second, Truman felt MacArthur refused to respect presidential authority and challenged it.

"The traditional civilian supremacy of our government."

250 Persons Missing After Volcano Erupts

COYHAIQUE, Chile (Reuter) — Rescue squads inched their way through thick black smoke and driving rain into a remote Andean Valley Tuesday in search of 250 persons, missing since a previously inactive volcano erupted into life Friday.

Officials said Tuesday night three bodies have been found. But they still held out hope that many of the 10,000 head of cattle in the valley must have been killed by the lava or drowned in torrents of water sent gushing down the mountain as lava melted the high snows.

Chilean Interior Minister Jose Oxa Tuesday flew over the disaster area—the Huemules Valley in the barren foothills of Los Andres, 1,000 miles south of the Chilean capital of Santiago—and described the scene as catastrophic.

He said he will ask President Salvador Allende to declare a state of emergency.

"The interior minister said many of the 10,000 head of cattle in the valley must have been killed by the lava or drowned in torrents of water sent gushing down the mountain as lava melted the high snows.

Raccoons Declared War on Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A major war has broken out in the streets and backyards of Toronto and high-placed officials estimate more garbage cans and goldfish in the city will be endangered before it is over.

On the one side is the forces of man, fighting under the banners of the Toronto Humane Society and dozens of exterminator companies armed with traps, nets, snarepoles and flashlights.

On the other is the enemy: A well-trained army of raccoons who are proving as elusive and tenacious as veteran jungle guerrilla fighters.

Lights have burned late at the Tender Trap Pest and Rodent Control Co. as officials gathered to seek help in their night battles against the ringed rodents.

"They're the No. 1 enemy," said Don Sanderson, president of Reliable Exterminators Ltd. which also lists among its adversaries mice, bats, fleas, ants, grubs, skunks, pigeons, rats and bedbugs.

Mr. Sanderson also cites another disturbing statistic.

"It's really bad now because this is the breeding time for them. There are about five pups to a litter and it's no time before they're out rampaging around town."

Reports from the battle zones in the inner city are discouraging.

Mrs. Donald Major bought three goldfish for her small backyard pond. They were fantails and cost 30 cents each. She installed them at night but by morning they were gone. Eaten by the enemy.

—An elderly woman just out of hospital was having a bath. She heard a noise and looked up. A coon was coming through the ceiling. "I heard they almost had to take her back to hospital," said Mr. Sanderson.

—Exterminators were involved in three-day skirmish when a platoon of racoons marched out of its hiding place and chomped through the roof of an office in a construction yard.

"Something is going to have to be done soon," said Ralph Burton of the humane society. "We used to take the captured ones to the zoo, but they don't want them anymore. They have too many.

"We take them to the outskirts of town and dump them, but they find their way back."

The big strategy meeting produced two gems: Officials decided that if they can't be stopped they are to be spayed, they could not breed. The other suggestion was for the government to drop nerve poisons to the far North before releasing them.

Fred Johnstone, president of Tender Trap, will seek a summit meeting with heads of the wildlife division of the department of lands and forests to present his two-point plan for ending the war.

Wanted: 5 Homes That Need Repainting

Five local home-owners will have the opportunity to eliminate outside painting permanently and beautify their property at substantial reductions with the new 1970 Solid Vinyl Siding pioneered by B. F. Goodrich Company.

Engineered to eliminate denting and noisy defects of old style metal sidings, the new product is laboratory tested twice as strong as any other metal siding and provides excellent winter insulation.

Reinforced by a color thickness thirty times that of spray-ed aluminum finishes, it renders a beautiful, textured appearance restoring the home to the traditional early Canadian style.

As a pre-winter introductory offer the authorized dealer will renovate five homes at reductions ranging up to 25% off the nationally advertised price as advertiser in House Beautiful and other publications. The offer is being made to familiarize property owners with new advances in exterior building products.

Trained dealer mechanics install the panels right over outside walls with nothing to remove. The completed work duplicates the natural beauty of wood without its defects, while eliminating the cracking, peeling effects which have disappointed owners with wood, asbestos and aluminum siding.

Qualified homeowners desiring to take advantage of the special offer should fill out coupon and mail to Box A65, Belleville, The Intelligencer.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Being Grandparent Can Be Rewarding

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I recently read your column "Being A Grandparent Is Not Always Easy." It may not be Easy, but it can be most rewarding, especially if grandparents don't "take over."

Now is the time to be an applauding audience and enjoy the show. It feels wonderful to be able to sit back and relax — except for occasional diaper - change and baby-sitting chores.

When your own children realize that you are allowing them to run their own show, the stage door will open wide and welcome, and you will be able to partake of the act — but on their terms.

Believe me, it works out well. You get to see the children and the grandchildren, you are asked for advice — but you're not underfoot all the time.

I agree with you, Dr. Steincrohn, that letters and phone calls hardly compensate for a personal appearance. Grandchildren are deprived of a wonderful part of life if they miss the warmth of grandparents, when grandparents are still around and available. — Mrs. S.

COMMENT: True, how true. The trouble is, Mrs. S., that so many grandparents remain too possessive. "They're my kids, my grandchildren — why should I allow myself to be pushed into a corner as though I were a stranger?"

To such overly sensitive grandparents I say that there should be no such thing as ownership of their descendants — whether they are children or grandchildren.

There is a bond of heredity, yes. But as you say you are not rightfully endowed with the privilege of ruling your youngsters and their children as though they were something you had bought in a shop.

* * *

For Mrs. B.: There are times when operation in the treatment of hemorrhoids needs to be postponed for some reason. When this is true, injection treatment for internal hemorrhoids may be the proper choice.

* * *

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I understand a drug called procaine hydrochloride is sometimes injected into an injured area so a boy can get into a football game. It decreases the pain, but don't you think this is bad practice? — Mr. Y. (Worried Parent.)

COMMENT: I believe that no boy's health should be sacrificed to the winning of a game. Most physicians connected with football and other athletic sports feel the same. This practice has been condemned by many organizations, including the American Medical Association Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports.

For Mrs. Y.: Cranberry juice is a delightful, drink, but we have no proof that drinking it will prevent the formation of kidney stones. It's supposed to acidify the urine. But it would require about eight ounces of cranberry juice taken four or five times a day to make any appreciable change in the acidity of urine.

Besides, there are other ways. And whatever good the cranberry juice brings may be due to the swallowing of an increased amount of liquid daily — which is what most doctors recommend in kidney stone patients.

* * *

For Mr. H.: In answer to your question, "Are there any oral medications for allergy instead of shots?" my reply is, "Yes." For example, antihistamines and cortisone among others.

Sydney J. Harris Says

Man Has Right to Bet

New York have written in to ask me how I feel about the "off-track" betting on the horse races that their state has recently legalized.

I am very much in favor of it, as a lesser evil. The greater evil by far is the continuation of illegal betting in the hands of the mobsters and racketeers, which nets hundreds of millions a year for organized crime.

There is no reason that betting should be illegal; and there is nothing inherently "immoral" about it. As Chesterton put it long ago, a man has a right to bet what he has a right to lose; if he bets more, he is like the alcoholic who drinks more than he should. But laws like Prohibition can never be the answer to such excesses.

By making gambling illegal, the authorities have simply augmented and entrenched the power of organized crime. Every serious study made of the subject shows that mobsters get the bulk of their funding from gambling activities, since there is an enormous public demand, and they provide the only effective supply.

Now, gambling cannot exist without police knowledge; and illegal gambling activities are the chief corrupter of police departments.

Organized crime could not possibly be successful without the connivance of police officials; everybody in a neighborhood knows where a bookie joint is, or who handles the numbers racket in a big city operation. They also know that the cops know it, which breeds cynicism and contempt for "the law" in precisely those neighborhoods that need the best law enforcement. In his book some years ago, A two-Dollar Bet Means Murder, Fred Cook, the investigative reporter, shows how a two-buck bet placed with the corner bookie initiates a chain-reaction leading to corruption of the police, breakdown of criminal influence to other fields, and to the kind of gangland murder that is rarely solved.

In one medium-sized city alone, Buffalo, Cook reports, the New York State Crime Commission was astonished to discover that gambling, bookmaking, prostitution and the numbers racket were growing more than $100 million a year. Imagine what it has been in New York and Chicago.

Betting, or "punting," has been a respectable and responsible activity in Britain for many decades, under strict government control, with no imputation of criminal connections and no police corruption. Our hypocritical attitude toward gambling has done more to subvert the law in the U.S. than anything since the wretched Volstead Act.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For August 19

Your birthday today: Begins a time of gathering unto yourself all you have earned in current for the last three years or so of stirring about. Seek to simplify your life. Abandon unconstructive habits — possessions and property which no longer serve purposes in your life. Today's natives have strong linguistic talents, often the faculty for improving on other peoples' stories.

Taurus (Apr. 20 — May 20): Disturbed schedules are natural — to be taken as exercises in adaptability. Keep extra reserve supplies handy.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Present your most impartial and rational side, although you may feel rather strongly about the news. With further study, understanding grows.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Keep your wits about you for a possible sudden reaction — no time for logical exercises. It's all right if you are sure of what you want in life and an idea of how to get it.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Temptation opens in the guise of special opportunity. A valid offer will stand review, further consideration.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Haste, taking co-operation for granted, create resistance, confusion. Patience and a quiet question designed to get things back onto their proper tracks are needed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Let chronic complainers know of your determination. Avoid increase or exaggeration of obligations, both material and intangible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): People who infl ence your welfare are sensitive to whatever they hear about you. Direct statements on your part are helpful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): If you can be of help to your friends now, do so, promptly. Later on may be a less convenient situation for an expression of your concern.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Get a third opinion in case of dispute. Your viewpoint is concentrated on what you have studied, and you are at a disadvantage, particularly when disagreeing with friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): You scurry vigorously just to keep up with the situation yet nothing settled, but merely held over for further attention.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Whatever you do on the job today goes home with you as part of your experience: you will relive it later.
